3 WOMEN AND BARON SENTENCED TO DIE AS SPIES

Penalty Imposed by German People's Court Against Socially Prominent Defendants Is Announced in Berlin.

FINAL DECISION IN HITLER'S HANDS

Those Convicted Were Accused of Using Their High Connections to Betray Military Secrets to Poland.

BERLIN, Feb. 16.—Adolf Hitler tonight studied death sentences passed by the People's Court on three women and one man, described as of aristocratic birth, for espionage.

A responsible official at the Propaganda Ministry said the women, Frau von Berg, Frau von Natzner and Fraulein von Jena, and the man, Baron Sosnowski, were sentenced for using their high social and Reichswehr (regular army) connections to get German military secrets.

These secrets, it was charged, they divulged to Poland through Baron Sosnowski.

Women Are Young.

The three women were said to be young, attractive and members of the best social circles. Efforts to identify Frau von Berg as the Baroness Benita von Berg met an evasive reply.

Baroness von Berg is the wife of a German engineer. She was formerly the wife of Richard von Falkenhayn, son the late Gen. von Falkenhayn, German World War commander on the Western front.

The Propaganda Ministry official announced that recommendations concerning the four condemned had been submitted to Hitler.

Pending Hitler's decision, several other ministries either denied flatly or evaded discussion of details of the alleged activities of the asserted spies, the charges against them or their arrest and secret trial.

It was believed, however, that the sentences would be carried out soon. Government officials were represented as believing that the alleged plot might involve not only Polish-German relations, but also many persons high in German social and official life.

Troubles of General.

A high official disclosed that the two daughters of a German general fell in love with Sosnowski and that he persuaded them to take important letters, diagrams and secret reports from their father's desk. One day, it was said, the mother of the girls discovered that her children were carrying on espionage against Germany and reported them to authorities. Both girls thereupon were arrested and subsequently tried. Their father's career was ruined. He was discharged from active service and deprived of his pension.

SOCIALISTS FIRE AT POLICE IN VIENNA DEMONSTRATION

Radicals and Authorities Clash at Scene of Last Year's Civil Warfare.

By the Associated Press.

VIENNA, Feb. 16.—Police and Socialist demonstrators clashed tonight in the Floridsdorf section of Vienna, scene of the heaviest fighting in last February's civil war.

A group of Socialist youths parading in violation of the Government's orders opened fire on police when the latter, held ready to suppress expected disorders over the week-end, charged them. The police returned the fire, and arrested eight persons. The authorities reported no casualties. Whether any of the Socialists were wounded was not known.

The police watched particularly the Communists, who, they say, have the largest reserve of foreign funds to finance their activities. Support from abroad for the Nazis was believed to be lessening, while the Socialists were described as "broke."

Three radical meetings in suburban Floridsdorf were broken up and 45 arrests were made. Red pamphlets appeared in other parts of the city.

DENYING ALIMONY JUDGE LIKENS WIFE TO SPIDER

Recalls That Female of That Species Devours Her Mate.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Supreme Court Justice Henry G. Wenzel today, in a decision denying alimony and counsel fees to Mrs. Sonia Radow pending trial of her suit for separation from Paul Radow, brass manufacturer, said:

"The wife, definitely past blossom time, has three daughters, all beyond their teens. Although the age of the husband is not disclosed, the Court is led to believe that he, too, has passed his salad days. Each is a veteran of a former marriage which ripened into divorce. It is well known that after their feast of love, the female spider partakes of a more substantial meal, devouring her husband and leaving but the pitiful skeleton we so often see swayed by vagrant winds in the web. The spider is not without its human counterpart.

"This wife, having consumed the substance of her husband, takes this method in an attempt to secure the last few morsels remaining to him. Motion for alimony and counsel fee denied."

Radow asserted he provided for his wife and her daughters, installed a heating plant in the home he gave them, provided liberal cash allowances, jewelry and a $1400 fur coat, but that when his income shrank he "had the choice of leaving or remaining with the status of a dog."

WIFE DIRECTED TO OPERATE PLANT TO COLLECT ALIMONY

Chicago Court Devises Plan When Husband Complains of Insufficient Profits.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—Mrs. Minnie Walder was directed yesterday by Judge Allegretti to take over and operate the sheet metal plant of her husband, William, after she had convinced the Court she was a better business executive than her husband.

Walder said the plant had not been making enough profit to enable him to make temporary alimony payments. A divorce action is pending.

Meanwhile the Court said Mrs. Walder could pay herself the alimony from the profits of the factory and permit her husband to have sufficient funds for food and tobacco.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—Officers of the Federal Government set and baited the trap which ensnared Bruno Richard Hauptmann, now in the death house at Trenton, N. J., upon conviction of abducting and murdering Charles A. Lindbergh Jr. The story of the vital part which the "Federals" played in the case is published here for the first time.

The Government agency which participated in the hunt for the kidnaper was the intelligence unit of the Bureau of Internal Revenue which, in turn, is a subdivision of the Treasury Department. Its chief duty is to detect violations of the income tax laws and, under ordinary circumstances, it would not be involved in a criminal case of this character.

Chief of the unit is Elmer Irey, considered by many observers the most skillful investigator in the Government service. His division should not be confused with the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice, which accounted for John Dillinger, "Pretty Boy" Floyd, "Baby Face" Nelson and other outlaws in recent months. That bureau is headed by J. Edgar Hoover, and is distinct from Irey's unit.

The Part Capone Played.

Strange to say, Al Capone is the man who was responsible for bringing Irey and the intelligence unit into the Lindbergh case—Al Capone, the man whom Irey's men sent to prison. Indeed, the same men who laid the trap which caught Hauptmann had conducted the investigation which culminated in the conviction and imprisonment of Capone.

A few days after the kidnaping, it may be recalled, Capone issued a statement from his cell, declaring he believed that, if temporarily released, he would be able, through his underworld connections, to recover the Lindbergh child. He offered to leave his younger brother in his cell as a hostage to insure his own return.

The kidnaping occurred on the night of March 1, 1932. On March 7 Col. Lindbergh telephoned to Ogden Mills, then Secretary of the Treasury, to inquire whether Mills thought there was anything in Capone's proposal. Mills replied that he would send Irey to Hopewell the next day to discuss the matter, adding the assurance that the Treasury would afford every assistance in its power.

When Irey received Mills' instruction, he realized at once what was in Capone's mind. Capone's mob had many underworld affiliations, and could command the services of many "specialists" in crime. One of these was a professional kidnaper named Conroy. He was not strictly a member of Capone's gang, but had often worked with it.

Guessed Gangster's Theory.

By this time Irey had so many intimate and direct sources of information concerning the activities of the Capone mob, that he often knew them more accurately than Capone did. Through them he immediately ascertained that Conroy and his "moll"—a beautiful blonde—had been missing from Chicago for several weeks, and that Capone suspected them of the kidnaping.

Accordingly, when Irey arrived at the Lindbergh home in Hopewell on the morning of March 8, he assured Col. Lindbergh and Col. Breckenridge that he knew precisely what Capone was thinking, and he assured them that his own men probably could find Conroy sooner than Capone could. He had already directed his men to start the search.

Lindbergh concurred without the slightest hesitation, remarking that the idea of accepting the aid of such a character as Capone had been repugnant to him from the beginning, although he could not afford to overlook anything that would result in the return of his son. Lindbergh then asked Irey to join in the hunt. The Intelligence Chief had been given full authority by Mills to render any aid which Lindbergh might request.

"Ace" Investigators Called In.

He sent for the two "ace" investigators of his division—Arthur P. Madden and Frank J. Wilson, the men who had handled the Capone case with such brilliant success. This was about the time that the mysterious "John," whom witnesses later identified as Hauptmann, made his contact with Dr. John F. Condon (Jafsie), and demanded $70,000 ransom.

Naturally, the Colonel had no such sum in cash. It was necessary to sacrifice his capital. Through the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. he sold for approximately $70,000 stocks for which he had

CONVICTS BOO AS HAUPTMANN ENTERS PRISON

TAKEN FROM JAIL TO DEATH HOUSE

Prisoner Moved to New Jersey Penitentiary Under Heavy Guard — Becomes "No. 17400."

By the Associated Press.

TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 16.—Bruno Richard Hauptmann was booed by convicts of the New Jersey State Prison today as he was put in the death house to await the outcome of efforts by his attorneys to save him from the electric chair.

Three prisoners saw him as he was being examined in a small room off the center corridor and started to boo. Immediately 600 in the mess hall joined in. It was several minutes before guards restored order. The three were taken to their cells and will be disciplined, Col. George L. Selby, acting principal keeper, said.

After being led to the death house, Hauptmann made three requests. He asked for a Bible, and a new one was given him. He asked for a picture of his wife and baby, and was informed he could have it. He asked for a box of cigars given him by Sheriff John H. Curtiss of Hunterdon County, but was promised another box instead.

Silent During Trip.

The condemned murderer of the Lindbergh baby was transferred from the Flemington jail to the penitentiary under heavy guard this morning. As he entered the prison as convict No. 17,400 he repeated, "I am innocent."

He had been silent during most of the 24-mile trip. Once when an airplane flew over head, Warden Harry McCrea remarked he once became sick on an airplane ride. Hauptmann smiled. He once had a ride and it didn't bother him a bit, he remarked.

Meanwhile Egbert Rosecrans, defense attorney, set Túesday as a tentative date for his appearance in court at Flemington to ask that the State bear the expense of an appeal from Hauptmann's sentence to die the week of March 18. Hauptmann yesterday signed a petition asserting he was a pauper.

Transfer to Prison.

Hauptmann's transfer to prison was made in 55 minutes.

Hauptmann appeared on the front steps of the Flemington jail at 9:35 a. m., handcuffed to Warden Harry McCrea of Flemington and a State policeman.

He smiled broadly and spoke in German to a representative of a German newspaper.

"I am innocent," he said. "Come and see me (meaning at the State prison at Trenton)."

The three, surrounded by State Troopers, paused on the steps long enough to satisfy photographers and then proceeded to the rear of the jail. They then got into the waiting cars and started the trip to Trenton.

The motorcade included four automobiles in which were Sheriff Curtiss, deputy sheriffs and a detachment of State troopers. No motorcycle escort was provided because of the slippery condition of the road.

Hauptmann was in the back seat of the second car.

Arrival at Trenton.

The State Police escort evaded the crowd of 500 persons who were gathered at one end of the prison by going around the opposite end.

In the prison, Hauptmann was taken to a side room, where the commitment papers were given to Irving Bleam, prison clerk.

Hauptmann posed for photographers, still manacled to his guards. Then someone placed a microphone in front of him. There was no expression on his face as he spoke into it. He leaned forward and in a clear voice and said again "I'm innocent."

Hauptmann was in Bleam's office only a few minutes before he was led away to the death house. Down the main corridor he walked between his guards, out into a small yard where he saw sunshine again and then into a little red brick death house.

His cell, No. 9, is the last one on the first tier and adjoins the death chamber. Should Hauptmann lose his appeal from his conviction, he will take only six steps to the chair.

At 11:15 a. m., less than 45 minutes after Hauptmann entered the

TWO CONDEMNED TO DEATH IN GERM MURDER IN INDIA

STEPBROTHER AND DOCTOR CONVICTED

Jury Frees Two Other Physicians — Evidence Indicated Conspiracy to Obtain Estate.

By the Associated Press.

ALIPORE, India, Feb. 16.—India's germ murder case—the strangest in the country's legal history—ended when two of the four defendants were sentenced to death today.

The two were the stepbrother of the man who died and one of three doctors charged with conspiring to murder the victim through injection of plague germs.

The murder, termed by the presiding judge "one of the most cold-blooded" he had ever come across, occurred last year. Amarendra Nath Pandey, wealthy landowner, was walking along a street on his way home. Suddenly he felt the sharp stab of the injection. He cried out that he had been poisoned, as his assailant fled.

Other Charges Against Doctor.

The man's stepbrother, Benayendra Nath Pandey, took him under his care. Septic pneumonia developed, and he died.

Dr. Taranath Bhattachra, who was accused of securing the plague bacilli from a hospital in Bombay, was the other man sentenced.

Of the two acquitted, Dr. Sivapada Bhattachra faced, in addition to the charge of conspiring to commit murder, charges that he suppressed evidence in failing to inform police of the crime. A false certificate he issued made possible cremation of the body, the prosecutor charged, thus disposing of the main evidence in the case.

The four defendants were arrested last May. In the course of the trial, 85 witnesses, many of whom came great distances, were examined. More than 300 exhibits were introduced.

After hearing the prosecutor assert the case was "unparalleled in the annals of crime of India in its enormity and well-planned scientific design," the jury took four hours to bring in its verdict.

"Doing away with the victim through the introduction of bacteriological culture was an act of diabolical ingenuity the like of which has never been heard before," the prosecutor said.

Motive for Murder.

The victim of the plot, evidence indicated, owned property to which the stepbrother was heir and other property of which the stepbrother was the administrator.

The prosecutor asserted the stepbrother was virtually starving the victim of his rightful share in the estate, as result of which the latter appointed an attorney to look out for his interests. This so vexed the stepbrother, the prosection charged, that he determined to do away with the landowner.

With the aid of physician friends, it was alleged, an unsuccessful attempt first was made to inject tetanus bacilli. Later plague bacilli were injected, and death resulted.

SEALS ON ANNUAL MIGRATION

Herds on Way to Bering Sea Protected by Guard Boats.

By the Associated Press.

SEATTLE, Feb. 16.—The North Pacific's seal herds have started their great annual migration to Bering Sea. Coast Guard cutters protecting the herds radioed today that small groups of seals had been sighted swimming northward toward the Pribiloff Island breeding ground.

The cutters will patrol the movement until the seals are safely in Bering Sea. Native Indians will be allowed to kill seals during the migration, using primitive weapons, but no motorboats or guns. Commercial hunting nearly wiped out seals before nations came to their rescue with treaties and regulations.

Dog's Leash Strangles Boy, 13.

By the Associated Press.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 16.—Raymond Mackiejewski, 13 years old, was strangled to death today when his dog's leash wound around his neck while they were at play. Raymond and the dog were in the cellar. When their noisy play ceased, his mother went to learn the cause. She found the boy unconscious, the leash wrapped several times around his neck. A rescue squad from a fire station failed to revive the lad.

GOLD DECISION INDICATED AS POSSIBLE TOMORROW

Supreme Court Fails to Announce, as on Past Two Saturdays, That There Will Be No Ruling Monday.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—Lack of a Supreme Court announcement to the contrary today increased expectation of a decision in the gold cases next Monday.

On the past two Saturdays the Court had made plain the much-awaited ruling was not to be handed down the ensuing "opinion day."

After their regular weekly closed conference all this afternoon, no such word was forthcoming. But there was no positive assurance of a decision Monday. If no decision is given Monday, then the Court may wait until March 4, since its schedule calls for a two weeks' recess beginning after announcement of opinions Monday.

The administration, on the word of Attorney-General Cummings, is "prepared." In New York, the board of the Stock Exchange has been asked to hold itself ready should a meeting be called before the market opening time Monday to make decisions called for by the possibility of disposition of the gold cases later in the day.

The Justices conferred today from noon until 4:45 p. m. Chief Justice Hughes then retired to his own office. Correspondents gathered outside his door. A Capitol policeman was summoned inside and returned to tell them that the Chief Justice wanted the corridor cleared when he left and that they should go to Charles Elmore Cropley, court clerk, for an announcement. This brought expectation that another statement of "nothing doing on Monday" would be forthcoming. Then the Chief Justice departed and Cropley said: "There is nothing I can say. The Court has gone and has not authorized any statement of its plans for Monday."

Attorney-General Cummings had been waiting in his office for any news from the Court. It was evident that the administration law officials now expected the decision to come Monday.

Cummings, learning no announcement on the gold cases had been made, canceled railroad reservations for Florida. He had planned to leave tomorrow for a brief vacation at Palm Beach.

LONG AND GOVERNOR BLAMED IN KILLING OF GUARDSMAN

Denounced by Spokesmen for Square Deal Group; Man Accidentally Shot, Officers Say.

By the Associated Press.

BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 16.—Spokesmen for the Square Deal Association today denounced Senator Huey P. Long and Gov. O. K. Allen for the accidental killing of a trooper in the capital martial law zone.

The Plaquemine company of the association held a meeting tonight to further the cause of the anti-Long group. The purpose of the association is the repeal of the laws which set up the Long "dictatorship."

Corporal Hugh J. Belanger, who was shot and killed near the capitol, was buried yesterday with military honors. Military officers refused to tell who shot Corporal Belanger, but said their investigation established that the shooting was accidental.

Former Judge Charles Kilbourne of Clinton, La., and Mrs. J. S. Roussel, president of the women's division of the Square Deal Association, issued statements laying the fatal wounding of the soldier to Long and Allen, who maintained the garrison at Baton Rouge in "senseless soldier play." Martial law has been in force in Baton Rouge for nearly a month.

40-HOUR WEEK FOR ITALIANS DECREED BY FASCIST COUNCIL

Week-End Military and Political Training for Boys and Men Also Ordered.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Feb. 16.—The Fascist Grand Council decreed a 40-hour week for workers as a permanent measure tonight. It also voted a "week-end of education" for the political and military training of boys and men from 6 to 56 years old.

The Grand Council is the highest governing board in Italy. It is composed of the presidents of the Senate and Chamber, all the ministers and Fascist leaders. Premier Mussolini names the members and they are responsible to him alone.

In 1927, before the council Mussolini proclaimed the "Fascist charter of labor," claiming for the state the right to control all forces of production. The charter guaranteed a six-day week, holidays with pay and indemnity on discharge.

BELGIAN KING, SISTER VISIT PLACE WHERE FATHER DIED

Today Is First Anniversary of King Albert's Death in Fall From Cliff.

By the Associated Press.

BRUSSELS, Feb. 16.—King Leopold and his sister, Princess Marie Jose, went this afternoon to the rock at Marche-les-Dames where their father, King Albert, fell to his death one year ago tomorrow.

King Leopold met his sister, the wife of Crown Prince Umberto of Italy, when she arrived from Italy by train and both hurried, incognito, to the spot in the Meuse valley.

Tomorrow all Belgium will observe the anniversary of King Albert's death while pursuing his favorite sport of mountain climbing. All members of the royal family will visit the crypt at Laeken, followed later by delegations of Government and political bodies and war veterans. All trains passing the scene of the King's death will slow down tomorrow.

With only three dissenting votes, the Chamber of Deputies today ratified a bill establishing a national memorial library at Brussels.

FIGHT OVER BANK DATA IN MELLON TAX CASE

Government Counsel Says Subterfuge Is Used to Keep Records From Him.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 16.—Opposing attorneys in the Mellon income tax suit clashed tonight with the legal fight over the 1931 income of Andrew W. Mellon, former Secretary of the Treasury, to start Monday.

Mellon goes before the Tax Appeals Board charged with owing $3,000,000 income tax for that year. He has put forth a counter-claim, alleging $139,000 is due him as a rebate.

Robert H. Jackson, chief counsel for the Bureau of Internal Revenue, announced he had been notified by "Mellon's attorneys" they will seek to quash three of his subpenas.

In the subpenas he asked records of the Union Trust Co., Mellon National Bank and the Pittsburgh Coal Co. He said Mellon owned these concerns and that they had been used to cover fictitious ales whereby the former Secretary escaped paying heavier taxes.

"This move is a subterfuge to prevent getting the records into the case," asserted Jackson. "We want to base our case entirely on the records, which we contend will prove our assertions."

Frank J. Hogan, chief counsel for Mellon, denied he would seek to quash any subpenas or that he had any intention of keeping out "anything concerning Mr. Mellon's transactions."

The motions to quash were filed by attorneys for the three concerns named, on grounds that they did not wish to make public the transactions of hundreds of private customers.

"We have asked these companies to produce all of Mr. Mellon's records," said Hogan.

Jackson responded that "the move was designed" to stop our tracing the course of stocks after Mr. Mellon made what he claims is a sale but what we contend was not one actually."

Union Trust stock was quoted as high as $20,000 a share before the stock market crash and it still pays $206 a share annually in dividends with 15,000 shares outstanding.

Witnesses, including James A. Farrell, former president of U. S. Steel; Charles M. Schwab, chairman, and Eugene Grace, president of Bethlehem Steel, are expected three were called by Mellon to testo be called late in the week. These tify regarding the sale of the McClintic-Marshall Construction Co. to Bethlehem Steel, in which the Government charges Mellon failed to show enough profit in his return.

BABY GIRLS NAMED 'MARINA'

Canon Gives Warning They Will Never Be Able to Hide Age.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 16.—Despite repeated warnings by Canon W. H. Gay of Hampshire, people continue to name their baby girls "Marina" after the Duke of Kent's Grecian bride.

"What," asks the Canon, "will those girls so named say to their parents in 1970 when they look 26 but their names recall 1934—36 years before? A little mental arithmetic is all that will be necessary in the future for anyone to arrive at the correct age of any girl named 'Marina.'"

DEMOCRATS WOULD LIMIT INQUIRY ON MUNITIONS

'Growing Sentiment in Committee and on Floor,' Says Senator, Not to Stray Into 'Little Matters' of 1932 Race.

POLITICAL LETTERS CONCERNING FUNDS

Goss Press Co. Brought Into Testimony by Republican in Tracing Relation of 'Contacts' to Contracts.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—Indications were given today that Democratic members of the Senate Munitions Committee resent the continued straying of the inquiry into "such little matters" as 1932 political campaign correspondence.

One member of the committee, who declined to be quoted, said he was displeased with introduction in evidence yesterday of an exchange of political correspondence between A. P. Homer, Washington marine architect who was connected in 1932 with the Democratic national headquarters, and George A. Eddy, of the Goss Printing Press Co. of Chicago.

"There is growing sentiment not only among members of the committee but on the floor of the Senate against delving into such little matters," the Senator said. "They have little, if any, relationship to the munitions investigation."

The committee has sought to learn whether the shipyards had set up a system of collusive bidding for distribution of the naval building business among themselves. Repeated references have been made in testimony that "Washington contacts" had an influence in obtaining shipbuilding contracts. It was to inquire whether Homer had employed such "contacts" that he was called yesterday.

Campaign Fund Letter.

The political correspondence went into the record during a prolonged questioning of Homer. Senator Barbour of New Jersey, one of the three Republican members of the committee, introduced a letter dated Oct. 13, 1932, signed by Homer, asking Eddy for a campaign contribution. The letter recited that in 1918 Mr. Roosevelt, then Assistant Secretary of the Navy, reinstated a contract with the Goss Printing Press Co. which had previously been canceled with ending of the war.

Homer insisted the letter never was mailed but was stolen from his files by a Republican employe. A modified letter was sent Eddy, he said, and brought a reply, describing the request as a "flagrant attempt at political blackmail." The reply was sent directly to Mr. Roosevelt during the presidential campaign.

Homer said he obtained consent of Roosevelt to reply to Eddy. After recalling his efforts, as a wartime officer of the Goss Press Co., to have the naval contract reinstated, Homer accused Eddy in the reply of "an effort to completely discredit" him, and of committing "one of the most astounding examples of perfidy that has ever come to the writer's attention."

"Leak in Your Organization."

A copy of what he said was Eddy's reply was introduced by Homer. Dated Oct. 24, 1932, it expressed "deep regret," and added: "I must admit your statements as absolutely correct, and I am exceedingly sorry over the results of this affair."

It went on to relate that "you have a leak in your (Democratic) organization—a copy of your Oct. 13 letter to me was received by local Republican committee one day before I received the same here."

"Heavy pressure was brought to bear upon me through influential sources," the Eddy letter continued, "to forward the reply sent direct to Mr. Roosevelt. The Republican committee wanted to carry this even further and make a political issue of the entire matter, but I stopped this dead in its tracks."

No White House Comment on Letter About Mrs. Eben.

White House officials withheld comment today on testimony before the committee mentioning the name of Mrs. Mary Eben, one of Mrs. Roosevelt's secretaries. Mrs. Eben herself declined to make any

SPECIAL MESSAGE TO ASK FOR YEAR'S EXTENSION OF NRA

Roosevelt Request Goes to Congress Tomorrow — Wants Some Provisions Made Permanent.

GROUP IN SENATE OPENS CODE INQUIRY

"Ample Evidence That Monoply Is Draining the Pockets of Average Man," Says Borah.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—President Roosevelt worked today on a special message to be transmitted on Monday, recommending a one-year extension of the Recovery Act, with authority for extending it another year if necessary.

Meanwhile Senator Borah (Rep.), Idaho, asserted that "ample evidence" is available that Recovery Administration codes have been "promoting monopoly."

Mr. Roosevelt cut down his calling list while preparing his NRA message. The executive, in addition to the extension, definitely has decided to seek permanency for some of the fundamental provisions of the act, including those abolishing child labor, fixing minimum wages and maximum hours, and guaranteeing the right of labor to bargain collectively.

It is thought by administration leaders that the President will not propose changing the controversial Section 7-A, the collective bargaining clause. Some strong labor Democrats in the Senate, however, would like to see this provision clarified and strengthened.

Borah on NRA Inquiry.

Borah made his statement in an interview after a Senate Judiciary Sub-committee, of which he is a member, opened and quickly closed the doors on an unofficial inquiry into charges that codes have oppressed independent business. It was described only as a "preliminary cancellation." The investigation has not been authorized by the Senate.

"I am glad the investigation is going forward," Borah said. "We cannot have too many facts, but there is already ample evidence at hand that monopoly under NRA is draining the pockets of the average man in the United States through price-fixing.

"If the farmer gets a raise, he also gets an increase in prices for the things he has to buy. If labor gets a raise in wages, he more than pays it out on account of the increase in price for the things he has to buy. The anti-trust laws ought never to have been suspended and in the interest of humanity they ought to be restored and enforced."

Direction of the Inquiry.

Chairman King (Dem.) Utah, of the Judiciary Subcommittee would not allow newspapermen in the initial hearing. King said Russell Hardy, a special assistant to the Attorney-General on anti-trust law, had been asked about the Department's experience in following up code violations.

The King resolution authorizing the inquiry and seeking $5000 for expenses has been approved by the full Judiciary Committee but the Senate has yet to act. King said the group would employ counsel if the money was made available and would meet again next week. Meanwhile, it will seek data from the Justice Department, Trade Commission, Commerce Department and NRA.

The Darrow board report, which charged codes were working a distinct hardship on small business, will be surveyed, and Lowell Mason, who helped write it, will be questioned.

Oil and steel industries were mentioned as possible "fields of investigation," King said. In this connection, Borah said he had a telegram today from W. B. Wylie, president of the Retail Petroleum Dealers' Association, asserting "2800 independent service stations in Southern California urge an immediate Department of Justice investigation of monopolistic and price-fixing activities of Pacific Coast petroleum agencies."

"Independent dealers are marked for slaughter," the message said. Borah replied asking for a "detail brief of the facts."

paid $300,000, thus taking a net loss of $230,000. Undoubtedly he could have borrowed the amount of the ransom, but he insisted on raising it himself.

When Wilson and Madden arrived at the Morgan bank in New York, the package of ransom notes had been made up by clerks. They found it contained no gold notes. They remade the bundle and placed in it $35,000 in gold notes, of which $20,000 was in 50-dollar bills. The reason is obvious. Gold notes are conspicuous because they are comparatively rare.

As it turned out, their inclusion was almost providential, for a reason which even the craftiest detective could not have foreseen That was the subsequent proclamation making the possession of gold notes unlawful. That was the element which trapped Hauptmann. The filling station attendant to whom Hauptmann gave one of the 20-dollar gold notes was alert enough to realize that he might be questioned when he deposited the note at the bank, and for his own protection he noted the license number of the car, which was quickly traced to Hauptmann.

Lindbergh's Point of Honor.

Col. Lindbergh was told that Wilson and Madden were making a record of the serial numbers of the notes in the ransom bundle, and that a list of these numbers would be supplied to every bank in the United States and Canada. This caused Lindbergh to raise an unusual question.

He had asserted from the beginning that he would "play ball" with the kidnapers if they would restore his son. He asked whether he would not be violating that pledge if he consented to the agents' plan concerning the serial numbers. Irey and others pointed out that, in dealing with a kidnaper, fair play could not be judged by ordinary standards. Moreover, they pointed out, he had a duty as a citizen to do everything in his power to insure the capture and punishment of the criminal. The Colonel quickly assented.

But many slips and long delays were to ensue before Hauptmann's arrest. The ransom was paid by Dr. Condon on the night of April 2, a month and a day after kidnaping. "Jafsie" has displayed much pride over his feat in bargaining with the man in the cemetery to accept $50,000 instead of the $70,000 which was in the box he carried.

"Jafsie's" Mistake.

It is the opinion of Federal investigators that "Jafsie's" handling of that incident delayed the capture of Hauptmann by many months. For the $20,000 which he slipped out of the box and under his coat consisted of $50 gold notes—the very ones on which the investigators relied to trap the kidnaper. Because they were gold notes, and because they were of large denomination, they were far more likely to attract attention than the other money in the bundles.

At 6 o'clock on the morning after payment of the ransom note, an amphibian plane took off from Bridgeport, Conn. Col. Lindbergh was at the controls, and the passengers were Irey, Col. Breckinridge and Dr. Condon. It was bound for the neighborhood of Martha's Vineyard and Buzzard's Bay, where, according to the receiver of the ransom, the Lindbergh child would be found on "the Boad Nellie."

The plane cruised around the neighborhood all day. The result, as the world knows, was a tragic nothing. The preceding night, when Lindbergh was arranging for the amphibian, Irey had telephoned Secretary Mills, asking that a Coast Guard cutter be dispatched to the vicinity. The request brought results. During the afternoon, to the astonishment of the plane passengers, a modern destroyer came boiling up the coastline under forced draft, signaling the plane to alight and make contact.

Search Is Unsuccessful.

The destroyer stood by, sent out a launch. When Irey came on deck the commander informed him that his orders were "obey all orders of a man named Irey." Irey sometimes jokes with Rear Admiral Harry Hamlet, commandant of the Coast Guard, about the day when Irey was virtually an admiral in the Coast Guard.

But, obviously, there was no joking that night when the amphibian coasted back into Bridgeport harbor. Perhaps a premonition of the dreadful reality which was yet to be disclosed had settled upon the passengers. There is no doubt that Irey already feared the worst. Probably the dauntless father still hoped.

Wilson and Madden were busy spreading their net. Its strands led into every bank on the North American continent. That it was almost impossible for the possesor of the ransom notes to escape it can now be appreciated.

With the finding of the tiny body in the shallow grave near Hopewell, President Hoover issued his dramatic order commanding all Federal agencies to co-operate to the fullest possible extent in the hunt for the kidnaper, stating that this is "a never-to-be-forgotten case."

Rivalry Among Police.

Wilson and Madden stuck doggedly to their task. Occasionally Irey re-entered the scene to ascertain how the search was progressing. Not the easiest of their burdens was that of preserving peace between the respective police departmnts of New York and New Jersey. Ambition to get the credit for solving the crime is readily understood.

Irey, Wilson and Madden acted as a liaison unit between the two departments. Through their pacifying endeavors, a workable degree of harmony finally prevailed.

The intelligence unit was again called in after Hauptmann's arrest. It was Agent W. J. Frank who analyzed the German carpenter's brokerage account, and who, on the witness stand in Flemington, presented the picture of Hauptmann's affluence after the payment of the ransom money.

Another member of the intelligence unit was destined to figure in a dramatic episode in the closing hours of the trial at Flemington. When the eccentric clergyman, the Rev. Vincent G. Burns, arose in the rear of the courtroom as Attorney-General David T. Wilentz, concluded his savage summation for the State, and started to shout, "A man confessed——," two Jersey State troopers seized him, but it was the quick-witted E. A. Hill of the intelligence unit, who clapped his hand over the preacher's mouth, and thus prevented what might have caused a mistrial.

Madden is chief of the Chicago office. Recently, partly as a reward for his work in the Lindbergh case, Wilson has been promoted to be chief of the Cleveland office. However, he is not in Cleveland just now. He is in Louisiana, looking into the income and the income tax returns of Huey Long and his friends.

Exchange of $2890 of Ransom Certificates Still a Mystery.

A phase of the case that at first encouraged investigators but which still remains a mystery was the exchange on May 1, 1933, of $2890 in $20 gold certificates, all ranson money, at the Federal Reserve Bank in New York for other currency.

It was the last day under President Roosevelt's decree that one could legally exchange gold certificates. A line of persons besieged the tellers all that day, and it was not discovered until after close of business that ransom money had been exchanged. It was in one package, attached to which was an exchange slip, required of all who made such exchanges. This slip gave a name and a New York City address. The teller could not recall whether a man or woman made the exchange.

At the address given it was learned that a woman of that name had lived there 13 years before. She later was located as the wife of a prosperous merchant. The handwriting on the exchange slip was neither hers nor that of her husband, and neither could account for the use of her maiden name and old address.

They had a son-in-law, lately from Germany, and during the inquiry into this transaction, he suddenly committed suicide by shooting himself in the head. Samples of his handwriting were obtained and compared with that on the exchange slip. It was not his writing.

He was a landscape gardener and had done some work in Woodlawn Cemetery, where Dr. Condon first met the "contact man" in his ransom negotiations.

The handwriting on the exchange slip did not in any way resemble that of Hauptmann, who was arrested a year later, and the mystery of the exchange remains unsolved.

Investigation of this angle of the case was thorough as far as it went, but there was a change of Federal agents while it was still under way, and it has not been reported what disposition was made of this clew, considered at the time a most important lead.

prison, he had his dinner of pork and sauerkraut, dessert and coffee. His hair had been clipped close in prison fashion.

No "Circus" at Penitentiary.

Col. Selby, a stern disciplinarian, said he would stand for no "circus" while Hauptmann is in prison. Little news of Hauptmann's activities will be permitted, and Hauptmann, deprived of newspapers, will learn little of what the world says of him.

He may read books from the death house library, or magazines, but only the sports and comic sections of the newspapers. He may see his wife or blood relatives once a month, but he will not be permitted to see his son, Mannfried, until the week before he actually goes to the chair.

Two guards will constantly patrol the death house corridor.

Flemington's two banks informed counsel for Hauptmann today they would not act as depositories for the proposed defense appeal fund. C. Lloyd Fisher, Flemington lawyer and a member of the defense staff, has been asked by Hauptmann to be custodian of such funds. Fisher has received checks for $66.

Wood Expert Estimates His Work in Hauptmann Case Cost $10,000.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16. — Arthur Koehler, the Government wood expert, whose testimony helped to convict Bruno Richard Hauptmann, declined today to express an opinion on the death sentence.

He admitted, however, he was "tickled to death" when he discovered marks of Hauptmann's plane both on a board from Hauptmann's attic and on a piece of the ladder used in the kidnaping.

Koehler is en route to Washington to make his report. He will then return to the United States forest products laboratory at Madison, Wis., to resume his experiments with X-ray and ultraviolet light in wood identification. He said he doesn't know "where they are leading to, exactly."

Almost continuously since February, 1933, Koehler has worked on the Hauptmann case. Expense of his testimony he estimates at between $10,000 and $12,000.

Wilentz Vacationing in Florida; Says Appeal Will Fail.

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 16.—David T. Wilentz, prosecutor of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, came here tonight on vacation with his wife. He will remain several weeks. He thinks the conviction of Hauptmann will be affirmed by the Supreme Court.

He spoke of "an attempt to solicit public sympathy" in the "Hauptmann Appeal Fund," and said: "That is merely another attempt to try the case in every quarter except the courtroom."

"I think the Governor will live longer than Hauptmann," he remarked. Some action will "certainly" be taken against certain defense witnesses, although this matter is entirely in the hands of the Hunterdon County prosecutor, Wilentz said.

DISSENT AMONG DEMOCRATS IN CONGRESS GROWS

House Group at White House Protests Against Patronage Division—Hint of "Blow-off."

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—New evidences of dissension in Democratic ranks arose today to worry party leaders, particularly in the House.

Several expressed fears of a "blowoff" soon unless greater harmony is attained between House members and administration officials.

One development of the day was a White House visit by five House members to protest against the number of Republicans holding jobs under a Democratic administration. They talked with the President more than an hour. Then a new Democratic caucus was called for Thursday night to talk over again the patronage situation.

Representative Sabath of Illinois, chairman of the Patronage Committee, remarked after the White House meeting it "was satisfactory all around." Representative McFarlane of Texas, a committee member, said, "I think we made progress."

What They Say Privately.

But privately, some conferees expressed the view that the thing was far from settled. They were to submit to the President later a full list of Republicans who have been given jobs in preference to Democrats. But the President, it was reported, made no definite promise as to what he would do with the list.

Other subjects, too, were pointed out by a few of the leaders as indicative of general tension in the Democratic party.

One was the understanding which recently had grown up that House committees would get a chance to draft their own bills this Congress.

That report was denied—privately—by one leader who had talked with the President. Mr. Roosevelt, the member said, recalled that when bills were sent up to Congress along with messages, they immediately were labeled "administration." Consequently, the chief executive was reported as saying, when the bills subsequently were changed, newspapers carried stories about the "administration" being defeated.

New Arrangement on Bills.

The President's decision, this member said, was to let some committees draft their own bills, but in other cases to wait until two or three days after presentation of the messages and then send a bill, quietly, to a committee chairman for introduction as his own.

Among other points of difference leaders reminded that in order to stop an insurgent revolt word had to be passed about in the House that Secretary Ickes would have nothing to do with administering the $4,000,000,000 public works appropriation.

They remarked that only this week the House Ways and Means Committee took away from Harry L. Hopkins, Relief Administrator, two important jobs he would have had under the social security bill as it was drafted—directing old-age pensions and the aid to dependent children.

FRANCE-ARGENTINA FLYERS PASS CAPE VERDE ISLANDS

Codos and Rossi Attempting 6800-Mile Non-Stop Flight—Radio That All Is Well.

By the Associated Press.

PORTO PRAYA, Cape Verde Islands, Feb. 17 (Sunday).—The airplane Joseph Lebrix passed over Porto Praya at 3:24 a. m. today (9:24 p. m. Saturday, St. Louis time). The pilots wirelessed that all was well. Porto Praya is about 300 miles off the coast of Africa.

By the Associated Press.

PORT ETIENNE, RIO DE ORO, West Africa, Feb. 17.—(Sunday) — The airplane Joseph Lebrix passed over Port Etienne at 12:13 a. m. today (6:13 p. m. Saturday St. Louis time) and headed out over the South Atlantic. Previously the plane had been reported as it flew over Villa Cisneros, 1800 miles from the starting point, as the flyers followed the North African coast.

By the Associated Press.

ISTRES, France, Feb. 16.—Paul Codos and Maurice Rossi were flying along the west coast of Northern Africa tonight in an attempt to break the non-stop record they now hold by a flight to Buenos Aires.

They radioed at 6:20 p. m. (12:20 p. m., St. Louis time) that all was well aboard their plane, the Joseph Lebrix, in which they flew from New York to Syria in 1933. They were estimated to be flying 105 miles an hour.

The flyers took off on their attempted 6875-mile flight from Istres at 6:36 a. m. They expected to complete the crossing in 65 hours. Hourly radio bulletins are being broadcast on their progress.

Istres is a Meditterranean port about 30 miles northwest of Marseilles.

Three and a half hours after the takeoff they passed over Capnao. At 2:10 p. m. they were over Tangier, Morocco, and at 3:16 p. m. they arrived over Rabat on the northern coast of Africa. Half an hour later they flew over Casablanca.

With ideal weather reported over the whole of the route, Codos and Rossi, the only airmen ever to fly the North Atlantic both ways, hoped to exceed their New York-Syria record of 5653 miles.

Thoroughly overhauled since Codos and Rossi flew it from Paris to New York in an attempted record flight to California last May, the plane carried 1875 gallons of gasoline and 92 gallons of oil. Officials sealed the tanks against replenishment or repairs en route.

The plane, which weighed nearly 10 tons when loaded, carried about 120 pounds of mail. Codos and Rossi are seeking to show that long nonstop flights are possible for mail-carrying planes. The air ministry financed the venture.

Powering the Joseph Lebrix is the same 500-horsepower motor that propelled it from New York to Rayak, Syria, and back across the ocean from Paris to New York.

The course Codos and Rossi set as they took off without fanfare or cheering throngs, took them southwest to Spain, thence along the African coast to Port Etienne and afterward across the South Atlantic to Brazil and Argentina.

ROOSEVELT EXTENDS BONDS' USE TWO YEARS

Federal Reserve Banks to Employ Them in Lieu of Gold Collateral in Note Issues.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—President Roosevelt by proclamation has extended for two years the period in which Federal Reserve banks may use Government bonds as paper collateral for Federal Reserve notes.

The 40 per cent gold collateral also required was not affected by the order.

The power to use Federal securities as collateral for the reserve notes which comprise the largest amount of currency in circulation would have expired March 6. The Roosevelt proclamation extends it until March 3, 1937.

Originally the Federal Reserve act required for the bank note issues a backing of at least 40 per cent in gold, with the remainder of the collateral in eligible paper which consists of 30, 60 and 90 day commercial bills and in some instances agricultural paper maturing in nine months.

The shortage of eligible paper, brought about by depressed business conditions, necessitated a use of much more than 40 per cent of gold as collateral. At one time Federal Reserve note circulation was backed by as much as 72 per cent in gold. To release this gold at a time of heavy European withdrawals, the law was amended to permit the use of Government bonds when commercial paper was insufficient.

The new Treasury banking bill, now before Congress would give the Federal Reserve banks broader powers with respect to collateral requirements on note issues.

ICKES TO SEND SENATE ANY DATA ON FARLEY

Promises Such Information as He Has, But Says He Has Never Investigated Postmaster-General.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—In response to the Senate's request for any available information on Postmaster-General Farley's business activities Secretary of the Interior Ickes said today he would send the data "as soon as I get the papers assembled."

Ickes held a morning conference with President Roosevelt but said they did not discuss the Farley case.

The Senate asked for the information on demand of Senator Long (Dem.), Louisiana.

Ickes told those seeking information about what he would send to the Senate: "I have never investigated Mr. Farley."

"Have you ever investigated the James Stewart Construction Co. or the General Builders' Supply Corporation with which Senator Long has linked Mr. Farley?" he was asked.

"Records of those companies are subject to inspection. Whether we investigated them I don't know," he replied. "I do not know if there are any papers about Mr. Farley. If there are, then in due and reasonable time I will submit them to the Senate."

He said Long had not communicated with him about the case "at any time" and that he had not heard from Farley, who is in Florida.

GETS SIX MONTHS AS 'TREASON CODE' PAROLE BREAKER

Man Required on Jan. 7 to Report Monthly, Says He Thought Due Date Was Feb. 7.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HILLSBORO, Ill., Feb. 16.—Gordon Hutchins, one of 14 paroled in the Illinois "treason code" case, was sentenced to six months on the State penal farm at Vandalia today for failing to make the monthly report of his activities required under the terms of his parole.

Sentence was entered by City Judge Paul McWilliams of Litchfield, sitting in the Circuit Court room here. The hearing was begun last Saturday and after a lapse of a week, during which Hutchins was released on $1000 bond, was concluded today.

Hutchins and 13 other defendants pleaded guilty on Jan. 7 of conspiracy to commit an illegal act, based on their arrest in a gathering which was protesting against relief conditions. Under a compromise agreement, all were paroled, and ordered to submit a report of their activities each month to Sheriff Blackburn.

When Hutchins, a coal miner, failed to make his report on the first of the month, he was arrested. At the opening of the hearing, last Saturday, he said he assumed his report was due on Feb. 7, a month after the parole order. State's Attorney Hall, however, declared Hutchins had said he "would not submit a report on the orders of a two-bit Judge."

Jan Wittenber and John Adams, Chicago Communists also paroled in the same case, have failed to submit their reports, and an order was issued two weeks ago for their arrest. They have not yet been apprehended.

MADE $400,000 PAPER PROFIT ON EX-CASHIER'S TIPS

Miss Maude Gibson Testifies Giessenbier, on Trial for Bank Fraud, Advised Her in 1929.

SHE SIGNED FORMS FOR STOCK PLEDGES

Denies, However, Authorizing Defendant to Act as Her Agent in Handling Brokerage Account.

Miss Maude O. Gibson, testifying the trial of Henry Giessenbier, said the former cashier of the closed Scruggs, Vandervoort & Barney Bank advised her and her sisters on investments which yielded a paper profit of $400,000 in 1929 and handled other transactions for them, but that she never had authorized him to serve as her agent in operating a brokerage account.

Giessenbier, on trial before a jury in Federal Judge Davis' court, is alleged to have misapplied $19,700 of the banks' funds to meet his obligations on stock market speculations in 1931. His defense is that in the transactions to which the Government refers he acted as agent for customers of the bank.

Questioned on Pledges.

Cross-examining Miss Gibson, Forrest C. Donnell of defense counsel showed her four printed forms for stock pledges. The witness agreed she had signed the forms before departing on a European trip in May, 1929, and that the stock she authorized Giessenbier to pledge was worth about $60,000 at that time.

Donnell inquired what purpose was served by signing the pledges, if not to facilitate business with stock brokers. Miss Gibson insisted that she had no business with stock brokers, that she signed the forms "just to take care of any trouble that might arise" while she was away. She mentioned, specifically, that she was interested in a real estate development, and that funds might be needed in that connection.

$3000 That Grew to $3,500,000.

Miss Gibson, who is 64 years old, and lives at Bellefontaine and Chambers roads, St. Louis County, is a daughter of the late Dr. James Gibson, a physician, whose investment of $3000 many years ago in a predecessor company of the Burroughs Adding Machine Co. created a fortune for his eight children.

Dr. Gibson died in 1906 leaving to his children stock which, if held intact, would have reached a value of $3,500,000 at the 1929 peak, and would still be worth about $500,000. The Gibson family bought and sold Burroughs stock in the years following the death of Dr. Gibson, and still has large holdings.

The $400,000 paper profit concerning which Miss Gibson testified was in dealings in Burroughs stock between 1926 and 1929. Early in 1929, she testified, Giessenbier urged her to buy the stock, telling her that assets of the company carried on the books at $1,000,000 were in fact worth $5,000,000.

Took Giessenbier's Advice.

At his suggestion, Miss Gibson said, she bought 200 shares of the stock, and three of her sisters bought 400 shares more, paying about $81 a share. Donnell asked if stock dividends had not brought it about that by August, 1929, she and her histers held 833 shares for each 100 they had purchased, and if the stock was not selling then at $96.87 a share. The witness said she was not sure of the figures.

"Well, computing the figures," Donnell continued, "the stock that you and your sisters bought for $81 a share, paying about $51,000, by August, 1929, was worth about $460,000?" "I guess that is right," Miss Gibson answered.

"And all this was done in your behalf by Giessenbier? You followed his advice in making these purchases?" "Yes, that is correct," the witness answered.

AN BEATEN WITH AXE HANDLE BY WOMAN DIES OF INJURIES

Thomas W. Carr, 43-year-old laborer, 8933 Newby street, died at City Hospital last night after suffering a skull fracture Thursday night when Rosie Lee Ford, 21, Negro, 1437 North Eighth street, beat him on the head with an ax handle at the home of Hack Clark, 64, Negro laborer, 1225 North Ninth street.

Clark, who stated he saw the assault, called the police. Rosie Ford, after having been identified by Carr, admitted that she had beat him with an ax handle following an argument which she said started over some clothing Carr had promised to give her.

Ed Smith, 65, laborer, and William Hollander, 59, laborer, both boarders at Clark's house, are being held by police along with Clark and Rosie Ford at the Carr street station.

AUTO LICENSE ARRESTS TO BEGIN TOMORROW

Those Lacking City Stickers Will Be Warned; No Definite Time Limit Set.

For the first time in many years, arrests for failure to have new State automobile licenses, which will begin in St. Louis and vicinity tomorrow, will be made on the original date set, instead of being postponed several times to give motorists additional time to buy the plates.

However, a respite was granted yesterday on St. Louis city automobile licenses because the windshield stickers had been sold for less than two-thirds of the cars here. Police will warn persons lacking city licenses, beginning tomorrow, but no definite time limit for obtaining them was set.

License Collector Renick's office at City Hall was open most of the afternoon yesterday to accommodate more than 1000 persons who waited to buy the stickers for some time after the scheduled closing hour, noon. It was the fourth day of the rush there. A double line extended almost entirely around the square outer corridor of City Hall.

As at the State license offices, the standing applicants were for the most part good humored. They had put off buying their permits and concluded they would have to make the best of the tiresome wait. Peddlers of candy, fruit and novelties did a fair business. Various efforts to avoid the lines and slip past the policemen at the doors of the Collector's office were made, but were mostly futile. A few persons left their hats and coats in city offices and walked straight to the license counter, making the policemen think they were clerks there. Many City Hall attaches were bothered by friends and friends of friends, who sought a "pull" to get quick service.

Up to noon yesterday, 87,600 city licenses for 1935 had been sold, but there were about 147,000 machines licensed last year.

Lines of applicants for State licenses waiting in the near-freezing temperature and occasional snow flurries lacked the shelter of City Hall. At the principal State office, 1701 Chestnut street, for a time yesterday two single lines on the sidewalks ran around the four sides of the block, each ending at Eighteenth and Pine streets. By early afternoon the crowd had been reduced to one line of less than a block, and the office closed at 2 o'clock, two hours later than intended.

There were lines a block or more long at the other State offices, 7816 Forsythe boulevard, Clayton, and 151 West Argonne drive, Kirkwood, and these depots did not close until midafternoon.

TESTIFIES MACON WENT TO PIECES LIKE PAPER SACK

WHEEL FLEW OUT OF RUDDERMAN'S HANDS

Elevator Man Also Lost Control — Immediately Afterward Word Came No. 1 Cell Was Deflated.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 16.—The collapse of the Macon was compared to "a paper sack exploding" today before the naval court investigating the loss of the last big dirigible in commission in the United States.

The comparison was drawn by Henry Miller, assistant lighthouse keeper at Point Sur, the rocky pomontory near where the Macon fell into the ocean last Tuesday.

"It all happened at one time," Miller said—so quickly that he could not see whether the airship's fabric started to tear at the rear, center or forward part of the upper fin.

Other witnesses had agreed the "casualty" that sent the airship down was first discernible as a failure at the fin.

At Forward Part of Fin.

Thomas Henderson, keeper of the lighthouse, testified he watched the breakup through powerful glasses. He said "the material seemed to go to pieces and then drifted back," adding:

"The trouble seemed to start at the forward part of the fin. Then it worked back and seemed to raise up at the front all at once.

"It (the fin) tore loose at one place. Then there was a pause. Then more tearing until the entire fin appeared naked."

"The top fin just seemed to go all to pieces," Miller said. "The material seemed to go to pieces and drifted back. A considerable amount was hanging to the portion I judged to be the rudder.

Not Particularly Bad.

Both Henderson and Miller said the weather was not particularly bad at the time.

Answering a question by the Macon's chief—Commander H. V. Wiley—Henderson said a rain squall came up about the time the Macon was settling to the ocean surface but that there was no increase in the wind.

Lieut. Calvin M. Bolster, repairs officer of the Macon, said he believed failure of the upper fin caused the dirigible's destruction.

"My opinion," he said, "is that failure of the fin involves failure of the fin structure and the structure of the ship where the fin was supported."

Bolster testified yesterday the Macon narrowly escaped disaster while flying over Texas last year, and added that repairs to sheared off girders had not been fully completed when it began its final trip. He explained the Bureau of Aeronautics had ordered they should not interfere with flight schedules.

From the deck of the cruiser Houston Ensign Terry L. Watkins said he saw the Macon about 5 p. m., a few minutes before it fell.

"I saw her dropping ballast," he said. "That seemed to be the only unusual thing about her."

The Houston was about five miles from the falling dirigible.

Wheel Spun From Hand.

The Macon's rudderman and elevator man testified the huge ship rolled suddenly and tore itself from their control.

Coxswain W. H. Clarke, the rudderman, said the wheel spun suddenly from his hands and Commander Wiley grabbed it.

"The first thing I noticed was the ship trembled and took a bow up inclination," Clarke testified. "I tried to keep her on her course, but lost practically all steerageway.

"The wheel flew out of my hands and Commander Wiley grabbed it until I could get ahold of it. I felt as though I had control of the lower rudder."

Clarke said the wheel controlled both the higher and lower rudders, but stated he was informed within a short time that the top rudder was gone.

"I left the control car just before the stern landed on the water."

W. M. Conover, the elevator man, also said the wheel was jerked from his hands.

"The Macon was flying almost in perfect trim," he began. "It had been fairly smooth flying. I noticed a haze and was on the alert for turbulent weather. I recall the ship giving a slight dive and gave 'up elevators' and then 'down elevators,' when I saw the bow rise. The wheel jerked from my hand with terrific force and four spokes hit my hand before I could stop it. Lieutenant-Commander Coulter gave me aid.

'The angle gradually increased to 25 degrees. Immediately after the wheel jerked from my hands, word came that the No. 1 cell was deflated.

"The first thing that seemed alarming to me was the fact that everyone on the control car grabbed something as we rolled."

He declared he could not say whether the roll had been caused by anything else than a strong gust of wind.

DRIVER HITS, INJURES MAN SERIOUSLY; KEEPS ON GOING

Marvin E. Soehnlin of Luxemburg Run Down in 9100 Block of South Broadway.

Marvin E. Soehnlin, 23 years old, of 9506 South Broadway, Luxemburg, was struck and seriously injured by an automobile, the driver of which failed to stop, when walking in the 9100 block of South Broadway at 10:45 o'clock last night. He was taken to Alexian Brothers Hospital, where he was found suffering from a skull injury.

Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Dielschneider, 124 West Cleveland avenue, Luxemburg, with whom Soehnlin was walking south on the pavement, said the machine, a dark Model A Ford coach or sedan, also southbound, continued at high speed after the accident. The license plates were dirty and the numbers not discernible, they said.

WIDOW SAYS ADMIRER PLOTTED MAN'S DEATH

Peter Brickie, 51, a Grandfather, Held in Killing of Chicago Night Club Clerk.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—The State's Attorney's office tonight said that Peter Brickie, 51-year-old grandfather, and an alleged admirer of Mrs. Melba Springer Straub, had been accused by her of plotting the killing of her husband, Louis K. Straub, night clerk of the Saddle and Cycle club, two weeks ago.

Brickie, married electrical contractor, first was brought into the killing today after Mrs. Straub, Brickie and several others had been taken into custody. Both Police Capt. Dan Gilbert of the State's Attorney's force and Assistant Prosecutor Charles S. Dougherty joined in a statement that the 34-year-old former showgirl said Brickie had threatened to kill Straub.

"Mrs. Straub has made the statement," Gilbert said, "that Brickie bought a revolver from her and that he plotted to murder her husband from the window of a hotel by firing shots as he passed the window on the way to work. Mrs. Straub said: 'He said he would kill my husband.'"

Brickie, questioned in detail, cried out: "If she says I bought the gun from her she lies!"

Gilbert said "he loved Mrs. Straub enough to venture into her home after the shooting and drew diagrams to show her what a dictaphone looked like and where one might be concealed there. When we questioned them together she insisted those were the facts. He denied them vehemently and Mrs. Straub was very bitter because he refused to admit he had obtained the revolver from her."

Previously the widow said her father, Charles Springer, gave a weapon of unusual caliber, the same type used in the killing, to her last October.

Brickie insisted that he spent the night of the killing in company with his wife who is a maid in a North Side home, and that they went to a theater together.

All those questioned, including the widow, were released tonight with the exception of Brickie, Mrs. Ellen Edlin, close friend of Mrs. Straub and Mrs. Straub's sister, Mrs. Zoe Platt. Just why Mrs. Platt was detained was not disclosed. It was known, however, that she had been questioned about the ownership of the weapon.

STATE PLANS TO TRY MRS. MUENCH FEB. 25

To Proceed Against Her If Prosecutor Anderson Is Able to Appear.

Mrs. Nellie Tipton Muench, 4736 Westminster place, will be selected by the State for trial in the Kelley kidnaping case on Feb. 25 at Clayton if Prosecuting Attorney Anderson, injured in an assault last October, is able to be in court, as is hoped, Associate Prosecuting Attorney Wolfe told reporters yesterday.

Notice to this effect has been sent to defense counsel, he said. In the event Prosecuting Attorney Anderson is unable to be in court to direct presentation of the State's case, Bart Davit, jointly docketed for trial with Mrs. Muench before Judge Nolte, will be selected for trial. Both have taken severances, entitling them to separate trials.

Anderson has been at his home at Forder and Ringer roads for the past two weeks, convalescent from a fractured leg and other injuries suffered on Oct. 9, when his automobile was crowded off Lindbergh road by unidentified assailants. He was in County Hospital almost four months. At his home he exercises for several hours a day on his crutches. Also he makes a daily trip to a hospital for treatment.

Mrs. Muench, at liberty on $25,000 bond, and Davit, a prisoner in St. Louis City Jail, are the only defendants awaiting trial on the charge of kidnaping Dr. Isaac D. Kelley for ransom on April 20, 1931. Angelo Rosegrant, first defendant to face trial, is at liberty on appeal bond under sentence of 20 years in prison. Felix McDonald, second to be tried, was convicted Jan. 30 at Clayton by a jury which fixed his punishment at 60 years in prison.

McDonald, a convict, is held in the county jail pending a decision by Judge Nolte on his motion for a new trial, filed Feb. 8 The motion, setting out 40 reasons for another trial, was to have been argued yesterday, but Judge Nolte postponed the hearing until next Saturday, after former Circuit Attorney Sidener had informed him that Verne R. C. Lacy, chief defense counsel, was ill at his home. Lacy also is chief of counsel for Mrs. Muench and Davit.

Laborer Succumbs at Hospital; Inquest Ordered.

An inquest will be held to determine the cause of the death of Joseph Salat, 62-year-old laborer, 3161 Nebraska avenue, who died at City Hospital last night. He was found unconscious on the sidewalk in front of 2235 Nebraska avenue yesterday afternoon.

The hospital reported there were lacerations on Salat's head. Police found some money and his keys near the steps of his home.

EXPECTS $77,000 LOSS ON L. M. WATTS LOAN

Chicago Bank Listed as $80,000 Creditor of St. Louisan Who Is Bankrupt.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—The Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust Co. of Chicago, which is listed as an $80,000 creditor of Lawson M. Watts in the latter's bankruptcy petition recently filed in St. Louis, expects to lose $77,000 on its loan to the former St. Louis banker, it was learned today.

An officer of the Continental Bank told a Post-Dispatch reporter that Lawson Watts obtained the loan about four years ago, when he was vice-president of the First National Bank in St. Louis, of which his father, Frank O. Watts, is chairman.

Watts asked for $100,000 or thereabouts and proffered as collateral, among other securities, 1201 shares of First National Bank stock. The other collateral consisted of 500 share of Relay Motor Corporation capital stock, 727 shares of Globe American Corporation common stock and 52 shares of Globe American preferred.

Watts Unable to Pay.

The loan was made for 90 days. When it matured, Watts was unable to pay. He did reduce it somewhat and until recently had paid interest.

Three months ago the Continental Bank obtained his permission to sell the collateral, and disposed of the First National Bank stock, which now is quoted around $20. The other securities, according to the Continental officer, are very low in price.

The Relay Motor Corporation manufactures trucks in Lima, O. About six months ago a bid of 10 to 15 cents a share was made for its stock. The Globe American Corporation, at Kokomo, Ind., owns the Globe Stove & Range Co. and the American Steel Products Co. There was a sale last September of the preferred stock at $20 a share, and of the common at $1 a share.

In view of those low prices on the most recent sales, the Continental Bank does not hope for a substantial reduction of Watts' loan from this source.

Stock Once Worth $75,000.

At the time the loan was made, the official added, the First National Bank stock was worth at least $75,000, and this, with the market value of the other collateral at the time, gave the bank a safe margin.

Among other liabilities listed by Watts are five notes amounting to $94,250, indorsed by his father, and three secured notes totaling $24,700 held by the First National Bank in St. Louis. Another liability is an $88,000 note by Tony J. and Katherine Christmann of Belleville, secured by 28,000 shares of Star-Peerless Brewery stock. Cosigners on this note, according to his schedule, were the Wattmore Investment Co., Henry P. Duncker, A. A. Christophel and O. E. Ellis. Until recently Watts had been vice-president and general manager of the Belleville brewery, at a salary of $8000 a year.

AUTO LABOR BOARD CITES PROGRESS IN 10 MONTHS' WORK

Says It "Has Seen to It That Methods of Collective Bargaining Are Generally Employed."

HOW IT HANDLED ST. LOUIS STRIKE

Cases Given to Illustrate Difficulties Encountered and Success With Which They Were Solved.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—The Automobile Labor Board today replied to its critics with a report asserting that in the 10 months of the board's existence it "has seen to it that the methods of collective bargaining are employed generally in the industry."

The board, continued under the code recently approved by President Roosevelt, has been the object of bitter attack by William Green, head of the American Federation of Labor, and other labor leaders. Continuance of the board, which has jurisdiction over all labor disputes in the automobile industry, was one of the principal reasons for the recent row over the auto code.

Leo Wolman is chairman of the board and the other two members are Nicholas Kelly and Richard L. Byrd.

The sternest indictment of the automobile industry and the code governing it came during the recent controversy from the research and planning division of the NRA. A study made under the direction of Dr. Leon Henderson, director, showed labor intimidated by a spy system, constantly being replaced by a swiftly developing technology, thrown out as incapacitated at 60 years of age and at a decided disadvantage in collective bargaining.

Settlement of Strikes.

"The board, upon taking office," says the report, "believed its first task to be to bring about a peaceful settlement of existing strikes in the industry; to dispose of all claims of discriminatory practices as speedily as possible; and to see that the rights of workingmen to be represented by their chosen representatives in collective bargaining with the employer were recognized forthwith. By the middle of May, about one and a half months after it began its duties, the board had employed its good offices in settling 11 strikes in the industry, together affecting, directly or indirectly, some 30,000 workers."

To illustrate the difficulties which it encountered and the successful way in which they were solved, the board gives at considerable length the details of the strike and subsequent settlement in the Chevrolet and Fisher Body plants of the General Motors Corporation in St. Louis.

"The most difficult problems which the board has encountered in handling complaints within the industry have arisen out of strike settlements," the report says. "The issues created by strikes and the confusion engendered by them are so important in industrial relations that it is worth while describing in detail a typical situation with which the board has dealt in the automobile manufacturing industry."

Cases in St. Louis.

When the board first began its work in Detroit, it received from automobile workers' unions in St. Louis 234 cases of alleged discrimination against union workers. Many of these cases had been pending before the St. Louis regional labor board since the summer of 1933. The General Motors Corporation submitted a report on the status of these cases which the unions refused to accept and a strike was eventually called in the two St. Louis plants.

The board arranged a settlement with the company at the request of the unions, according to the report, but soon afterward the union complained that strikers had not been taken back in the order of their seniority, and "upon an investigation of this complaint the board ordered the companies to make changes which resulted in replacing some 200 of their employes with 200 others who had greater seniority."

The full board held hearings in St. Louis on 26 other cases and ordered the company to take back 18 of the 26 employes involved. Still later the unions reported 147 cases of discrimination. But finally these cases were withdrawn by labor representatives, according to the report.

In the Board's Judgment.

Despite these numerous cases in this one section of the industry, the report says: "It is the board's judgment after 10 months' experience in the industry that discrimination caused by union activity or union membership is not a problem of any magnitude at the present time and has not been for some time in the past. Wherever agreements are made between the industry and the board or the industry and labor to return men to work or to restore to employes their seniority, it is the board's information that these arrangements have been fairly observed. Furthermore, in all of the many instances in which the board had ordered individuals or groups back to work, they have been returned to work so far as the board knows. Few cases have been brought to the board's attention of violation of its orders and decisions."

Since it began work, 10 months ago, according to the report, has classified all employes in the industry with respect to length of service and responsibility for dependents and on this basis has determined their seniority in the plant. Under this system, it is claimed, the worker finds himself "protected" not only against the possibility of the lay-off period or the period of rehiring being used as a method of discrimination against him for ulterior motives growing either out of the struggles about organizing or out of alleged personal favoritism of the lower supervision, which causes so much uneasiness in the minds of the workers, but above all against the general hazards and uncertainties of lay-off and rehiring."

What Green Says of Report.

"The board has served more as a personal agency for the companies than as an independent tribunal," William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said tonight in a statement.

"The automobile workers, members of Federal labor unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor," he added, "will have nothing to do with the Automobile Labor Board."

"Evidently the report," Green said, "is designed to allay the opposition of automobile workers generally to the work of the board and the board itself. The Automobile Board has lost the confidence of the automobile workers. . . . In giving consideration to this report the automobile workers will be reminded that in no single instance has the board ever actually ordered any worker who had been discharged or discriminated against, re-employed or rehired. In no instance where a worker was put back to work through the mediation efforts of the board, was he paid for any portion of the time lost."

Boys Awarded $28,000 They Dug Up

DESPITE RISE IN FOOD PRICES AAA PROGRAM IS UNCHANGED

No Ruling on Discontinuing Processing Taxes on Commodities That Have Reached Parity.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16. — Despite increasing prices fo food, the Agricultural Adjustment Administration said today in a formal statement that it was "not considering the abandonment of any program now in effect."

At the same time the AAA said that statements that the farm prices of 14 basic commodities were 24 points above pre-war parity was incorrect. The administration recently stated that the price level of the 14 basic commodities—those on which processing taxes may be levied for benefit payments — were virtually at the parity level. Parity is described in the adjustment act as the price for which farm commodities must sell to have the purchasing power they had in the 1909-1914 period.

The Farm Act apparently forbids collection of processing taxes after prices have reached the parity level, declaring that the amount of the tax shall be the difference between the "current farm price" and parity. A decision on how long the AAA may continue to levy taxes even though a parity price has been reached for a product has not been made. Taxes have not been lowered to correspond to the rise in farm commodities.

NEW YORK MIXED TEAM OF 4 WINS IN BRIDGE TOURNEY

SUB-MACHINE GUN REGISTERED FROM GAMBLING HOUSE

Raymond Daly, Biltmore Club, Recorded Also as the Owner of Two "Auto Burglar Guns."

A Thompson sub-machine gun and two "auto burglar guns," listed as owned by Raymond Daly, Biltmore Country Club, were among 400 weapons registered in the office of the Collector of Internal Revenue here under the Federal Firearms Act, it was learned yesterday.

The Biltmore Country Club is a gambling house on Gravois road in Jefferson County, just south of the St. Louis County line. Daly is understood to have been a dealer in games there during the various periods in which the club was operating. In May, 1933, he was named by the club management as associated with Paul Jones and Harry E. Belford, also known as "Hickory Slim," as a partner in the management of the house.

The submachine gun in Daly's name was listed as of .45-caliber, serial number 4238. The auto burglar guns, hand shotguns also known as "whippet guns," were described as manufactured by the Ithaca Arms Co., and numbered 447984 and 447996.

What the Law Requires.

In the list of 400 weapons registered with the Collector, only 21 properly fell within the provisions of the registration act, which covered "any shotgun or rifle having a barrel of less than 18 inches in length, except a pistol or revolver, from which a shot is discharged by an explosive, if such weapon is capable of being concealed on the person, or a machine gun, and includes any muffler or silencer for any firearm, whether or not such firearm is included within the foregoing definition."

Weapons Listed.

Only eight Thompson sub-machine guns, all told, were registered with the Collector for the Eastern District of Missouri. In addition to the weapon listed in Daly's name, others were recorded as follows:

Guarantee Service Co., 12 South Ranken avenue, an armored car delivery company, Serial No. 3760.

Roy E. Presnell, Farmington, Sheriff of St. Francois County, Serial No. 6875.

St. Louis Bank and Equipment Co., Ninth and Sidney streets, Serial No. 12470.

Sheriff's office, Clayton (two) serial numbers 6344 and 7892.

Constable Otto Frank of Central Township, St. Louis County, one, serial number not given.

One Listed as Curio.

An automatic Luger, also called a sub-machine gun, of 9 millimeters caliber, model 6041, was listed as owned by Eugene Lauth, 5125 South Compton avenue.

Dr. O. H. Campbell, 3746 Grandel square, listed a machine gun but described it as a curio brought home from the World War. Under the law, curios did not have to be listed, but might be registered if the owner desired to do so.

The listed owners of other firearms under registration which fall within the description in the act, in addition to Daly, included W. DeHart, 4740 Vernon avenue; Kent V. Gay, 930 Country Club drive; Jefferson Bank and Trust Co., and C. H. Kaimann, 5725 Park Lane, who were listed as owning one auto burglar gun each.

The Guarantee Service Co. was listed as owning three auto burglar guns. The Sheriff's office at Clayton was listed as owning two automatic shotguns, and Deputy Sheriff Harry Newbold as owning a .410-gauge riot gun.

EX-CHIEF JUSTICE IN OKLAHOMA AIDS PHIL KENNAMER

C. W. Mason Testifies to Signs of Irrationality That He Noticed in Judge's Son.

By the Associated Press.

PAWNEE, Ok., Feb. 16.—State's attorneys succeeded today in blocking expert testimony that 19-year-old Phil Kennamer was insane when he killed John F. Gorrell Jr., 23, at Tulsa last Thanksgiving night.

Dr. Karl A. Menninger, Topeka, Kan., psychiatrist, qualified as an expert on mental ills. Then he listened for 40 minutes to a summary of the strange life, words and deeds, of the Federal Judge's son, ending with the question:

"Now, doctor, taking these facts into consideration in addition to your own information, would say the defendant was rational or irrational?"

Before the alienist could say "yes" or "no," J. Berry King, former State's Attorney-General, objected. King is one of the prosecutors. He argued there was much in the involved hypothetical question, propounded by Defense Attorney A. Flint Moss, which should be stricken. Other matters, such as Kennamer's drinking should be included, he added.

Court Reserves Decision.

Court recessed. For three hours opposing counsel dissected and revised the question. Judge Thurman Hurst reserved decision over the week-end as to whether he would allow Menninger to answer the question.

After him will come other experts, Dr. E. A. Werner and Dr. Coyne Campbell of Oklahoma City, retained by the defense, and Dr. Felix Adams of Vinita, superintendent of the Eastern Oklahoma hospital, and Dr. G. Wilse Robinson, psychiatrist of Kansas City.

They are expected to finish in time Monday for young Kennamer to take the stand in his own behalf.

Upon reopening of court, Charles W. Mason, who was Chief Justice of the Oklahoma Supreme Court when the defendant's father, Federal Judge Franklin E. Kennamer of Tulsa was a member, testified briefly he believed Phil was irrational.

Kennamer, admitting the killing, says he shot Gorrell in self-defense after frustrating an extortion plot he asserts Gorrell had aimed at 19-year-old Virginia Wilcox, daughter of an oil millionaire. His attorneys, however, contend he was temporarily insane.

Three Signs of "Irrationality."

Mason cited three indications of irrationality on the part of young Kennamer.

That he once remarked, while pacing Judge Mason's sixteenth floor office that "it would be a swell place to commit suicide. Just jump out head first."

That he wanted a job on an Oklahoma City newspaper, but wanted to start as editor.

That he told Mason he wanted to be a flyer in a Central American revolution and thought he could rule the country as its dictator.

Under cross-examination by W. F. Gilmer Jr., Assistant County Prosecutor, Mason said he did not consider it "irrational" for a boy to want adventure in foreign lands nor to own a large newspaper. Both, he said, he considered normal impulses.

"You wanted to have adventure and fly yourself, didn't you?" "Yes, and I did so—in 1917."

An Embarrassing Question.

Finally Gilmer demanded: "If you thought this boy hadn't killed that boy, you probably never would have testified he was crazy, would you?"

The witness squirmed. "That is true. I would not have testified in this way under other circumstances."

"And isn't it true, Judge, that you are here testifying in this fashion because this boy's father holds the responsible, powerful position of United States Judge for the Northern District of Oklahoma?" "No. I have a high regard for Judge Kennamer's friendship."

Kennamer, described by his attorneys as "brilliant but abnormal," sat with lowered head as his boyhood escapades were recited. His father, shielded his eyes from spectators.

Judge Kennamer yesterday testified to most of the actions upon which the hypothetical question addressed to the psychiatrist was based. Kennamer's young friends supplied the others.

The Unsolved Born Case.

An unsolved phase of the Kennamer case—the death of young Sidney Born Jr.—drew attention tonight following the statement of an insurance investigator that the death will be solved a week after the trial ends. The Born boy's father said recently an arrest would be made.

Sidney Born Jr. drove Kennamer to the place where John Gorrell was killed. On Dec. 9, Born was found shot in the head, his pistol beside him.

Machine Steadily Cutting Man Hours in Auto Plants

16 Workers Now Turn Out Car Against 24 Required in 1934 in One Factory, NRA Reports.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16. — The conflict between men and machines, as portrayed in NRA's research report on the automobile industry, reads like a story from technocracy.

But NRA's report, by Leon Henderson, economic director, finds that the technical advances may, in the long run, "so reduce the price of the product as to produce more demand and greater than less employment."

Findings of NRA.

Here is NRA's report:

By eliminating wood parts in its automobile bodies, one body manufacturer was able "to wipe out its entire wood mill, which in 1928 employed 3000 men."

One company which made a one-piece stamping for the so-called underbody eliminated separate building of some 30 parts, saving 50 labor hours.

A special welding machine, now requiring three men, eliminated 18 men needed under the old process.

A rough grinding process that formerly required six minutes is now done in 1.8 minutes. Another process was reduced from 12 to 6.32 minutes.

Full capacity production of a certain clutch housing was increased from 60 to from 160 to 200 a day with no increase in men.

One Does What Four Once Did.

By use of a special "quick change holding jig," one man does what four did; another machine allows one unskilled worker to replace three skilled.

A "photo-electric automatic machine"—the electric eye—does an inspection job that formerly required 10 to 20 inspection men.

Automatic buffing and polishing machines, if used full time, will eliminate hundreds of men in one plant. In 1934 one entire department of buffers was eliminated.

A manufacturer who employed between 1000 and 1100 early in 1934 at the time of a strike has eliminated 150 men and increased production 15 per cent.

Great Decrease Since 1929.

NRA was unable to arrive at an estimate of the number eliminated in the automobile industry, but the report said:

"It is the general feeling of many of those associated with the industry and certainly of those responsible for this study, that the man hours per car have decreased tremendously since 1929.

"One finds it difficult to abandon the impression of greatly reduced man hours per car, when the existing rate of production for one larger manufacturer is one car per day for each 16 men employed, whereas similar production in 1934 was reported as one car per day for each 24 men employed."

SMOKELESS-STOKING CAMPAIGN

Coal Salesmen to Advise Customers on Heating Equipment.

A group of St. Louis coal salesmen have formed an organization to promote smoke reduction here by advising customers how to burn coal properly and what type of equipment to use. The campaign will be conducted in co-operation with the Coal Exchange of St. Louis.

Formation of the club, which has an initial membership of 60, followed a series of lectures by R. S. Johansen, general manager of the Hays Institute in Chicago, who outlined methods of burning various types of coal and explained heating equipment designs and faults in operating heating plants.

10,000 DARWIN TULIPS TO BE SHOWN AT ARENA IN SPRING

Greater St. Louis Flower and Garden Exhibit Is Supported by Organizations and Firms.

Holland bulb growers will display 10,000 Darwin tulips of many varieties in a special exhibit at the Greater St. Louis Flower and Garden Show to be held at the Arena March 30 to April 7.

The display will be in addition to a wide variety of other bulb flower exhibits. There will be a total of 48 gardens in the show as compared with 20 in the National Flower Show held here in 1933.

Former Mayor Kiel, chairman of the ticket committee, said the advance sale of tickets at reduced prices will close March 20, and 60,000 of the 100,000 advance limit have been placed in the hands of civic organizations, garden clubs, business firms and individuals.

The show will be a non-profit venture, necessary expenses having been advanced by florists and garden organizations. If there is a surplus it will be applied to future shows.

Many different countries of the world will be represented in flowers and plants native to foreign soil. There will be special exhibits of roses, orchids, rhododendrons, azaleas, ferns, carnations hydrangeas lilies foliage plants and basket arrangements. A special display of orchids, not grown in the United States, will be imported from England. The Government has granted permission for the shipment.

IRWIN ARRIVES IN BLOOMINGTON

Man Who Admitted Killing Officer Placed in Illinois Jail.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Feb. 16.—Kelch Irwin, who confessed that he killed Deputy Sheriff A. L. Vonsar here Jan. 28, was returned to Bloomington from East St. Louis today. He was bound over to the grand jury which meets next week and will be held in the McLean County jail without bond on murder charges.

He signed a confession before McLean County authorities and admitted hold-ups at Taylorville, Ill., Evansville, Ind., Memphis, Tenn., and Paducah, Ky.

High School Pupil Kills Self.

DELANO, Cal., Feb. 16.—When his mother spoke sharply to him on his late return from a high school basketball game and dance, Wayne Ray, 17 years old, put a small rifle to his head early today and killed himself. The boy's twin brother, Wayman, who witnessed the shooting, said his brother had been drinking. He added he felt sure his brother did not know the rifle was loaded.

Sterilization Defeated in Arkansas.
By the Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Feb. 16.—Proposed sterilization of the insane and habitual criminals in Arkansas has met with defeat at the hands of the House of Representatives after the Senate passed a measure for that purpose. By a vote of 64 to 29, the House turned down Senator Clyde Ellis' plan despite arguments of supporters that the sterilization measure would, eventually, reduce the "alarming increase in criminals and insane."

ACTION ON $4,400,000 RFC LOAN DEFERRED

Hearing of a petition of the trustees of $9,700,000 guaranteed first mortgage participation certificates of the First National Co., asking for authority to borrow $4,403,075 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, was continued in Circuit Judge Baron's Court yesterday until Feb. 28.

About 150 persons interested in the proceedings were in court, expecting the matter to be taken up, but an extension was granted for filing of various pleass.

The trustees desire the loan so that a 46 per cent payment on defaulted participations may be made to investors. Recently objection to the plan was filed in behalf of owners of $6500 of the mortgages. Similar objections were filed yesterday by Samuel I. Sievers and Joseph H. Grand in behalf of clients who own a total of about $50,000 of the certificates.

The objectors contended that the proposal with respect to the proposed loan was indefinite and uncertain; further, that the terms were such that the management and control of the trust estate would be taken from the trustees and placed in the hands of a corporation not subject to the jurisdiction or control of the court. Another objection was that the conditions were "unfair and inequitable and adversely affect the rights of the holders of the participations sold by the First National Co.

The trustees, former Gov. Henry S. Caulfield and the First National Bank, were appointed by the court following litigation over a request for extension of the participation notes. The First National Co.'s plan contemplated a pledge to the RFC of all the outstanding real estate mortgage notes and bonds behind the participations. There was a default in principal and interest payments on $4,427,615.

LABORER, FATHER OF SEVEN, KILLED IN AUTO IN E. ST. LOUIS

Alva Smithson Was Riding With Brother-in-Law, Who Was Arrested.

Alva Smithson, 39-year-old laborer, 1023 Gaty avenue, East St. Louis, died yesterday at Christian Brothers Welfare Hospital of injuries suffered Tuesday in an automobile accident in the 1600 block of Bond avenue, East St. Louis.

Smithson was riding with his brother-in-law, David Robinson, with whom he lived, when Robinson, driving west on Bond avenue and attempting to pass another car, lost control and drove into a vacant lot. The automobile overturned. Robinson, who escaped with cuts, was arrested and later released on bond.

Smithson is survived by his wife, Mrs. Eva Smithson, seven children, six brothers and six sisters.

WOULD ENFORCE OR SCRAP LABOR SECTION OF NRA

W. M. Brandt, Secretary of Central Trades Union, Addresses Protest Meeting at Auditorium.

The Government should enforce the labor provisions of the NRA, or scrap them, William M. Brandt, secretary of the Central Trades and Labor Union and a member of the St. Louis Regional Labor Board, told a mass meeting of labor sympathizers at the municipal auditorium yesterday afternoon.

Declaring, "it is folly to have a law and not enforce it," Brandt drew a comparison between the NRA labor situation and prohibition enforcement. "We are not being critical of the Government," the speaker continued, "but we demand that it put teeth in the labor section of NRA, or do away with it."

Brandt said that employers had encouraged observance of the NRA, where it was to their advantage. Speaking as a member of the Regional Labor Board since its organization, he said it was his observation that "in more than 90 per cent of the cases we have heard the bosses had violated various sections of the National Industrial Recovery Act, while the workers had merely demanded their rights under the law."

Meeting of Protest.

The meeting was called in protest against company unions, espionage directed against labor organizations and police handling of strike pickets. A crowd of more than 1700 men and women filled the lower floor of the auditorium opera house and overflowed into the balcony.

Citing what he said was a specific instance of oppression of employes, Brandt criticised police handling of strike pickets, stating he had carried a protest to the Board of Police Commissioners.

Attacks Company Unions.

Speaking of company unions, Brandt said these organizations had sprung up since NRA went into effect in an effort by industrialists to prevent their workers from joining a bona fide labor union. In conclusion Brandt read a communication from union automobile workers, which charged that the Missouri State Re-employment Service was prepared to furnish workers for the local Chevrolet and Fisher Body plants in the event of a strike this spring.

William J. Fitzmaurice, president of the Central Trades and Labor Union and a member of the Regional Labor Board, discussed the reported activities of a private detective. The speaker described him as a former union blacksmith's helper, "who, like Judas, sold out for silver," and charged that private detective agencies specializing in industrial disputes foment labor troubles "in order to create a demand for their services."

"Employers who subscribe to such practices are suckers for fellows such as this detective," Fitzmaurice declared. He said it was his observation that the Police Department co-operated with "the industrial spies," and the crowd cheered when Fitzmaurice added that, "it is plain that our police are devoted to big business."

Recalls Gompers' Words.

Mrs. Mary Ryder, vice-president of the Central Trades, recalled the words of Samuel Gompers, late head of the American Federation of Labor, who exhorted his constituents to "save our American institutions." The American Federation of Labor, Mrs. Ryder said, has stood against the various "isms," which, she asserted, were seeking to tear down the Government. She made a plea for industrial peace and called on industrialists to "forget their greed, and give the other fellow a chance."

Other speakers were: Martin Dillmon, educational representative of the Missouri State Federation of Labor; Daniel Murphy, international representative of the Teamsters' & Chauffeurs' Union; Harry Nelson, president of the St. Louis Street Car Men's Union, and Mrs. Edith Phillips, representing the International Garment Workers' Union.

The meeting adopted a resolution calling on Congress to investigate alleged NRA violations in St. Louis, and also called on the Government to give the various NRA boards dealing with labor disputes power to enforce their decisions with penal action.

Triplets From Line of Twins.
By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 16.—Mrs. Irvin Schmidt, 30 years old, more than conformed to a family trait today when she became the mother of triplets. The mother is the daughter of a twin, whose grandmother also was a twin. That, said Dr. Lee Douglas, attending physician, probably is one reason for the triplets. Two of the infants are boys, the other a girl.

Brain Operation After Death.
By the Associated Press.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 16.—An operation which surgeons had planned as an eleventh hour effort to save him was performed today on Jesse Edward Simpson, 45 years old, a few hours after his death. Simpson suffered from an unusual tumor of the brain which baffled doctors. For the sake of "medical science and humanity," his widow granted permission for the operation they were unable to perform before his death.

SETH PARKER IS THOUGHT TO BE IN TOW OF NAVY TUG

No Message From Radio Entertainer's Schooner Since It Reported U. S. Boat's Arrival.

By the Associated Press.

HONOLULU, Feb. 16.—The American radio schooner Seth Parker was thought here today to be in tow of the United States Navy tug Ontario bound for Pago Pago, Samoa, after being disabled last week by a storm in the South Seas. A report received here Wednesday said the Ontario had reached the schooner and was preparing to take her in tow.

Philips Lord, radio performer and master of the schooner, stayed aboard with four crew members after the British cruiser Australia took off nine of the crew last Monday.

The Seth Parker had sent out distress calls and later an SOS call after being buffeted by a storm 800 miles east of Samoa. No messages were received after the one reporting the arrival of the tug.

PORK OUTPUT OFF 43 PER CENT

Drop From January, 1934; Lowest Production in 24 Years.

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—A 24-year low record for January pork production was establihed last month, according to an analysis made today by the Institute of American Mat Packers. The number of hogs precessed into pork under Federal inspection during the month showed a decline of 43 per cent, compared with January, 1934.

Approximately 3,000,000 hogs were dressed by the meat packing industry during January as compared with over 5,250,000 in January last year. Production showed a decline of more than 25 per cent compared with December, 1934. The small marketing of hogs was due to the decrease of hogs on farms, caused by the Government production control program. The drouth also was a factor.

MUD SLOWS COUNTRY FUNERAL

Casket on Two Wheels Is Drawn by Four Horses; Men Walk.

MOBERLY, Mo., Feb. 16.—Because of road conditions described as the worst in this section of the State in 30 years, a minister and an undertaker were obliged to leave here yesterday noon to reach Phelps Chapel, in Randolph County, in time to conduct a funeral this afternoon.

The Rev. Roy Heifner and O. E. Snow loaded the casket on a two-wheeled vehicle drawn by four horses and set out for a nine-mile trek from the nearest point on the main highway to the chapel, the men walking. The soft roads have forced practically all rural mail carriers to walk their routes daily. Some have engaged helpers or are relaying the mail from farmer to farmer.

DR. TOWNSEND GETS HIS $200 A MONTH

Pension Advocate Tells Senators How Plan's Promotion Is Financed.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16. — Dr. F. A. Townsend of California tried for two hours today to convince the Senate Finance Committee that there was merit in his proposal to pay a Federal pension of $200 a month to every person more than 60 years of age. Some of the questions the Senators asked him were serious, others were obviously designed to ridicule his plan. Senators and spectators showed by frequent laughter they enjoyed the proceedings, but Townsend never once smiled.

At the conclusion, Chairman Harrison announced the committee would conclude its hearings on the administration's social security program next Wednesday and would try to frame a bill fair to all, but he told the Californian it would not include old age pensions of $200 a month.

For a time the hearing was turned away from the merits of the plan and converted into an investigation of the organization built up to support it. Townsend testified the organization had collected about $50,000 and spent about $45,000 and that he received $50 a week.

Senatars asserted the Townsend pension plan would cost $24,000,000,000 a year and that the proposed 2 per cent "transactions tax" probably would leave a deficit of $19,000,000,000 a year. Townsend replied that the plan would double or quadruple business and bring an era of plenty in which the cost would be a mere trifle.

He argued that 4,500,000 of the 10,000,000 people more than 60 years old would have to give up jobs which would be available for the unemployed, that spending of the pensions would bring a wave of prosperity, and that this would give the theory of mass production a chance to operate, thus keeping down prices.

Townsend argued that spending of the $200 pensions for commodities or services would revive business.

"Would shooting craps with half a dozen other fellows be services?" asked Harrison. "Oh, no," Townsend replied.

"But buying the dice would be a commodity," Senator Barkley (Dem.), Kentucky, interjected. "What would these people buy with $200 a month?"

"Why, bless your soul," Townsend replied. "I should think anyone who had ever had that salary would know. They would buy a car, rebuild their home, refurnish it, travel, buy books, get things for their children."

$3000 Fur Coat Stolen.

Theft of a mink coat valued at $3000, and of other clothing valued at $1000 was reported to police Friday by Mrs. Annabelle De Wandel, 401 South Second street. The garments were recovered later in a garage where they had been hidden. Two men were held for questioning.

KSD's New Studios, Now Operating With High Fidelity Mechanism, Among Most Attractive in Country

Designed to Insure Realism of Reception on Radio Sets in Homes — Two Stories High, With Their Floors and Ceilings Suspended by Springs.

Walls Sound-Proofed—Finest of Control Room Apparatus Enables Engineers to Maintain Quality of Transmission Continually at Peak Level.

Process of Broadcasting, From Microphone to Listener's Ear, Described — How Station Is Held on Channel Assigned by Federal Commission.

Reflector Aerial Erected on Roof of Building Near the Post-Dispatch to Prevent Radiations From Interfering With Those of Stations to the East.

KSD Preparing to Install Transmitter To Increase Its Power to 5000 Watts

KSD is now broadcasting with 1000 watts power in the daytime and 500 at night, and is preparing to increase its night-time power to 1000 watts as soon as certain preliminary tests have been completed.

A 5000-watt transmitter has been ordered, and as soon as it has been installed—sometime in the spring—KSD will use 1000 watts at night and 5000 watts in the daytime. The new transmitter's effectiveness will be many times that of one of similar power operating on a higher frequency. This is due to the fact that broadcasting transmitters are more efficient on the lower frequencies around KSD's 550 kc. than on the higher ones between 1000 and 1500 kc.

The new transmitter will have push pull output, using two 10,000-watt tubes, and will be capable of a peak power of fully 20,000 watts. Its mechanism will match the high fidelity equipment in the KSD studios and control rooms.

By J. L. S.

KSD's new studios, which have been under construction for several months on the Olive street side of the ground floor of the Post-Dispatch building, are now being used for broadcasting. Architecturally, and in decorative effect, there are no more attractive studios in the country. Not even those in the New York and Chicago headquarters of the national networks are better suited acoustically for quality broadcasting. Their perfection of equipment and mechanism insures KSD transmission of programs with a fidelity to test the reproduction of any radio set likely to be available for some years. They have been designed specifically for use with the 5000-watt transmitter that has been ordered for KSD to be erected and in service some time this spring.

Entrance to the new studios is from the lobby on the ground floor of the Post-Dispatch Building through a hall decorated in ice blue with wall border in tan figures, ceiling in "off white" and furniture in dark blue. A room for artists and entertainers is decorated in the same color scheme.

The two main studios—"A" and "B"—are entered through a "sound lock," which is a small room with heavily insulated walls and soundproof doors. One may enter it from the artists' room or a control room, close the door, then open a door into either of the studios and be sure that no noise from outside will enter with one to mar the effect of a program that is being broadcast from the studio.

Studios Two Stories High.

Studio "A" is two stories high, 32 feet long and 18 feet wide. Its walls are decorated in light coral and "off white" with silver trim. Its floating floor — suspended on springs and independent of the walls—is in brown with large squares outlined in buff. At the far end is a large recess with draperies of accoustical material that may be expanded to dampen strident tones or contracted to brighten tonal effects. Wall and ceiling lights are in the modern classic style, and there are ceiling corner spot lights so the floor may be illuminated to any desired degree of brilliancy. The walls—of accoustical material backed by blanketing of rock wool and an air space—are designed to be impervious to outside noises. The ceiling, which is done in off white, is suspended by springs in the same manner as is the floor, the purpose being to bar vibrations from the street and other parts of the building.

Studio "B"—also two stories high —is 23 feet long and 15 feet wide. Its walls are decorated in buff yellow with light cobalt blue trim, while the floor is in gray with trim of blue and terra cotta. Wall and ceiling lights are in the modified Regency style. The floor and ceiling are suspended by springs, and the walls, floor and ceiling have the same accoustical treatment as Studio "A."

Air-Conditioning System.

On the mezzanine floor, are an observation room with windows looking down into both studios and fitted with loud speakers, and offices for the program directors and his assistants. The walls of the observation room are in pale, grayish green and the ceiling in cloudy terra cotta. The floor is covered with a heavy rust-colored carpet, and the chairs and settees are in the modern classical style with rust-colored upholstery.

Both of the new studios and the control rooms, offices and reception room connected with them are air-conditioned. Thermostatic control in each room and studio makes it possible to maintain the temperature within one or two degrees. All air entering the studios and other rooms is filtered. The system supplies heat as well as ventilation in winter and properly cooled air in the warm months.

The studio hitherto used for KSD's local broadcasting is now known as "C." It is reserved for auditions, rehearsals and special auditions. The offices connected with it are used by KSD's sales force.

The Process of Broadcasting.

The quality of a station's broadcasting depends largely upon the efficiency of the control rooms, in which is centered the amplifying and volume controlling mechanism between the microphones and the transmitter. KSD has three of these rooms — the master room, measuring 12 by 16 feet, another 12½ by 6½ feet and a third, which is connected with Studio "C," about 6 by 12 feet. From the master control room a large circular window, fitted with sound-proof glass, looks into Studio "A." The second control room has a window into Studio "B." The third is similarly connected with Studio "C." Thus the operator in any of the control rooms may keep close watch on the entertainers during a studio broadcast, signal them whenever they are not achieving the most desirable effects, and be ready at any instant to anticipate a surge of voice or music that may require use of the volume controls to prevent overloading of the transmitter and consequent marred reception in the homes of listeners.

The instant a singer's voice, for example, actuates the delicate mechanism of a microphone, it causes the production of infinitesimal audio frequency electrical currents. From the microphone, these currents pass along a circuit of wires to a two-tube resistance-coupled amplifier, which increases their intensity and passes them to a mixer panel in the control room by which an operator can maintain their volume, or intensity, within certain limits. If two or more microphones are being used, he can balance the intensity of the currents produced by them and thereby proportion their output for "mixing" to produce the best possible blended effect.

How Amplifiers Are Used.

From the mixer panel, the currents pass through a master volume, or gain, control with which the engineer again can maintain their intensity within definite limits to prevent "blasting" in the transmitter and in radio sets. From this control, the currents pass through a two-stage program amplifier, which again steps them up and then passes them over wires to a gain control in the transmitter room on the roof of the Post-Dispatch building, and also to a monitoring amplifier which feeds into speakers in the program director's office, in the transmitter room, in the studio observation room and in other parts of the building.

Another amplifier in the transmitter room steps up the output from this gain control, and sends it to a 50-watt amplifier. From this, the currents—still audio frequency —go to a 250-watt stage which "modulates" the second radio frequency stage of the transmitter. In this modulation stage, radio frequency currents of a 550-kilocycle frequency, which have been created in the first radio frequency stage of the transmitter, have imposed upon them the amplified audio currents from the studio microphones. The output of this second radio frequency stage is radio frequency current that varies in its intensity according to the pulsations of the audio currents from the studio.

These modulated currents then go through a 750-watt stage and on to the final transmitter power stage, which now develops 1000 watts power, but will have a peak power of 20,000 watts in the new transmitter that is to be installed. From the power stage, the currents go over a wire to the center of KSD's "T" type transmitting aerial, which consists of six 105-foot wires, each of seven strands of phosphor bronze supported by two towers, whose tips are 246 feet above the street level.

How KSD Is Kept on Frequency.

This aerial radiates the modulated radio frequency currents into the air so that they may be picked up by the aerial at the home of a listener and be amplified as they pass through the tubes of his radio set. When the currents reach the detector tube of the radio set, they are changed from radio frequency to audio frequency, and then are amplified in the audio amplifier of the set to an intensity sufficient to actuate the loud speaker, which radiates sound waves to be picked up by the ear.

An essential part of KSD's transmitter is the oscillator stage. This governs what is called the frequency of KSD's broadcasting, holding it within five cycles' variation from the station's assigned frequency of 550 kilocycles (550,000 cycles). As KSD is permitted a variation of 50 cycles, the precision of its broadcasting may be realized.

When it is said that KSD broadcasts on a frequency of 550 kilocycles, which is equivalent to 550,000 cycles, it means that the waves sent out or caused by the station's transmitter vibrate at the rate of 550,000 cycles a second. If its waves should vibrate at the rate of 555,000 cycles a second, the station would be 5000 cycles off the frequency assigned to it by the Federal Communications Commission, and would cause some interference with stations on 540 kc (540,000 cycles) and 560 kc (560,000 cycles).

The oscillator governs the station's frequency by means of a quartz crystal, ground to a frequency of 550 kc. and maintained, together with its accompanying coils and condensers, at a constant temperature of 125 degrees in a tiny electric oven. Accuracy of such a crystal depends largely upon its temperature. The oscillator plays its part by affecting radio frequency currents created in the first stage of the transmitter, which sends them, so governed, to the second radio frequency stage in which they are modulated by the audio currents from the studio, as already described.

Reflector Aerial for KSD.

To prevent undue interference by its broadcasting with stations to the East on KSD's frequency, an auxiliary "reflector" aerial has been erected on the roof of the Louderman Building, at Locust and Eleventh street, about 400 feet from the Post-Dispatch Building. This aerial consists of a single metal mast, 150 feet high, supported by insulated guy wires and resting on a porcelain insulating base.

The reflector aerial is designed to cut in automatically at sunset in St. Louis. It cuts out automatically at 1 o'clock in the morning, when KSD goes off the air, as it is not needed in the daytime.

Its efficiency is being tested in special broadcasts from 1 to 6 a. m.

Granted studio and transmission mechanism working perfectly, the quality of a station's broadcasting is determined largely by the engineer in the studio control room, who sits at the controls, watching the artists or entertainers in the studio and the indicators, twisting dials, ever alert, lest something go wrong with a program or the volume of the currents from the microphones and amplifiers surge above, or drop beneath, the levels requisite for smooth, high-fidelity reception in the home.

In the Control Room.

A trained radio engineer, he sees first that the studio in which the program is being staged is plugged into the central control room. He sees that all microphones are connected. One of his duties is to see that the proper volume of sound is maintained throughout the program, to guard lest the volume grow too great and ruin expensive tubes.

For each microphone, the engineer has a control knob. A singer croons into one microphone, the orchestra music is picked up by another, the announcer uses still another, and still others may be used by sound effect technicians or instrumental soloists.

Ever on the Alert.

The engineer must fade in the orchestra at the exactly correct moment, tune down a vocalist as the announcer fades in with his commercial, keep the entire ensemble in balance, listening always lest the brasses drown out the fiddles or the singer be swallowed up by the whole.

A musician may sneeze, but rarely does he sneeze quickly enough to catch the engineer napping. Even as the sound is formed a deft twirl of a knob has silenced the microphone nearest the sneezer. Coughs, the sounds of musicians tripping over music racks, other accidents which would mar a program are caught in time by the engineer and excluded from the air.

The engineer is one of the few persons who see a program as well as hear it. He sees it through a double or triple glass window which separates his booth from the studio. But though the musicians or actors are only a few feet from him, he hears the sound they make through a speaker, just as it sounds in a million homes, through the ether.

As a studio broadcast is about to begin the engineer twirls his knobs and the production man watches his script, signals the cast, consults his stopwatch.

Constant Tension.

The actors, singers or musicians stand or sit near their microphones, waiting for their signals. In the corner stands the announcer, awaiting his cue.

Everyone waits tensely. The announcer listens, then calls: "30 seconds"; later, "20," then "10," "five," and finally the signal comes. He brings down his arm, the orchestra swings into the theme song and the program is on the air.

The engineer watches his indicator. The production man watches his script and consults the clock. In long rehearsals he has timed the program to end within a few seconds of the allotted period. Variations of a few seconds can be compensated by lengthening or shortening the concluding theme song. Pencil notations on the script indicate at what second each page should be completed. If the tempo of the program lags, he signals for greater speed. If the actors run ahead of time, he slows them down. Radio programs must begin and end on the split second.

The Program Under Way.

The theme song has ended and now the announcer, reading from his script, makes his introductory statement and the program proper begins, all at a signal from the production man. If there is a studio audience, the spectators soon find that theirs is a real show. The actors, if the program be drama, act their roles with gesture and grimace, as if their invisible radio audience could see them.

If the cast be large, several microphones probably are in use. One for the announcer, one or two for the orchestra, one or two for the actors, perhaps one for a singer and one for the sound effects.

Finally the program comes to an end, the closing theme song is shortened or lengthened at a signal from the production man, depending upon the amount of time remaining, the final announcement is made and the studio is switched off the air.

For every program there is a studio engineer to see that nothing goes wrong.

KSD to Have Super Power.

As has been told, KSD has purchased a transmitter, which should be in service this year. This transmitter will be equipped with a final push pull stage of two 10,000-watt tubes, which will give it a rating far in excess of the power that will be used. Microphones, amplifiers and control room mechanism have been designed to pass a tonal range of 30 to 10,000 cycles, so as to cover the deepest tones likely to be broadcast for some years as well as the harmonics and overtones that give realism in reception of musical broadcasts. With tones of such a wide range fed into it, the new transmitter should broadcast with high fidelity and should put on the air a range of 30 to about 8000 cycles when transmitting programs from KSD's own studios.

The expectation that KSD will virtually become a super power station in the spring is based upon the fact, well known to radio engineers, that transmitters have a high relative efficiency on frequencies around KSD's 550 kilocycles as compared with their efficiency under the same conditions on higher frequencies from around 1000 to 1500 kilocycles.

KSD Frequency Highly Efficient.

In an address delivered before the American Association of Advertising Agencies on May 23, last, a well-known radio engineer gave some results of a study of what would be the effect of shifting WMT, at Waterloo, Ia., from 600 to 1500 kilocycles with its 500 watts power and all other factors the same.

Comparing the station power that would be required by WMT to get as good results with 500 watts on other wave lengths as on 600 kilocycles, he said that on 900 kc. 4000 watts would be necessary, on 1200 kc. 18,000 watts, and on 1500 kc. 50,000 watts. WMT, he declared, could give its listeners as good results using 500 watts on 600 kc. as it could with 100 times that power on 1500 kc. KSD's new transmitter, when in operation, will have twice WMT's 500 watts power at night and 10 times its power in the daytime, and will be using a frequency even better for broadcasting than that of the Iowa station.

Since its advent on the air in 1922, when it made broadcasting history by carrying a series of Municipal Opera performances, KSD has pioneered again and again. Away back in 1923, it broadcast concerts by the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra and carried President Harding's speech on the World Court which he delivered here. In 1925, it broadcast regularly several of the important sponsored and non-commercial programs created by WEAF, New York, now key station of the WEAF network, and again played a major role in the development of radio.

KSD has long been recognized as one of the great regional stations of the United States. Its substantial status, and the value of its broadcasting to this part of the Middle West, always realized by listeners, have won the increase of power to 5000 watts in the day time and 1000 watts at night that should mean so much for better program service.

Italy Sending Programs to U. S.

OUTSTANDING Italian singers, orchestras, bands, choruses and opera groups will take part in the new series of programs sponsored by the Italian Government that will be sent by short wave for rebroadcasting in this country by the WJZ chain. The first of these programs was planned for 5 o'clok yesterday afternoon. Two such programs from Rome are planned each month until summer.

Duchy of Luxemburg Broadcast Today.

THE first broadcast from the tiny Duchy of Luxemburg, situated between France, Germany and Belgium, is set for 11:45 this morning on the CBS net. Luxemburg has an area of only 998 square miles and a population of 263,800. The program today will include an address by Joseph Bech, prime minister of Luxemburg, and native music.

DR. JOHN R. BRINKLEY, whose station in Kansas was ruled off the air and later bought by Kansas interests, after which he operated the powerful XER in Mexico until the Mexican Government closed it down, has bought XEAW at Reynosa, Mexico, just across the border from McAllen, Tex. He is planning a new and more powerful transmitter and a private hospital at McAllen. XER was recently authorized by the Mexican Government to reopen under control of a Mexican corporation.

Blossom Seeley and Benny Fields are billed for Ted Hammerstein's program at 1:30 today on KMOX.

Ray Noble, who will open a series on KSD Wednesday night, also will take over the Radio City Matinee on KWK at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoons, with Al Bowlly, the British singer; Gabrielle de Lys and his own orchestra.

Betty Marlowe, her Californians orchestra and Arthur Beddoes, a tenor, formerly starred with Vincent Lopez's orchestra, will start a series on the WEAF chain at 3:45 Tuesdays and Fridays. (Probably on KSD).

Ceremonies at the opening of the highway to the summit of the volcano Haleakala on the Island of Mauai will be broadcast from the Hawaiian Islands at 6:15 Saturday evening on KWK.

Fray and Braggiotti, the two-piano team, will play on KMOX at 9:45 tonight.

Emery Deutsch and his violin are on KMOX at 9:30 Tuesday nights.

Among musical programs broadcast by WLW (700) are: Concert at 7 o'clock Sunday nights; Unbroken Melodies, by orchestra and chorus, at 8:45 Sunday nights; Unbroken Melodies, at 6:45 Tuesday evenings; Flying Dutchman symphonic jazz, at 7:30 Tuesdays; string and woodwind orchestra and Norsemen Quartet at 10:05 p. m. Wednesdays; Unbroken Melodies, at 6:45 Thursdays; concert orchestra and soloist, at 10:05 p. m. Thursdays; Norsemen Quartet, at 5:15 Friday evenings.

Here and There on the Air

Vivienne Segal Starred With Frank Munn on KSD Tonight—Melchior and Rose Bampton in "Samson and Delilah" at 7 O'Clock Tonight—Ray Noble and Al Bowlly in New KSD Series Wednesday Evening.

By J. L. S.

LAURITZ MELCHIOR, leading tenor of the Metropolitan Opera, and Rose Bampton, the "Met" singer heard regularly on KSD Saturday nights, will sing the title roles in a performance in English of Saint-Saens' "Samson and Delilah," from 7 to 8 o'clock tonight on KSD.

Ray Noble has engaged Al Bowlly, the British singer, for his series over KSD and the WEAF net scheduled at 9:30 Wednesday nights starting this week. Noble, composer of "Goodnight, Sweetheart" and other songs, has been in Hollywood for some time. Bowlly, born in Portuguese East Africa, became a barber in Johannesburg, then a singer and traveled with orchestras all over Africa, India, Australia, China and Japan. In Singapore he became so popular, that his fame reached London where an orchestra leader made him an offer that brought him to England. He has been featured with Lew Stone's Monseigneur orchestra for several years.

Among new KSD programs are the Clem and Martha sketches, at 8:45 week day mornings.

Bertrand Hirsch, violinist and conductor, today assumes charge of Mary Small's programs on KSD at 12:30 noon Sundays. Mary will continue to be starred, supported by a large orchestra and the Choristers, a group of five singers with reputations for solo as well as choral work.

Mario Cozzi, the baritone heard so often on KSD, was secretary to Gatti-Casazza, the Metropolitan Opera impresario."

KSD Program Change.

A MUSICAL revue series, continuing to feature Frank Munn, the tenor, will replace the American Album of Familiar Music on KSD at 8:30 tonight. Vivienne Segal will be the woman soloist. Gus Haenschen's concert orchestra will furnish the music, with violin solos by Bertrand Hirsch and piano duets and guitar specialty playing. Miss Segal played in New York in "Blue Paradise," and later was starred in "The Desert Song," "Three Musketeers," the "Ziegfeld Follies" and other Broadway shows. She also has appeared in the movies, "Song of the West," "Golden Dawn" and "Viennese Nights," and has won quite a success in radio. Bernice Claire will take her place on the CBS chain program with Frank Munn that KMOX broadcasts at 8 o'clock Friday night.

A contract extending the grand opera in English series on KSD Sunday nights for 13 weeks after the last Sunday of this month has just been signed.

Inspired Singing.

THE most thrilling reaction to a radio concert that this writer recalls was his when Feodor Chaliapin sang with orchestra last Sunday night. He never listened to such fervid applause as came from the studio audience when the great Russian finished singing. If the art of a singer may be measured in dollars—Metropolitan Opera stars draw $1000 to $4000 a radio performance—then Chaliapin's Sunday night effort was beyond price. . . NBC program makers are definitely preparing for a world-wide broadcast of a concert late next fall by Ignace Paderewski, the pianist, expecting him to play for radio, as promised, when he comes for his annual tour of this country. What an audience will be awaiting that concert! . . . And Kreisler and Rachmaninoff! Both expected to play over the networks before the end of next winter.

Two Operas Saturday.

FIRST performance in this country of the 200-year-old opera, "La Serva Padrona," by Pergolesi, will be heard by KSD's listeners next Saturday afternoon when it will be performed as part of a double bill that will include Donizetti's Don Pasquale." In the cast for "La Serva Padrona" will be Edith Fleischer as "Serpina"; Louis D'Angelo, baritone, as "Uberto," and Angelo Bada, tenor, as "Vespone." The opera is concerned with a clever maid servant who makes herself mistress of the house. Lucrezia Bori will sing the role of "Norina" in "Don Pasquale"; Tito Schipa, "Ernesto"; Giuseppppe de Luca, "Malatesta"; and Ezio Pinza, "Don Pasquale." Geraldine Farrar again will comment in the intermissions.

Francia White, who sings on Otto Harbach's musical comedy programs and Frank Parker, the tenor, will sing the leading roles with John Barclay in "The Great Waltz" which is billed for KSD's Light Opera Hour Tuesday night. "The Great Waltz" tells the story of Johann Strauss Jr., and some of his most famous waltzes are woven into the score, among them "The Beautiful Blue Danube," "Tales from the Vienna Woods," "Wine, Women and Song" and "Artist's Life."

George Raft will be Ben Bernie's featured "guest" Tuesday night on KSD.

Elizabeth Rethberg, of the Metropolitan Opera, will be the soloist with Victor Kolar's symphony orchestra at 8 o'clock next Sunday night on KMOX. . . . Jascha Heifetz, the violinist, will play the Brahms Concerto with Toscanini directing, in the New York Philharmonic concert at 2 o'clock next Sunday on KMOX.

Network News, Studio Gossip.

WALLACE BEERY is billed in Don Marquis "'The Old Soak," for the Radio Theater at 1:30 today on KWK. Minnie Dupree and Ysabel Goss also will be in the cast.

After tonight's Club Romance broadcast on KMOX, plot and story will be dropped and the program will carry only Conrad Thibault and Lois Bennett's voices and the music of Don Voorhees' orchestra.

"Virginia Lee and Sunbeam" will be the title of a new series on the WJZ net at 12:30 noon Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. (WLW.)

Los Trovadores, a program devoted to Spanish-American music, featuring the Yucatan Trio of Mexican entertainers and Octavio Bermudez, master of ceremonies, is scheduled at 10:30 Tuesday and Thursday nights on WLW. Only Spanish is spoken in these broadcasts.

Elbert Hubbard's famous story, "A Message to Garcia," will be dramatized on WLW at 10 o'clock the night of Washington's Birthday, Feb. 22.

WLW's Moon River program is still being broadcast regularly—at 12:30 midnight Sunday and the first four week days, at 1 a. m. Fridays and Saturdays.

A "Circus Night" series will start on the WJZ net and KWK March 8. It will get the 9 to 9:45 period Friday nights. Thus far Ted Lewis; Phil Duey, the baritone; Lucille Manners, soprano, and "Doc" Rockwell, the comedian, have been engaged. This is said to be the radio show for which negotiations with Jack Dempsey were started.

"Phil Cook's Note Book" will be a daily except Saturday and Sunday WEAF chain feature at 7 o'clock mornings, starting tomorrow. Phil Cook, as usual, will play all of the roles.

Ricardo Cortez, the film star, has been made narrator of Guy Lombardo's program at 9 o'clock Wednesday nights on KSD and the WEAF chain.

Singing Lady on KWK.

IRENE WICKER'S "The Singing Lady" programs for children, a limited network feature for several years, will start on KWK at 5:30 tomorrow evening. The Singing Lady won first place among programs for youngsters, in the recent poll of the radio editors of leading newspapers as it did in the poll the previous year. Irene Wicker also plays opposite her husband, Walter Wicker, in two network shows, "Song of the City" and "Today's Children." Her Singing Lady will be on KWK daily except Saturday and Sunday.

"Variety" lists salaries paid to Metropolitan Opera singers for single radio performances as follows: Lawrence Tibbett and Lily Pons, $4000; Rosa Ponselle, Feodor Chaliapin and Grace Moore, $3500; Lucrezia Bori and Geraldine Farrar, $3000; Lotte Lehmann, $2500; Richard Crooks, $2000; Gladys Swarthout, Nino Martini and Richard Bonelli, $1500; Schumann Heink, Queena Mario and Helen Jepson, $1000; Rose Bampton and Carmella Ponselle, $750. John McCormack, the tenor, is said to get $1500 a broadcast. It is probable that Giovanni Martinelli receives as much as Tibbett and Pons. John Charles Thomas' broadcasting pay is not listed, but he presumably can get at least $1500 a performance.

WGN (720) broadcasts special dance music concerts at 3:30 and 7:30 Sundays and 9:30 Wednesday nights.

A special Mardi Gras variety broadcast on WGN at 9:10 tomorrow night will bring Lawrence Salerno, the station's exceptionally good baritone; the Doring Sisters, the Four Knaves, Dorothy Miller and the WGN dance orchestra.

Minneapolis Symphony Concert Series on Net.

WEEKLY concerts by the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, Eugene Ormandy conducting, are scheduled at 9 o'clock Saturday nights on the CBS chain, starting this week. Classical music of the lighter type will be played. A feature will be the reading of selections from her poems by Anne Campbell, a writer of verses on everyday life and living. (On KMOX.)

Exchange of 'Scenes' Between U. S. and Britain.

BASED on the idea back of the CBS chain Christmas Eve broadcast, in which various activities in cities of this country were picked up, an "exchange of scenes" between the United States and England is planned. One week 30 minutes of network time will be devoted to an American "scene." The next week a British "scene" will be broadcast. Both programs will go out on short waves for rebroadcasting.

Broadcast Friday From German City.

A WJZ net broadcast from Halle, Germany, at 1 o'clock Friday, will bring music by the municipal orchestra, the city teachers' choir and the chorus of the Robert-Franz-Singakademie. The concert will be one of several programs in which the people of the Saxony city will celebrate the 250th anniversary of the birth of Handel, the composer. (On KWK).

Starred in Broadcasts by KSD

RAY NOBLE (at left), the British song writer and conductor, and AL BOWLLY, the British singer. They will be starred in a series on KSD Wednesday nights, beginning this week.

Radio Programs Scheduled Today

St. Louis stations broadcast on the following channels: KSD, 500 kc.; KMOX, 1090 kc.; KWK, 1350 kc.; WIL, 1200 kc.; WEW, 760 kc.; KFUO, 550 kc.

7:30 KWK—William Meeder, organist.

8:00 KWK—Children's hour, Milton Cross conducting. WEAF—The Balladeers, male chorus. KMOX—Bible broadcaster. WIL—Kay Reed, organist.

8:30 KFUO—Service, "No Justification by Works," Rev. A. Doerfler; hymns. WIL—Church services. WEAF Chain—Peerless trio.

8:45 KMOX—Religious education. WEAF Chain—Alden Edkins, baritone.

9:00 KWK—Southernaires. WGN (720)—Concert. WLW (700) — String quartet. WEAF Chain—Radio Pulpit, "Man's Chief Need," Dr. S. Parkes Cadman. KMOX—Children's program. WIL—Musicale. CBS chain — Church of the Air, Bishop F. J. McConnell, Methodist service.

9:15 WIL—Morton Bellin, tenor.

9:30 KMOX—News. Salvation Army Brass ensemble. WEW—High mass. KFUO—Organ recital, Martin Burmeister. KWK—Music and American Youth program. WIL—Bach Cantata.

9:45 WBBM (770)—Alex Semmler, pianist. WEAF Chain—Mexican Typica orchestra. Hector de Lara, baritone. WIL—Jane Reddington, graphologist.

10:00 CBS Chain — Juvenile Variety program. KMOX—"Reflections" Quartet. KWK — Press radio bulletins. Walberg Brown. KFUO—Bible study, "The One Thing Needful." Rev. Alfred Doerffler. WLW (700)—Cadle Tabernacle Choir. WEAF Chain—Press news, Rudolph Bocho, violinist. WIL—Lonesome Pine Singer.

10:15 WIL—Stapleton and Boroff. WEAF Chain — Jack and Loretta Clemons. WGN (720)—Concert. KWK—Rollins College program.

10:30 KMOX — Fourth Church of Christ Scientist. WMAQ (670), WEAF (610) — Maj. Bowes' Capitol Family. WLW (700)—The Lamp Lighter. KWK—Samovar Serenade. WIL—Dream Ship.

10:45 KFUO—Services, hymns. WIL — Dr. Stephen S. Wise. KWK — Rhythm Echoes. WJZ Chain—"Your English" program.

11:30 KWK — Radio City concert; Henrietta Schumann; Viola Philo, soprano; Glee Club. All-Richard Strauss program: Don Juan, Traum Durch Die Dammerung, Schlechtes Wetter, Burleske, Feldeinsamkeit, Aller Seelen Tag, Till Eulenspiegel. WGN (720)—Symphonic music. WEAF Chain—Round Table discussion on "Can America Remain Neutral in Future Wars?" Speaker, Harry D. Gideonse, associate professor of economics; Frederick L. Schumann, assistant professor of political science, and Clifton Utley, director of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations. KMOX—Tito Guizar, Mid-day Serenade. WIL—Third Baptist Church services.

11:45 WLS (870) — Mystery drama. KMOX—"Curious Questions." CBS Chain—Broadcast from Luxemburg, Germany.

12:00 CBS Chain — Church of the Air, speaker, Rabbi Nathan Stern. WEAF Chain—"Little Known Facts About Well-Known People," Leonard Joy's orchestra. KMOX—June and Jerry. KFUO—Violin music. WBBM (770)—Tom Baker, tenor.

1:00 KSD — IMMORTAL DRAMAS, "The Story of Joseph," from the Old Testament. KWK — Anthony Frome, the Poet Prince; Alwyn Bach, narrator. KMOX—Lazy Dan the Minstrel Man. WIL—Greenwich Sinfonietta. WSM (650) — Aline Fentress, violinist. WGN (720)—String ensemble.

1:15 KWK—Bob Becker's Fireside Chats About Dogs.

1:30 KSD — MARIO CHAMLEE, tenor; Karl Schulte's orchestra. KWK—Play, "The Old Soak," with Wallace Beery. KMOX—Hammerstein's Music Hall of the Air; Blossom Seeley and Benny Fields; Henry Burbig, and Jack Norworth, singer. WMAQ (670)—Gene Arnold's orchestra. WSM (650)—Leon Cole, organist. WGN (720)—Len Salvo, organist.

1:45 WGN (720)—String ensemble.

2:00 KSD—"SALLY OF THE TALKIES," sketch; Joseph Gallichio's orchestra. KMOX — New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra. Arturo Toscanini, conducting. First Brahms program, variations on a Theme of Haydn, opus 56-A; double concerto for violin and 'cello, opus 102 (Mishel Piastro and Alfred Wallenstein); Symphony No. 1 in C minor, opus 68. WGN (720)—Mark Love, basso. WIL—Melodeers.

2:15 WGN (720)—String ensemble. WIL Lawrence Gould, psychologist.

Fine Short Wave Concerts on Stations in Europe

Some Worth While Programs for the Week—EAQ, at Madrid, Carrying Good Music at 6 P. M. on Four Days—Rome and Berlin to Send Out Concerts and Opera.

SOME of the short wave programs on foreign stations worth tuning for this week are listed herewith in St. Louis time:

Monday, Feb. 18.

5:00 to 6:30 p. m.—2RO, 6.09 meg., Rome, "American Hour," symphony concert.
5:00 to 6:15 p. m.—DJC, 6.02 meg., Berlin, military band concert.

Tuesday, Feb. 19.

5:00 to 6:15 p. m.—DJC, 6.02 meg., Berlin, Mozart concert.
6:00 to 6:30 p. m.—EAQ, 9.87 meg., Madrid, concert of International Broadcasting Co. of London.

Wednesday, Feb. 20.

5:00 to 6:30 p. m.—2RO, 6.09 meg., Rome, "American Hour," followed by La Scala Opera.
7:30 to 8:00 p. m.—DJC, 6.02 meg., Berlin, light opera concert.
3:00 to 4:00 p. m.—GSB, 9.51 meg., England, Canadian concert.

Thursday, Feb. 21.

5:00 to 6:00 p. m.—DJC, 6.02 meg., Berlin, Berlin Philharmonic concert.
6:00 to 6:20 p. m.—EAQ, 9.87 meg., Madrid, concert of International Broadcasting Co.

Friday, Feb. 22.

5:00 to 6:30 p. m.—2RO, 6.09 meg., Rome, "American Hour," followed by inaugural program for International Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs. Proceedings in English.
5:00 to 6:00 p. m.—DJC, 6.02 meg., Berlin, Beethoven concert.

Saturday, Feb. 23.

5:00 to 6:00 p. m.—DJC, 6.02 meg., Berlin, Munich Symphony Orchestra.
6:00 to 6:30 p. m.—EAQ, 9.87 meg., Madrid, concert.

EAQ, Spain, 9.87 meg., was received with unusual clarity throughout the United States during the past week, even by novices in short-wave tuning. This transmitter is being used every Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday and Sunday, from 6 to 6:30 p. m., by the International Broadcasting Co. of London for really worthwhile concerts. All announcements are in English. The sign-off for this half hour (it is then after midnight in Spain) is packed with drama. To the strains of a melody written around "Taps," the announcer wishes fair weather for the British ships and subjects on the seven seas and sends greetings to his fellow countrymen throughout "the empire on which the sun never sets."

The big Rome station now uses 2RO for its call letters and is heard on 6.09 meg. Its programs are also heard occasionally on 9.78 megocycles.

Friday, from 5 to 6:30 p. m., 2RO, Rome, 6.09 meg. will broadcast the first of new series for business and professional women's clubs in the United States. The proceedings will be in English.

HJ4ABM, Manaizales, Colombia, is on 6.10 meg from 5 to 6 p. m., YV6RC, Venezuela, 6.03 meg, between 5 and 7 p. m., and HJ2ABC, Cucuta, Colombia, on 5.89 meg.

Sometimes there is drama and comedy on the short wave bands. Inebriated men phone to sweethearts from ships far at sea, seemingly unaware that the world may be listening. Several hundred listeners last Sunday heard a Michigan wife open the door of her husband's radio sanctuary and voice her unqualified opinion of a man who let his breakfast cool while he played with radio gadgets.

FINANCIAL MARKETS IN QUIET MOOD LAST WEEK

Traders and Speculators Wait on Supreme Court's Gold Clause Decision — Investors Buy Better Grade Bonds.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Financial markets during the past week were as featureless as a stretch of lonesome prairie. Traders and speculators were quiet, waiting for the Supreme Court's gold decision, but investors had more courage and steadily accumulated better grade bonds at mildly rising prices.

The usual leaders in the share market were almost static, following the pattern of recent weeks.

Commodities dipped early in the week in disappointment over a further postponing of the gold pronouncement, but later in the week found more takers. The net change in wheat, corn and cotton was negligible.

Foreign gold currencies had a sharp rally in mid-week in response to a statement by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau that the resources of the $2,000,000,00 stabilization fund would be employed to whatever extent necessary to manage the external value of the dollar, which ever way the gold decision might run. The French franc climbed above the level at which it is theoretically profitable to ship gold to this country for the first time in about a month.

Trade News Mixed.

Trade news was mixed. Steel operations dipped 2 full points to 50.8 per cent of capacity, the first sizeable recession in activity for the industry since the current rise got under way at the end of September. Power production, however, was moderately better than seasonal and safely above last year at the same time.

Eastman Kodak raised its annual dividend to a $5 annual basis from $4 previously paid, and Neisner Bros. initiated payments on its common stock. Union Pacific and a number of other leading corporations made regular quarterly disbursements.

Developments in the credit picture were generally unimportant, as indicated by the weekly Reserve Bank reports.

Promulgation of changes in the registration requirements of the securities and exchange commission was favorably received in Wall street quarters, where the moderate relaxation of some of the more burdensome provisions was regarded as a step in the right direction.

The Associated Press average for 10 low-yield issues made successive 1935 highs during the week.

Industrials gave the best performance in the equity list, while utilities and rails lagged. At no time was the recession sharp.

Week-End Trade Quiet.

Securities markets failed to follow through the forward movement in evidence Friday and ended the week by churning around without getting anywhere at final session.

Market factors were absent and Wall street decided to sit back and wait for more definite hints of trend. Stocks which used to set the pace failed to step out in front. On the other hand, a somewhat faster rate of hourly turnover was attributable to the continued quest for specialties and to activity in some preferred shares.

On balance the share market was a trifle lower for the day, closing at 38.8 in terms of the Associated Press average of 60 selected stocks, off 0.1 from the previous final. Sales for the two-hour session were 353,410 shares.

Firmness in sugar stocks reflected somewhat higher prices for the raw product. Issues in this class gained 1 to 2 points were American Sugar Refining, South Porto Rico and Cuban-American Sugar preferred.

Heavy selling came into National Department Stores preferred and hacked off 5⅜ points following the announcement that a plan for reorganization had been submitted to the Federal Court in New Jersey.

Specialties Advance.

While most equities failed to budge off dead center, there was a small handful of preferred shares which moved ahead 1 to 2 points. Among them were Bethlehem Steel, Jones & Laughlin, and Radio "A," which had the impetus of yesterday's dividend declaration.

Pressure continued to weigh down the utility stocks. Consolidated Gas slumped a shade under its previous low-water mark.

The bond market, after its climb earlier in the week to record high peaks in some categories, showed signs of weariness. Prices drifted somewhat lower under selling which was most notable in the utility section.

Grains sloshed around quietly. Wheat ended the session with net losses of ⅛ to ⅜ of a cent, while corn was unchanged to ⅜ of a cent higher. Cotton closed unchanged to 10 cents a bale lower. The pound sterling was ⅜ of a cent lower at $4.87⅛. French francs braced up .00⅝ of a cent to 6.60⅛ cents.

Day's 15 Most Active Stocks.

Closing price and net change of the 15 most active stocks: Nat Dept Strs 2⅜, down 1⅜; Studebaker ⅜, unchanged; Paramount Pub ctf 3½, down ¼; Servel 8¾, down ⅛; Columbia Gas & El 5¼, unchanged; United Corp pf 24½, down 1; Elec Auto-Lite 26, up ½; United Corp 2, unchanged; South Porto Ric Sug 23¾, up 1; Omnibus 5½, up ⅜; Gt West Sug 29⅞, unchanged; Crosley Radio 15⅛, up ¾; Pierce-Arrow ⅞, unchanged; Consol Film pf 21, down 1; Gen Gas & El A ⅜, down ⅛.

Net Earnings $ 1.01 a Share.

Rhodes-Perry-Martin, Inc., reports net earnings of $1.01 cents a share on the common stock for 1934, compared with a loss of $2.44 a share in 1933. The company makes dry cleaning machinery and synthetic solvents.

COTTON RANGE POSSIBLY NARROWEST ON RECORD

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—With fluctuations held within a range of one to three points, which was possibly the narrowest on record in the local market, cotton merely marked time today. Traders were disposed to await developments and business was attributed chiefly to evening-up. The market closed steady net unchanged to two points lower.

March liquidation was in evidence in preparation for possible notices toward the end of the month, but it was taken by the trade and the scattering demand was attributed to covering.

Reports from Washington regarding the administration attitude toward crop control and proposed survey of marketing possibilities abroad were read with interest but they were without effect on the market.

The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 90,000 bales, against 138,000 last year.

Spot steady; middling 12.65.

New Orleans Spot Cotton.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 16.—Spot cotton closed steady at unchanged quotations. Sales 634; low middling 11.98; middling 12.63; good middling 13.08; receipts 2011; stock 652.583.

Memphis Spot Cotton.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 16.—Spot cotton had a steady tone. Middling closed at 12.30c, compared with 12.35c yesterday. Sales amounted to 7068 bales.

New York Cottonseed Oil.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Bleachable cottonseed oil futures closed steady. February, 11.45b; March, 11.65c; April, 11.65b; May, 11.62b; June, 11.65b; July, 11.70c; August, 11.70b. Sales, 20 contracts.

BUSINESS NOTES

Orders for machine tools showed a slight improvement in the wholesale market this week. For the past three weeks buying has been retarded due largely to the uncertainty regarding the gold ruling.

BOSTON WOOL MARKET.

BOSTON, Feb. 16.—(U. S. Department of Agriculture).—A steady trade in the fine western grown wools in Boston during the past week was accompanied by an increase in sales in medium fleeces. The latter, however, sold at a cent lower than prices asked during the previous week, most sales closing in the past week at 25@25½ cents in the grease. The finer strictly combing fleeces were quoted steady and had some call for small quantities at 28@28½ cents in the grease for 56s, ⅜ blood, at 28@28 cents for 58s, 60s, ½ blood, and at 27@28 cents for 64s and finer fleeces. Bulk average French combing 64s and finer territory wools in original bags were steady at 67@68 cents scoured basis.

LITTLE CHANGE IN WHEAT AND CORN AT CLOSE

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Feb. 16.—Wheat and corn futures were not greatly changed at the close of final session, but prices were down from day's high. The pending gold clause ruling again was cited as checking buying and bringing profit-taking.

Winnipeg started out unchanged and closed ⅛c lower.

Liverpool closed unchanged to ⅛d up after opening unchanged.

CORN REACHES BEST LEVEL SINCE JAN. 21, THEN EASES

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 16. — With available supplies of corn disappearing fast, the corn market today climbed to the topmost point reached since Jan. 21.

Uncertainties, however, about Supreme Court action relative to gold had a restraining influence, and caused prices of all cereals to ease more or less at the last. Selling for holders who could realize a profit was an outstanding late feature.

Corn closed steady at the same as yesterday's finish to ⅜c higher, May 86¼@86¾c, wheat ⅛@⅜c off, May 97¼@97⅜c, oats at ¼c decline to ⅛c advance, and provisions 2c to 7c down.

Prospects indicated that for the first time in more than two years the United States total corn visible next week would be well under 30,000,000 bushels. Furthermore, talk was current that apparently the entire stock of corn in Chicago will be gone within 12 weeks, namely, by May 1. Unsold corn here at present is estimated at only about 6,000,000 bushels, showing extreme paucity in contract with the fact that during 1934 Chicago received 55,500,000 bushels of corn, which added to a carryover from 1933 made an aggregate of 76,578,000 bushels.

Special heed by corn traders was given to statements that high meat prices have a tendency to curtail marketing corn when farm feeding is more profitable. With foremost unofficial authorities expressing belief the domestic commercial supply of corn will be exhausted before the 1935 new crop is available, particular notice was also taken that the corn visible supply in the United States at present is only about half of what it was a year ago. On the other hand, an official estimate of Argentine corn acreage puts the total at 17,372,000, the largest on record, and indicating a crop of 488,000,000 bushels.

Wheat futures made an early response to corn strength and to buying for Eastern and mill account, but dipped later as a result of week-end realizing. Oats chiefly followed corn.

Provisions were influenced by the fact that Chicago stocks of lard and past fortnight decreased much less than expected.

ST. LOUIS CASH GRAIN

In the cash grain market Saturday soft wheat was nominally steady. Trading was quiet, with the only transactions reported consisting of some no-tonnage grain which sold to a mill. This grain was above average quality. Hard wheat was nominally steady. There were no offerings. Inquiry was light. Corn was ½@1c lower. The market was dull. Offerings were light and the demand fair. Glucose makers were the main buyers. Oats were ¼c lower. Trading was active, with shippers, elevators and feeders in the market.

Local wheat receipts, which were 21,000 bushels, compared with 23,000 a week ago and 52,000 a year ago, included four cars local and 10 through. Corn receipts, which were 34,500 bushels, compared with 7500 a week ago and 67,500 a year ago, included 22 cars local and one through. Oats receipts, which were 28,000 bushels, compared with 16,000 a week ago and 18,000 a year ago, included 14 cars local. Hay receipts were seven cars through.

St. Louis Bran Market.

Cash wheat-feed nominal quotations for carlots, prompt shipments, burlap basis (cotton sacks $1 higher), standard bran and pure bran $27.50@27.75, gray shorts $28@28.25; reground oatfeed at $18; L. c. l. $1.50 to $2 per ton higher.

ST. LOUIS COTTON COMPRESS TO VOTE ON RECAPITALIZATION

A special meeting of the stockholders of the St. Louis Cotton Compress Co. has been called for April 22 to vote on a proposition to reduce the capital stock of the company from $750,000 to $150,000. The capital which now consists of 15,000 shares of the par value of $50 a share, will be reduced to 15,000 shares of $10 par at the approval of the stockholders. It is planned to transfer to surplus of any assets which may be in excess of the capital stock after it has been reduced.

WEEK'S METAL REVIEW

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Copper has been in good demand during the week and sales on several days were well in excess of 2000 tons.

Average sales of blue eagle electrolytic up to the middle of February were said to have been at the largest daily rate since midsummer. Demand from automobile manufacturers, copper and brass fabricators, accounted partly for the large purchases. The export price ruled about steady after declines earlier in the week.

Weakness in London commodity markets had its influence on tin abroad and caused domestic replacement prices to ease fractionally below 50 cents for straits tin in New York, or below the low point of 1934. The relatively cheap price, however, failed to attract anything more than light buying here, apparently owing to various uncertainties. While tin plate operations were held at 75 per cent of capacity, tapering off of mill activity was said to be anticipated.

Lead advanced $1 per ton following recent active demand for February and March delivery at the $4 decline which became effective two weeks ago. Buying became spotty at the higher price, but practically all consuming branches had participated in the previous business.

Zinc was unchanged with the market in a quiet condition.

Antimony remained dull and nominally unchanged, although Chinese asking prices were reported to have been raised in Europe.

The three point recession in steel ingot production during the week, which had been generally expected in the trade, was credited partly to technicalities imposed by the steel code requiring completion of first quarter shipments in the specified period. Also, stocks of miscellaneous consumers had been built up. Prices for the second quarter are to be filed shortly but orders cannot be booked until March. Prices remained unchanged during the week.

LIGHT TRADE, MIXED CHANGES IN STOCKS

Several Preferred Shares Score Gains on Less Than Hundred Share Turnovers.

Mixed price changes were shown as result of a rather quiet week of trading on the St. Louis Stock Exchange. International Shoe recovered a small loss to close unchanged.

National Candy was the more active of the gainers. Wagner Electric and Rice-Stix improved.

Preferred shares showed the best upturns.

A small amount of United Railways 4s sold at small advance.

SMALL DECLINES MARK SESSION ON THE CURB

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Small declines predominated at the close of today's short Curb Market session, although a number of prominent issues finished unchanged. Trading was moderately active, transfers approximating 84,000 shares, compared with 93,000 a week ago.

National Sugar Refining, ending up a point, was firm in sympathy with buying of sugar issues on the big board. Standard Oil of Kentucky also gained one, but other petroleum shares ruled narrow.

New York Coffee.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16. — Coffee established further new lows today in Santos contracts under renewed liquidation and Brazilian selling apparently promoted by uncertainty over a possible reduction in the Brazilian export tax on coffee.

Santos opened 7 to 11 lower and closed 15 to 25 lower. Sales, 25,000. No. 7 opened unchanged and closed 13 to 15 lower. Sales, 4000. Closing quotations, Santos: March, 9.11c; May, 8.97c; July, September, 8.76c; December, 8.78c. Rio: March, 5.57c; May, 5.68c; July, September, 5.90c; December, 6c.

Spot coffee quiet. Santos 4s, 10⅜c; Rio 7s, 8¼c. Cost and freight offers included Bourbon 3s and 5s, at 9.25@9.50c.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Important dividend meetings scheduled for next week include E. I. du Pont de Nemours on Monday; National Biscuit, Texas Corporation and Chesapeake & Ohio Railway on Tuesday; American Telephone & Telegraph on Wednesday and International Harvester and National Dairy Products on Thursday.

Gold imports received up to the close of banking hours today totaled $7,293,200 from France. An additional $344,000 from France was reported for Friday. There were no exports and no net change in gold earmark account.

Directors of the Scott Paper Co. have adjourned to Feb. 25 their meeting for dividend action on the common stock.

Pig iron sales were slow in the New York district during the past week, and demand was chiefly for carlots and prompt shipment. Consumers showed no interest in future commitments.

Plumbing supplies orders thus far in the current year, says Dun & Bradstreet, "are averaging 20 to 35 per cent above those for the comparative 1934 period, with the percentage rise even larger in some of the heating supplies and bathroom equipment."

Consumption of sugar in the 14 principal European countries during 1934 totaled 7,467,764 long tons, raw sugar, against 7,194,389 tons consumed during 1933, according to Lamborn & Co. Production for these countries during the season which started Sept. 1, 1934, and which has just come to a close, is placed at 6,405,170 long tons, raw sugar, as contrasted with 5,457,390 tons in the previous season.

Business in wool goods markets was less active during the last week, says the New York Wool Top Exchange Service. The slackening was attributed to outside influences, including the awaited gold clause decision and Washington legislative questions.

National Distillers Products Corporation, it was announced today, has contracted to purchase the business of W. A. Gaines & Co., including its distillery at Frankfort, Ky.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—The week's dividend announcements contained 12 favorable changes against 19 in the previous week, Standard Statistics Co. reported today. There were five unfavorable changes against six the week before.

BOND TRADE LIGHT, CHANGES NARROW

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Light trading and small price changes were the rule on the bond market today.

Aside from softness in utility issues and a dragging Government section, a fairly steady tone prevailed in most groups, although the turnover of $5,641,000, par value, was too small to establish a definite trend for the market as a whole.

The controversy over Federal legislation dealing with utilities made its appearance in the day's news again, with strongly worded statements by executives of the American Water Works and United Gas Improvement and contrary to the previous day, when there was an active demand for many light and power bonds at higher prices, transactions in these issues were effected at price concessions ranging from minor fractions to a point.

Among the losers were American Water Works 5s at 78, Consolidated Gas 5½s at 105½, Laclede Gas 5½s at 67 and North American 5s at 85¾.

With the exception of Home Owners Loan 3s, there was very little activity in the Government section, where recessions of 1-32d to 3-32ds were in the majority among Treasury bonds and Liberties. Home Owners Loan 3s held unchanged at 101.6 and the 2¾s lost 4-32ds at 99.4.

In the industrial section of the corporate list, small advances outnumbered the declines in the higher-priced issues. Santa Fe 4s were ½ higher at 104. Bethlehem Steel 5s gained ¼ at 109 and National Dairy 5¼s advanced ¼ at 103. Others improving included obligations of New York Central, Northern Pacific, Pennsylvania and Standard Oil of New York. The Associated Press averages were unchanged at .03 of a point lower.

In the foreign section some improvement occurred in both government and private German obligations and Chilean loans were steady, although there was some irregularity in Argentine loans.

U. S. MEDICAL GROUP AGAINST FORCED HEALTH INSURANCE

Physicians' Governing Body Hits at Phases of Roosevelt's Social Security Program.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—The American Medical Association expressed vigorous opposition today to compulsory sickness insurance plans being studied by the President's committee on economic security. It tempered its stand, however, by approving projects for setting up systems of voluntary illness insurance on a community basis.

It decried what it termed attempts to regiment the profession in proposed legislation and attacked certain sections of the Wagner bill embodying the national administration's social security program.

In a report adopted unanimously by its House of Delegates, the organization pointed out more than 150 plans for medical service were undergoing study and trial in various communities and added: "Your Bureau of Medical Economics is ready and willing to advise medical societies in the creation and operation of such plans. The plans will serve the people of the community in the prevention of disease, maintenance of health and with curative care in illness. They must meet apparent economic factors and safeguard the medical profession. The House of Delegates emphasizes the necessity for separate provision for hospital facilities and physicians' services. Payment for medical service, whether by prepayment plans, installment purchase or voluntary hospital insurance plans, must hold, as absolutely distinct, remuneration for hospital care on one hand and the individual, personal scientific ministrations of the physician on the other.

COMPROMISE ON PARK SALES TAX BILL LOOKED FOR Administration Leaders Plan Same Fight, Successful Last Session, if 1 Pct. Measure Is Discarded.

By CURTIS A. BETTS
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 16.—Administration supporters in the Legislature, believing that the House Ways and Means Committee will discard Gov. Park's 1 per cent sales tax bill and will report favorably much the same bill as came from the committee in the last Legislature, are preparing to again make the same fight which was successful then.

The Governor today expressed the opinion that a majority of the House members were favorable to a tax at least as high as 1 per cent, and that a majority might even be willing to go as high as 2 per cent. Up to this time the Governor has recommended the lower figure, but has said that under certain conditions he would not oppose the higher.

Same Old Bill Looked For.

While there has been no authoritative information from the subcommittee of the House Ways and Means Committee chosen Wednesday to draft a sales tax bill, the administration is said to expect a bill putting the tax as low, possibly, as one-fourth of 1 per cent, and broadening the bases to include every sort of retail sales and every sort of service. That was the bill which came from the committee in the special session of the Legislature a year ago, and which was decisively defeated by the administration on the floor of the House.

A similar bill was passed in the Senate and in a conference committee the one-half of 1 per cent bill was produced as a compromise between the House position for 1 per cent and the Senate position for one-quarter of 1 per cent.

The law now taxes all sales of tangible personal property, admissions to amusements, public utility services, newspaper advertising, laundry cleaning and dyeing service, transportation and outdoor Seeks $6,000,000 for Relief.

The Governor favors re-enactment of the present law with an increase of the rate to 1 per cent, believing it to be the only practical way of providing $6,000,000 a year which the Federal Relief Administration has insisted must be paid from the State Treasury for relief work.

Apparently the fight for a sales tax will be a repetition of the one at the last session. The Governor won then in the House, was defeated in the Senate, and got about half of what he thought was proper in the bill finally passed.

While the administration forces appear confident that they will have the support of the House this yaer, they are not quite as certain of the Senate, though in some quarters there is a belief that the Governor is really stronger in the Senate than he was at the last session. There has not been a test of the Governor's strength there so far, however.

Makeup of Sub-Committee.

The work of the House sub-committee has been delayed by the illness of Representative John D. Taylor of Keytesville, anti-administration leader in the House, and a member of the committee. The chairman of the sub-committee is Leo T. Daniels of Ellington, also strongly anti-administration. The other Democratic members is Dick B. Dale of Richmond, and the fourth member is Fred M. Harrison of Gallatin, a Republican. Taylor's break with the Governor followed the Governor's refusal to appoint him chairman of the Public Service Commission two years ago. Daniels lost the speakership of the present House because of the Governor's opposition.

If the sub-committee decides to report out the one-quarter of 1 per cent bill which came from a similar committee through Taylor's influence a year ago, it will have little work to do, and a report from it to the full committee may be ready by Wednesday.

Taylor works in close co-operation with the Casey-Kinney-Brogan group in the Senate, and if the House overrides the Ways and Means Committee as it did before, it would not be surprising if the Senate group attempted to repeat its performance of the last session and put through a one-quarter or a one-half of one per cent bill, throwing the whole matter into a conference committee.

GERMANY'S DEBTS EXTENDED

Foreign Creditors Agree to Period Ending Feb. 29, 1936.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Feb. 16.—Foreign creditors of Germany agreed today after two weeks of negotiations to extend last year's "stand-still" agreement, covering the Reich's private debts abroad, until Feb. 29, 1936. The agreement reduces by one-half and one-quarter per cent the maximum interest rates.

A statement said Germany's external trade exchange situation has deteriorated in the past year because of greater obstacles to free international trade. To the contrary, considerable improvement was found in Germany's internal conditions with a "marked rise in production and a corresponding unemployment decrease and improved public finances."

Ford Plans Marketing Of Million Cars in 1935

Company to Spend More Than $415,000,000 This Year for Raw Materials, Manufactured Products and Wages.

Production and sale of 1,000,000 cars this year has been set as its objective by the Ford Motor Co., according to a statement by Henry Ford.

"So far as the Ford Motor Company is concerned, the depression is over," Ford said.

"Our experience during the last six months and what we see in the future tell us a year of improved business is ahead."

The Ford Motor Co. plans to spend more than 415,000,000 for raw materials, manufactured products and wages.

The company estimates that the bringing in of raw material will require 164,000 cars, and outbound products 160,000 cars, involving payment of freight bills, largely to the railroads, of $74,000,000.

The largest single item listed in the 1935 Ford production budget is $100,000,000 for bodies. Almost as great is the total to be spent for steel, iron and non-ferrous metal, which runs to $75,000,000. The bulk of this, $53,600,000, will go for steel, purchased in the open market, which will be in addition to steel made in the Ford mills. More than $6,618,000 will be spent for malleable castings and $2,683,000 for gray iron, exclusive of that produced by the greatest foundry in the world at the River Rouge plant.

Requirements of non-ferrous metals are topped by aluminum, of which $6,000,000 is to be purchased. Other such requirements are—copper, $3,600,000; lead, $1,443,000; tin, $1,151,000; zinc, $337,760.

The rubber industry will benefit tremendously from Ford expenditures. A total of $22,500,000 is scheduled to be spent for tires, and $6,000,000 for crude rubber.

Materials required for finish of Ford car bodies will require spending of another $32,000,000. Of this total $16,727,000 will go for upholstery cloth, carpet, leather and other body trimming materials; $11,000,000 for glass, and $4,300,000 for paint and lacquer.

Lumber requirements, including that necessary for boxing, crating and shipping braces will run to $3,000,000.

Of major importance is the large sum to be spent by Ford in extension of the present steel mills and the expansion of the present power plant to supply the added power required by the new strip-mill. This will total $14,000,000. In addition, Ford is spending $2,500,000 for machine tools and fixtures.

Additional sums, including cost of fuel and unproductive labor—such as that required for moving machinery, maintenance — brings the estimated total of 1935 operations to more than $415,000,000.

2985 Fords Delivered In St. Louis Territory In the First 41 Days

Ford dealers in the St. Louis area delivered 2985 cars in the first 41 days of this year, compared with 1934 in the corresponding period in 1934, M. N. Johnson, Ford manager in St. Louis, said yesterday.

In the 41 days they also delivered 165 commercial car units as compared with 61 in the first 41 days of last year, and 355 trucks as compared with 109.

In the first 11 days of this month, Johnson said, the R. L. Polk registration figures showed that in the city of St. Louis alone 234 Ford cars were delivered. This number, Johnson stated, was 54 more than the combined deliveries of any other two cars.

February deliveries will beat those in January, Johnson said. A total of 6000 Ford V-8 cars have been ordered for the St. Louis territory in March, which is more than twice as many as in any month since 1930.

Ford V-8s Win Big Road Races

Take First Three Places in Pikes Peak Climb—Seven Lead Way at Elgin.

In a few hours of road racing a car absorbs more punishment than in years of everyday driving. Engine, chassis and body are so pounded and strained that if a car has the slightest weakness it has little or no chance of finishing.

A Ford V-8, driven by Fred Frame, was first a cross the line in the Elgin road race after touching 100 miles an hour. In this race, Frame's average for the 203 miles of the course was 80.22, lowering the mark previously set by Ralph De Palma when he averaged 79.5 miles per hour in a high powered racing car. Ford V-8's took the first seven places in this event, out of a total of 15 cars entered.

In the 250-mile Gilmore Gold Cup race at Los Angeles, a stock Ford V-8 piloted by Stubby Stubblefield won, averaging 62.367 miles per hour over a tricky two-mile track. After the race, officials declared the run was the toughest test ever given a stock car. In this race the first 10 places were wo nby Ford V-8's.

In the Oakland Speedway race, a 250-mile test, six Ford 7-8's took the first six places, with the winning car averaging 77.68 miles per hour under the skillful driving of Lou Meyer. The first four places in the 150-mile Targey Florio Hill road race were captured by Ford V-8s, with Lou Meyer again bringing home the winner.

One of the Ford V-8 triumphs of the 1934 season was the Pike's Peak climb on Labor day. In this race, Bus Hammond made the 12-mile climb to the summit in 19 minutes 25.7 seconds in a Ford V-8 for a new record. Hammond was trailed closely by Angelo Cimino and Glen Schultz only 15 seconds apart, who finished second and third, respectively, to give the Ford V-8 a clean sweep of the first three places. Hammond's time in winning this race was a half-minute better than the best previous mark, and Cimino and Schultz also bettered the former record.

Larger Tires, Smaller Wheels on New Ford Make Riding Easier

Larger tires—with a wider and flatter tread than any used in the past—and smaller wheels, are among the new features contributing to the smooth riding qualities of the new Ford V-8.

The new tires are 6.00 by 16 inches in size, as compared with 5.50 by 17-inch tires used last year. Built according to special specifications of the Ford Motor Co., the tires have a "square" appearance, with a wide, flat tread which gives greater road contact. This results in a better ride, better non-skid action and longer tire life. The new tires also are much quieter. "Tire noise" has been materially reduced.

The recommended air pressure is 30 pounds. As a convenience when inflating the tires, the valve stems are brought out at an angle through the rim.

Ford Seeks Safeguards For Policies In Future

Stock of Company That Has Built More Than 22,000,000 Cars Is Held by Family — His Son Made President.

Henry Ford was born in Springwells Township, between Dearborn and Detroit, near the site of the present River Rouge plant. As far back as 1890 he was working far into the night on what was then called a horseless carriage. All of the earlier experiments and the ones which followed were conducted in a small one-room brick shop. It was here that Henry Ford spent his spare time working with a definite idea in mind—that of producing an automobile that would really run and serve humanity.

But it was not until 1903 that the famous 999 shot across the motor horizon—10 years after the appearance of his first car.

Years and effort and experimentation led to the production in 1908 of the first model T. This was the first tangible evidence of that ideal for which Henry Ford strove—the building of a car for the multitude, a product so simply constructed and so low in price that it was available for every one. It represented a radical departure from the then accepted idea of the automobile as a luxury. In the first year over 6000 cars were sold.

On June 16, 1903, the Ford Motor Co., a Michigan corporation, was incorporated. The capital orginally subscribed was $100,000 of which only $28,000 in cash was paid into the treasury.

On July 9, 1919, the Ford Motor Co. was organized under the laws of Delaware, with an authorized capitalization of $100,000,000. The volume of business increased steadily. In 1926 the 15,000,000th model T Ford rolled off the assembly line. Then, in 1931, came the 20,000,000th Ford car, setting a record for many years. To date the Ford Motor Co. has produced and sold over 22,000,000 Ford cars, and last year, 1934, the 1,000,000th Ford V-8 was produced.

To Perpetuate Ford Policies.

The effect of the Ford automobile on human society has its counterpart in the effect upon industry of Henry Ford's ideas of social justice and responsibility. First the car was the thing—its perfection, its manufacture at lowest cost, its use by millions, its spread over the inhatited earth. Then came the turn of those who had made that possible. The Ford idea of industrial relations begins here and maintains harmony within the organization.

To make the Ford policies secure for the future, all stock is held by the Ford family and Edsel B. Ford was made president of the Ford Motor Company. The fundamental principles of the father have the assent and co-operation of the son.

The Ford organization is a complete industrial chain. Raw material, transportation and manufacture are under its control. Manufacturing cycles have been worked out with such precision and the transportation element is so well in hand that the company requires only a small inventory. Thus, enormous sums of money are released for other purposes, including, for example, experimental work conducted on a large and efficient scale.

34 Branches in U. S.

Few institutions could risk $1,000,000 on the manufacture of a single power unit, heretofore untried, or spend $250,000 in developing one single type of production machine, as the Ford Motor Co. has done many times.

The company operates 34 branches in the United States. Foreign branches and associated companies are located in many important centers throughout the world. Maximum employment in 1934 was 92,000 persons, including Ford branches, mines, and the trade school.

In Dearborn, just west of Detroit, is the River Rouge plant, with an area of 1096 acres. There the company has its own blast furnaces, coke ovens, foundries, machine shops, body plants, cement plants,

Many Changes In Ford V-8 Truck Lines

Engine Relocated—Brakes Redesigned—Clutch, Motor Ventilation and Chassis Improved.

The new line of Ford V-8 trucks for 1935 reveal sweeping changes in cab and chassis, appearance, and many new mechanical features.

In the new trucks, the engine has been moved forward more than eight inches giving more room in the cab and improved distribution of weight. Other important changes include: redesigned brakes and clutch, new springs and extended springbase, new cooling system, greater capacity gas tank, heavier front axle, larger and longer drive shaft and longer torque tube and new emergency brake lever with dual ratchets.

The heavier front end that gives increased security and greater stability on slippery roads; better braking qualities because of the newly designed brakes, and new cabs trimmed in the manner of the business coupe are outstanding features of the 1935 line.

The cab is distinguished in appearance and roomier. It has adjustable windshield, cowl ventilator and clear vision ventilation, the latter heretofore found only in the passenger car.

Brakes More Effective.

Under severe and continuous operation with a full load, the effectiveness of the brakes is nearly double that in former trucks. The brakes are considerably more powerful. Changes in construction have provided a more uniform bearing surface on the drums and at the same time "fading away" of the brakes on long, continuous application has been eliminated. The driver has been provided with a much quicker stop and with it less pedal pressure is required. Better control of the truck with added safety, under all driving conditions, has been assured by the many changes in construction. The brakes are simpler, too, more than 20 parts having been eliminated in the new design.

The clutch has been greatly simplified and increased in size for more efficient operation. The new clutch provides a smoother start for the driver and easier, more positive disengagement for rapid and silent gearshifting. Pedal pressure has been materially decreased. In addition, the engagement of the clutch at highway speed has been made so positive, slipping and consequent clutch wear have been virtually eliminated.

Chassis Improved.

A longer front spring has been provided and the front spring assembly moved further forward, improving load distribution to a great extent.

To assure ideal cooling of the engine under all operating conditions, the cooling system has been vastly improved. The capacity of the radiator has been enlarged and larger pump impellors provided. Cooling efficiency has been increased materially by these changes.

The new 20-gallon gas tank under the driver's seat now has the filler opening much more conveniently placed inside the door.

With full-floating rear axle, dual down-draft carburetor and perfected torque tube drive, the powerful 80 horsepower V-8 engine of the

Ford V-8 Cars for 1935 Have Restyled Body Lines

Eight Inches Longer—Engine Moved Up in Chassis So Rear Seat Is Ahead of Axle—Engine Improvements.

The new Ford V-8 cars have lines which are distinctively modern and a definite departure from former Ford practice.

Bodies, grille, hood, fenders and running boards have been newly-designed with flowing curves to carrying out the motif. This has been made possible by moving the engine forward more than eight inches. The space made available on the chassis has enabled the development of the new body lines and particularly the graceful slope of the rear panel.

The new V-8 is approximately eight inches longer from bumper to bumper, the rear wheel tread has been increased by more than two inches, and the new frame is so shaped that the body is set lower. The bodies are wider. Wheels are an inch smaller in diameter and tires a half-inch larger in section. The result is an impression of mass and stability.

Graceful New Body Lines.

The new body lines are especially striking in the treatment of the rear of enclosed types. The slope of the windshield has been increased to reduce wind resistance and lessen glare in night driving.

The design of the fenders is entirely new. They are more highly crowned, with sweeping skirts and a drain gutter formed by rolling under the outer edge.

Because the water filler cap is located under the hood, a new permanent radiator ornament is made possible. It is a chromium-plated Ford V-8 insignia, with wings extending several inches to the rear on the de luxe types.

Slanting vertical louvres are combined with horizontal stainless steel beading to form an attractive hoodside adornment.

Bullet-type headlamps, enameled in the body color, have rust-proof steel rims. Fenders are finished in the body color. Smart new bumper guards on de luxe types are curved outward. Hub caps have been redesigned, with the V-8 insignia in bold relief within a raised circle.

Engine Improvements.

While the 80-horsepower engine is fundamentally the same in the new 1935 Ford V-8 cars, finer performance is provided by improvements including an entirely new system of engine ventilation.

The new ventilation system rids the engine of water vapors that ordinarily condense during cold weather. When this happens, frozen sludge formed in the crankcase and the oil pump was prevented from functioning properly. The new ventilation also assists materially in preventing oil dilution and erosion of the cylinder walls by the vapors that accumulated.

As in previous years, the Ford Motor Co. offers both low price and de luxe models for 1935—two distinct lines of new cars.

The de luxe line includes nine body styles, two being entirely new in the 1935 series. These are the Tudor and Fordor sedans with large built-in trunks for baggage at the rear of the cars. They are described by Ford body engineers as "touring sedans."

An exceptionally wide choice of de luxe body styles is available this year. In addition to the new touring sedans, the line includes Tudor and Fordor sedans with roomy baggage compartments behind the rear seats in the long, sweeping body-tail of the cars. Three and five window coupes, phaeton, cabriolet and roadster complete the line.

The five-window business coupe, the Tudor and Fordor sedans are also offered without de luxe appointments.

Brakes on Ford More Efficient

Stopping Power 30 to 40 Per Cent Greater—Much Less Pedal Pressure Needed.

The 1935 Ford V-8 has an entirely new, more efficient braking system due to numerous changes in the brake assembly.

The efficiency of the new brakes has been increased 30 to 40 per cent. This means that a driver gets a much quicker "stop" and that less pedal pressure is required than in former Ford models. Better control of the car under all driving conditions is assured.

The mechanism of the braking plate has been simplified, approximately 20 parts having been eliminated from the assembly. In addition, a new, floating wedge, connecting the two brake shoes, gives more uniform pressure on the brake lining and quicker action when the foot is applied to the pedal. The total braking surface is 186 square inches, the same as last year.

Under all conditions, the entire surface of the shoes bears upon the brake drum when under pressure from the pedal.

Reckless Drivers Shot.

If the offense is serious enough, the penalty for reckless driving in Russia is the firing squad.

Ford Speedometer Of Magnetic Type

Ford's speedometer of 1935 is of the magnetic type—which means that it is actuated by a force that is known and constant. Friction in the speed indicating portion has been reduced to a minimum by the use of costly Brewster jewel bearings. The entire instrument, though almost as intricate as a watch, is exceptionally rugged, due to the fact that the component parts are made of sturdy, reliable materials.

Ford Research On Practical Basis Always

His Laboratories Scattered Throughout Big Plants in Close Touch With Production and Its Problems.

Research work of the Ford Motor Co., in its method of attack, differs from generally accepted practices. Methods are used which are believed to be most productive and most profitable in the long run. In most large corporations the method is to have all research work started within the confines of one building. This is designated the research building, which may be divided into research divisions—but where all work is originated and carried to conclusion by a definite group of men known as the research staff.

In the Ford Motor Co. no one building can be pointed out as the research department. Naturally, considerable research work is done in some of the laboratories but these laboratories are scattered throughout the plant so that they may be as closely connected as possible with their own type of work in the production department.

Large Scale Experimenting.

Usually experiments and research on the processes or method of manufacture are carried out on a much larger scale than is usual for initial experiments. The work is done in the plant and is closely connected with the manufacturing unit which will beenfit from the results of such experiments and research. The whole Ford plant or any unit of it is a part of the research department, and suggestions and aid in the solution of problems may come from the chief executives or from the men in the shops. Ford research work is explained in a statement by the company as follows:

In the research work carried on by our company, what might be termed a policy of competition is so stressed and encouraged that there is added incentive for accomplishment. We invite such competition not only between our own department, but also between concerns outside the company. Thus the greater good of automotive manufacture is very definitely served. Our different departments must compete one with the other, so that if, for example, a forging can in the end serve better than a casting, the forge department makes the part under consideration. By the same token, in the development of a new design or the continuation of an old one, we must

Re-Opened for Assembling Cars and Trucks —1600 Workmen Employed With $5 Minimum Wage and $66,000 Weekly Payroll.

With its production capacity increased from 150 cars a day to 380, the Ford Motor Co.'s assembly plant, at Sarah and Forest Park boulevard, has begun turning out complete Ford V-8 automobiles, trucks and commercial cars. A total of more than 1600 workmen are employed. The weekly roll is in excess of $66,000 a week for factory workers alone. No worker is paid less than $5 a day.

The plant has been re-tooled and rearranged, so that assemblying has been speeded up by more than 100 per cent, yet thoroughness of workmanship and inspection has been facilitated. Virtually all hand tools have been replaced by tools operating from overhead lines. Most of the tools are wholly new, and some of them are of a more modern type even than those in the great Ford main plant at Dearborn, Mich.

There are now two final assembly lines instead of one, and the department assembly lines and conveyors have been rebuilt and redesigned, so that the assembling processes are smooth and uninterrupted. One of the conveyors is more than 2000 feet long. An outside conveyor runs from the freight car unloading platforms up to the second floor, where the assembly processes begin.

Use of new enamels and paints derived from the soy bean has speeded up enameling of parts and painting of bodies, yet gives a finer, more lasting finish.

Inspection Thorough.

Noticeable is the steadiness of the flow of parts to the department assembly lines, and from these lines to the final assembly conveyors, as well as the thoroughness of inspection in every department. Inspectors are here, there, everywhere, checking, testing, rejecting everything that does not meet rigid specifications.

All metal parts go through a bonderizing process on the top floor of the plant—a combination of chemical processes and baking in ovens maintained at temperatures of 500 to 650 degrees—1000 degrees for some small parts—to insure against rusting. After being bonderized, the parts go through the enameling departments where they are covered thoroughly with enamel derived from the soy bean and then baked at the varying temperatures prescribed. To some parts the enamel is applied by spraying. Other parts are dipped into tanks of enamel from overhead conveyors, each tank containing enamel in one of the colors used on Ford cars.

On the next floor down, is the body shop where all joints in the bodies are electrically welded, so that they come out stronger than if they had been built originally as a whole. Then the bodies go on a long conveyor where workmen smooth and polish the welds. Then they are sanded, polished and primed in preparation for painting. The paints are mixed in a special department by machinery, to insure exactness of shade as well as thoroughness of mixing, and are piped to the sprayers. By use of soy bean paints the painting is finished in only three hours as compared with the 17 hours formerly required and the 10 days required for varnishing.

Rapid, Yet Careful Assembling.

After being painted, the bodies go to another conveyor where gangs of workmen, each handling a specific job, upholster and trim them under constant inspection.

On another conveyor the frames are assembled. On another they pick up the wheel and brake assembles. Meanwhlie the engines are being assembled, part by part, on still another line. The chassis paper mills, steel mills, by-products plants and power plants.

Along the River Rouge are storage bins having a combined capacity of 2,000,000 tons. Ore, limestone and coal are unloaded here from Ford-owned ships.

For years Ford activities were centered near Detroit at Highland Park, where they occupied a plant of 278 acres. This plant was frequently called "The Cradle of the Ford Industry." Hence, for many years until the completion of the Rouge plant, it was the principal manufacturing establishment of the company. During 1929 and 1930 all of its activities, with very few exceptions, were centered in the Rouge plant. In the city of Detroit is located the Lincoln plant, devoted entirely to the building of the Lincoln automobiles. At Dearborn, west of the Rouge plant, is the Ford engineering laboratories as well as the Ford airport.

Among the most recent additions to the activities carried on under Ford direction are the Edison Institute of Technology, Greenfield village, and the new Dearborn Inn, a modern hotel opposite the Ford airport, which is owned by Mr. Ford, but leased to a regular hotel operating company.

Auto Warnings Broadcast.

Warnings to motorists against hazardous driving conditions are now broadcast twice daily over all five radio stations in Pittsburgh, Pa., under the auspices of the Bureau of Traffic Planning.

BEARING LIFE . . . .
. . . . INCREASED
MAINTENANCE . . .

As an additional efficiency factor Ford cars are equipped with "COMPO" self-lubricating bearings at these vital points:

Water Pump	4 Units	Starting motor	2 Units
Distributor	4 Units	Generator	1 Unit

At these points "COMPO" bearing surfaces not only hold the oil but also maintain the necessary oil film. The slightest increase in temperature brings additional oil to the surface. Upon cooling the lubricant is quickly absorbed back into the metal.

"COMPO" minimizes friction, thereby reducing maintenance.

Country-Wide Ford Service

Network of Authorized Dealers, Service Shops and Neighborhood Stations Maintained Throughout the United States.

Through a nation-wide network of authorized Ford dealers, service shop and Ford operated neighborhood service stations, the Ford owner is assured of Ford service constantly available.

In addition, the Ford Motor Co. through its authorized dealers, maintains a reconditioned parts exchange plan which enables owners of Ford cars and trucks to exchange worn parts including the engine, for factory reconditioned parts.

Under this plan the owner of a Ford V-8 can have a factory reconditioned engine installed in his car for as little as $49.50. This reconditioned engine will be practically as good as new, because it will have been completely overhauled at the Great River Rouge plant of the Ford Motor Co. by the same men using the same methods and equipment who built it in the first place. Such an engine will have new parts, including new pistons and piston rings. This engine can be installed by any Ford service organization in four to seven hours.

This service also applies to carburetors, generators, distributors, and many other vital parts of Models A, B and V-8 Ford cars, trucks and commercial cars.

The Ford parts exchange plan is in no sense an experiment. It has been in operation about two years, and was first introduced to truck fleet owners early in 1933, where its efficiency and economy have been thoroughly proved. More recently it was extended to the passenger car field where the history of its initial success is being repeated.

Ford dealer service departments are equipped with special precision service devices and should a Ford car need at any time more than minor servicing and repairs, Ford dealers are equipped to handle the complete job. Many Ford dealers have equipped their shops with the Ford laboratory test set—an apparatus that makes a remarkably thorough and quick diagnosis of any major or minor trouble that a car may experience after extended use. This precision tool eliminates guesswork and puts the servicing of a car on a scientific basis.

The Ford laboratory test set is a group of testing devices contained in one unit developed by the service department of the Ford Motor Co. The set provides a definite means of testing for every condition that can effect engine or electrical system performance, including carburetor, fuel pump, compression, generator, battery, starting motor, lights, horns and ignition wiring.

MANY CHANGES MADE IN NEW FORD TRUCKS

New Ford Commercial Cars.

The new Ford commercial car line body styles include the de luxe panel delivery, the panel delivery, the sedan delivery, the pick-up and station wagon.

The chassis and body features in the new line bring a still greater measure of economy, proved ruggedness and ease of operation than in the former commercial cars. Changes that stand out prominently in the panel and sedan delivery cars include a striking new beauty in body lines and many mechanical advancements in engine and chassis.

The panel models are smartly stream-lined. They introduce an entirely new principle of springing and have longer redesigned springs. Improved weight distribution is due to moving the engine 8½ inches further forward.

These changes not only improve the riding qualities, but are material factors in increased economy of operation. The new weight distribution results in more uniform wear for brakes and tires and provides added protection for fragile payloads and operator comfort.

Improvements have also been made in the bodies of station wagon and pick-up models. Both have all the mechanical advancements found in the other body styles in the commercial car line. The pick-up now has a coupe-style cab and the station wagon safety glass in both front door windows.

For maneuverability, quick parking and ease of handling in city traffic, all models retain the 112-inch wheelbase, although the springbase (or distance from center to center of the springs) is now increased to 123 inches, for greater riding ease.

The brakes have been redesigned and are more powerful than in the former commercial cars, changes in construction providing a more uniform bearing surface on the drums. Their efficiency has been increased by approximately 40 per cent.

A new "centri-force" clutch provides a smoother start for the driver, together with easier, more positive disengagement for rapid and silent gear shifting. Pedal pressure has been materially decreased and in addition the engagement of the clutch at highway speeds has been made so positive, slipping and consequent clutch wear have virtually been eliminated.

A new system of direct air circulation for crankcase ventilation also has been introduced on the 1935 lines to eliminate oil dilution and increase oil economy—new heavy duty copper lead connecting rod bushings are provided—new balloon tires and safety glass all around are standard equipment.

and engine lines finally converge, so that a completed engine can be picked up by an overhead conveyor and swung into position just in time to meet a finished chassis and be dropped into position without the loss of a second.

Workmen with power wrenches and other tools swarm over engine and chassis, and, almost before the onlooker realizes what has happened, the chassis, with engine solidly in place, is on its way to the final assembly lines, where the body is placed upon it and it passes down a long lane of workmen to the final inspection, and then rolls off the line to be tested and pronounced ready for delivery to a dealer.

Millions for Montana Roads.

More than $10,000,000, largely in Federal emergency funds, was expended in the past 18 months on a surfacing program for highways in Montana. Due to mountainous terrain, much of the program was highly expensive.

Ford Finance Concern Opens More Branches

Maintains 49 Offices in U. S. —Provides Service for Dealers and Buyers of Cars Throughout Nation.

Forty-nine branch offices are maintained by the Universal Credit Co., which is the exclusively Ford financing company for dealers and car buyers and has been expanding to country-wide activity the past year.

"As it is the purpose of business to bring together buyer and seller in a transaction that will be satisfactory to the one and profitable to the other, so it is the function of a consumer credit institution to make it easier for consumers to acquire and use the products of industry," says an executive of the company.

"There is not much question today that credit and employment are closely interwoven and that the interests of employee, employer and credit company are mutual. The success of each one insures the normal consumption of goods and tends toward regularity of employment. In my opinion, the finance company that is basically sound recognizes an obligation to the purchasing public for developing fair charges, extending courteous treatment and adopting economical practices.

2,000,000 Transactions.

"In our credit company rates have been consistently lower than those previously established for similar credit services. We consider the cost of credit to the public who buy cars on time to be of vital importance. In the case of the Ford car, the first cost is unusually low not only because of economies in manufacturing, but because the same principles that inspire these savings are extended to every other step that means greater service to the public. It is easy to see that economies in production would be of little value if they were later sacrificed through high charges for financing.

"In the purchase of over 2,000,000 time sales transactions from the customers of Ford dealers, involving over $1,200,000,000, savings have been created for the public from lower financing costs established by Universal Credit Co. through the now familiar UCC plans.

Credit Buying Not Increasing.

"Our experience in the six years since we began business, and during which period our credit operations have become nationwide in their scope, has been most satisfactory. The inherent honesty of people and their ability and desire to meet their obligations is nowhere better demonstrated than in this specialized banking field. Public integrity has always proven to be the outstanding security in credit transactions.

"The sound credit operations in which we are engaged contribute very materially to the wider use of motor cars, thus directly making for more regular employment in those widespread sections of the country which contribute materials for the motor industry.

"Credit buying the last two years has not increased and there exists today the same ratio between cash buying and credit purchases as has always existed. We are of the opinion that American business will be materially assisted in getting back to a more normal basis through the proper functioning of consumer credit organizations.'

Gas Tax Helps State Budgets.

Taxing gasoline has turned into a $500,000,000 gold mine for the United States. Oregon started the gasoline tax by collecting $290,796 in 1919 and in recent years every State and the District of Columbia levied from 2 to 7 cents a gallon and collected $518,195,712 net, besides the penny Government tax and as much as 5 cents additional levied by certain counties and cities in Alabama. Of this half billion dollars, more than $53,000,000, or 10 per cent, has been expended for miscellaneous purposes; more than $29,000,000 for relief; $13,000,000 for education, and $18,000,000 for State general funds.

LINCOLN CONGRATULATES THE FORD MOTOR COMPANY

The re-opening of the Ford Motor Company's St. Louis assembly plant is a most gratifying evidence of the company's splendid growth and improvement in business.

The Lincoln Engineering Company wants to add its congratulations on this occasion.

This development is not only significant of the great forward strides of the Ford Motor Company but also of the amelioration in the conditions of the country.

Our company shares in the Ford progress because EIGHTY PER CENT of the Ford dealers in St. Louis territory are equipped with Lincoln lubricating set-ups in order to better serve Ford car owners.

It is only fitting that the best car Ford has ever produced should be serviced with the most modern and advanced lubrication service ever produced.

served by Wabash exclusively

The Wabash furnishes overnight service from the Detroit plant and factories to St. Louis. This fast, and dependable Red Ball service was an important factor when selecting St. Louis as one of the first Ford territorial plants to be reopened. 1500 men will be employed immediately, and 2000 ultimately.

The St. Louis plant of the Ford Motor Company is ideally situated in the heart of the West Belt Industrial District, which lies between Grand Boulevard and Kingshighway and south of Laclede Avenue. This entire district is served exclusively by the Wabash. Many convenient locations are still available for new industrial plants.

Ford V-8 now built in St. Louis!

New Ford V-8 Trucks Also Produced in St. Louis

The Ford V-8 truck has won world-wide popularity because of its economy, performance and stamina. Sales for the first 20 days of January this year exceeded those for the whole month of January, 1934, by almost 200 per cent. The 1935 models of this great truck offer new money-saving features. Among these is Forward Load Distribution. This has been obtained by mounting front springs 4 inches ahead of the front axle, and moving the engine forward 8 11-16 inches. This, together with the space-saving, compact V-8 engine, permits more of the load to be placed ahead of the rear axle, thus putting more weight in the front end.

This Forward Load Distribution makes possible more uniform tire and brake wear. It improves brake action. It provides a more stable ride, which means protection for fragile loads, and improved operation and reduced wear throughout the truck. In addition, in the 6½ inches more load space between the cab and the center of the rear axle, the 1935 Ford V-8 truck permits acute angle turns with full-width semi-trailers.

No matter how efficiently you are now doing your hauling there are many features of the 1935 Ford V-8 truck which are important advantages to consider. They are matched by no other truck in America today, regardless of price.

Ford Payroll Adds $11,000 a Day to Buying of St. Louis

Thousands Benefit by Reopening of Local Ford Assembly Plant.

As part of Henry Ford's plan to build a million cars, and more, in 1935, the St. Louis plant of the Ford Motor Company has reopened.

Passenger cars, trucks and commercial units for dealers in St. Louis, and near-by territory in Missouri and Illinois, are now being built in the big plant at 4100 Forest Park Boulevard.

St. Louis and vicinity benefits in many ways from this renewed activity. More than $175,000 has been spent in improving the St. Louis plant, and putting it in shape for producing the new 1935 models. Hundreds of men have been employed directly or indirectly in modernizing the plant. As a result of these improvements the production schedule has now been set at 140 cars per day.

More than 1600 men have been engaged, and are now on the payroll of this local Ford plant. Car buyers who select the Ford V-8 are not only obtaining America's outstanding automobile value, but are also buying vehicles produced by St. Louis workmen.

These fine new 1935 Ford V-8 trucks are now being produced in St. Louis, and all Ford dealers in this vicinity are ready to prove to you that the Ford truck will save you money. Test the type of truck you need in your own job. You'll see then the big meaning of DOUBLE-DUTY. Power and strength, speed, handling care, beauty . . . the 1935 Ford V-8 trucks have both combination. And at a price that saves you money from the beginning.

New 1935 Ford V-8 Commercial Cars

The big Ford plant in St. Louis is also producing the new line of 1935 Ford V-8 Commercial Cars. These handsome delivery units have been redesigned. The appearance of the Ford V-8 commercial car is a credit to any establishment, and its new economy, ease of handling and better riding qualities keep down delivery costs.

Every business house in the St. Louis region will be putting money into its own pockets by the use of Ford delivery equipment, and will also be putting money into the pockets of hundreds of St. Louis workmen who are employed at the St. Louis Ford plant.

POWER ZONE | COMFORT ZONE | ECONOMY ZONE

V-8 POWER

With the introduction of the 8-cylinder, V-type engine, Ford brought a new standard of performance to the low-priced field.

Comfort Zone Riding

Gives the ease, smoothness and comfort of a "front seat ride" even to back seat passengers—an important engineering advance.

FORD ECONOMY

The 1935 Ford V-8 gives you the most economical car to operate Ford has ever built.

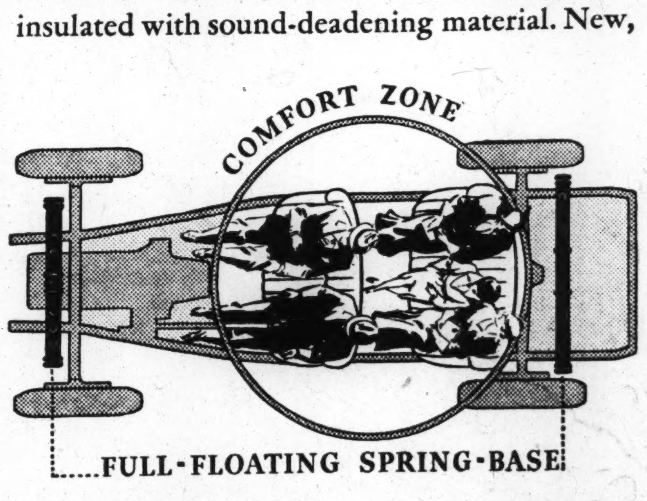
Why take less?

FORD has always aimed to make the automobile-buying dollar go as far as possible.

This was illustrated when Ford brought the V-8 engine to the low-priced field—without increasing operating cost.

This year, the 1935 Ford V-8 gives you traditional Ford low prices, traditional Ford operating economy—and, in addition, riding comfort, body roominess, new beauty and new safety features that will satisfy the requirements of almost everyone.

Consider some of the major improvements in the Ford V-8 for 1935. Take comfort: From this standpoint alone, what a completely rounded car this is! Comfort Zone Riding (explained at right) that gives "front seat comfort" even to rear seat passengers. Deep cushioned, high-backed, wider seats. Big, air-balloon tires. Easier steering and a clutch that responds to the touch of your foot. Consider safety: There's safety glass all around—on all models—at no additional cost. A new, welded all-steel body that's insulated with sound-deadening material. New, more powerful brakes, with an unusually high ratio of braking surface to car weight. And a lower center of gravity that gives increased safety and stability on curves!



Note how the springs of the new Ford V-8 are placed out beyond the front and rear axles and serve only to cushion the load. They provide a long springbase for riding ease, and retain the 112-inch wheelbase for handling ease. Both front and rear seats are cradled between the springs—enabling all passengers to ride in the Comfort Zone.

Why be satisfied to receive less than this for your money?

Examine this new 1935 Ford V-8. Ride in it. You'll realize that it is not only a new Ford V-8 car—but a new automobile value.

Ford Operates Largest Foundry

It Covers 30 Acres and Can Pour 2900 Tons of Castings in Day.

The Ford foundry at the Rouge plant in Detroit is the largest in the world, covering more than 30 acres, and leads the world in the production of small castings. It is able to pour 2900 tons of castings every 24 hours. The castiron parts of the car, such as the motor block and flywheel, are produced here and also machined.

The hot metal from the blast furnaces is transported to the foundry in huge ladles set on flat cars. From the ladles the hot metal is poured into a large 1200-ton mixer, in connection with which are four 120-inch cupolas. Two cupolas are run each day and are used to melt steel and scrap only. The iron from the big mixed is poured into two smaller ones, each having a capacity of 400 tons. One of these pours metal for cylinder blocks while the other pours the smaller parts. The foundry also is equipped with 28 cupolas capable of melting 2300 tons in 16 hours. The hot metal is then reheated in one of the electric furnaces, in proportions of 25 tons from the big mixed and a similar amount from one of the cupolas. From the furnace it is poured directly into the molds. Conventional foundry practice is reversed, and the molds are brought on conveyor to the metal, instead of the metal to the molds. All pouring and coremaking is done on the move.

Another feature is its unusual cleanliness. The soot, dust and terrific heat commonly associated with foundries are absent. An elaborate ventilation system keeps the air cool.

Machining of these castings takes place in the same building, another unique departure. From the foundry a conveyor, one of the longest trunk lines in the world, carries them across by an overhead bridge into the motors assembling building.

Henry Ford's Trade School Has 1800 Boys Enrolled

With 100 Instructors, It Trains Pupils in Thrift as Well as in Craftmanship—Founded in 1915 by Manufacturer.

Because of his belief that every young boy should produce things of value as part of his education, Henry Ford founded the Henry Ford Trade School in October, 1915. From a beginning with six boys and one instructor, it has grown to an enrollment of 1800 boys and 100 instructors. True to the purpose of its origin, needy boys are given the preference. Orphan boys constitute approximately five per cent and widows' boys in attendance must help support themselves. So strongly has the school appealed to boys that there is a constant waiting list of more than 1000 local boys. For this reason applications are not accepted from other cities than Detroit.

The school is incorporated under a Michigan statute to operate without profit. Boys between the ages of 12 and 18 are admitted. The academic requirement is that the candidate shall be in the school grade for boys of his own age. Upon entering, a cash scholarship amounting to $7.20 per week is awarded to each boy. This is paid him every second week throughout the entire year, including a vacation of three weeks in the summer and one week at Christmas.

Taught to Be Thrifty.

To help the students develop the thrift habit, $2 per month in addition to his scholarship is given each boy. This fund must be deposited in some bank and kept there as long as the boy remains in school. The bank books are submitted to the school monthly for examination.

Each noon a hot lunch is furnished to all students. This, with the two cash gifts, make a boy's minimum wage $500.

The school work is divided into two departments. For one full week the boy attends class and during the following two weeks he works in the school shop. This year is made up of 14 weeks in class, 34 weeks in shop and four weeks vacation.

In order to give them a better appreciation of actual shop conditions, boys who have had sufficient training are placed in departments of the Ford Motor Co. when they reach the age of 16. They continue their class work every third week and are at all times under the jurisdiction of the school.

Boys under 16 receive their mechanical training in the school shop which is separate from the Ford Motor Company and covers three acres of floor space. In this shop are hundreds of the finest machines of many types. The total equipment is valued at about two million dollars. In the school shop there are many departments, and the boys are moved from one department to another as fast as they have completed the requirements.

Trained in Ideals.

In the shop each job is done on a work order. An expert estimates how many hours it should take a skilled mechanic to complete the work. An accurate record is kept and the boys and instructors try to come within the estimate. Spoilage averages less than 1½ per cent, which is little more than that of the average tool-room. No work is done merely for practice. Everything the boys make is to be used, unless spoiled. Even in the class, whenever it is possible, practical work is done by the boys.

The average annual value of material produced by each boy is approximately $1000. This is sufficient to pay the student's scholarship, salaries to instructors and all the upkeep of the equipment. It does not pay interest on the investment in buildings and equipment.

In all his training the school holds the following ideals before the boy in the shop and, as far as possible, in the classroom: Cleanliness and safety come first, then accuracy. Slow accuracy is no longer valuable, therefore speed is the fourth ideal. Fifth is originality, the ability to develop better methods and better work. If a student is satisfied with what his instructors can show him, he can never know the joy of producing something better, or doing something in a better way.

Graduates of the school are holding important positions in the Ford Motor Co. and elsewhere. When openings occur, boys who have graduated are offered positions in some department of the Ford Motor Co. The result of their study and work seem to justify Ford's faith.

It is from these trained men that the Ford Motor Co. recruits its foremen and specialty men.

SAFETY GLASS MADE STANDARD EQUIPMENT IN ALL FORD V-8S

SAFETY glass as standard equipment in windshields, doors and windows of all body types is offered this year for the first time in the new Ford V-8.

Ford was the first to introduce safety glass as standard equipment in the windshield of low-priced automobiles. This was in the Model A of 1927. With the introduction of the de luxe cars in 1931, Ford introduced safety glass as standard equipment in all doors and windows of de luxe types.

This year safety glass, in windshields, doors and windows of all Ford V-8 models is standard equipment—another of the wholly new features of the Ford V-8 for 1935.

Saftey glass is a "sandwich" of two sheets of glass cemented on opposite surfaces of a transparent flexible sheet. A feature of Ford safety glass is its resistance to deterioration from ultra violet sun rays.

More Easily Working Clutch on New Ford Has 39 Fewer Parts

A feature of interest to the woman driver is the new clutch in the Ford V-8.

By utilizing centrifugal force to assist its action, the clutch pedal pressure is materially reduced. At starting and gear-changing speeds, or when waiting for the "go" signal at a traffic light, the pressure required to hold the clutch "out" is scarcely noticeable. At higher speeds, when the full power of the engine must be transmitted, the pressure is automatically increased to prevent slippage.

The new clutch utilizes three weights attached to the throw-out arm, so placed that when the engine speed increases they add pressure to the clutch plate. Consequently, a reduction in pedal pressure of approximately 20 per cent is made possible. The lower spring pressure, combined with the use of cushioning springs between the clutch disc and hub, a flexible steel spring disc, and a clutch pressure plate of copper alloy iron with ground surface, assures smoothness of engagement. Ease of operation also is assisted by the use of needle-bearings in the throw-out arm pivots.

The clutch is simpler in design this year. It contains 39 fewer parts when the needle bearing assemblies are considered as a single unit. The throw-out collar bearing is pre-lubricated, ordinarily requiring no lubricant for the life of the car.

FORD RESEARCH KEPT ON PRACTICAL BASIS

at all times keep our minds receptive to admit similar competition in research, whether that research be internal or external.

Practical Research.

Pure research is a term often used as the opposite of practical research. It is true, of course, that it is very difficult to tell where the one stops and the other begins. Possibly it may be said that Ford experimental work, because it is for the most part directly connected with products manufactured, tends rather to the side of practical research.

No one method of attack may be said to be perfect in its solution of any problem, but the results obtained in manufacturing products of the highest quality at minimum costs is sufficient proof that Ford methods of procedure are the most satisfactory for Ford needs.

The entire procedure in the glass plant is the result of experimental work carried on many years ago by the Ford Motor Co. The company originated continuous melting and grinding (the continuous process, as it is known) which has been of such material benefit to the plate glass industry.

Illustrating the method of attack, attention is directed to an experimental installation located in this building. It came about as a result of the necessity of preparing a suitable glass sand from the company's deposits at Rockwood, Mich. The problem involved two principal points—the furnishing of a unit which would purify, grade and dry silica sand and at the same time do this work at the lowest possible cost. Obviously the units used are not in themselves new. However, the hook-up is relatively new for these purposes.

No Speed Limit in 24 States.

Twenty-four states in the Union have abandoned fixed speed limits and now prescribe a maximum speed that is "reasonable and proper," thus placing on the motorist the burden of driving in a manner that will assure his own safety and that of other users of the highways. Among the states having maximum limits, 40 and 45 miles an hour are the usual limits, although Idaho and New Hampshire have 35-mile limits and North Dakota fixes a limit of 50 miles.

Gauge Blocks For Precision

Johansson Devices in Ford Plants Measure in Millionth of an Inch.

Johansson gauges are the world's standard of precision measurement. They have no counterpart in science or in industry. They measure accurately in the millionths of an inch.

This marks an important advance in the manufacture of fine tools and interchangeable parts. It is made possible only by C. E. Johansson's association with the Ford Motor Co. Johansson is in the Dearborn laboratories, where he has widely recognized engineers and metallurgists to assist him.

Johansson combination gauge block are rectangular pieces of tool steel, hardened, ground and lapped. They embody in their commercial manufacture the solving of four universally recognized metallurgical and mechanical problems, namely:

1—Flat surfaces in steel.
2—Parallel surfaces in steel.
3—Accuracy as to dimension.
3—Effective heat-treatment and seasoning.

It is considered one of the most remarkable achievements in mechanics to make a flat surface in steel.

Really Flat Surfaces.

Possibly, the extremely high finish of the Johansson flat surface can best be described by saying that it has the appearance of burnished silver. Even under a powerful microscope there is a comparative absence of the minute scratches or lap marks that one expects to find in all lapped surfaces.

It is the finish of this mirror-like super-surface that gives Johansson blocks their remarkable adhesive qualities.

The degree of parallelism attained in the blocks is shown by the statement that any block in a given combination may be turned end-for-end at will without affecting either the size of the combination or the parallelism of the two extreme surfaces of the combination.

To the problem of commercially producing flat surfaces that are parallel to each other, must be added having these flat and parallel surfaces a distance apart equal to the size marked upon the block.

That this also has been accomplished is proven by the way in which equivalent combinations of blocks may be checked against each other.

Not only are the blocks but slightly affected by ordinary temperature changes, but they are so treated and seasoned by Johansson methods that the internal stresses have been relieved. The molecules of the steel may be said to be at rest. Because of this, the usual warping on "growing" is checked and when motion is produced by temperature, the steel not only expands or contracts uniformly, but returns to its normal size. Any Johansson block made years ago will, barring wear, check accurately with one made recently.

"Foolproof" Gauges.

Johansson gauge blocks are positive in results, sure, dependable—in a sense "foolproof." Individually, they are simply solid blocks of hardened steel—and in the form preferred by experienced mechanics—flat and non-adjustable. Collectively, they are the most flexible precision tools imaginable, giving all sizes within their range to .0001 inch or less.

They constitute a complete gauging system. There is a male and female gauge of exactly the size wanted at the moment. They not only answer the gauging needs for the present, but for the future, regardless of how the character of work in a given shop may change.

They combine the advantages of both line and end measures. Like line measures, they give all sizes within their range—like end measures, they are convenient, solid, non-adjustable blocks of steel, not likely to be "forced" when used in workmanlike manner.

Their shape is such that they may be used direct, eliminating the necessity of transferring fine measurements from where they are established to where they can be used. This is very important, as it is an established fact that, given two instruments of exceptional precision individually, it is almost impossible to transfer sizes from one to the other without a distinct loss of accuracy.

Johansson blocks give the same result any number of times, and in the hands of any number of mechanics. This is of the greatest value where the work of one shop is to be assembled with the work of others.

They are of such a character that inaccuracies, due to gradual wear, accident or abuse, may be readily discovered and their usefulness as precision gauges of the highest type prolonged indefinitely.

Their possibilities in the hands of a mechanic are only limited by his experience and resourcefulness.

Johansson gauge blocks are the fulfillment of an ideal in measuring tools heretofore unattainable. No other conclusion can be reached if extended inquiry is made of those in machine shops that are responsible for results.

Auto Horn Ban Quiets Rome.

With the ban on horn tooting by motorists, Rome, Italy, has been transformed from the reputed noisiest city in the world to the most silent. No one may sound a siren or a horn. There may be no open exhausts. The violator is fined $5, and pays on the spot. Traffic moves in silence and not even whistles of traffic policemen are heard. Highways accidents are said to be on the decline.

Riding Comfort Built Into the 1935 Ford

"Centerpoise" Suspension, Balance and Location of Seats Toward Center of Car.

Three major engineering principles combine to give the new Ford V-8 for 1935 what Ford engineers term the "centerpoise" ride. These principles are:

Correct spring suspension, involving equality of front and rear spring flexibility.

Proper car weight balance and passenger weight distribution.

In the new Ford V-8 car the well-known Ford transverse spring suspension has been newly applied. Both the front and rear springs are longer and more flexible. The wider front spring is now mounted ahead of the front axle, corresponding with the mounting of the rear spring back of the rear axle. This gives the car a "spring base" of more than 123 inches, compared with its wheel base of 112 inches. Spring leaf ends are tapered, giving smoother action over rough roads and softening their motion over highways. As a further aid to improved cushioning of the car, larger tires, with greater air capacity and added road contact are used. Hydraulic double acting shock absorbers control spring action in either direction.

The second principle utilized to provide the new "centerpoise ride" is that of weight balance and distribution. By moving the engine forward more than eight inches and by other changes in chassis design, the weight of the car without passengers is nearly equal on each wheel.

Moreover, there is no excess weight on either the front or rear wheels when any number of passengers is carried, thus avoiding "front end heaviness," so shunned by builders of racing cars. This contributes to proper balancing of the car, so that sharp bounce or jarring is eliminated.

The third feature included in the complete meaning of "centerpoise ride" and one of major importance is the location of the passengers in both front and rear seats closer to the center of the car. The rear seat is well forward of the rear axle. Thus the comfortable "front seat" ride is now available to those on the back seat as well.

FROM outside appearance batteries may be as alike as "two peas in a pod" but what a startling difference there can be in performance.

It is what is inside the battery, invisible to the eye, that determines how good it is.

The battery manufacturing experience behind USL batteries dates back 12 years before batteries were first used to start automobiles. Year by year USL engineers have found ways of making USL batteries still better. Only recently USL announced two outstanding accomplishments; ACTIVITE, an entirely new, more active, battery plate material which positively gives USL batteries more starting power and longer life; DURABAR (double protection) separators, which further increase the service life of USL batteries.

MUSSOLINI TELLS ITALIAN RESERVES TO 'BE READY'

Premier Breaks Silence on Border Dispute With Ethiopia—Speaks of 'the African Front.'

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Feb. 16.—Premier Mussolini broke his silence on the Ethiopian controversy tonight by urging all mobilized Italians to "be ready for any eventuality."

In an address to the Fascist Grand Council he made for the first time a definite reference to a "front." He praised the "virility of the men leaving for the African front."

His statement, to which significance was attached, was made several hours after the first detachments of Italian troops sailed for Africa.

Mussolini's council in a four-hour session approved his measure "for the security of peace" in East African possessions and those considered necessary "for control over Italian interests."

Thunderous cheers greeted the dictator's statement that 70,000 Black Shirts have volunteered for service in East Africa since Feb. 1 and also thousands of other citizens and war veterans.

The Grand Council's communique said certain types of workers must hold themselves in readiness for military discipline and for organization at a moment's notice.

A battalion embarked at Naples this afternoon, it was officially announced, after being reviewed by Crown Prince Umberto. Mussolini reviewed two other battalions preparatory to their departure for Eritrea and Italian Somaliland.

Negradas Yesus, Ethiopian charge d'affaires, through whom Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia has stoutly disclaimed responsibility for hostilities along the border, declared:

"We will defend our homes with our lives. If Italy comes against us, her blood will be on her own head."

It was estimated that the wartime strength of the battalions from Rome and Naples was 3000. During the day an estimated 1850 regular soldiers reached Rome in small groups for embarkation at Naples and Syracuse.

While hundreds of troops moved into Rome from northern points, wearing new uniforms and ordinary trench caps, but dangling pith helmets for tropical wear at their backs, Mussolini in company with Fascist and army officials, inspected his several thousand militiamen.

Newspaper men and photographers were barred from the review, which took place in the Grenadiers' barracks here, but the official statement said Mussolini addressed the troops briefly. He was cheered as he departed, the announcement said.

The militiamen, who volunteered for service, left this evening for Sicily, whence they will sail for Africa.

Hundreds of Reservists, meanwhile, were receiving mobilization cards instructing them to hold themselves in readiness for orders, but an official explained that this was an automatic procedure following the first mobilization.

Reports said Emperor Haile Selassie had sent Mussolini still another memorandum denying Italy's charges that Ethiopians were the aggressors, but this was not confirmed.

70 Pct. of Population Sick.

MADRID, Feb. 16.—The medical facilities of the Spanish capital were severely taxed today by an epidemic of grippe and influenza which swept over the city, incapacitating approximately 70 per cent of the population. The epidemic was the worst in many years and was believed to be aggravated by rapid changes in temperature. There have been few fatalities.

CHILD MISSING THREE MONTHS, FOUND DEAD

Body Discovered in Lane Two Miles From Mother's Home Near Jefferson, O.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON, O., Feb. 16.—The body of three-year-old Rita Margaret Lent, who disappeared last November, was found in a lane 15 miles from here today. The child was believed to have been abducted and had been the object of a wide search.

The body was found about 40 rods from the barn on the farm of Carl Hall and less than two miles from the child's home. Everett Cosnell, a neighbor boy, discovered the body while walking through a lane. He immediately called Hall, who identified it and summoned Sheriff Jerry Benson of Jefferson.

The girl was seen to leave the farmyard of her mother accompanied by a police dog. She was last seen walking on a road near her home.

The body was removed to Jefferson, for an autopsy. Those who viewed the body said they could find no traces of violence. It was fully clothed.. The Gosnell boy said the clothes were those the child wore when she disappeared. The mother, Mrs. Olive Lent, 34, was brought to Jefferson for questioning. "The child was kidnaped," she said, weeping at times. "There is no doubt that Rita was kidnaped and placed there. How could the little thing have walked that far? Why, she would have had to have walked four miles and crossed a creek to get to the place where she was found."

Coroner C. C. Webster said the "unusual fine state of preservation of the body indicates to me that it has not been in the mudhole since the child's disappearance two and a half months ago."

"It would seem to me," the Coroner said, "this body has either been covered with blankets and kept in a cool place or has been kept in a cellar or basement."

The girl's father, Darrell Lent, estranged from his wife, wes questioned when the child disappeared, but he declared he knew nothing of his daughter's disappearance. Mrs. Lent also was questioned at that time after county officials said she made a statement that her husband "would never get the baby."

Mrs. Lent, Conneaut officials said, had made several attempts to "give Rita away." Once she left her in a Conneaut police station and another time placed her on the Judge's bench and asked him to take her.

MRS. BYRD L. VOGEL SUES HUSBAND TO GET $16,400

She Says She Has Not Received Share of Joint Holdings; They Are Separated.

Suit was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by Mrs. Byrd L. Vogel against her husband, Clifford A. Vogel of Beverly Hills, Cal., for $16,400. Mrs. Vogel and her husband are separated and she is residing here.

Her claim was based on a half interest in a $12,000 loan Vogel was said to have received in negotiation of a deed of trust upon realty at Beverly Hills, to which they had joint title, a half interest in $1500 rentals collected by him, $5000 as her interest in household furnishings said to have been converted by him, $450 for money lent to him and $4200 to reimburse her for medical expense and maintenance since the separation. According to the petion, the household effects, valued at $10,000, were taken last August.

William H. Bleyer, attorney for Mrs. Vogel, caused the Sheriff to serve a garnishment notice on the St. Louis Union Trust Co., subjecting Vogel's interest in the $250,000 trust estate of his father, Louis D. Vogel, to his wife's claim. The father, who was one of the owners of the Charter Oak Stove and Range Co., died five years ago. He lived at the Coronado Hotel.

Under his will the son's interest was appraised at $114,428, from which he receives the income. At his death the trust estate is to be divided among nine charitable institutions. Mrs. Vogel, the daughter-in-law, is entitled to $100 a month, according to the will.

200 HAVANA TEACHERS JAILED

Federation Thereupon Orders Instructors to Join Pupils' Strike.

By the Associated Press.

HAVANA, Feb. 16.—More than 200 school teachers, half of them women, were jailed today and tonight for "illegal" assembly. A committee from the Havana Teachers' Federation announced in turn that it had ordered a 48-hour-strike by teachers "in solidarity with pupils now striking." Nearly all public schools in Havana and many in other provinces were shut.

The movement began three days ago when students at three schools stayed out, demanding more and better free meals, as well as free pencils, paper and other materials. Police armed with machine guns broke up groups of students which formed in front of the university after the arrest of the federation delegates. A few windows were smashed, but no shots were fired as leaders urged disbandment.

Pendergast Won't Address House.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 16.—T. J. Pendergast, Kansas City Democratic leader, said today he disliked "to disappoint" Republican members of the State House of Representatives, who invited him to address the Assembly, but said that he would not appear.

BENNETT AND HULL FAVOR FREER TRADE

Canadian Premier Says Canada Won't Be Laggard in Economic Co-operation.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Prime Minister R. B. Bennett of Canada and Secretary Hull of the United States joined tonight before the Canadian Society of New York in "rejoicing" over the United States' broader policy of international trade.

Bennett asserted the prospect of better trade relations has "gladdened the heart" of Canada and promised that "in economic co-operation, you will not find us laggard."

Hull replied that modern conditions "condemn to futility any endeavour to induce this nation again to withdraw into 'splendid isolation.'"

Hull said that the United States might easily be led into a course of "imperialist expansion and aggression to the detriment of others," but he hastily added: "The alternative course open to us is to make our influence felt through a policy of political, economic and cultural co-operation to the advantage of all and in an atmosphere of trust and peace. The latter is our policy. . ."

Reviewing the imposition of successively higher tariffs by the two countries immediately after the depression began, the Prime Minister praised the United States' policy of subsequently turning toward embracing the "sustaining benefits of international association" through reciprocal trade agreements.

The Prime Minister said this of the tariff walls both nations have set up against each other:

"Had our positions been reversed, what else could you have done? Would you have subscribed to a one-way trade route when the prosperity of the nation required the maintenance of a reasonable balance between imports and exports?"

Expressing a life-long belief in tariffs, the Prime Minister added, however: "I do not say they are inviolate, or that they should not be modified. I say that tariffs in many countries are much too high. I say the tariffs in Canada are too high. But I must be candid and, if you will permit me, again remind you that it is not primarily our fault that they are too high. When, in 1929, the United States saw fit to raise its tariffs, the Dominion of Canada had no other course open to it but to raise its tariffs also."

MRS. ANNIE M. FREEMAN DIES

Wife of Coroner of St. Charles County Succumbs to Heart Disease.

Mrs. Annie M. Freeman, wife of Dr. Will Freeman, Coroner of St. Charles County, died suddenly of heart disease yesterday at her home in St. Charles. She was 63 years old. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday from the First Presbyterian Church, St. Charles, with burial in Oak Grove Cemetery.

Surviving, besides her husband, are four children: Charles, an instructor in St. Charles High School; Loren, Alton High School teacher; Dr. Mable Freeman, a physician in Northville, Mich., and Mrs. Gladstone McElheny, Detroit.

NAVY PLANES LAND IN PANAMA

Craft Completed 4000-Mile Cruise of the Caribbean.

COLON, Panama, Feb. 16.—A squadron of 23 United States navy planes dropped down at Coco Solo today, completing a 4000-mile cruise of the Caribbean. A twenty-fourth plane will arrive aboard the U. S. S. Wright Monday. It was disabled in Samana Bay when refueling.

Capt. John H. Hoover, chief of staff, said Rear Admiral Alfred W. Johnson was pleased at the results of the cruise. It demonstrated, he said, the Navy's ability to control the entire Caribbean and to aid Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

COMMONWEALTH COLLEGE INQUIRY

Legislators Joshed as They Seek Evidence of "Communistic Activities."

By the Associated Press.

MENA, Ark., Feb. 16.—Five members of the Arkansas Legislature, delegated to investigate Commonwealth College here, today were initiated into the informalities of a co-operative labor school and took some mild joshing from the school's authorities on their quest for "Communist activities."

A statement from Senator J. L. Shaver, committeeman, that there had been unpleasant "rumors about the college" was met by a counter-statement from 28-year-old Lucien Koch, director of the college, that there had been "rumors about the Legislature." Shaver laughed with the others.

The committee sat late today at the Polk County courthouse to take testimony from the Commonwealth officials under provisions of a general assembly resolution charging the school with "fostering Communism and un-American teachings."

Accompanied by three sergeants-at-arms from the State House in Little Rock, and Sheriff Walter Jones of Polk County, the investigators went to the school's campus this morning and were cordially but informally received by Director Koch, who invited the group to luncheon. His invitation was declined but the committee accepted his suggestion that they attend 'a typical class."

Koch himself taught the class, which he explained was devoted to "labor problems." Wearing a red sweater, leather jerkin and puttees, the director questioned his students for 40 minutes on the greenback problem which followed the Civil War and "the knights of labor" movement in the nineteenth century.

The Legislators looked on as the students, seated on long wooden benches before an open wood fire, smoked and answered or asked questions.

The visitors went to "the Museum of Social Change," recently dedicated by the college "to record the fall of capitalism," and saw there exhibits ranging from ropes alleged to have been used in lynchings to lingerie labeled as having been discarded by the once-rich. Senator Clyde Ellis made a detailed examination of the school library for Communist literature.

Judge Considers Case of Labor Organizer Accused of Anarchism.

FORT SMITH, Ark., Feb. 16.—Municipal Judge James A. Gallaher, who blamed "outsiders and agitators" for Sebastian County's relief labor difficulties tonight considered the case of the State against Horace Bryan, 26-year-old labor organizer accused of anarchy. He said he would deliver his decision Monday.

"In all the years I have lived in Fort Smith," declared Judge Gallaher, "I don't think I have ever had a case that means so much to so many people."

All relief activities in Sebastian County, affecting 3200 workmen, have been shut down because of alleged intimidation and threats by advocates of a relief strike against reduced wage scales.

Bryan acted as his own attorney, rested his case shortly before noon today. He is charged with "acts encouraging personal or property injury or overthrow of Government."

Judge Galaher delivered a bitter oral attack on what he described as "beef eaters and radicals of commonwealth college," labor school near Mena now under legislative investigation for alleged Communistic activities.

Bryan, former commonwealth student, argued that the "real issue in this case is the right of the working class to use legal weapons of organized protest and petition."

Assistant Prosecutor Lem C. Bryan said: "The tragedy in this is that agitators from the outside have come in and then agitated the relief workmen out of their jobs."

BARS LOWER RATES TO STOCKHOLDERS

State Board Orders Telephone Company at Drexel to Cease Discrimination.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 16.—The Public Service Commission ordered the Farmers Mutual Telephone Co. of Drexel today to cease discriminating against non-stockholders of the company by charging them higher monthly rates than stockholders are charged.

The order is effective in 30 days. The company is required to file revised rate schedules conforming with the order within that time.

The company has 233 customers who are stockholders and 144 non-stockholders. The company last August reduced rates on residence telephones 25 cents and business telephones 50 cents.

The commission's opinion, written by Commissioner George H. English, found that although the company had been organized as a mutual concern, it was actually a utility operated for profit. Shares in the company had a par value of $20 a share and the lower rates to shareholders gave them either a 15 per cent or 20 per cent annual return on their investment, depending on whether they used a residence telephone or the higher priced business telephone. The commission found such rates of return excessive and also that the company had shown "unlawful discrimination" against the non-stockholders by charging them higher monthly rates.

Commissioners Stoecker, Anderson and McPherson concurred in the opinion. J. C. Collet, chairman of the commission, dissented.

Real Estate REAL ESTATE ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH SECTION For Sales

PART FOUR ST. LOUIS, SUNDAY MORNING, FEBRUARY 17, 1935. PAGES 1—12D

TWO FIRMS PLAN $299,000 OUTLAY ON PROPERTIES

Pledges Given in Better Housing Campaign, Close of Which Is Only Nine Working Days Ahead.

Two St. Louis firms signed pledges in the Better Housing campaign last week to make improvements of their business properties at a total cost of $299,000, it was announced yesterday by A. S. Cale, executive secretary in charge of headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce Building. One of the firms is to spend $199,000, the other $100,000.

Improvements to cost an aggregate of $13,281,320 have been pledged by property owners of St. Louis and nearby communities of the county, it was announced, and work representing a total expenditure of $3,870,048 has been completed by owners whose reports have been tabulated. Members of the field force who are making a recheck to determine the amount of completed improvements have contacted only slightly more than half of the 46,650 property owners who have signed pledges in the campaign being conducted by the Federal Housing Administration and the St. Louis and St. Louis County Chambers of Commerce. Many owners have made reports directly to headquarters.

The drive, which began Nov. 5, is scheduled to end Feb. 28, only nine working days ahead, and 610 field workers in city and county are engaged primarily in rechecking to ascertain amount of work completed and learn when others plan to make improvements. Less than half the owners contacted have completed their improvements.

Mayor Shaw of Clayton announced yesterday, through campaign headquarters, that $20,000 would be spent in constructing an addition to the City Hall and for enlarging the Public Library facilities. He also said the city of Clayton would take advantage of present low building prices to construct a modern city garage and utility building, which, he is confident, will eventually save the taxpayers many thousands of dollars.

SEVERAL SALES OF FARMS AND CITY PROPERTIES CLOSED

Six-room bungalow at 4986 Quincy street, for L. Dittmaier; 160-acre improved farm in St. Charles County, to Frank R. Brink; 80-acre improved farm near Collinsville, Ill., for Loanas Czapaitis; 61-acre improved farm in St. Charles County, for client; two single flats at 3671-3 Gratiot street, for John Steller and wife; five-room bungalow at 4140 Walsh street, for Stephen and Ida Herchert; three acres and seven-room residence at De Soto, Mo., for Mrs. Lena Ottensmeyer; 30-acre improved farm near Bloomsdale, Mo., to Joseph Brum; 70-foot lot on Reavis place, for Ethel M. Soell; five-room bungalow at 3310 Carson road to A. A. Gilman; five acres and six-room house on Telegraph road to I. D. Bartolet.

Pape & Johnson also announce the addition to their sales force of A. Bizelli and G. F. Lewis.

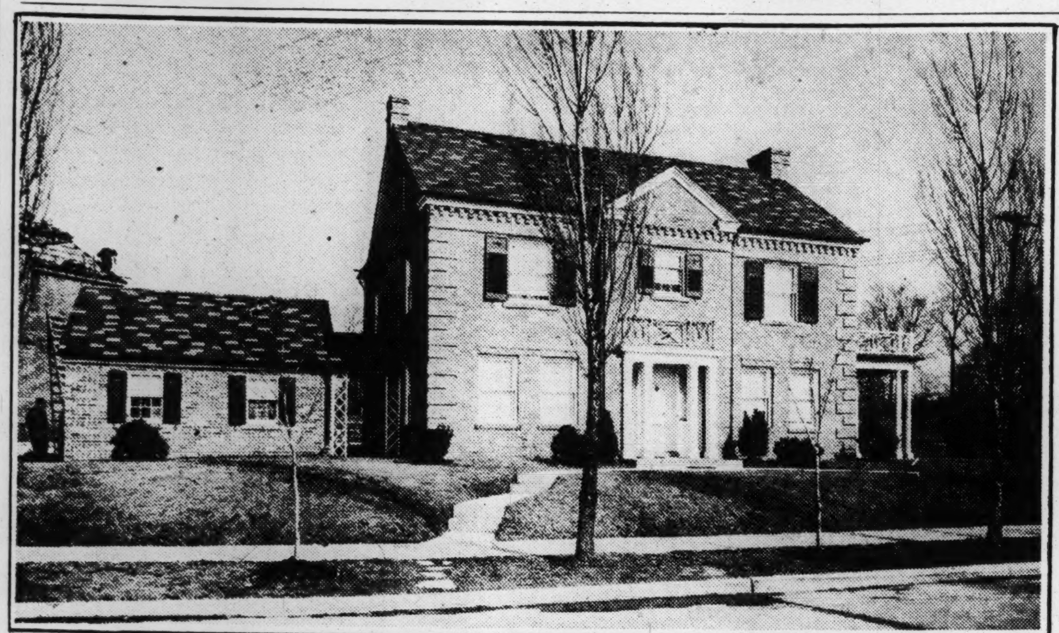
LEASES OF TWO OUTLYING BUSINESS QUARTERS CLOSED

Leases of two business properties last week was reported yesterday by the Ralph D'Oench Co. One was the building owned and formerly occupied by the Wellston Trust Co., 6212 Easton avenue. The lessee is Ed S. Hertrich, who will use the first and second floors as a tavern. The agency named represented both parties. The second transaction involved the ground floor corner store in the Ludwig Apartments, 8036 Hall's Ferry road. This was leased to the Double-Dip Ice Cream Co. who will occupy it about April 1 as an addition to its chain of retail establishments. The lessee was represented by the Wolf-Pollack Real Estate Co.

DRUG COMPANY DOUBLES ITS WAREHOUSE FACILITIES

The Walgreen Drug Stores, Inc., has leased double its former warehouse space at 3962 Page boulevard, taking the twin brick building immediately west, giving it 203 feet on Page boulevard, with a depth of 165 feet. Extensive alterations and repairs are being made. The expansion was made necessary by increased volume of business and the projected addition of stores to the 30 being operated by the company in St. Louis. The lease was negotiated by J. E. Dalton, real estate representative of the Walgreen Co.

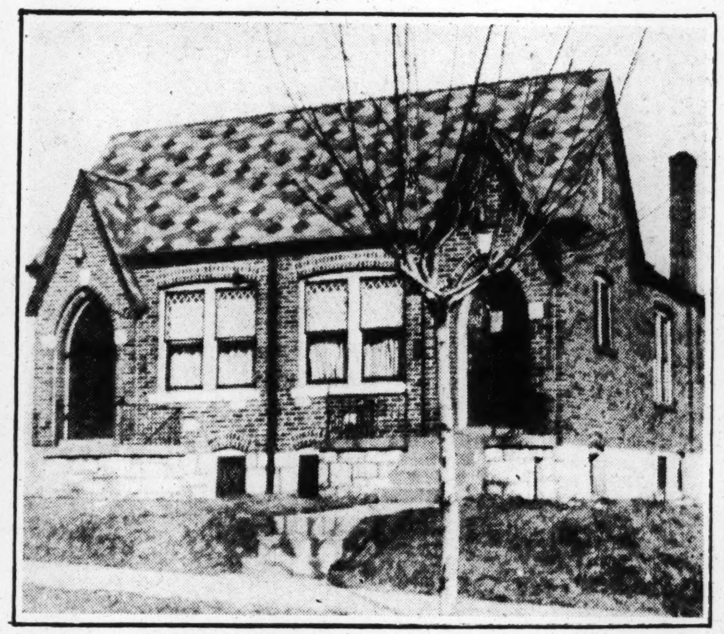
Homes Involved in Recent Real Estate Transactions



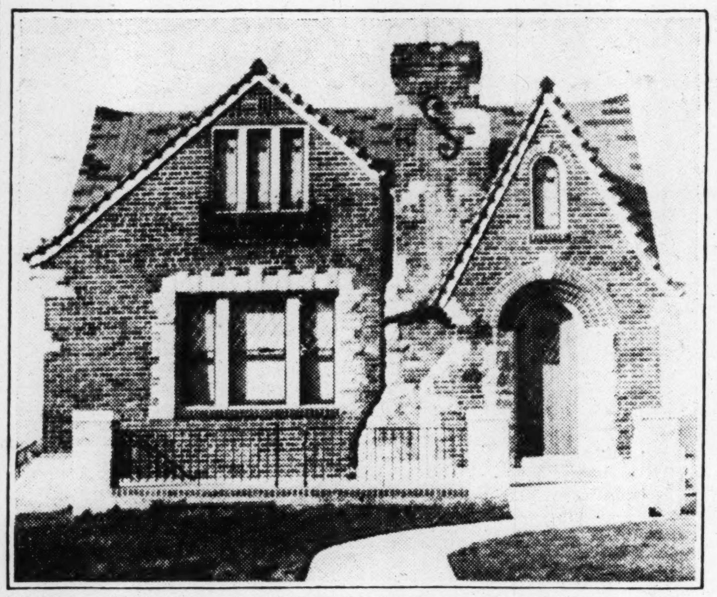
Colonial type residence at 7709 Biltmore drive, Davis Place, recently completed with replica fixtures of an old-time mansion in Virginia, bought by W. Scott Smith from the builder, the Pasquier Building Co. Shaw & Francis represented both interests.

Eight-room residence at 7209 Cambridge avenue, University City, sold to N. Lewis Nestor for Samuel Rill, builder Chauncey P Heath represented both principals.

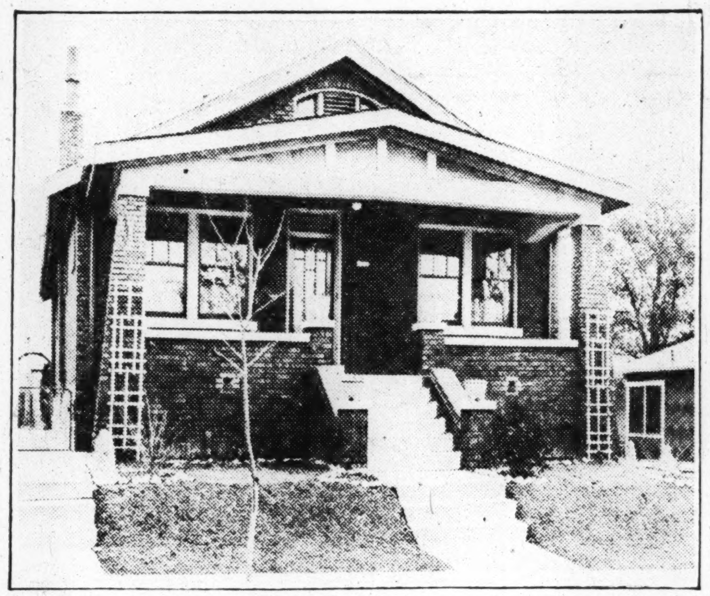
Rock residence at 5431 Bartmer avenue, lot 65x243 feet, containing 12 rooms, sold by W. J. Bartling Jr. to Florence N. Davies.



Duplex bungalow, ultra modern type, 5051-51A Pernod avenue, sold last week to John Wolf and wife, for Roy Vandenbroeck and wife. Both parties represented by H. A. O'Rourke, Inc.



McLaren Hills bungalow, 8743 Annetta avenue, sold last week by the Adolph K Feinberg R E Co., the builder, to Com Henselmeier and wife



Bungalow, 6 rooms, at 6200 Carlsbad avenue, newly constructed and bought by Michael Klock Transaction negotiated by Brinkop Real Estate Co.

$47,650 IN LOANS APPROVED BY FHA OFFICE LAST WEEK

The district office of the Federal Housing Administration reports that the volume of loans received and approved in St. Louis last week increased materially. The total amount closed, varying from $2250 to $12,000, was $47,650. Appraisals are made, construction costs calculated by the architectural section, character and mortgage risks considered, and reviewing and underwriting completed at the rate of four or more a day.

Richard S. Hawes Jr., district director, stated that the personnel of the office is sufficient to handle approximately eight times the volume of loans now being taken care of. The only delay experienced is that of the lending institutions in submitting applications to the district office.

E. G. Hotchkiss, manager of the modernization credits, announced that C. C. Hayward of Shelbina, former member of the Legislature, has been added to the force as field representative and will contact the banks, B. & L. associations and Chambers of Commerce in Northern Missouri in behalf of the modernization plan of the FHA.

R. E. EXCHANGE DINNER DANCE A SOCIAL EVENT OF WEEK

The dinner dance arranged by Arthur C. Hoehn, chairman, and his associates on the Entertainment Committee of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange, for members of that body and their guests, drew a notably large attendance last Thursday evening. The affair was held at the Norwood Hills Country Club, the spacious and inviting premises being none too extensive for the evening's requirements. A dinner that went well with the happily ordered details generally marking the occasion was served at 7:30 o'clock, and the remaining hours alloted to the event were passed in dancing, for which a capable orchestra provided music. The affair was favored by the one spring-like evening of the week.

DRUG COMPANY STARTS CHAIN SYSTEM ON EAST SIDE

The Apex Realty Co. last week closed a long-term lease of a large storeroom at 1320 Nineteenth street, Granite City, Ill., to the Hub Cut Rate Drug Co. Alterations have been completed, modern fixtures installed and the company, of which Lester Busch of St. Louis is president, is now in possession. This is the first of a chain of cut rate drug stores contemplated in the St. Louis metropolitan area. Both the company and owners of the property, Nathan Fleishman and Abraham Leventhal, were represented by the Apex Realty Co.

FIRM LEASES LOCUST ST. BUILDING FOR LONG TERM

The Mercantile-Commerce Bank and Trust Co. announced yesterday the closing of a lease of 1107 Locust street to the Underwood-Elliott-Fisher Co. After completion of extensive alterations, now in progress, better adapting the building to meet requirements of the lessee's business, it will be occupied under a long term lease by the firm named. The property is owned by the Thomas Dunn estate, and the Mercantile Commerce Bank and Trust Co. represented both parties.

REPORTS SALE OF EIGHT REAL PROPERTIES IN WEEK

Bungalow at 5028 Arlington avenue; single flat at 4537 Fair avenue; bungalow at 4612 Carrie avenue; 14-family tenement; bungalow on Larimore road, St. Louis County; two four-family flats at 3505-9 Clay avenue; single flat at 1476 East Adelaide avenue.

OLIVE AND 12TH BUILDING NOW "INSURANCE EXCHANGE"

The building on the northwest corner of Twelfth and Olive streets will hereafter be known as the "Insurance Exchange," it was announced yesterday by the management of the Union Electric Light and Power Co. The building was acquired by the utility named in 1930 from the Nathan Frank estate.

Last June several floors of the edifice were vacated by the tenant which had occupied them since it was built, and the change in name was made to remove confusion with the new quarters of the former tenant. Recently announcement was made of a lease by General Insurors, Inc., and St. Louis Fire and Marine Insurance Co., for the two top floors of the building. These tenants will take possession late next spring of the space being prepared for them.

ST. LOUIS AGENCY LEASES BUILDING IN ALTON, ILL.

The Edward Glik Co. reports having leased the building at 2518 College avenue, Alton, Ill., to Byron Yancey and R. F. Block. After alterations are made and the building divided Block will use a portion of it in the manufacture and sale of ice cream products and Yancey the other in the sale of electric refrigerators, radios and electrical equipment. The lease was made for the Kroger Grocery & Baking Co.

LEASING DEALS FOR THREE BUSINESS PROPERTIES CLOSED

Leasing of three business properties last week was announced yesterday by the Breitt & Naumer Realty Co. as follows: Store at 2603 North Fourteenth street to Sally Schwartz for a dress and ladies' apparel shop; also a beauty parlor. The lease was made for Mrs. Maria Kriegshauser. All parties were represented by Breitt & Naumer.. To Pennington Bros. Service Co., the building at 3227 Olive street for use in servicing and rebuilding electric refrigeration. Extensive alterations are being made and when completed the lessee will take possession. The company is now at 3417 South Grand boulevard. The lease was made for the Max Jacobson estate. All parties were represented by Breitt & Naumer. To B. M. Lauer, the five-story and basement building at 907-09 North Broadway for use in the storage and retailing of furniture. The lease was made for the Jacob Schopp estate. Both interests were represented by Breitt & Naumer.

NEWLY COMPLETED HOME ON PERNOD STREET SOLD

A duplex dwelling of the bungalow type, at 5051-51A Pernod street, completed a short time since, has been purchased as a family home and for investment by John Wolf and wife. It was acquired from Roy Van den Broeck and wife. Both principals were represented by H. A. O'Rourke, Inc.

BUSINESS PROPERTY AND TWO DOUBLE FLATS SOLD

Lupfer-Asker, Inc., realtors, report the sale of premises at 1637 South Jefferson avenue, containing a large store on first floor and offices on the second, to Kermit Siegfried for Sophie Schellenberg. The purchaser has occupied the lower floor for several years, operating a ladies' ready-to-wear and men's furnishing store. They also sold 2221-23 Chippewa street, four-family flat, and 3253-55 Illinois avenue, corner of Utah stret, four-family flat, for the Albert Huffschmitt estate to Leonhard Herdt and wife, who purchased for investment.

The company also reports having made loans totaling $40,000 in the last two weeks.

DECEMBER REALTY ACTIVITY SHOWS GAIN OVER NOVEMBER

Real estate market activity in December was indicated by an index figure of 53.4, according to the compilation made by the National Association of Real Estate Boards from official records of deeds recorded in 62 typical cities. The November index was 51.8. The base used in the compilation is total number of deeds recorded in the corresponding month of 1926.

IMPROVED AND VACANT PROPERTIES IN 7 SALES

The John P. Dolan Realty Co. reports the following recent sales:

New residence at 7338A Ahern avenue, for John J. O'Gorman, builder, to Frank B. Manning and wife; vacant lot fronting 80 feet on Cromwell drive, in Moorlands, for the Delor Realty Co. to Ben Goldberg; vacant lot on Gissler avenue for a client to John J. O'Gorman; single flat at 5645 Finkman avenue for Clarence Skala to Fred L. Dow and wife; vacant ground in Alta-Dena subdivision for a client to Louis J. Wenneker; new four-bedroom house, 61 Lake Forest subdivision, for Louis J. Wenneker, builder, to a client; vacant ground on the corner of Gannon and Warder avenues, University City, to a builder who will improve with a modern residence.

The company also reports, through Howard Bergen, sales manager, very active interest in new residences in the Lake Forest subdivision.

SIX-FAMILY APARTMENT IN WEST-END SOLD FOR CASH

Purchaser for Investment Soon Disposes of Property an a Similar Basis.

The six-family apartment at 5739 Westminster place was sold last week by John Grether & Co. for William Robinowitz to Abraham Licht and wife, it was announced yesterday by that firm. Each apartment has seven rooms, hardwood floors, tile baths and walls in baths and there are six brick garages. This was a cash transaction. The Columbus Mutual Life Insurance Co. of Columbus, O., had a $17,500 first deed of trust on the property, which was paid off. Licht, in turn, transferred the property to J. C. Murphy and wife, who purchased for investment. John Grether & Co. represented all parties.

The Grether Co. also sold, for Ben Berg to Bertha Sokolik, the business property at 1519 South Broadway, consisting of a store and flat above. This property is in the busy section of the old French market, and was bought as an investment.

The same firm also leased 6750 square feet of vacant ground on the north side of Easton avenue, numbered 4921-23, to Mark Gregory, for use as an auto sales place. A second lease was of 4294 Natural Bridge avenue for Lena Mazza to Sam Seltzer, who will occupy it as an auto accessories store.

John Grether & Co. report having made several 5 per cent loans.

FINAL TOUCH GIVEN DEAL FOR 12TH AND OLIVE CORNER

Union-May-Stern, New Owner, to Hurry Preparations for Early Fall Occupancy.

"Signed, sealed and delivered" was placed in the record of sale of the southeast corner of Olive and Twelfth streets last Friday. This was in line with the confident anticipation of all St. Louis interests concerned, including the Union-May-Stern Co., purchaser; Cornet & Zeibig and Jack Dubinsky, realty agents, and the Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co. Owners of the conspicuous and valuable property are non-residents and scattered, some being as far away as California, so that correspondence entailed greater delay than usual.

The sale extended to site as well as the eight-story building occupying it. Until recent years the ground was a leasehold interest only, but when the improvement was surrendered by the lessee the holding in its entirety reverted to the Patterson estate and in this form was transferred to the Union-May-Stern Co. and will become headquarters of its eight furniture and housefurnishing stores in St. Louis.

M. C. Myerson, president of Union-May-Stern stated yesterday that remodeling of the company's future home will begin as soon as preliminary details can be concluded, probably within two weeks, and the work will be carried forward with the view to occupancy early next fall.

FIVE PARCELS OF REALTY SOLD, GARAGE LEASED

The Harry M. Fine Realty Co., Inc., reports the following sales:

4114 West Penrose street, cottage, for William E. Phillips to James T. Collins; 8813 Blewett avenue, residence, for Fred Quelch to Anna Traub; 4173-75 De Tonty street, four-family flat, for Abram Mermelstein, represented by M. I. Robbins, to Anna Traub; 2013 Mallinckrodt street, two cottages, for Bertha Gunn, to a client; 1436 Belt avenue, four-family flat, to a client. Also reports having leased for Clarence L. Owen to Harold Spiegelglass, a fully equipped 100-car capacity garage building at 808 De Mun avenue.

ONE BUSINESS PROPERTY LEASED, ANOTHER SOLD

The Mullin-Walters Realty Co., Inc., reports the following transactions completed the past week:

The Eureka Vacuum Cleaner Co. leased the entire second floor of the building at 2665-67 Washington avenue, and closed a sales deal for 138 West Ferry street to a client, who expects to make extensive alterations and improvements of the property. All parties in these transactions were represented by the Mullin-Walters R. Co.

TWO RESIDENCES FEATURE WEEK'S REALTY MARKET

Replica of Details in Old Virginia Mansion Found in Davis Place Home—Sale of Bartmer Avenue Dwelling.

The conspicuous realty transactions completed last week were in the residential division of the market. One of these was quite recently brought to the ready-for-occupancy stage, at 7709 Biltmore drive, Davis place, the other, at 5431 Bartmer avenue, being one of the sturdy structures erected several years ago but completely remodeled along modern lines within the last few weeks. The former was purchased as the family's future home by W. Scott Smith, general agent of the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Co., from the Pasquier Building Co., builder, through Shaw & Francis, representing both interests. Building plans were by R. P. Buchmiller, architect.

The Davis place property is strictly Colonial in design, and a distinguishing feature is found in its doorways and mantels, said to be faithful replicas of those details in an old mansion at Williamsburg, Va. Among those being restored to their ancient form by J. D. Rockefeller, at an outlay running into large figures.

The residence, occupying an eligible corner site, is of brick construction, with colorful slate roof. It has a center reception hall, large living-room with open fireplace, dining-room, breakfast-room, four bedrooms, two baths, maid's room and bath, kitchen, built-in bookniches and open porch, also open porch connecting with two of the bedrooms. The third floor is designed for a playroom, and there is a games room in the basement. Connected with the house is a two-car garage. The heating system is air-conditioned, with a gas-fired plant.

It is stated by the agency named that fully a score of residences are in course of construction in that residential subdivision, on the north side of Clayton road, between Hanley and North and South roads.

Purchase of a long-familiar dwelling in the central-western section of the city, last week, affords testimony, according to observant real estate operators, that nothing is being surrendered by that long-favored area of handsome homes, while adjacent county locations are actively developing. The residence in this instance is 5431 Bartmer avenue, having a site of 65x243 feet. It is of rock construction, containing 12 rooms, with two baths and a full measure of halls, closets and other conveniences. It was recently remodeled throughout the interior, along most modern lines. The purchaser was Florence N. Davies, a client of the H. K. Realty Co., the transaction being negotiated by W. J. Bartling Jr. The price paid is said to have been evidence of well-maintained values.

NEWLY BUILT BUNGALOW ON CARLSBAD AVE. SOLD

The latest completed building enterprise by the Christian Brinkop Real Estate Co., a six-room brick bungalow at 6200 Carlsbad avenue, facing Christy Park, was sold by the builder last week to Michael Klack..

FINE BUILDING SITES at GRAY AVENUE and JACKSON ROAD

About 4 blocks from the heart of Webster Groves and in the vicinity of Sherwood Forest is located a group of handsome lots which offer the appropriate setting and location for homes of the better type, at a reasonable investment. There are 3 lots, approximately 70x189, fronting on Gray avenue; 2 lots 65x225 fronting on Jackson Rd., and 1 lot 80x225 fronting on Jefferson Rd. These lots have just recently become available and due to the scarcity of vacant property of this type, we advise inspection and choice at once.

Call our Real Estate Department, REpublic 2400.

BUILDERS, ATTENTION!

400 ft. front on northeast corner of Natural Bridge and Roland Blvd. Best place you could find for community market where a variety of business is centered. This corner is ripe for improvement, adjoining Pasadena Hills, which is building up fast with most substantial class of homes in and around St. Louis. Entire section is restricted except this corner. Then consider the transient trade you get from the highway. If sold at once will sacrifice for half of original cost.

100x121, southwest, corner Florissant Blvd. and Carson Road, in heart of City of Ferguson. Good for almost any kind of business. Must sell at once.

50x124, Florissant Ave. and Jennings Station Road. Owner will sacrifice for $2000.

We have 3 lots in the best spot of beautiful Pasadena Hills at special big bargain. Act quick. For information call at 3959 Roland Blvd., Pasadena Hills.

Alabama

FARMERS in Baldwin County, Alabama, are fortunately located; desirable climate, productive soils, good home conditions, abundant rainfall, several thousand carloads of early produce are shipped to Northern markets annually, growers receiving cash at shipping points. The early crops are followed by second crop on the same land. Baldwin County is a proved, good, prosperous general farming, livestock, poultry and trucking region; about 80 per cent of the farmers on lower Baldwin are from the North. Good land still available at reasonable prices. For illustrated literature, write E. J. Hoddy, General Development Agent, Dept. B-94, Louisville & Nashville R. R. Co., Louisville, Ky.

California

IN CALIFORNIA, SMALL FARM HOMES beat the depression. Such homes are the solution of many of our economic and social problems. Less working hours per week make it possible to derive a good part of the living for the average family from a small tract. California offers this opportunity, where many varieties of fruits and vegetables are grown the year round. The Small Farm Home is a proven success in many localities in California. The Santa Fe Railway has no land to sell, but offers free information service to help you get right location. Low fares to California. Write for illustrated Southern California folder and our farm paper, "The Earth," free for six months. Agricultural Development Department, Santa Fe Railway, 934 Railway Exchange, Chicago.

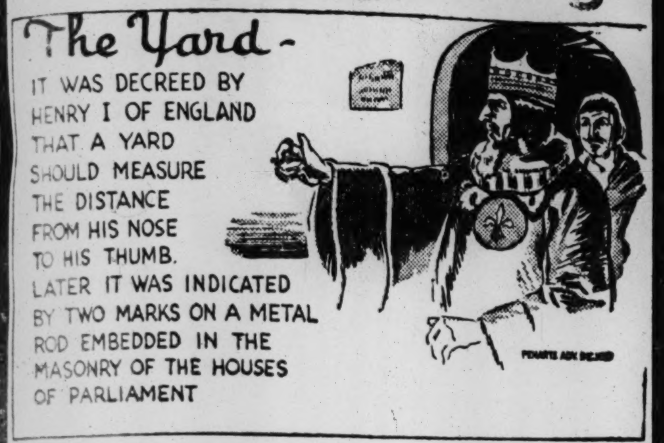
History Beginnings



The Yard -
IT WAS DECREED BY HENRY I OF ENGLAND THAT A YARD SHOULD MEASURE THE DISTANCE FROM HIS NOSE TO HIS THUMB. LATER IT WAS INDICATED BY TWO MARKS ON A METAL ROD EMBEDDED IN THE MASONRY OF THE HOUSES OF PARLIAMENT

Used Car values, here, are measured as all honest merchandise is appraised. And you are sold a GOOD-LOOKING, DEPENDABLE CAR at AN ASTOUNDING LOW FIGURE.

NEW BROODER DEVELOPMENT SAVES CHICKS
Read What Rieger Says—

International Oil Burner Co.
St. Louis, Mo.
Gentlemen:
I have used one of the first oil brooders that you had on the market, and I can truthfully say that it is simple to operate and very dependable.
Last season out of my first hatch of 368, I raised 366 chicks, which is remarkably well. My success with these chicks was greatly due to the even temperature the brooder held in the brooder house, night and day.
I am using two of these units this year, and I can recommend these brooders to any poultry raiser.
Yours, for Success,
Signed: JOHN RIEGER,
Trenton, Illinois.

Stop losing profits. The new International Blue Flame Oil Burning Brooder, newest and most reliable brooder, maintains constant, even, healthful temperature night and day, to raise strong chicks without loss. Rieger in Illinois on his entire first hatch lost only two chicks in a preliminary test. Does away with sleepless nights—saves money, time and worry, operates at low cost. Special low price now available. Drop in for special demonstration or write for illustrated folder.

All Clubs Waive on Malone; Cards Can Send Him to Minors

ICKEY SAYS HURLER MUST LIVE UP TO CLUB RULES

By J. Roy Stockton.

All major league clubs have aived on the services of Perce "Pat" Malone, the right-handed itcher obtained by the Cardinals rom the Cubs, and the St. Louis ational League club can transfer he former strikeout artist to one f its farm teams and offer him a inor league salary, it was learned st night. The granting of waivrs, in effect, means that no Naonal League club was willing to ay $6000 and no American League lub $7500 for the pitcher's conact.

Branch Rickey, confirming the eport that waivers had been ught and obtained, said he was sed and disappointed.

"When I obtained Malone from e Cubs for cash and Catcher enneth O'Dea, I thought I was etting a player with great value the trading market," Rickey ld the Post-Dispatch. "Two clubs ad claimed him for the waiver ice and another club, I knew, was terested. In fact, before I made e Malone deal, I thought I had other one all arranged with an- city, whereby we would exnge Malone for players we want- However, the three clubs subquently lost interest, and I have en unable to arrange a satisfacry deal.

Given Chance to Trade Self.

"When Malone returned the only ntract I offered him, and said he as convinced we did not contemlate having him in Cardinal unirm, I gave him permissoion to try negotiate a trade for himself. I egret that he has been unable to rrange such a trade and was disppointed when the granting of aivers showed the other major ague clubs did not want him.

"Understand, we are not using is waiver information as a club er his head. I wanted to know w many clubs were interested in s services and so more than two [illegible]s ago I asked for waivers on [illegible] players, including Malone."

When asked if he contemplated ny conference with Malone, ickey said he already had inited the pitcher to come to St. ouis to discuss terms.

"I told Malone that he would ave to change his attitude toward aseball before he could fit into e Cardinal scheme of things," ickey said. "I went into detail d told him that if I had been [illegible]formed about anything and e could enlighten me, I would be eased to have him call at the ardinal office. He has not anwered that communication.

Only Contented Hurlers Wanted.

"I want to make one point clear. do not want Malone to sign the ontract we have offered him unless e changes his attitude toward aseball and club discipline. Furhermore it will avail him nothing o get himself into physical condiion and meet me at Bradenton ith the statement that he is fit nd ready to win 20 games for us. And until he is signed, of course, e will not be permitted to put n a Cardinal uniform."

Malone, who won 14 games and ost seven for the 1934 Cubs, was ffered $5000 in the contract ofered by the Cardinals, it has been earned. In a recent letter to the

Eagles Start New Deal, Beating Boston, 3-0; Boucher Punches Shore

By W. J. McGoogan.

Those revamped Eagles snapped back into life at the Arena last night, handing the Boston Bruins a 3 to 0 defeat, the first victory in five games for the St. Louis club over the New Englanders in the National Hockey League season.

It was a mortified and disgruntled visiting club, which saw the despised Eagles, last placers in the International division, get off to a goal lead in the first period and add two more in the final session to score the third shutout for their goalie, Bill Beveridge.

Shore Hits Cowley on Head.

So angry did the Bruins become that just as the game finished, Eddie Shore, dynamic Bruin defense man, took a swing with his stick and hit young Bill Cowley on the head. That was just as Cowley and Kelly rushed the Boston goal and Kelly scored what should have been the fourth Eagle goal as the siren ending the game, was blowing. But the goal was not allowed and as Cowley lay on the ice, Buck Boucher, coach of the Eagles, rushed out of the St. Louis bench and accused Shore of striking the young player.

"What if I did hit him?" sneered Shore.

Boucher Hits Shore on Chin.

'Well, take this," replied Boucher, and swung a right which despite the fact that the coach had on his overcoat sped true to the mark on Shore's chin.

But the coach was in shoes while Shore was on skates and as Shore struck back Boucher hit the ice as numerous fans and players gathered around to end the fracas.

Meanwhile young Cowley whose playing during the game was one of the highlights, was helped off the ice with a gash in the back of his head.

Glen Brydson, Carl Voss and Bill Cowley scored the goals for the Eagles.

Brydson was the first to count, denting the Boston net on passes from Voss and Ripley, at the 12:50 mark in the opening session while Voss stole the puck in a Boston rush just two minutes after the third period opened, outwitted big Seibert, Boston defense man, pulled tiny Thompson out of the net and slipped the disc into the mesh. Brydson and Ripley received credit for assists on the play.

A few minutes later, as Boston attacked in force, young Cowley stole the puck from the rush and with the assistance of Kelly scored the Eagles' third marker.

Beveridge Stars in Goal.

After that Boston rushed and the Eagles severel times stole the disc from them to give Thompson many hard chances. Kelly and Lamb both missed great chances to score as Thompson slid out to protect his net, in one instance going almost to the blue line to make a save.

Despite the fine offense which the Eagles showed it took great defensive work on the part of Goalie Beveridge to gain his shutout. He was about even in the number of saves with Thompson, and just as he did against Chicago here recently, several times stopped the shot and spilled the man who made it.

While the first Eagle forward line of Voss-Brydson, Ripley was the most productive, the work of the kids, Cowley, Kelly and Eddie Finnigan stood out.

It was a fine triumph which sent the fans to the number of 6210, according to the hockey club's management, home happy.

Shannon Deal Held Up.

The Eagles play the Rangers in New York Tuesday night and the Americans there Thursday night before returning to Arena to face the Montreal Maroons here next Saturday night.

A mixup caused the St. Louis team to be without either Jerry Shannon or Frank Jerwa. Shannon was supposed to have been recalled from Boston by the Eagles and Jerwa sent back. But Boston wouldn't agree and exhibited two telegrams supporting their claim to Shannon.

Telephone calls to Frank S. Calder, president of the National League at Toronto, failed to get any satisfaction so to play it safe the Eagles didn't dress Jerwa, although Boston used Shannon.

It was also announced that Mickey Blake had been sent back to the Detroit club.

Bears Beaten by Oklahoma Aggies

By the Associated Press.

STILLWATER, Ok., Feb. 16.—The Oklahoma Aggies snatched a hotly contested basketball battle from the Washington Bears here tonight, 23 to 20, and left the Missouri Valley cellar to Washburn's Ichabods. For the Aggies it was a defensive affair most of the way.

The Bears led until Dobson and Keeley opened a last half drive for A. and M. that tied the score at 13-all. The lead was traded back and forth four times, and near the finish the Aggies pushed through for set-ups to provide the winning margin.

The loss broke Washington's last faint hope for a share of the conference honors.

Hudgens of Washington won scoring honors, with nine points.

WRAY'S COLUMN

When Cy Was Young.

THE Cleveland Press prints the facsimile of a contract signed by Cy Young, one of the greatest pitchers of all time, showing that he received $1430 a year for pitching.

CY YOUNG

Cy pitched for 22 years in the major leagues and up to the last was good. At no time did he receive more than $5000 a year for his efforts. This sum is only a little more than one-fourth what Dizzy Dean will get from the Cardinals for his services this year, and about one-tenth what Dean will earn from his salary plus his extra-Cardinal activities based on capitalization of his baseball reputation.

Baseball players who preceded the gold rush days that followed the war, view with a horrified amazement the baseball holdouts of today, when ball players indignantly refuse salaries in five figures as "not enough."

Cy Young, advised that Dizzy Dean at the age of 24 was balking at an $18,000 salary, must have rubbed his eyes to see if he had read correctly.

However, before the World War, baseball receipts would not stand such an overhead and players knew it. During the economic war of today, the traffic is still less able to bear baseball's cost; but the players don't believe that. Unless conditions improve this season, they'll learn more about it next fall.

It remains to be seen whether

Summary—Score at end of half: St. Louis 21, Loyola 18.

Officials—Referee, Kamp (Washington). Umpire, Douglass (Grinnell).

By James M. Gould.

With both teams playing real basketball and fighting every inch of the way, the St. Louis University Billikens last night recorded their eighth victory in 12 games when they defeated Loyola University of Chicago, at the Billiken gym, 40 to 32. Not until the last few minutes were the Billikens able to pull away from their leech-like opponents and the score was tied seven times during the action.

Fash for St. Louis and Murray for Loyola were the high scorers with 10 points each, but the flashiest performance of the game was given by the smallest man on the floor, Bobby Bohn, Billiken substitute. Bohn, the only sub Coach Mike Nyikos used, is a halfpint in size, but he's fast, an accurate shot and mighty useful in intercepting enemy passes and breaking up opposition plays. While he was in action, he gathered eight points on four nice baskets from the floor. Every Billiken had a part in the scoring except Hoffman, who started at center and was twice relieved by Bohn.

St. Louis had the heavier and rangier team, but what the Loyolans lacked in size they made up in speed and aggressiveness and it was anybody's game until the last four or five minutes.

Loyola was first to score and, during the first half, the lead changed hands five times. Once the Billikens enjoyed a six-point lead, but it was only momentary and the Loyola players slowly bridged the gap in the late minutes and, at the end of the half, were trailing by only three points—21 to 18.

Beginning the second period, the Chicago team stepped out and tied it up at 24-24 and at 26-26. Then, the Billiken shots began to hit the basket and after Fash had broken this 26-26 tie, the St. Louisans never again were tied or headed. By scoring eight points to four for Loyola in the last minutes, the Billikens ran their advantage to 40-32 and it staped there until the game ended.

Play was of the cleanest variety, only eight fouls being called on each team. Fast and furious from the very start, it was one of the most interesting contests of the season.

In a preliminary game, the St. Louis U. freshmen took the open-

Cunningham Again Trims Venzke and Bonthron; Hornbostel Still Unbeaten

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Glenn Cunningham, the "Iron Horse," again demonstrated his mastery of American milers tonight with a smashing victory over Gene Venzke and Bill Bonthron, his two Eastern rivals, in the Baxter Mile, feature ace of the New York Athletic Club meet in Madison Square Garden.

Cunningham, pulling away from his pursuers with a spectacular closing sprint, broke the tape 25 yards in front of Venzke in the brilliant time of 4 minutes, 9.8 seconds, a new record for the event but short of the former University of Kansas star's own indoor record of 4:08.4. Bonthron, third for the second time in two weeks, trailed Venzke by five yards.

Erik Ny Abandons Race.

Harry Williamson of North Carolina faded after sticking with the leaders for the first half mile and finished fourth, 10 yards behind Bonthron. The fifth starter, Erik Ny of Sweden, dropped out after setting a sizzling pace for the first quarter, which the foreign star covered in 57 seconds flat.

The issue was never in doubt after Cunningham moved out in front on the back stretch of the sixth lap. The powerful Kansas runner made every post a winning one from there on, while his rivals dropped steadily behind. Bonthron began to tire, with four laps to go, and the crowd got its only thrill when the former Princeton captain was passed by Venzke on the tenth lap of the 11-lap journey.

Cunningham received an ovation as he roared down the stretch all alone.

Venzke was clocked in 4 minutes 13.9 seconds and Bonthron in 4:15. The times by quarters revealed unusually erratic pacing. In order they were 57 seconds, 64.4, 66.2 and 62.2.

Cunningham, in capturing his second Baxter mile within three years, gained sweet revenge for the eyelash decision he lost last year in this event to Bonthron. It was Glenn's fourth victory in seven races with Bill. His time eclipsed the former Baxter mile record of 4:10, set by Venzke in 1932.

Torrance Fails of Record.

Burly Jack Torrance, who has beaten 57 feet outdoors in hurling the 16-pound hot, disappointed a capacity crowd of 16,000 fans when he failed by nearly a foot to touch the world indoor record of 52 feet 8⅝ inches, held by Leo Sexton.

The giant Lousiana State athlete

EDDIE DYER TO LEAD ROCHESTER PENDING CRAWFORD'S RECOVERY

By the Associated Press.

HOUSTON, Feb. 16.—Eddie Dyer of Houston, who has managed several St. Louis Cardinal "farm" teams, was notified tonight of his appointment as temporary manager of the Rochester Red Wings of the International League.

Dyer will have charge of the team until Pat Crawford, first baseman-manager, recovers from blood poisoning. Dyer said he was advised of his appointment by Warren Giles, president of the Rochester club, in a telephone conversation. Once an outstanding athlete at Rice Institute here, Dyer coached Rice's freshman football team last fall.

EVELETH HANDS FLYERS SURPRISE DEFEAT, 3 TO 2

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

EVELETH, Minn., Feb. 16.—Balked by the brilliant goal minding of young Frank Ceryance, the St. Louis Flyers, leaders of the American Hockey Association, suffered their second straight loss of the Central Hockey League invasion here tonight in bowing to the Eveleth Rangers by a 3 to 2 score.

Ceryance established a record for Central League activity when he frustrated 59 attempts of the Flyers to score. Although the Flyers found little difficulty in penetrating the Rangers' outer defenses, they were thwarted on all but two occasions in their efforts to beat Ceryance, a local hockey product. Time and again the Flyers, led by Billy DePaul, another hockey product of Eveleth, Shrimp McPherson, Larry Scott and Pete Palangio broke into the clear in front of Ceryance, but the youngster coolly turned back the scoring thrusts. The fine combination play of Rudy Ahlin and Art Erickson, who figured in all Eveleth's scoring, was responsible for Eveleth's seventh victory in Central and American Association competition.

The flyers failed throughout the contest, although they managed to tie the score in the first period. A three-man attack brought Eveleth its first score, Ahlin starting the play at the Flyers' blue line passing to Erickson, who in turn gave Louis Prelesnik a pass in front of the goal and the latter beat Goalie Murray.

Spurting near the end of the period, Padden beat the Ranger defense to give Teel a neat pass and the latter converted as Ceryance dove to make the save.

Eveleth took a two goal lead in the middle canto when Erickson and Ahlin combined on two rushes to tally, the latter getting both goals. Held scoreless in the second session, the Flyers came back in the final period to score again when Padden stickhandled his way through the defense to beat Ceryance again.

35,000 SEE COUCCI SCORE VICTORY OVER 16 RIVALS

55,000 Race Fans Bet $988,000 at Two Major Tracks

NEARLY a million dollars was bet at the two major race tracks, Santa Anita Park, Los Angeles, and Hialeah Park, Miami, yesterday afternoon.

At Santa Anita a crowd of 35,000 placed bets totaling $579,841, a new California record, while at Miami 20,000 wagered $409,049 in the totalizator, a new mark for the Florida track.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 16.—Gillie, bay colt of the Greentree stable with Silvio Coucci up, today won the $20,000 added Santa Anita derby, finishing a length and a half in front of Whiskolo. Demonstration was third. The time for the mile and a sixteenth was 1:44 3-5.

Victory was worth $19,650 to Mrs. Payne Whitney, owner of the son of Victorian. He paid $32.20 to win; $13.40 to place and $8.40 to show.

Whiskolo, bay colt of the Milky Way farm, brought home $4000 and paid $16.80 to place and $10 to show on $2 pari-mutuel tickets.

Demonstration paid $39.40 to show.

Thirty-five thousands persons who filled the stands and overflowed into the infield cheered madly as Gillie came up fast on the outside to take the race after Bluebeard and Pantoufle had held the advantage most of the way.

Gillie Off Thirteenth.

Rated as the poorer half of the Greentree entry yesterday, Gillie ran alone when Peradventure, classed high among the favorites, was scratched with three others, cutting the field to 17.

Gillie broke from the barrier thirteenth; moved up to eleventh at the quarter post and was ninth into the back stretch. Coucci preferred not to better this position as they paraded down to the turn, with Bluebeard setting the pace and Shining Jewel second. But he gave the son of Victorian his head as they raced into the final turn.

Sound Advice, coupled with Polar Flight, had been the post time favorite at 9 to 10 odds, with the C. V. Whitney entry of Pantoufle and Pundit heavily played as second choice.

A new California betting record was set at the track when $579,841 went through the pari-mutuel machines as compared with the old mark of $459,891 set here Feb. 2. More than $9,000,000 has been bet to date.

Cavalcade in Light Workout.

Conflicting reports which had Cavalcade, 1934 Kentucky Derby winner, both in and out of the Santa Anita Handicap a week hence, were heard today.

Bob Smith, trainer of Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane's horse, worked him lightly this morning, first walking the big thoroughbred and giving him a short gallop without apparent ill effect.

Mrs. Sloane, on arrival at her Pasadena hotel, however, said the horse had been scratched from the event. She admitted she had not talked to her trainer since she arrived.

Smith said he intended to gallop Cavalcade tomorrow and probably would not know for certain whether the horse would go to the post in the $100,000 handicap until later in the week. He has until 10:30 a. m. Friday to decide.

Cavalcade had not worked for almost three weeks because of infection in a hoof.

Gillie, under splendid riding, saved ground on backstretch, came fast around the outside entering stretch and wore down the leaders to win going away. Whiskolo, never far away, made a strong move to get to the front in stretch and raced gamely to the finish, but was not good enough. Demonstration made a strong stretch run and was going very fast at end. Pantoufle saved much ground in the stretch to draw up on almost equal terms with the leaders, but weakened near the finish. Sound Advice reached a contending position after going a quarter, but was in close quarters and was bumped in stretch.

EVENT TONIGHT IS EXPECTED TO BE COMPLETED IN TWO HOURS

THE PROGRAM

Event 2. Exhibition by "Red" McCarthy, world's champion barrel jumper and Canadian Olympic skater.
Event 3. Exhibition by Rence Flammer, St. Louis' 4-year-old figure skater.
Event 5. Exhibition, pair figure skating, John Angle and Miss Ruth Knobloch, St. Louis.
Event 6. Exhibition by Lila May Wideman, St. Louis' 5-year-old figure skater.
Event 7. Barrel jumping by "Red" McCarthy.
Event 8. Exhibition by Douglas Duffy, comedy skit, the "Gay Promenaders."
Event 9. World's championship 26-mile, 385-yard) ice skating marathon race, for a new world's record and ice marathon champion.

MARATHON ENTRIES.

1. Jimmy Jamieson, St. Louis pro ace.
2. Bill Minster, St. Louis, 1934 Pittsburgh seven-day winner.
3. Ben O'Sickey, Cleveland, winner of 1933 world's six-day ice race and half-mile titleholder.
4. William Weigert, St. Louis.
5. Paul (Pop) Bourdeau, Schenectady, N. Y. endurance ice skating champion.
6. Charlie Delpier, Detroit, world's premier seven-day ice titleholder.
7. Ray Strodel, Syracuse, N. Y., central New York indoor skating champion.
8. E. H. Eddie) O'Herin, Cleveland.
9. Herman A. Perlberg, Cleveland, runner up to Ben O'Sickey for the 1933 world's championship six-day [illegible] races.
10. John Tobias, Detroit.

14. Bobby Lamb, Astoria, Long Island, N. Y., 1933 six-day winner.

By Harry McKanna.

St. Louis will be introduced to a new sport tonight, if it can be placed in that category, when the first ice skating race at the marathon distance, 26 miles and 385 yards, will be held at the Winter Garden under the promotionship of Ben Blanke.

Leading professional skaters from Detroit, Cleveland, St. Louis, Chicago and New York State ice skating centers will compete in the race, which will get under way at 9 o'clock. The race will be run over a track one-sixteenth of a mile long, and the winner will have to circle the course 419½ times.

It is expected that the race will take at least two hours. The world record for a land marathon, which is from point to point, is 2 hours, 29 minutes and 39½ seconds, and is held by Willie Kohlemainen of Finland. The Finn set his mark at Newark, N. J., in 1912.

Ben O'Sickey of Cleveland, who with Bobby McLean of Chicago, won the six-day team race at Madison Square Garden, New York, in 1933, will be one of the starters and he is favored to win, although he appears to face stiff competition. Charley Delphier of the Cadillac A. C. of Detroit, and two Cleveland blade artists—W. A. Perleberg and Eddie O'Herin—are among the top-rank skaters entered. Paul (Pop) Boudreau, endurance racer, who holds the unofficial American record, having skated 19 consecutive hours at Schenectady in 1931, is figured as the "dark horse" in the event.

O'Sickey is of the opinion that Jimmy Jamieson and Bill Minster, St. Louis entrants, will be dangerous competitors as the local skaters have been training on the Winter Garden track for the last three months.

Other stars in the field of 14 are Ray Strodel of Syracuse, N. Y., John Tobias of Detroit, Maurice De Loof and Peter Dube of Chicago, and Bobby Lamb of Astoria, N. Y., who won a six-day race in New York in 1933.

Preceding the marathon will be an ice circus featuring "Red" McCarthy, barrel jumper; Douglas Duffy, stunt skater, and a figure skating exhibition by St. Louis juvenile stars and senior skaters. The program will start at 8:15 o'clock.

AROUND AND AROUND THEY'LL GO—419 Laps in Ice Skating Marathon

Scheer Leads In Semifinals of Pin Eliminations

Art Scheer, of the Budweiser bowling team, took the lead in the semifinal round of the local elimination bowling tournament last night when he rolled a six-game total of 1293 at the Cinderella Recreation. Win Glaub placed second with 1248 and Hank Summers third with 1216.

Ray Newton, Wooster Lambert star, started off with 463 for the first two games, but failed to hit the pocket in the third game and finished with a total of 1162.

The final six games of the round will be bowled at the Wellston Recreation this evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Last night's scores:

Ann Johnson Leads.

Ann Johnson rolled an average of 206 to take the lead in the women's elimination tourney at the Fairgrounds alleys last night, totaling 1239 for the scix games and beating Mrs. Lucille Wilson by 29 pins. Mrs. Johnson scored better than 200 in five of her six games, her best count being 215. Mrs. Wilson went over the 200 mark four times, scoring a 235 in her third game, and finished with 1210 for the runnerup position.

Adele Traufler totaled 1159, for third place, and Ann LaBreque 1064 for fourth.

The scores:

HERMANNS ROLL 3174, LEAD HANDICAP LEAGUE

The Herrmann team of the Major City League took over first place in the City Handicap Bowling League, at Heidel's alleys last night, shooting 3174, including a handicap of 30 pins. They thus displaced the Herrmann team of the North Side Y. M. C. A. League who holds second position with a 3166 total.

Singles and doubles competition opened last night and E. Yungerman, with a 66 pins handicap, leads with 729 in the one group, while C. Hirst and J. Hillemeyer, with 544 and 570, respectively, head the doubles with a 1255 total, including 141 pins handicap.

McKendree Wins.

LEBANON, Ill., Feb. 16.—The McKendree College Wildcats defeated Central Wesleyan, 47 to 34, in a basketball game played here tonight. McKendree led at the half, 25 to 13.

Swimmer, Going 1500 Meters, Sets Five National A. A. U. Marks

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 16.—A junior at Case School of Applied Science, Paul Grossman, bettered five National A. A. U. back-stroke swimming records in the 60-foot Case pool today.

With five official A. A. U. timers clocking him, Grossman made 880 yards in 12:09.2, compared with the old mark of 12:33.5.

He kept right on going, setting four more marks, 1000 yards in 13:48.8, compared with the old mark of 14:30; 1320 yards in 18:19.3, breaking the old mark of 21:35.8; 1500 yards in 20:48.8, for which the old record was 22:44.2, and 1500 meters in 22:40, compared with the old mark of 27:09.4.

His feat was a preliminary to the meet in which Case defeated Slippery Rock Teachers of Pennsylvania, 58 to 17.

Pole Vault of 15 Feet Not Impossible, Says Man Who First Did 12 Feet

By the Associated Press.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 16.—To the millions who have pondered over "How high is up?" to a pole vaulter, Alfred C. Gilbert, chairman of the National A. A. U. Track and Field Committee, today supplied the answer—15 feet or higher.

Gilbert, who was the first Yale pole vaulter to exceed 12 feet, explained:

"It's just a matter of waiting for the right man to come along—one who learns the perfect form and technique of pole vaulting."

Gilbert has been credited with many of the technical discoveries which have contributed largely to the success of what is known as the "Yale system of pole vaulting."

"Hundreds of people who cannot reconcile why the pole vaulting record is constantly being shattered have asked me 'how much higher than 14 feet can a man vault?'" said Gilbert, who is a member of the Executive Committee of the 1936 Olympic Games in charge of track and field.

"Most track fans do not realize the highly technical nature of this field event, and how little was known about it until recently. Boys are now better prepared when they come to the large universities and have a better foundation to work on than they ever did before.

"That is what makes me believe that 15 feet or higher is not impossible."

It is a fitting tribute to Gilbert that Keith Brown, Yale's brilliant track and field captain, holds the world's indoor record with a vault of 14 feet 4 inches which he recorded last year.

Gilbert has studied the form of various vaulters of any consequence for the past two decades. He asserted, "The type of man who makes the best pole vaulter is now known.

"Our task now is to get a man of the right physical requirements and then teach him the perfect form, which no man, I believe, has ever as yet acquired.

"This man would be six feet tall, a good sprinter and a good gymnast.

"The short space of time that the average university man has to acquire the art of pole vaulting in its perfect technique is too short. The average college student just begins to master the form in his last year. We know many short cuts to improvements today, but of course, the opportunity only comes every so often to get the ideal man to work on from the beginning."

Questioned as to when he thought the "right man" might come along in the future, Gilbert paused for a moment and then sighed:

"I wish I knew and when he does come along, I hope he decides to come to Yale."

WINTER GARDEN CLUB SKATERS TO COMPETE IN RACES AT ARENA

Harmony prevailed in St. Louis amateur speed skating circles, following a conference yesterday afternoon between a committee of the board of control of the Missouri Skating Association and F. D. McDonald Jr., manager of the Winter Garden.

The conference between McDonald and the committe composed of E. J. Wallace, Phil McGrath and Art Willow, followed a meeting of the board of control Friday night which was called to act on McDonald's refusal to allow his Winter Garden skating team to compete in the second half of the city championship series at the Arena, which opened last Monday.

A statement issued by the committee after the conference said:

"It was agreed in behalf of the sport of ice skating that no further protests would be made that would interfere with the ice skating races at the Arena on Monday nights or with the series of speed skating races at the Winter Garden Friday nights. The action is closed until the return of President Kemper from Norway." Kemper is president of the State association.

McDonald contended that Kemper had promised him that the sevond half of the city championship series would be held at the Winter Garden, and when the Arena continued the last half of the series he instructed his skaters not to compete in the race s.

KIRKSVILLE LOST $950 ON FOOTBALL SEASON

By the Associated Press.

KIRKSVILLE, Mo., Feb. 16.—Although the Kirksville Teachers won eight straight games and their seventh Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association championship in nine years, the 1934 football season resulted in a $950 loss to the athletic department. Kirksville's financially successful 1933 season, however, helped balance the department's budget.

DAYTONA BEACH CUT BY WIND AND RAIN; TIME TRIAL DELAYED

By the Associated Press.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 16.—Gloom settled heavily on the shiny sands of Daytona Beach today. Conditions never appeared worse for Sir Malcolm Campbell's speed ventures, and the possibility loomed that 10 days may pass before Bluebird can charge down on her own record of 272.108 miles an hour.

The beach was rougher than at any time since the Englishman came here two weeks ago. Rain drummed down on the beach most of last night, the wind was from the west and south, and there were gullies and trenches all down the length of the 11½-mile racing stretch.

Veterans shook their heads. All are predicting that unless conditions improve tremendously, Campbell won't approach his old mark, despite the undoubted speed and power in Old Lady Bluebird. The beach so far just won't allow it, no matter how much courage the Englishman showed gambling with nature and death.

SCHARBERT TO WRESTLE McMILLAN TUESDAY

Billy Scharbert of East St. Louis, with a record of one defeat in five years, will match grips with Walter McMillan, Pine Lawn ace, in the feature contest of the Aubuchon Dennison Post wrestling card consisting of five matches at the Municipal Auditorium Exposition Hall, Tuesday night.

In the semifinal limited to 30 minutes, Johnny Anderson meets the rugged Joe Miller. The other 30-minute limit match will be between Henry "Bulldog" Jones and Louis Thesz. In the curtain raiser with a 15-minute time limit, Charley Venator matches grips with Eddie Piantanida and Marshal Carter, who won the W. A. A. U. middleweight crown in Kansas City last year, has been signed for a 20-minute limited contest with an opponent yet to be selected.

Inter-City Table Tennis Matches Here March 9-10

The St. Louis Table Tennis Association has been notified by William R. Stewart, president of the U. S. Table Tennis Association, that this city has been awarded the inter-city championships, and according to information from E. F. Cinnater, president of the local group, the matches will be held at the St. Louis University gymnasium March 9 and 10.

It is expected that Chicago, New York, Cleveland, Detroit and possibly Lincoln, Omaha, Dayton and Indianapolis will be represented. Chicago is sending a team captained by Mort Ladin, who recently defeated Mark Schlude of St. Louis for the Western table tennis championship at Indianapolis. Chicago and other cities are conducting eliminations to select the players to participate in the event here, and St. Louis, which is accorded an excellent chance of winning, will rest its hopes on Mark Schlude, State champion; Richard Tindall, city champion, and other leading players to be chosen from among Ernie Trobaugh, William Price, Bud Blattner, Edwin Woody, Leonard Radunsky, Jack Nix and Vernon Tietjen did no better than 51 feet 9½ inches in six attempts. Torrance had no difficulty winning his specialty, beating his nearest rival, J. Geniawicz of Dartmouth, by more than three feet.

Hornbostel Still Unbeaten.

Indiana's Chuck Hornbostel, unbeaten so far during the indoor campaign, added the "Matt Halpin" half mile trophy to his collection without difficulty. The Hoosier ace stayed off the pace until the bell lap and then breezed in a winner by five yards over Bill Ray of Manhattan College in 1:54.1.

The University of Maryland's crack one mile relay quartet came from behind to whip Princeton and Yale in a three-cornered match race, an annual feature of the meet. Headley, the Maryland anchor, finished a good 20 yards ahead of his Tiger rival and helped the winners hang up a new mark of 3:26.5 for the event.

Cornelius Johnson, the lanky Negro from Los Angeles, won the high jump by clearing 6 feet, 7 inches, on his last attempt, but failed in three tries to leap 6-9 for a new world indoor record. The veteran Hal Osborn of Philadelphia, Olympic champion 11 years ago and former record holder, gave a great comeback performance in tying for second place with Al Treadgill, Temple University Negro, at 6 feet 5¾ inches.

Disqualification of Timothy Ring, Holy Cross star, after he finished first in the 500-yard race for the Buermyer trophy, on the grounds he fouled Milton Sandler of New York early in the race as they battled for the lead, aroused a demonstration by the crowd and did not find favor with the experts.

From the press box it looked as if Sandler, unable to work his way to the front, was elbowing Ring at his own risk. Sandler lost the tussle and was so far thrown off stride that he wound up last in a field of five but Ring's disqualification automatically made J. R. Hofstetter of Dartmouth, an outsider, the winner.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS

Jimmy Casablanca, 136, New York, outpointed Jimmie Britt, 134½, Newark, in six rounds.

PURDUE HOLDS LEAD IN BIG TEN; BEATS ILLINOIS

By the Associated Press.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Feb. 16.—Led by Norman Cottom, Purdue staved off a hair-raising Illinois rally here tonight to win its sixth game in seven starts, 35 to 27. Purdue swept into a 23 to 11 lead at the half, but the Illinois five came back strong late in the second period to pull up to 30 to 27 with three minutes of play remaining.

Cottom flashed up and down the floor, then hit one from close in and followed with a three throw. Kessler ended the game with a shot from the side. Ed Shaver and Jim Seward were close to Cottom for top honors for Purdue.

Frank Froschauer was the whole show for Illinois, playing a brilliant floor game and scoring 15 points.

Illinois staged its spectacular rally mid-way in the second half with Purdue leading, 30 to 17. Froschauer hit three field goals and Combes and Dehner one each before Cottom scored for Purdue.

8700 at Madison See Badgers Topple Hoosiers.

By the Associated Press.

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 16.—Wisconsin toppled Indiana from a tie for first place in the Western Conference basketball race by handing the Hoosiers a 37 to 27 defeat in an overtime game here tonight before a record breaking crowd of 8700.

It was Indiana's second defeat in the Big Ten campaign, both by the Badgers, who now rank in second place.

Principia College Defeats Moberly

The Principia Junior College jumped into an early lead, which it held throughout the game, to win finally from Moberly Junior College, 35 to 24, in a Missouri Junior College Conference basketball game played last night at Howard gymnasium.

It was Principia's sixth victory in 11 starts.

Burroughs won the preliminary from the Principia Academy, 22 to 12, in "ABC" league competition. George Sisler Jr. starred for Burroughs with four field goals and a free throw—nine points.

BASEBALL AND SWIM COACHES NAMED FOR BLEWETT HIGH SCHOOL

C. Don Frankenberger, instructor in physical education, who was transferred from Cleveland to Blewett High School at the start of the second semester, has been named baseball coach at Blewett, it was learned last night. Frankenberger succeeds Edward Giessow, who became an instructor in manual training at one of the grade schools at the beginning of the September term.

Another appointment at Blewett was that of Howard Green, one of the three teachers moved from Cleveland, as swimming coach. Green also will assist Frankenberger in baseball. Norman R. D. Jones, assistant coach of football at Cleveland, was the third instructor sent to Blewett.

Frankenberger stated that he would begin work on baseball tomorrow. He also expects to be present at the meeting of the baseball coaches to be held at Beaumont High School Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Other baseball coaches are Vernon Bradburn of Central, Louis Maguolo of McKinley, Lee R. Carlson of Roosevelt, Victor H. Kirk of Beaumont, Bert E. Fenenga of Cleveland and Harry White of Soldan. Bradburn, White and Fenenga just now are concerned with the close of the City High School League basketball season.

NAVY SWIMMER SETS COLLEGIATE RECORD

By the Associated Press.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 16.—Midshipman Jimmy Stevens today bettered a National Collegiate record as the undefeated Naval Academy swimming team beat the College of the City of New York, 48 to 23.

Stevens established a new national record for 150-foot pools by clipping 2.8 seconds from the 220-yard free style swim set by Samson of Michigan in 1927. The midshipman swam the distance in 2 minutes 21.7 seconds.

Two Preliminaries To Pabs-Golubs Battle Tuesday

Three basketball games, instead of two, will be offered by the City Recreation Department at the Sherman Park Community Center on Tuesday evening when the Golubs and the St. Louis Pabs oppose each other in the second contest of their series to decide the championship of the Men's Municipal Basketball League.

The two preliminary games of the triple-header will be seventh-round games for four teams of the Girls' Municipal Basketball League. In the first one, starting at 8:30 o'clock, the S-Ks will meet the Polish Roman Catholic Union quintet, while at 8:15 o'clock the Varsity Club and the White Ways will be the opponents. The White Ways at present are tied for first place in the league, having been tied for that position by the Bachelor Club that won from the Hellrung-Grimms, 23-11, in last week's title prelim contest.

Regarding the title game, it is possible for the Pabs to end the city championship series by defeating the Golubs for the second successive time and thus snatch away the crown now reposing on the collective heads of the Golubs. But this is not probable. It was only by the margin of three points that the Pabs were returned the victors last Tuesday, 35-32, and there are many who believe the Golubs are good enough to at least even the series.

If a third and deciding game is necessary it probably will be held at Sherman Park on Monday, Feb. 25.

14-YEAR-OLD BOWLING STAR TO OPEN SERIES HERE TOMORROW

Harry Ledene, 14-year-old bowling sensation of Chicago, will open a six-day series of exhibitions on St. Louis and East St. Louis bowling alleys, tomorrow evening when he will appear at Feuser's Del-Mar Recreation against Robert Lesser, in a three-game match.

Ledene holds a 180 average in Chicago bowling leagues. He weighs 100 pounds but uses a regulation 16-pound bowling ball. He recently rolled a 688 three-game series in an exhibition in Cleveland, shooting games of 245, 186 and 257.

At 9:15 tomorrow at Peterson's, Ledene will engage Frank Otz of the Cotton Belt League, while Thadius Stojeba, Beaumont High student, will meet Ledene at the Fairground Recreation at 9:15 Tuesday. Allen Epstein, another Beaumont youngster, will oppose Ledene at the Melene alleys at 7 p. m. Wednesday, while Lester Sehnirch of McKinley High, will be Ledene's opponent at Heidel's at 9:15 p. m. Thursday.

The remainder of Ledene's schedule includes:

Wednesday, 9:15 p. m., at German House against LaFern Mueller (one game) and against Edgar Rudy (two games).
Thursday, Cinderella, opponent not selected.
Friday, 9:15 p. m., at Washington Alleys against Enrico Vescovo.
Saturday, 7 p. m., at St. Clair alleys in East St. Louis against Joe Krause and at 9:15 p. m., at the Arway Alleys against Ed Doerr Jr.

DOWNTOWN "Y" BEATS HANNIBAL SWIM TE

A new pool record for the 200-yard relay was made by the Downtown Y. M. C. A. swimming team as it defeated Hannibal Y. M. C. A., 53 to 22, in a dual meet last night at the Downtown Y.

The record breaking team consisting of Harry Queensen, Dave Bartosh, Ben Schaller and Jerry Brenner, negotiated the distance in 1 minutes 39.7 seconds. The old mark established by the Law Y. of Chicago, was 1 minutes 4 seconds.

The results:

200-YARD RELAY—Won by Downtown Y. (Queensen, Bartosh, Schaller, Brenner). Time, 1:39.7 (new pool record).
100-YARD BREAST STROKE—Won by Jacquemin, Downtown Y.; W. Olson, Downtown Y., second; Schron, Hannibal, third. Time, 1:19.6.
50-YARD FREE STYLE—Won by Rhor, Downtown Y.; Abrams, Hannibal, second; Clark, Downtown Y., third. Time, 26.2s.

PHILADELPHIA GERMANS WIN CUP GAME, 2

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 16.—The sharp shooting eye of Sammy McAlees spelled victory today for the Philadelphia German-Americans in the opening round of the National Challenge Cup competition against the Kensington Blue Bells here this afternoon. The score was 2 to 1.

This was the second attempt to reach a decision, the teams having engaged in a two-hour deadlock four weeks ago. McAlees, whose brilliant play stood out, took a pass from Davis to give his club the lead 10 minutes after the opening whistle. He again dented the Kensington net five minutes after the second half opened to put the Germans two goals up.

Kensington, undaunted by the handicap, kept plugging and 10 minutes before the finish Stewart tallied.

JOE CRONIN STARTS FOR TRAINING CAMP

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 16.—Glad to be on his way back "into harness," Joe Cronin, shortstop-manager of the Boston Red Sox, left today for the Sarasota spring training camp. He was accompanied by his wife.

The Cronins were to motor to Los Angeles and from there planned to take a train to Florida.

FIRST GAME—H. Ratican and S. Duesker, referees; I. Wimer, J. Wiesler, E. Bycke and W. Brady, linesmen.

SECOND GAME—R. Wall and A. Claeys, referees; J. Begley, J. Keenoy, V. Sandusky and P. Garcia, linesmen.

THIRD GAME—H. Donovan and D. Barnard, referees; J. Cradock, C. Brady, L. Robbins and W. Walsh, linesmen.

PLACE—Grounds two, Fairground Park.

TIME OF HALVES—35 minutes each, with 10-minute extra in event of tie score. If tie still exists, game will be moved to Grounds four for another 10-minute extra period.

ADMISSION—25 cents; no seats reserved.

By Dent McSkimming.

Five of the six clubs that engage in the opening round of the Municipal Soccer League eliminations at Fairground Park this afternoon may be regarded as very nearly on a par, and as a consequence, at least two of the three matches should be close contests. Only the St. Hedwigs, champions of Concordia Park, are regarded as overmatched in meeting the Carlstroms, survivors of a tough ordeal at Forest Park.

Probably the choice bit of the lengthy program (it is apt to run over four hours and 30 minutes) is the final game, in which the Alpen Braus, defending champions, oppose the Balsanos. Both are champions of Fairground Park groups and both established very creditable records in the regular 15-game schedule. Because they met with and overcome stiffer competition in Group Two, the Alpen Braus are regarded as likely winners of this match and are furthermore generally considered strong enough to retain their championship.

Russos Play Irish Village.

There is reason to look for a good battle when the Russos, Fairground No. 3 champions, oppose the Sherman Park title holders, Irish Village. Tom Erbe, one-time professional star and a cup finalist with the Stix club of 1932, is at right fullback for the Village, and there is another player of merit at center halfback, Eddie Begley. These two will have to be on their toes to keep John Prindable, Russo center forward, from getting a goal or two.

One reason the Carlstroms appear to have a decided edge over St. Hedwig is the presence of Ollie Bohlman at center halfback. He should be able to take care of two or three ordinary Muny Leaguers, for he was a star in the national cup final of two years ago when the Stix club defeated the New York Americans. Other experienced players in the Carlstrom lineup are Goaltender Jim Walsh, Fullback Ed Delaney and Center Forward Jack O'Reilly.

Play Begins at 12:30.

The Balsanos, who may upset the Alpen Braus, particularly if the latter club's forward line is not functioning at its peak, are a product of Columbus Square, in the Ghetto district, and most of the players have been together for 10 years.

Play will start promptly at 12:30 p. m., and preliminary practice on the field will not be permitted.

U. City Soccer Games.

University City Soccer League will offer its weekly doubleheader at Heman Park this afternoon, the schedule as follows: Morris vs. Stuarts, 2 p. m.; Zeltmans vs. Tobins, 3 p. m.

'Pro' Soccer Clubs Idle; Cup Match Here Next Sunday

THE postponement of the national challenge soccer cup match between the Centrals of St. Louis and Slavia of Cleveland, originally scheduled for this afternoon, has given the Municipal League a clear field for its first round elimination games today.

Under the revised schedule, the Centrals meet Slavia at Sportsman's Park next Sunday and on the same day the Marre Club will be in Pittsburgh playing against the Curry Club of that city. It is probable that no Municipal League games will be played here next Sunday.

13,000 at Toronto See Leafs Beat Rangers, 5—1.

By the Associated Press.

TORONTO, Feb. 16.—The Toronto Maple Leafs took some of the sting out of a long series of defeats tonight by slamming the New York Rangers around 5 to 1 in their last meeting of the regular National Hockey League season. A crowd of 13,000 saw the game, which reversed last Thursday's decision.

The Rangers, who won the season's series, 4—2, were ineffective tonight. While Bill Cook and Murray Murdoch of the Rangers and King Clancy of Toronto were in the penalty box in the first period, Buzz Boll and Joe Primeau snapped in the first two goals a few seconds apart. The elder Cook and Clancy drew major penalties for scuffling.

Chuck Conacher added the third goal and he and Pep Kelly tallied in the second period to make it 5—0. The Rangers, who sent only 18 shots at Goalie George Hainsworth, averted a shutout in the final frame when Butch Keeling hammered home Earl Seibert's pass.

SIXTH CONSECUTIVE DEFEAT FOR IOWA

By the Associated Press.

IOWA CITY, Ia., Feb. 16.—Michigan climaxed a slow game with a rousing finish tonight to best the faltering Iowa Hawkeyes, 29 to 27. It was the sixth straight defeat for the home team and the fifth in conference competition.

Trailing from the first minute in the second half, the Wolverines started their comeback when Ivan Blackmer, Hawkeye forward, fouled out. Blackmer was called for talking up to the referee and Michigan was given three charity shots, two on the technical foul and one on the personal. Meyers got the first two.

ARKANSAS SUFFERS ITS FIRST DEFEAT

By the Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Tex., Feb. 16.—The Arkansas Razorbacks, coasting along at the head of the Southwest Conference basketball race, were roundly outplayed here tonight by a fighting University of Texas quintet. The Longhorns won, 33 to 23, to hand the invaders their first conference setback of the season.

Blood Flows As Barna Wins World Table Tennis Title

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 16.

BLOODSHED marked the final match of the world's table tennis championship tonight as Victor Barna of Hungary won the title for the fourth year in a row.

The loser, M. Szabador of Hungary, fell during the second set and cut his right hand. Despite the injury he made a close match of it. The scores were 17—21, 21—17, 19—21, 21—11, 21—19.

Mrs. Drennan Wins Title.

NASSAU, Bahamas, Feb. 16.—Mrs. Estelle Drennan of Tulsa, five times Oklahoma women's champion, today won the British Colonial women's tournament. She defeated Miss Jean Bauer of Providence, R. I., 3 and 2, in the 18-hole finals.

EARL SHEELY NAMED BASEBALL COACH AT ST. MARY'S COLLEGE

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 16.—Earl Sheely, veteran of the major and minor leagues, was named baseball coach of St. Mary's College today. He was released recently by Seattle.

Sheely played with Pittsburgh and the White Sox in addition to several teams in the Coast League.

Title Series Begins.

The championship series to decide the winner of the Y. M. C. A. Industrial Basketball League will begin at the Armory, Grand and Market, next Wednesday evening with the U. S. Engineers, winners of Division No. 2, meeting Stix, Baer & Fuller, champions of Division No. 3. In a preliminary game, Baker Shoes, winners of Division No. 1, who drew a bye in the first round of the play-offs, will meet the Hi-Pointes in an exhibition game.

GROLL AND KEHOE MEET CLEVELAND BOXERS AT ARENA

Announcement by Matchmaker Willie Miller last night that Harry Groll, South Broadway middleweight, and Howard Kehoe, East St. Louis featherweight, have been paired with Cleveland boxers completed the feature of the Olympic Athletic Club's program for Wednesday night's amateur boxing show at the Arena. Groll will meet Paul Cernanic of the Cleveland team, while Kehoe is scheduled to oppose Eddie Kelly, a finalist in the recent Golden Gloves tourney at the Ohio metropolis. Both events are to be contested over the five-round course.

Both Groll and Kehoe were victors on the last Olympic A. C. card, Groll defeating Henry Sterzik, while Kehoe won over the last and clever Jerry Mulcahy of Chicago.

Four other inter-city events on Wednesday night's card will bring into action Irwin Streibel, Western A. A. U. heavyweight king; Jack Nichols, former district champion of the light-heavyweight divisoin; Johnny Martin, dynamic welterweight puncher from Springfield, Ill., and Ralph Puhse, bantam ace of the Madison A. C. Streibel meets Al Anderla, Ohio Legion champion, while Nichols is paired with Mike Minnich, Martin engages Frank Bojeck, and Puhse opposes Frankie Kara.

The Cleveland team, selected by Johnny Kilbane, former featherweight champion of the world, will arrive in St. Louis Tuesday night, according to Dr. Jesse R. Robinson, president of the Olympic club. Unable to accompany the squad himself, Kilbane has placed the Ohio team in charge of Bill O'Donnell, veteran mentor.

SENTINAL FIVE SEEKS NINTH VICTORY IN DE MOLAY CIRCUIT

Three games will be played this afternoon as the De Molay Basketball League enters its ninth and semifinal week of action at the St. James gymnasium, College and Blair avenues.

There should be no change in the standings as far as the Sentinel Chapter and Harmony Chapter teams, first-placers and runners-up, respectively, are concerned, and they should win rather handily.

Sentinel, with eight straight victories, takes on the cellar occupying Maplewood team at 2:45 o'clock, while Harmony, boasting of a seven and one record, tackles St. Louis at 3:45 o'clock.

Perfection Chapter and Carondelet blast open the program at 1:45 o'clock in what should be the feature attraction on the card.

baseball will climb back to that peak of 1926, or must deflate to before-the-World War standards. Babe Ruth's peak salary of later times, $80,000, would almost equal the entire payroll of a pre-war club.

New Records Possible.

STAKE races of $100,000 value do not necessarily pay the winner such a sum. The $100,000 match race between Zev and Papyrus, the American and English Derby winners of 1923, paid Zev's owner only $80,600. The $100,000 American Derby of 1926 paid E. R. Bradley only $89,000 when his Boot to Boot came home first.

All but one "$100,000 Agua Caliente Handicap" paid under the round figures named. In fact there are only two accredited instances where $100,000 American stakes netted the winner's owner "one hundred grand" or better.

The largest winning was the Belmont Futurity of 1929 when Whichone won $105,730 for his owner, beating Hi-Jack and Gallant Fox. Mike Hall's owner was paid $100,000 for Mike's victory in the Agua Caliente Handicap of 1930.

And that completes the catalogue of stakes which actually yielded $100,000 to the victor.

May Happen Again Feb. 23.

IT may happen again next Saturday, when the Santa Anita Handicap will be decided. The track will put up $100,000 for this race. Because the second horse will receive $10,000, third horse $5000 and the fourth horse $2500, the winner will get only $82,500 of the added money. But he will also get the nomination fees of 70 horses ($100 each) and the starting fees of $1000 each. So that if 12 horses start, the winner at Santa Anita will enter the $100,000 class. Eighteen starters would enable him to surpass the top figure of all time for any stake.

So much doubt exists at this time about some of the horses that an accurate estimate of the probable field is hard to make. Tom Kearney, who lays odds against the Santa Anita eligibles on a pay or play basis, thinks

Record in Sight, For This Star

EQUIPOISE.

From nose to tail "Ekky" stretches 7 feet 10 inches. He stands slightly over 16 hands high and weighs 1008 pounds. In full flight, the horse's stride measures 26 feet 4 inches. Equipoise was foaled Jan. 1, 1928. His sire was Pennant, and his dam Swinging. His color is liver chestnut, with eyes of deep brown and mane black.

that as many as 19 or 20 may take a chance as follows:

Equipoise, Cavalcade, Mate, Head Play, Ladysman, High Glee, Azucar, Gusto, Faireno, Mr. Khayyam, Ted Clark, Jabot, Riskulus, Time Supply, Gay World, Top Row, Sweeping Light, Good Goods and Fleam.

More than likely this field will be greatly cut down if it develops that both Cavalcade and Equipoise complete their training in top form. In that case some of the weak sisters will drop out. At that there are some very good horses in at light weight—Sweeping Light, for example; and the weight may induce their owners to send them to the post.

May Net New Money Record.

VICTORY will mean more to either Equipoise or Mate than to any of the others in the field. In case of victory the total money earnings of either will pass the present world record held by Sun Beau of $376,744.

Equipoise already has won $322,970, while Mate's total is $290,660. Either can comfortably pass Sun Beau, even if the winner's end of the Santa Anita Handicap falls $10,000 short of the $100,000 total predicted.

New Record Likely.

CONSIDERING the constantly improving time being made over the Santa Anita course, it is evident that this track ranks with the fastest dirt ribbons of the country. Sweeping Light's mile in beating Equipoise, 1:36 3-5, is the best in that good horse's career. The track record for six furlongs is 1:10, which sufficiently tells the burning speed possible in the Los Angeles event. The American record for six furlongs is 1:09 3-5, made by Iron Mask at Juarez, the fastest racing strip known in this country, in 1913.

Equipoise is sure to be a better horse next week at a mile and one-quarter than he was last Thursday at one mile, even though he will carry two pounds more and will be conceding the horse that defeated him 19 pounds.

If the winner turns up in some performer able to beat the field to the pole, hold it all the way around (thereby covering the shortest route) it would surprise no one if the best ACCREDITED record, 2:01 4-5, were equaled or beaten.

The book record, of course, is almost beyond possibility of attainment. It is held by Whisk Broom II and was made at Belmont Park in 1913, time 2:00 flat!

This record has been discredited widely, by horsemen, not only because of the remarkable time but because Whisk Broom II carried 139 pounds that day.

Not even Man o'War has been able to approach such a feat.

Normandy and Ritenour To Play in First Game of Regional Basket Meet

By Harold Tuthill.

Two "A" games and four "B" games will open the ninth annual St. Louis regional basketball tournament, starting Feb. 25 and continuing through the week. All games will be played on the Maplewood High School floor.

Normandy and Ritenour will open the first day's play at 4 p. m., and the second contest in the afternoon will be between Blewett and Kirkwood at 5 p. m. The "B" contests played at hourly intervals, starting at 6 p. m., will be Hancock against St. Charles, Burroughs against Brentwood, Fairview against Chaminade and Principia Academy vs. Riverview Gardens.

McBride, the defending champion, will not see action until 9 o'clock Wednesday night, when it meets the strong Clayton squad. Beaumont, the 1934 runner-up, will play the winner of the Normandy-Ritenour game, Wednesday at 6 p. m.

Christian Brothers, Preparatory League champion, and one of the better "A" teams, drew an opening-round bye and will meet the Blewett-Kirkwood winner in the second round, Tuesday night at 9 o'clock.

A new system will be used this year. The old St. Louis district has been split into two regions. It was decided not to hold two regional tournaments, but to group all the "A" teams and those of the "B" class which wished to enter the competition into one tournament. The two finalists will be the teams to represent St. Louis in the State meet at Columbia, March 16-18. The schools in the "B" division will not have a chance to go to Columbia, but the winner will be rewarded for its work with a trophy.

There are 18 "A" teams and 14 "B" teams entered.

Following is the day-by-day schedule:

MONDAY.

(A Division).

4 p. m.—Normandy vs. Ritenour.
5 p. m.—Blewett vs. Kirkwood.

(B Division).

6 p. m.—Hanock vs. St. Charles.
7 p. m.—Burroughs vs. Brentwood.
8 p. m.—Fairview vs. Chaminade.
9 p. m.—Principia vs. Riverview.

TUESDAY.

(B Division).

4 p. m.—Bayless vs. Ferguson.
5 p. m.—Country Day vs. Eureka.

(A Division).

6 p. m.—University City vs. Roosevelt.
7 p. m.—Wellston vs. McKinley.
8 p. m.—Webster vs. Soldan.
9 p. m.—Christian Brothers vs. Blewett-Kirkwood winner.

WEDNESDAY.

(A Division).

6 p. m.—Beaumont vs. Normandy-Ritenour winner.
7 p. m.—Cleveland vs. St. Louis U. High.
8 p. m.—Maplewood vs. Central.
9 p. m.—McBride vs. Clayton.

PITCHER LEE SIGNS WITH CUBS; ONLY 3 PLAYERS OUT OF FOLD

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—Evidently worired over Owner Phil K. Wrigley's ultimatum to sign up before Monday or take another cut in pay, three Cub players have signed contracts within 24 hours, reducing the holdout ranks to three.

Outfielder Chuck Klein and Infielder Woody English signed yesterday. Today Owner Wrigley received a wire from Bill Lee, young pitcher, that he had signed his contract and placed it in the mails.

Pitcher Larry French, obtained from Pittsburgh in the Guy Bush deal; Second Baseman Billy Herman and Frank Demaree, young outfielder obtained from the Los Angeles farm, are the three unsigned players.

DIESEL-DRIVEN RACE CAR DEVELOPS ENGINE TROUBLE IN 3 TESTS

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 16.—"Wild Bill" Cummings, winner of the last Indianapolis speedway race, failed signally today to break the world's record for Diesel-driven cars, established yesterday by Dave Evans. The latter averaged 125.065 miles per hour over a measured mile.

Cummings didn't even complete the course in three attempts. He first stopped short of the half mile post when it was discovered he had too much oil in the motor. On the next attempt, Cummings had too little oil.

He finally went to the other end of the course and tried the northward run but gave up when a burst of fire shot out of the exhaust.

HANK O'DAY RALLIES; STILL SERIOUSLY ILL

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—Hank O'Day, former National League umpire, rallied sharply from his illness at the Presbyterian Hospital today, but his condition still was very serious.

O'Day, now 75 years old, is suffering from a general run-down condition and stomach trouble.

WEBSTER DEFEATS WELLSTON, 36 TO 11

Webster Groves scored its eighth victory in 11 starts by defeating Wellston, 36 to 11, last night in a Suburban League basketball game on the Wellston floor. Webster led at the half, 13 to 8.

The box score:

BILLIKENS BEAT LOYOLA, BOHN, A SUB, STARS

ere of a three-game series from the Washington freshmen, 26 to 20. The young Billikens opened strongly and ran the score to 7-1 before the Cubs rallied. To such good effect did they rally that the end of the half saw Washington in front 16 to 12. The second period, however, was a different story with St. Louis getting 14 points while the young Bears were collecting four.

Loyola's passing was tricky but the victory factor for St. Louis was the superior guarding of the Billikens. It's pretty difficult to get a clean short shot at the St. Louis basket.

Officials handled the varsity game so well that it is worthy of note. Both Kamp of Washington and Douglass of Grinnell kept up the speed of the game and allowed the opponents to play basketball without useless interruption by blasts of their whistles.

Only one more home game remains on the Billiken varsity schedule. Marquette calls here next Saturday night. The second game of the series with the Washington Bears will be played at the Field Honuse, Feb. 26.

Coach Leonard Sachs of Loyola is inclined to be pessimistic. A year ago he came here and, before the game, stated that he had one of his worst teams. The Billikens nosed them out, 24 to 23. He said the same thing last night and then presented a fine fighting club.

It was a pity that the game drew only about 750 persons. It deserved better patronage than that.

Callahan, Loyola guard, was injured in a collision with Fash in the first period but was able to resume play. Each team made only one substitution.

BILLIKEN FIVE PLAYS AT ROLLA TOMORROW

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ROLLA, Mo., Feb. 16.—Renewing hostilities once again after a two weeks' intermission, the St. Louis University five and the Missouri School of Mines quintet meet here on Jackling Gym floor Monday night. The Billikens trimmed the Miners, 48 to 32, on Feb. 2 in St. Louis, both teams playing a rough and fast breaking game, in which a total of 27 fouls were called. The team from Rolla committed 10 of these, with the Blue and White guilty of 17.

It will be the first time in eight years that the St. Louis five has been seen in Rolla, the last time being in 1927, when the Miners defeated the visitors on the local court, only to lose a return game in St. Louis a month later.

ST. LOUIS AND MILWAUKEE BOYS BOX HERE FRIDAY

Jimmy Webb, advance favorite in the middleweight division in the approaching Ozark A. A. U. championships and one of the St. Louis fighters who is expected to be heard from in the National A. A. U. tournament, and Tommy "Duke" Burns, Milwaukee fighter, will meet in the fifth inter-city bout on Benny Kessler's amateur boxing card Friday night at the Coliseum.

Holder of the Milwaukee and Wisconsin A. A. U. 160-pound titles, Burns has fought more than 100 fights during six years of battling.

The signing of the Webb-Burns match marks the completion of the special portion of the program. Floyd Evans, East Side socker, who recently added Ralph Puhse and Tommy Starr to his list of victims, meets a former St. Louis boy, Johnny "Red" Fisher, featherweight member of the Marquette University fistic team, in what promises to be a thrilling battle.

Paul Spica, local Italian, who has been turning in only victories in home matches for the past few months, will be pitted against a fighter who recently defeated him in Milwaukee when he squares off with Clem Kopydlowski, Milwaukee featherweight champion.

In the other two inter-city matches, Harold Smercina, St. Louis University dental student, who chalked up a long list of victories last summer and fall, takes on Henry Dutkiewicz, Wisconsin A. A. U. lightweight champion, and Louis Wallach, local bantamweight, battles Bruce Fero, another Badger State glove monarch.

Supporting the five specials will be seven matches starring newly crowned city-wide Community Center champions and contenders.

Y HANDBALL STARS DEPART FOR MEMPHIS

The Downtown Y. M. C. A. handball players departed yesterday for Memphis, Tenn., to participate in the National Y. M. C. A. four-wall championships, which begin Tuesday.

Jack Srenco and his nephew, Harold, and Mike Cunningham made the trip. Jack Srenco and Cunningham are being sent by the handball committee of the Downtown Y. M. C. A. Srenco will enter the singles and may pair with Cunningham for the doubles. Otherwise, Cunningham will pair with Harold Srenco, his protege, who will also enter the singles.

The Downtown Y. M. C. A. will also be represented by Sam Johnson, who recently transferred his membership from Columbus to St. Louis. Johnson is a former doubles champion, along with Sam Atcheson. He will enter the league singles and if arrangements can be made, will enter the doubles.

The St. Louis Y handball committee will petition the National Y. M. C. A. handball committee to permit them to award the 1936 national tournament to the downtown branch in St. Louis. N. J. Funk, member, and Harry Richards, chairman, of the handball committee, and J. S. Whitmore, associate director of physical education at the Downtown Y. M. C. A., will make this trip.

NATIONAL HOCKEY PLAYOFF DATES SET

TORONTO, Feb. 16.—Plans for the National Hockey League playoffs, to begin either March 22, 23 or 24, according to which teams win the places, were announced today by President Frank Calder during a meeting of the league governors. The playoffs will continue each Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday or Sunday after the opening until they are completed.

ALL CLUBS WAIVE ON MALONE, CARDS CAN SEND HIM TO MINORS

Post-Dispatch, answering a communication, he said that he would not sign a Cardinal contract unless it called for the salary he received with the Cubs in 1934, which is thought to have been $10,000.

Orsatti Among the "Outs."

Joe Medwick and Ernie Orsatti are the other Cardinals who may be classed as holdouts. Medwick announced at his home at Carteret, N. J., that he was returning the contract as unsatisfactory. He previously had announced that he would demand a salary of $10,000 for 1935.

Rickey declined to discuss details of the Medwick case, but said the club had offered him an increase of 50 per cent over his 1934 salary. Medwick's 1934 salary is said to have been $5000.

Orsatti was a holdout last year. He reported unsigned at training camp and the sight of the other boys in uniform was too much for him and he capitulated, accepting the club's original offer, with a clause added providing for additional payment if the club attracted 400,000 customers to Sportsman's Park. He lost out on the extra money, but probably will offer to gamble with the club on the same basis in his 1935 contract.

ROMAN SOLDIER BEATS FLORIDA DERBY RIVALS AT MIAMI

BRADLEY'S FILLY BLOODROOT RUNS SECOND; 20,000 WITNESS CARD

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—William Sachsenmaier's Roman Soldier, ebony-hued son of Cohort, moved up another notch in pre-Florida Derby calculations today when he led home the best field of three-year-olds of the Florida season in the Bahama Handicap at Hialeah Park.

Carrying the top weight of 126 pounds, Roman Soldier, which the Atlantic City sportsman purchased from Max Hirsch for $7500 earlier in the season, crossed the finish line at the end of the seven furlongs three-fourths of a length in front of E. R. Bradley's filly, Bloodroot. Mantagna from Dewitt Page's Maemere Farm was another half-length away.

Made the slight favorite by the crowd of 20,000, Roman Soldier paid $8.20 for a $2 win ticket after stepping the distance in 1:25 2-5. His owner was enriched by $2330.

Dean Swift, stablemate of Mantagna, went out to make the pace but was collared at the three-eighths pole by Don Meade astride the Bradley filly. This fast stepping daughter of Blue Larkspur looked like the winner coming into the stretch, but little Bobby Merritt brought Roman Soldier up fast and the final sixteenth sped past Bloodroot.

Among the also rans were such promiment Derby candidates as Mrs. C. S. Bromley's Brannon, Fred Spatola's Wise Prince and the Bomar Stable's Billy Bee.

The Everglade Stable's unbeaten Wise Counsellor colt, Deliberator, won his fourth consecutive race in taking the Nursery Stakes No. 1, three-furlong test for colts and geldings, and its purse of $3100. With Eddie Arcaro in the saddle, he broke in front, set all the pace and won by four lengths without being extended.

The handle today of $409,415 is the highest here since J. E. Widener took over the track. The sum of $409,049 was wagered on the last day of 1931.

BLACK HAWK KID—Champion Bird Dog of the United States

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

STURGEON, Mo., Feb. 16.—Black Hawk Kid, white, black and ticked setter dog owned and handled by C. E. Duffield, of Tulsa, Ok., is the amateur bird dog champion of 1935.

The stake was concluded on the grounds of the Missouri State Game sanctuary near here today after a full week of running under conditions that were probably the most difficult that ever took place in the long history of the Associated Amateur Field Trial Clubs of America, which has been in existence since 1916, and has been run each year in different parts of the country.

The victory carries with it the title of Amateur bird dog champion, a leg on the famous trophy which must be won three times for permanent possession and a chest of silver which goes to the winner outright. There were 27 dogs drawn to run in the stake. Two were withdrawn because of the conditions, leaving 25 in actual competition.

Black Hawk Kid ran his heat on Thursday morning and set such a high mark that it became evident that he was the dog that had to be beaten in order to win the title. Pair after pair of dogs followed, but when the last brace was taken up after their two-hour run today, it became apparent to all who followed the little white and black setter from Oklahoma could not be headed and the judges declared him the champion.

Nash Buckingham of Memphis, son Jr., white and orange colored Setter, owned and handled by Dr. F. J. Boyd Jr., Cincinnati. He did not find so many birds as the champion but he ran a race that stamps him as a worthy candidate for future honors for he still is less than three years old.

The judges of the stake were Wash Buckingham of Memphis, Tenn., and Thatcher A. Parker of St. Louis.

TWENTY GRAND ENTERED IN GOOD FIELD MONDAY

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 16.—Twenty Grand, one of the truly greats of the American turf, today was nominated for a race at the Santa Anita track next Monday, in which he will be pitted against several outstading contenders in the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap, Feb. 23.

The race, over a mile and one-sixteenth, will bring to the post such horses as Equipoise, Sweeping Light, Ladysman, Sarada, Gusto and Mr. Khayyam.

McLEAN AND JAFFEE FAIL TO AGREE ON DISTANCE FOR RACES

While Earl Reflow thought his major troubles were ended when he finally coaxed the two professional rivals, Irving Jaffee of New York and Bobby McLean of Chicago into an agreement to meet in a series of match races at the Arena, March 3, it develops that the promoter's worries have only begun.

The distances to be raced has become worry No. 1. Jaffee, his reputation of competition in three successive Olympics based on his ability to win the long-distance events, is insisting on half-mile, one, two and three-mile races. McLean, recognized as the champion among the professional skaters for the last decade and feared most for his sprinting ability, is holding out for the 220 yards, 440 yards, 880 yards and one mile. As can be seen, the two stars are as far apart as the North Pole is from Admiral Byrd.

Reflow has been carrying on telegraphic communications with Jaffee in New York and McLean in Chicago for the last six days without result.

PROS MEET AMATEURS IN NEIGHBOORHOOD HOUSE 'HOC-SOC' TUESDAY NIGHT

A mixed athletic program to be featured by a "hoc-soc" game between amateur and professional players will be offered by the Neighborhood Association at the gymnasium, 1100 North Nineteenth street, Tuesday evening. "Hoc-soc" is a game invented by Neighborhood Association instructors, in which the more attractive features of soccer and hockey are combined.

Following is the schedule:

Wrestling: Charles Badami vs. Cy McCoy, 7:45.

Boxing: Carmen Durso vs. Harry Durso; Flick Intravia vs. Joe Surisi.

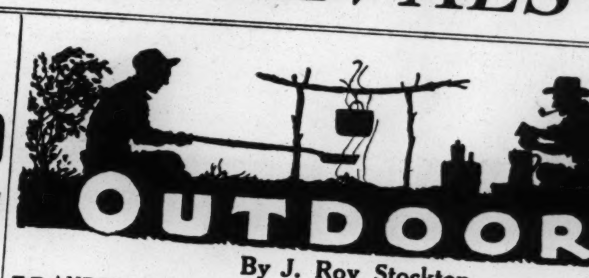
Hoc-Soc: Neighborhood vs. Professionals, 8:30 p. m. Lineups: Neighborhood—Gicona, Gerard, Starr, Spina and Lombardo. Professionals—Bryan, Kramer, Strattman, Reidy, Roe. Spares—Selby, Connors, Lodderhose, Benisch, Coughlin, Bathe, Berra, Garvaglia, Bommarito, LoBaido.

Basketball: Royal Falcons vs. Baptist Center, 9:30 p. m.

WEBSTER COLLEGE FIVE DEFEATS Y. W. H. A., 18-14

The Webster College basketball team, captained by Miss Marge Mangan, a senior, of Chicago, defeated the Young Women's Hebrew Association five, 18 to 14, last night on the Webster floor.

Miss Carol Soley, with 10 points, was high scorer for Webster while Miss Jean Shacks paced the Y. W. H. A. quintet with nine.



OUTDOORS

By J. Roy Stockton.

HANDSOME is as handsome does in a field trial for bird dogs. The beautiful setter, with noble head, deep withers, full brush and generally excellent formation may be a miserable failure and the runt-sized, slat-ribbed pointer, an outcast at bench shows, may wear the championship crown when the thing is over.

Never try to pick a field trial winner from the rows of animals curled up on straw heaps in a shed. That slinky pointer that you pass with a suppressed sneer may have coursing through its veins the blood of Fishell's Frank, Grand Island Bells or Mary Montrose. And you can't tell about that pointy-nosed, under-sized setter. He may trace his family tree back to Nugym, Eugene's Ghost, Count Whitestone or Hawk's Specter, social register standouts of the Mayflower families of the dog world.

Dogs' Family Trees.

A dyed-in-the-buck-brush field trial fan knows all about the dog families. He can tell you that such and such a pointer has a fine chance in the championship.

"He's a Jake dog, watch him," and the spectator will point to a knotty-muscled pointer, an unimpressive animal, if you don't know about field trial dogs.

"Yes, neighbor, those Jake dogs can go," another will add. "Muscle Shoals Jake was one of the best. Never see him miss a fence row or a likely looking draw."

They live in a world of their own, these field trial fans. The Bob White is their gold standard. Distemper is their Hauptmann trial and the meadow, upland, buck brush and fence row are their Miami Beach.

The field trial fan is of a hardy race. Compared to him, the baseball customer, or the man in the golf gallery, is a sissy.

The Associated Amateur Bird Dog championship, a national field trial, which the writer viewed during the past week near Sturgeon, Mo., was run over courses on a 16,000-acre quail preserve. The average course was about six miles long, with two-hour heats. The dogs compete two at a time and judges, handlers and spectators who expect to see anything of the work of the dogs, must ride horses.

If you don't get to a field trial in time to engage a horse, you would do well to get a bleacher seat in the hotel lobby. And you'll get more comfort and actually learn more about field trials if you keep your ears open in the "bleachers" than you will trying to keep yourself in the saddle and your horse on his feet after the sun has made the rain-soaked hill and dale knee-deep in soft, slithering mud.

There's no climax to a field trial, such as the National Amateur championship. The winner may be one of the first brace of dogs to compete or he may be one of the last. When all dogs have sped over the course the two judges consult their notes, argue until they are in accord, give their decision and there you have your champion.

What constitutes a champion?

"A dog with character, style and ability which happens to have a good day," is the way Nash Buckingham of Memphis, Tenn., one of the judges at the Sturgeon trials, summed it up. Questioned about the work of judging, Buckingham pulled from his pocket a field trial score card. There wasn't a mark on it.

How Judges Score Dogs.

"I keep track of the work of the dogs as we go along," he explained. "Yes, I make mental notes of how many coveys of quail the dogs found, how they handled their birds, how they covered the ground, carried themselves and obeyed commands from their handlers. Handling birds? Well, a dog must be staunch on point. He must not break shot or flush birds. An unforgivable sin? No, I wouldn't say there was any, not if the dog follows up a mistake with good work. You have to take into consideration the circumstances. A handler may make a mistake and we never charge that against the dog."

The course at a field trial, which as previously stated, is about six miles long, stretches over likely ground, hill and dale, with markers on trees and fence posts to guide to handlers.

"I differ with the judge about there not being any unforgivable sin in this game," an observer told the writer. "Here's what I'd say was unforgivable. If the course leads through a meadow and there's a big patch of buck brush at one end of it and the dog were to quarter the field and not make a cast for that cover, I'd say that I wouldn't want to buy that dog.

"You see, it's all in a dog's head. That's more important than his nose. Because his nose won't do him much good if the head isn't there. Without a head he may find a bird, but it's like the blind hog picking up an occasional acorn. The smart dog enters a field, looks around and he knows long before you or I where the birds ought to be if there are any in that field. So he takes out for the buck brush, the likely cover, the fence rows and the draws. But the dog that just runs back and forth without being able to size up a field won't bring much money among us field trial people."

Ranging Ability Important.

Retrieving, which is very important in the eyes of the quail hunter, does not figure in the field trial dog's training. When a dog finds a covey or a single, the handler dismounts, leads his horse back for somebody to hold and then advances again to the point where the dog is on stand. The good dog looks like a statue. He is "frozen." The handler walks up and kicks in the brush until the birds take wing. Then he fires a light-bore gun and the dog, if properly trained, stands firm or lies down and remains still until the command is given to "heigh ho." As the gun is fired into the air, and no attempt is made to kill birds during the field trial, there is no retrieving. But if the dog advances and flushes the birds, or if he springs forward when the gun is discharged, it is a black mark against him.

Speed and wide ranging ability are important in field trial dogs. A hunter may prefer a dog that stays closer at hand, so he will not have to travel so far after the dog finds birds. It would be difficult if not impossible for a hunter on foot to keep track of a field trial dog.

Life is just one field trial after another for the bird dogs. Trials are held throughout the country during nine months of the year, three months in the heat of the summer being their resting period. The next important championship on the program is the National Open, to be held next week at Grand Junction, Tenn. To be eligible a dog must have been a winner in a sectional open event.

Bowling Notes

Sixteen bowlers will roll this afternoon in the third round of the Wellston Chamber of Commerce elimination tournament on the Wellston Recreation drives. Two matches will be bowled at 1 p. m., two at 4 o'clock, three at 4:30 and one at 5. Larry Roan opposes Mike Gallagher and Oscar Olson meets George Krueger in the opening matches. Earl Sperry and R. H. Parrott and John Fitzgerald and Morgan Sweeney will meet at 3 o'clock. Other matches scheduled: Bill Collins vs. F. Werner, Ted Schirr vs. E. Laramie, H. Bishop vs. M. Frederick, Charles Griese vs. Tom Baker.

The annual Masonic bowling tourney, open to Masonic members only, will be bowled at the Alhambra Grotto alleys, 2626 South Grand boulevard, beginning March 9. Entry fee is $1 per bowler for each event. In addition to place prizes, the Grotto will award nine medals to the winners. Entry blanks can be obtained from the Grotto or Walter Westerman, 4964 Tholozan avenue.

The Generals of the West End Major League will meet the Marcus Cafe team of the Grand and Hebert League in a six-game match, the first three to be bowled today at the Wellston Recreation alleys starting at 8:15 p. m. The final three gams will be bowled at the Grand and Hebert next Sunday night.

The Kearney No. 1 team featured the bowling in the Electrical Board of Trade League at Feuser's Del-Mar alleys, rolling a 3062 series which included a high game of 1118 and won three games from the Westinghouse five. Frank Boehm took high honors for the evening when he cracked the pins for 722 on 224, 269 and 229. Rip Johnson scored a 277 game but totaled only 609. L. Bieler had the only other 600 count, rolling 606.

Walter Hinds, star lead-off man for the Joe Gabberts in the Maplewood Handicap League, had another 600 total "in the bag" Friday night but missed the No. 10 pin in the final game of his last game and finished with a 595 total which paced the leading Gabberts to a three-game victory over the Litzsingers. Hinds had games of 162, 224 and 209. The second place Freys took the odd game from the Ryan's Buffet team in the other feature. The Gabberts hold a lead of four games.

The Euclid Baptist second team had to roll two extra frames to take the odd game from the West Presbyterian Five in the West End Church at the Wellston alleys. The two teams tied at the end of the regulation 10 frames in the first tilt and again finished in a deadlock in the third game, the Euclids coming out on top in the roll-offs. H. T. Owens had a 542 to top the winners, while C. R. Bradley had a 586 for the losers. Other results: Euclid Baptist No. 1, 3, West Park Baptist 0; Immanuel Evangelical 3, Bethel Baptist 0. The Immanuel team is leading the league by one game over the Euclid Baptist No. 1 team.

Adele Traufler paced the women bowlers in the Arway Wednesday Night League, rolling 569 for the Dorr-Zellers, who dropped two games to the National Florals. Mrs. H. Milligan had a 506 for the winners. In the other matches, the George Floris took two from the Hoells, the Arway Recreation two from the Rex Five, the Arway Taverns two from the Silver Seals, the Etta Muellers two from the Roys and the Mueller-Todts two from the Stocks. Mrs. Eddie Doerr, 533, and A. Granneman, 513, were the other high scorers.

Mound City League results: Liberty Bells 3, Nadas 0; Ray Fosters 3, Judge Butlers 0; Comforts 3, Peter Hauptmanns 0; Silver Seals 2, Brocks 1. High scorers: Charles Gast 662, Mel Tietjens 658, and Harry Feuser 593.

Results of Grand-St. Louis Handicap League: Fitzsimmons 3, Delaneys 0; Coopers 2, Walter Pannells 1; Club House 2, Lewis Stitchers 1; Grand Cycle 2, Schlitz 1. Will Rogers turned in the best series, rolling 627. M. Dalton had 618, Art Ebeling 613 and Lou Zelp 607.

RACE BETTING IS LEGALIZED IN ARKANSAS

By the Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Feb. 16.—An outlaw for 23 years, horse race betting returned to Arkansas today when Gov. J. Marion Futrell signed the Hampton racing bill legalizing and taxing pari-mutuel pools.

The Governor made this State the fourteenth to legalize wagering on thoroughbreds.

Cheers went up in Hot Springs, where plans had been perfected weeks ago for the opening of Oaklawn Park's spring meeting on Washington's birthday, only to be dampened a week ago when the Governor said he would permit no further illegal racing at that track. Oaklawn operated last year without benefit of legislation.

Spurred by the Governor's manifesto, the Legislature this week took up the Hampton bill and passed it in five days with comfortable majorities in both houses, attaching an emergency clause to make it immediate law upon signature by the Chief Executive.

With his signature, Gov. Futrell created a State Racing Commission of seven members, vested with authority to supervise tracks, races and betting.

Brought forward by the Hot Springs delegation in answer to the Governor's call at the start of the session for new revenue sources for eleemosynary institutions, the measure also levies taxes of $500 a day on operating tracks, 10 cents per admission ticket and 4 per cent of the pari-mutuel "take."

Its sponsors estimated annual revenue of $200,000 from Oaklawn alone, this sum to go to State old age pensions and public charities.

Plans of an unnamed syndicate to construct a $700,000 track at West Memphis, Ark., on Tennessee's front doorstep, were disclosed during debate on the bill.

Shaw Girls and Oklahoma Flyers Open Series Today

The Oklahoma Flyers, formerly the Oklahoma Cardinals, today will open a series of two games with the Shaw-Stephens American Legion girls' basketball club at the Maplewood Senior High School gymnasium. The second contest will be played tomorrow night.

Both games will feature tripleheaders. Today's program, which will get under way at 1:45 p. m., will find the Winters five of Webster Groves opposing the Hellrung-Grimms of the Girls' Muny League in the preliminary while the third game will be between the Pabs, leaders of the Men's Muny League, and the Gaerdners of Belleville.

In tomorrow night's battles, the White Way Cleaners, leaders of the Girls' Muny League, will oppose the Unknown A. C., pace-setters in the Polish-American circuit, while the men's game will find Harry Reget's Y. M. H. A. cagers playing the J. C. Penneys of the Y. M. C. A. Industrial League.

The probable lineups of the feature game follows:

IN MEMORIAM

BOSCH, MARY—In loving memory of my darling mother, who departed this life 13 years ago, Feb. 14, leaving love and sweet memories here on earth.

CORBETT, MRS. JOHANNA—In loving memory of our dear mother, who departed this life five years ago, Feb. 16, 1930.
Your memory is as dear today
As in the hour you passed away.
Sadly missed by YOUR CHILDREN.

FINDLAY, JOSEPH C.—In loving memory of Joseph C. Findlay, who departed this life Feb. 15, 1930:
Five long years have passed away
Since that sad and mournful day;
A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is stilled;
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.
Sadly missed by wife,
LENA FINDLAY AND CHILDREN.

HEDDEN, JOHANNA—Died Feb. 17, 1933:
God needed a new star in heaven,
Someone to shine up above;
So He called on our darling mother
And left us alone with her love.
Sadly missed by her CHILDREN.

HOFFMANN, PETER—In loving memory of Peter Hoffmann, our dear father, who passed away one year ago.
Sadly missed by
HIS CHILDREN AND FRIENDS.

HUNT, MARGARET—In memory of our dear beloved mother, passed away nine years ago, Feb. 21, 1926. Sadly missed by HER CHILDREN.

KRUMMEL, HENRIETTA—In loving memory of our dear mother, who departed this life Feb. 16, 1929. Sadly missed by HER CHILDREN, AMELIA GRUMMEL AND THE REST.

MEHRHOFF, LOUIS—In memory of my dear husband and father, who departed this life Feb. 17, 1915:
I have lost my soul's companion,
A life linked with my own;
And day by day I miss him more
As I walk through life alone.
Sadly missed by
WIFE AND DAUGHTER.

REEG, LOUIS—In memory, passed on Feb. 21, 1931. Sadly missed by WIFE AND DAUGHTERS.

REICHARDT, LOUIS—In loving memory of our dear daddy, who departed this life one year ago, Feb. 16, 1934.
Peacefully sleeping, resting at last,
The world's weary troubles and trials are past.
In silence he suffered, in patience he bore,
Till God called him home to suffer no more.
Remembered forever by
WIFE AND DAUGHTER, SHIRLEY JEAN.

RICHTER, AMALIA—In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, who died Feb. 18, 1934. Sadly missed by DAUGHTER AND THOSE WHO LOVED HER.

SCHNEIDERWIND, BARBARA—In memory of our dear mother. Sadly missed by DAUGHTERS.

STOCK, CHARLES—Died Feb. 15, 1933.
Gone but not forgotten.
Sadly missed by MOTHER, SISTERS and all who loved him.

ZEIS-KROMAN, AMELIA — Passed away Feb. 16, 1931:
There's a link death cannot sever—
Love and remembrance last forever.
Sadly missed by CHILDREN.

IN LOVING REMEMBRANCE

Of my dearly beloved husband and father, Wm. Schenk, who died Feb. 13, 1934:
Just one year ago today
Since my dear husband passed away;
I saw him suffer, heard his sighs,
With aching heart and weeping eyes,
I saw him sinking, hour by hour,
Yet could not stay death's awful power;
But now he calmly sleeps at last,
All pains, all aches, all suffering past.
WIFE, SON AND MOTHER.

SALESMEN WANTED

MEN—IMMEDIATE EMPLOYMENT

WE WILL PUT ON 7 ADDITIONAL MEN WHO NEED EMPLOYMENT AND WHO WISH TO TRY TO SEE IF THEY CAN DO THIS WORK. WE WILL TRAIN SUCH MEN FREE, FURNISH FULL EQUIPMENT WITH NO DEPOSIT REQUIRED. THERE IS NO EXPENSE: BUT THOSE WHO CAN QUALIFY CAN MAKE $150.00 TO $400.00 OR MORE THE FIRST MONTH.

While you cannot make money here unless you earn it, many men who never previously even thought they could do work of this kind have found it to be just the opportunity they sought for years and are making more money than they ever previously dreamed of making. We have men making up to $750.00 a month. Others $600.00, $500.00, $400.00, and $300.00. On the other hand, many fail to fill the requirements and cannot do the work.

Experience in sales work is not necessary. Some of our best men never sold anything before. Men who made as high as $50.00 their first day in the field knew nothing about selling other than what they had learned the previous two days from our sales instructor. This man is himself an experienced salesman who first went into the field and made a splendid record selling this product. He is a man of earnest and sympathetic understanding with the problems of the beginner. He can and does awake and activate the latent abilities of men to do creative work. Many men who least suspect it possess very great and very valuable sales ability. It is not unusual for a beginner to make $20.00 to $40.00 his first few days here.

Perhaps he can help you to make a success of this work. It is worth a try. The training is free. The opportunity is open. If you can do it, you make real money and have assurance of its permanence. If you cannot do it, no harm done. The experience will have been valuable. Last year was the biggest year in our business, nationally and locally; and this year is following the same program of progress.

This is a new product by an established institution—the largest of its kind in the world, and the product already has a greater sale than anything in the world ever offered for the same service. It is now being introduced in this market. This is a genuine present opportunity for cash, and also for future progress in the certain growth of the business. It is for men who have foresight—men who are in earnest about seeking a sound opportunity to get in and work ahead.

Our requirements of you are that you be honest, of good reputation, active, alert, willing to learn and do the following things:

To learn (as taught) how to make a clear and convincing explanation of why you have called to see your prospect.

To learn (as taught) how to show the product so it will reveal the absolute need for it and the necessity of buying it.

To learn (as taught) how to persuade someone to do that which positively ought to be done.

To be honest in your own thought, so that you are entitled to confidence.

To work hard every day to make a genuine success in return for the privilege of a genuine opportunity in a permanent position with good people who will deeply interest themselves in helping you to get started and to get along.

This is a straightforward offer of sincere intent to worthy men who are in need of good, substantial positions. Please do not apply for these positions unless you feel you can meet these requirements. Applicants will be personally interviewed Monday, between 9:15 and 1:15, at 512 Paul Brown Bldg., 9th and Olive sts.

Flemington Like Western Mining Camp During Trial

Bartenders, Waitresses Overworked, Hotels and Streets Jammed — 6,000,000 Words Sent Out on Hauptmann Case.

By DAMON RUNYON.

(Copyright, 1935.)

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Feb. 16.—For more than a month we had in this pleasant little town in North Central New Jersey, a reproduction of an old-fashioned Western Mining camp, rising to its peak of excitement the last two days and nights of the Hauptmann trial.

Flemington now has settled back into the peace and tranquility that characterizes the average small Jersey town, but it will have the memory of a sudden surge of life, and pace, that it is not likely soon to forget.

This writer has been on the "battlefront" of many a big news event, but he has never seen anything like the Flemington of January and February, 1935, and especially the Flemington of the last few days of the trial, with hundreds of newspaper men and women, and telegraph operators, and camera men massed at one point, and thousands of visitors streaming through their lines, drawn by curiosity.

An Unbelievable Picture.

It is a well nigh unbelievable picture, except to those who have seen it, the two barrooms of the Union Hotel jammed to the walls with people, the air so fogged with tobacco smoke that faces can scarcely be distinguished, the clamor of voices, the shriek of laughter, the clatter of glasses.

Outside, in Main street, the troopers of the New Jersey State Police in their sky blue uniforms, pistols swinging from cartridge belts, walk up and down. Across the way lights are burning in the Courthouse, and in the jail where Bruno Richard Hauptmann paces his cell.

A mob stands in front of the hotel peering upward at the veranda, where the members of the jury trot up and down with a tremendous clatter, taking exercise. In the hallways are more troopers.

The room where the operators and the newspaper writers try to work, on the ground floor of the Union Hotel just between the two bars, is jammed with visitors, staid looking citizens, matronly women, giggling girls, and gaping young men, peering over the shoulders of the scribes, and commenting loudly on their efforts.

Students from Princeton drift through the crowd, messenger boys work their way in between the groups of strangers. There is an enormous din of chattering typewriters and telegraph keys, of voices, of moving feet. The bartenders behind the two bars rush around dealing out drinks. Tired waitresses in the dining room stagger under their burden of dishes, feeding one hungry horde while another waits at the doors.

Such was Flemington the last two days and nights of the trial.

By Train, Bus and Auto.

The visitors came by train, bus and automobile from all over this section of New Jersey, from Pennsylvania, from New York State. They had heard the names of many of the writers gathered here, and were eager to see them, to get their autographs.

The numerous crackpots that the trial drew from all over the country mingled with the mob, their eccentricities the butt of witticism, and horse play. Farmers from the country surrounding Flemington, some in their working clothes, others all spruced up, watched the scene in amazement.

It is incredible that a murder trial, especially a trial involving the harrowing circumstances of this particular trial, could be turned into a species of carnival, yet here was the scene, more fantastic than any movie director ever conceived.

Not many of the actual figures of the trial were seen in the bizarre background, to be sure. Occasionally one of the local lawyers wandered through the crowds, only to retreat before the questions that were poured at him.

6,000,000 Words Sent Out.

More than 6,000,000 words have gone out of Flemington on the telegraph wires to the newspapers of this country, more than 80,000 words by cable to foreign papers, and this takes no account of what has been filed from Trenton, seat of the week-end activities of the lawyers during the trial. The cables have gone to London, Australia and, oddly enough, Turin, Italy.

Over $40,000 in money came into Flemington, ordinarily a town of about 300 inhabitants, for the newspaper people by wire, this figure taking no account of money sent in by the newspapers by check. Some 6300 private messages were sent out over the wires, night letter and the like.

In some respects it was a sorry scene, a sad commentary on our civilization and our manners. But it is something that the cub reporters working on the trial will talk about when they are old men, and that the old men here will carry in exciting memory to their graves, and that Hunterdon County, New Jersey, will never forget.

SEEKS PROOF MONOPOLY BARS NATURAL GAS IN ST. LOUIS

Department of Justice Asks Cities Alliance to Draft Charges for Senate Inquiry.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—The anti-trust division of the Department of Justice today called upon the Cities Alliance, which includes St. Louis, Detroit, Milwaukee and several other mid-western cities, for proof of charges that a monopoly keeps natural gas out of these communities.

John W. Smith, president of the Detroit City Council, and head of the alliance, was asked to draw up the charges. He will call on the various cities for details. Charles M. Hay, City Counselor of St. Louis, is a member of the Executive Board of the alliance.

The anti-trust division also asked to be consulted in connection with the resolution being drawn up for presentation in the Senate demanding an investigation of natural gas reserves and how they are controlled.

Senator James Couzens (Rep.), Michigan, and Senator Vic Donahey (Dem.), Ohio, conferred with Smith today. Both are members of the Senate Interstate Commerce Commission which would conduct the investigation.

Specifically the Departure of Justice asked Smith to call on the cities in the alliance to furnish all details of an alleged secret agreement between Columbia Gas & Electric Co. and United Light & Power Co. for an extension of the pipe line of the Panhandle Eastern Pipeline Corporation to Detroit.

MAN CONVICTED OF 'ANARCHY' IN ARKANSAS TO SPEAK HERE

W. H. Rodgers, Relief Worker, Free on Bond, in St. Louis to Hold Meetings.

Ward H. Rodgers, 24-year-old relief worker and organizer of the Arkansas share-croppers, convicted recently of a charge of "anarchy" in Poinsett County, Ark., and now at liberty on bond, is in St. Louis for several meetings and conferences. He will speak at 6 p. m. today on the Community Forum radio program, on Station KSD. At 7:30 p. m. he will address Kirkwood young people in Grace Episcopal Church parish house. At 10:30 tomorrow he will speak to the Methodist ministers at Union Church, on Grandel Square. He will speak tomorrow night in Granite City, Tuesday night at Hibernian Hall, Grand boulevard and Finney avenue, and Wednesday night in Webster Groves City Hall.

Rodgers is a graduate of Vanderbilt University, studied for the Methodist ministry in Boston University School of Theology, and was pastor of a church at Subiaco, Ark., before entering FERA service as a teacher. He was active in organizing the Southern Tenant Farmers' Union.

The Magistrate's Court jury which convicted Rodgers of "anarchy" sentenced him to pay $500 fine and serve six months in jail. He furnished a $1200 bond, after staying in jail 13 days, and is required to report in court March 4. He has appealed the anarchy case, and other charges against him have been dropped, including one of barratry, or stirring up litigation. It was found that punishment for this offense was limited to lawyers.

FINAL RULING IS SOUGHT ON FRAZIER-LEMKE LAW

Supreme Court Is Urged to Settle Quickly Validity of Statute on Farm Mortgages.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16. — The Supreme Court was urged today to rule on the validity of the Frazier-Lemke law virtually forced through in the closing hours of the last Congress to help mortgage-harassed farmers.

The act has been a subject of dispute since its passage. President Roosevelt in signing it said it probably would need amendment. Four Federal District Courts and the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals have declared it constitutional. Two other District Courts have ruled it invalid.

If attempts to scale a farmer's debts down to a figure which would enable him to pay fail, the law provides for a five-year moratorium. The property may not be foreclosed during that period if the owner pays a "reasonable rental." The act also enables the farmer to obtain full title to his property by the payment of its appraised value, regardless of the amount stipulated in the mortgage, at the end of the five-year stay period.

In upholding Minnesota's moratorium law, the high court gave its approval to similar procedure for rental payments over a two-year period, but the question of discharging the mortgage at less than its face value was not involved.

Both debtor and creditor in the case brought to court today joined in asking for review and expeditious action.

SOLICITATION IN GIRL SCOUT CAMPAIGN BEGINS TOMORROW

Workers in the Girl Scout campaign for $24,000 will begin general solicitation tomorrow in St. Louis and in county communities other than Webster Groves, where a special campaign is under way. According to Mrs. Arthur Stockstrom, campaign chairman, $5050 has been pledged in a preliminary campaign.

Proceeds of the Girl Scout pageant to be given at Municipal Auditorium next Saturday night at 8:15 o'clock will go to the campaign fund. The pageant, directed by Mrs. R. M. Donald of Webster Groves and Miss Oleda Schrottky, Girl Scout drama adviser, will consist of six tableaux representing eras of civilization contributing to modern life.

DESPERADO ROBS ARMORY IN TEXAS FOR AMMUNITION

Raymond Hamilton, 22, Once Pal of Barrow, Is Identified by Fingerprints.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BEAUMONT, Tex., Feb. 16.—Raymond Hamilton, 22 years old, fugitive killer and one-time associate of Clyde Barrow, today brazenly raided the armory of the Texas National Guard and escaped with eight machine guns and 3600 rounds of ammunition.

Fingerprints positively identified Hamilton, and police immediately expressed belief he would renew his raids on small-town banks. Under sentence to die for killing a prison guard, the fugitive was believed to have found his ammunition running low as a result of a recent fight with Dallas officers. He shot his way out of a police trap which resulted in capture of his brother, Floyd.

CHAMBER COMMITTEE PASSES ON 32 BILLS

Approves Eight on Criminal Procedure, Opposes Measure on Labor Injunctions.

The Executive Committee of the Chamber of Commerce announced yesterday that it had approved 17 bills pending before the State Legislature and disapproved 15.

Among those approved were eight measures, House Bills 262 to 269, inclusive, drafted by a special committee of the State Bar Association to improve criminal court procedure.

Others approved included Senate Bill 84, enabling St. Louis and Kansas City to create housing authorities and thereby obtain Federal funds for housing improvement; House Bill 216, creating a department for conservation of game and fish, and House Bill 335, providing that the present bus and truck law shall not apply to vehicles operated exclusively in the limits of a municipality.

The committee opposed Senate Bill 73, requiring publication in the State Manual of the politics of every employe of the State, including employes of the State Highway Department. Defeat of the measure was urged as an aid to keeping the Highway Department out of politics.

Also opposed were Senate Bill 85, levying a State excise tax on crude petroleum products; House Bill 352, levying a 5 per cent tax on gross receipts from the sale of 19 classifications of tangible property; Senate Bill 74, prohibiting courts from issuing restraining orders or temporary injunctions in cases growing out of controversies as to conditions of employment, and Joint and Concurrent Resolution No. 12, submitting to voters a proposed Constitutional amendment providing that the State shall take over, without compensation, all public roads and bridges constructed and maintained by counties, townships, road districts and other political subdivisions, except incorporated municipalities.

Pre-Lenten Season Provides Variety of Entertainment

TED SHAWN and members of his dancing troupe, in St. Louis for their performance at the Municipal Auditorium tomorrow night, were the guests of honor last night at the Cryptic Club party for the casts of "Best Sellers" and 'Richard II." The party was given in the crypt of the Little Theater after the performance of the Shakespearean tragedy.

The visiting dancers saw themselves travestied by members of the club who presented a dance series designed last spring after Shawn's appearance with his men dancers at the Little Theater. The performance was revived by request with J. William Lucas again in the role of premier danseur. F. Cowles Strickland, director of the Union boulevard playhouse and a diseur in his own name, gave an impersonation of Frank Parker as he appears in the title role of "Richard II," now current at the Little Theater. Several skits by Mrs. Arnold Maremont, including "Tryouts in Heaven," completed the entertainment which was followed by a light supper.

A POST-SEASON party has been planned by Mrs. Julia Maffitt Walsh, 4341 Westminster place, Saturday, March 2, at the St. Louis Woman's Club. Guests have been invited for dinner and dancing, complimenting Mrs. Walsh's great-niece, Miss Frances Bates, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Maffitt Bates, and her granddaughter, Miss Julia Walsh, daughter of Mrs. Edward J. Walsh.

Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr., former newspaper publisher and author of "Farewell to Fifth Avenue," who will be in St. Louis tomorrow, will be a luncheon guest in the Junior League tea room in the Galeria Building, 4914 Maryland avenue.

His luncheon companions will be Mrs. Donaldson L. Lambert, the league president; Mrs. Leicester Faust, Mrs. Clarence E. Maloy Jr., Mrs. Harold T. Jolley, Mrs. Paul Zentay, Miss Margaret Winston, Lesser Goldman and Guy Turner.

Mr. Vanderbilt will spend the afternoon in the league book shop on the first floor of the building.

Two hundred and fifty members of the younger set were the guests yesterday of Franklin L. Lampel at a tea dance which he gave from 4 to 6 o'clock at the Park Plaza in honor of his granddaughters, Miss Mary Jane Hussey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Hussey, and Miss Jean Fiorita, daughter of Mrs. Gertrude Lampel Fiorita. The party was held in the mezzanine ballroom of the hotel, which was decorated with spring flowers. Bouquets of the blossoms were arranged on a large buffet table at one end of the room, formed a background for the receiving line, and adorned smaller tables grouped about the walls for the convenience of the guests. Mr. Lampel was assisted by Mrs. Hussey, Mrs. Fiorita, Mrs. Emery N. Williams and Mrs. Frederick Usher.

Miss Hussey wore a flame colored chiffon afternoon frock, the neck outlined in fresh gardenias, and silver slippers. Miss Fiorita's costume was powder blue linen lace, designed with a bolero, with which she wore matching slippers and a corsage of pink tea roses.

Helen Ross to Wed J. B. Williams Jr.

MR. AND MRS. HERBERT O. ROSS 5736 Westminster place, have made known the betrothal of their daughter, Miss Helen Adelaide Ross, and John Brent Williams Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Brent Williams, 5858 Cates avenue. The announcement was made yesterday afternoon at a tea at the home of the prospective bride.

She was assisted by Miss Betty Lamb, a cousin of Mr. Williams, by Miss Edna Lee Mays, Miss Marie Gissler, Miss Jimye Thorp and Miss Gertrude Moreland.

Miss Ross is attending Washington University where she is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority. Mr. Williams also attended the university and is a member of Sigma Nu fraternity.

Miss Marian Camden Case Is Bride of Merle M. Eakins

THE quaint little Church of St. Stephan in Ferguson was the scene of the wedding of Miss Marian Camden Case, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Calvin Marbell Case, 5728 Etzel avenue, and Merle M. Eakins, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Eakins, of Kittaning, Pa., at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The ractor, the Rev. Robert C. Batchelder Jr., read the marriage service in the presence of about 130 guests.

Miss Evelyn Jackson was maid of honor and Walker McCammon French was best man for Mr. Eakins. Russell Eakin, brother of the bridegroom, and Edmond Cherbonnier were ushers. Nancy and Adelaide Cherbonnier, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Cherbonnier Jr., were flower girls.

The altar was decorated with a profusion of white narcissi, jonquils and steevia and lighted by tall white cathedral candles. The nuptial music was played by Miss Clara Brown, organist, and Miss Grace Koch and Lawrence Mendonsa, violinists.

Dr. Case gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a gown of white moire made on close-fitting lines with a jacket of white moire threaded with gold. Her hat was of white moire and the bridal bouquet was of brides roses, lilies of the valley and freezia. Miss Jackson was gowned in powder blue chiffon with which she wore a blue chiffon hat and sandals to match. She carried yellow roses and freezia. The flower girls were in frocks of white dotted Swiss, lace trimmed. They carried baskets of yellow and white spring blossoms.

The ceremony was followed by a reception for the wedding party and the families at the home of the bride's cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Cherbonnier Jr., 315 Darst road. The rooms were decorated with clusters of spring flowers and more of the flowers adorned the reception table which was lighted with ivory tapers in candelabra. Miss Emily Kniet and Miss Jane Shaffer served at the reception table. On their return from the honeymoon in Florida, Mr. Eakin and his bride will live in Kittaning.

Social Affairs Of St. Louisans At Miami Beach

Mr. and Mrs. L. Ray Carter Entertain at Bath and Tennis Club—Mary Elizabeth Bascom Guest of Jane Johnson.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 16.

ST. LOUISANS spending the midwinter season in Florida are enjoying themselves at parties at the exclusive clubs, aboard their yachts or at their winter homes.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Ray Carter of St. Louis, who are occupying their new home at Miami Beach for the first winter, frequently entertain. They were host and hostess at tea Tuesday in their cabana at the Bath and Tennis Club. Mr. Carter's sister, Mrs. John Higgins of Worcester, Mass., and her young daughter, Miss Mary Louise Higgins, and Miss Frances Dresser of Worcester, who is Miss Higgins' guest; Mr. and Mrs. J. Clifford Rosengarten of Philadelphia and Mrs. Allen T. West of St. Louis were present. Mrs. Rosengarten was formerly Mrs. Ralph McKittrick of St. Louis. Mr. and Mrs. West and their daughter, Miss Betty West, came to Miami Beach recently to join the winter colony and have leased a house for the season. At a luncheon given by Mr. and Mrs. Carter at the Bath and Tennis Club recently, Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Wallace of St. Louis were among the guests.

Miss Marie Eleanor Busch and her friends spend part of their time on the private beach on the estate of her mother, Mrs. Florence Parker Busch, at Golden Beach, near Miami. Mrs. Busch's son, Stafford L. Lambert who is entertaining Herbert D. Condie Jr. of St. Louis, is interested in deep sea diving. He has salvaged old ship lanterns and other equipment of which he is making a collection. Last week Miss Edith Margaret Behr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Leslie Behr, of Lake Forest, Ill., who is with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Gale Barstow of St. Louis at the Nautilus Hotel, accompanied Mr. Lambert and Mr. Condie on a trip on Biscayne Bay, where Mr. Lambert made several test dives. Mrs. Barstow gave a luncheon Friday at the Bath and Tennis Club for Miss Behr.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew W. Johnson are occupying their home, just completed, on North Bay road. With them is their daughter, Miss Jane Johnson, last year's Veiled Prophet Queen. She is entertaining Miss Mary Elizabeth Bascom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Bascom of St. Louis. Both young women made their debuts two seasons ago, when Miss Bascom was a special maid of honor at the Veiled Prophet ball. Miss Betty West, a contemporary of Miss Johnson and Miss Bascom, is also a popular member of the younger set at the resort. She swims daily at the Bath and Tennis Club and is seen with her friends on its Cabana Circle Walk.

Miss Jacqueline Busch Jones, a debutante of the past season, with her mother, Mrs. C. Drummond Jones, and her grandmother, Mrs. August A. Busch of St. Louis, is a guest at the King Cole Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Maxwell Deering, the latter the former Mrs. Henry W. Peters of St. Louis, entertained at the "Inferno" dinner dance at the Surf Club. Their guests from St. Louis included Mr. and Mrs. Paul B. Jamison, Mr. and Mrs. James Westlake, Dr. and Mrs. Charles A. Vosburgh and Mrs. Paul Brown. Mr. and Mrs. Deering are at their winter home, 6055 Pine Tree drive, for the season.

Mrs. John B. Strauch of St. Louis, who with Mr. Strauch is a guest at the Nautilus Hotel, was hostess at a luncheon at the Bath and Tennis Club Wednesday. She had as her guests the following St. Louisans: Mrs. Charles A. Vosburgh, Mrs. Charles Wiegand, Mrs. George Bullock, Mrs. Paul Brown and Mrs. Edwin Stackhouse.

Mr. and Mrs. James L. Westlake have as their guests Dr. and Mrs. Charles A. Vosburgh of St. Louis. Mr. and Mrs. Westlake entertain frequently on their yacht, the Nellie Belle, moored at the Fleetwood docks in Biscayne Bay. Mr. and Mrs. Westlake, Mr. and Mrs. Jamison, Dr. and Mrs. Vosburgh, Mr. and Mrs. Albert M. Keller, Mr. and Mrs. Deering and Mr. and Mrs. James H. Bright, formerly of St. Louis, were among luncheon guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bradsby of Louisville, Ky., at the Surf Club Sunday.

Mrs. Neal Wood and her sister, Mrs. Walter Stanley of St. Louis, were guests of honor at a small luncheon given by their mother, Mrs. Alan P. Green of Mexico, Mo., Tuesday at the Surf Club. Mr. and Mrs. Green's winter home at 4580 North Bay road overlooks Biscayne Bay. Mrs. Wood left Wednesday for St. Louis after a visit of six weeks with her parents. Mr. and Mrs. Green will sail Wednesday on the Empress of Japan for a world cruise. In Japan they will meet their sons, Robert and Alan P. Green Jr., who will accompany them.

Daniel C. Coppin, Anna Sargent Wed

MISS ANNA IVY SARGENT, daughter of Mrs. Joshua Thomas Sargent, 4450 Russell boulevard, became the bride of Daniel C. Coppin, 4245 Maryland avenue, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Coppin, yesterday morning at 9 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Thomas V. O'Reilly at St. Margaret's Church, and was followed by a breakfast for the families at the home of Mrs. Sargent.

The bride wore an ivory satin gown which belonged to her paternal grandmother. It was made en princesse with a semitrain and trimmed with old rose point lace. Her tulle veil was arranged in a cap, caught at the back with orange blossoms, and fell in ruffled tiers to her finger-tips. In place of flowers the bride carried a white prayer book. Her maid of honor, Miss Virginia Edwards, was gowned in a Kate Greenaway frock of pink tulle with which she wore a picture hat of matching material and carried a colonial bouquet of spring flowers.

Six little flower girls preceded the bride down the aisle. They were: Pamely Hoffman, Jane Marie LaRose, Louella Marie Becker, Rosemary Gerken, Dorothy Thorpe and Marjorie Lee Hasey. They wore Kate Greenaway dresses of white net made over pink with wide blue silk sashes. Poke bonnets to match and old-fashioned bouquets in pastel shades completed their costumes.

William Hiner served Mr. Coppin as best man. His ushers were John Regan, Fred Reynolds and Pierre McCann.

Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding were an aunt of the bride, Mrs. V. Morgan Morris of Macon, Miss., and Miss Maureen Weinrich of Chester, Ill.

After a two weeks wedding trip Mr. Coppin and his bride will reside at the Saum Hotel.

Gottfried Galston Recital Thursday

GOTTFRIED GALSTON, pianist, will appear in recital at the St. Louis Woman's Club Thursday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock. The program, to be given in the ballroom, will be under the auspices of the special program committee. Mr. Galston has appeared as soloist with the leading symphony orchestras of the world. He spent six years on a concert tour in Germany, Austria, Russia, England and France, where he gave a cycle of five recitals, numbers from which he will include in his recital here. He recently returned to St. Louis after giving a concert in Milwaukee.

Hostesses for the afternoon include members of the special program committee, Mrs. William S. McChesney, chairman; Miss Antoinette Taylor, Mrs. Benjamin F. Bush, Mrs. Felix Anderson, Mrs. Luther Avon Blue, Mrs. Robert Brown, Mrs. David Grey, Mrs. William B. Ittner, Mrs. Paul B. Jamison, Mrs. E. C. Klipstein, Mrs. Ernest C. Klipstein, Mrs. John Latzer, Mrs. Monroe Rodemyer, Mrs. George W. Spearl, Mrs. Daniel Upthegrove and Mrs. F. W. A. Vesper.

Luncheon will be served at 1 o'clock before the program.

City Law College To Give Reception

GRADUATES of the City College of Law and Finance will meet at a reception from 5 to 7 o'clock preceding a dinner dance at Hotel Jefferson Wednesday evening, Feb. 27. The hostesses will be: Miss Wilma Miller, Miss Florabella Peer, Miss Amy Becker, Miss Gwendolyn Wood, Miss Helene Mueller, Miss Mary Alice Morris, Miss O. Ruth Townsend, Miss Erma A. Fleming, Miss Martha Morris, Miss Lillian Wehrenbrecht, Miss Marcella Kotte, Miss Melva Wunderlich, Miss Helen Schwarzbach, Miss Virginia E. Literary Musicale For Webster College

THE second literary musicale in this year's series of three, given by Loretto Foundation for the benefit of Webster College, will be held Sunday afternoon, March 3 from 3 until 6 o'clock. Mrs. John FitzGerald, 3249 Compton avenue, first vice-president of the foundation, will be hostess and will entertain in the pink room of Loretto Hall.

The Rev. Daniel A. Lord, S. J., guest speaker at each party in the series, will review "Forty Days of Musa Dagh" by Franz Werfel. The review will be preceded by a short musical program and followed by a tea.

The party was originally planned for Feb. 24 but was postponed because of Father Lord's absence from the city.

The third and final part of the series will be given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Farris, 807 South Bemiston avenue, Clayton, Sunday afternoon, May 26. Admission is by invitations, secured at Webster College or through the hostess for each party.

MISS RUTH ANNE HESTER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Hester, 67 Aberdeen place, became the bride of Robert E. Harvey Jr., son of Mr. aand Mrs. Robert E. Harvey of St. Joseph, at an informal ceremony at Our Lady of Lourdes Church, yesterday morning. The Rev. Francis O'Connor and the Rev. Walter Craig officiated at the service, which was followed by a small reception at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride was in a street suit of henna wool trimmed with brown fur. Her accessories were brown and she wore a corsage of white orchids. Mrs. Howard L. Hibbs, sister of the bride, and her matron of honor, wore a green silk afternoon gown with brown accessories and a corsage of gardenias. Mrs. Hester was in green crepe with a black hat and orchids.

The bridegroom's parents and his sister, Miss Marian Harvey, came to St. Louis for the wedding.

Mr. Harvey and his bride will go to Chicago for their wedding trip and on their return will live at 5885 Nina place.

Vernon Beehler Weds Miss Bruere

MISS MARGUERITE BRUERE of St. Charles became the bride of Vernon Beehler of Evanston, N. Y., at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon in a ceremony performed by Bishop William Scarlett at Trinity Episcopal Church in St. Charles. Miss Bruere is the daughter of Theodore C. Bruere, former Judge of the St. Louis Court of Appeals, and Mrs. Bruere. Mr. Beehler is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Beehler of Kingston, N. Y.

The bride wore her grandmother's wedding gown of satin tinted a deep ivory by the years and trimmed with old lace. Her old-fashioned bouquet was of white roses and lilies of the valley. The bride's only attendant was her sister, Mrs. Bernard Thompson of Kansas City, who wore a gown of blue net with a large picture hat to match. She carried an arm bouquet of yellow roses. Floyd Knapp of St. Louis served Mr. Beehler as best man.

Mr. Beehler and his bride left on a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination, after which they will go to Evanston, N. Y., to make their home.

English-Speaking Union Ball in London

LONDON, Feb. 16.

AMERICAN AMBASSADOR BINGHAM and Lord Reading head the committee for the English-Speaking Union ball, which will be given May 7 in connection with the celebration of the silver jubilee of King George's reign. The American colony in London is supporting the ball.

American fox hunters were prominent at the United Hunt Ball in the Savoy Hotel. More than 100 packs were represented. The Duke of York was the principal guest. The gaiety of the scene was enhanced by the bright hunting pink worn by the men, while the usual serene dignity of the ball room was disturbed by hunting shouts and the yelping of hounds.

The French Ambassador and Baronne de Cartier de Marchienne (she is the former Marie Dow of New York), the Marquess and Marchioness of Milford Haven and Lady Cunard were among the guests at Lady Ludlow's musical party at Bath House.

THIS NEW YORK

By LUCIUS BEEBE

NOTHING on the Manahttan scene ebbs and shifts so restlessly as the group of folk who set their seal of approval on night resorts. Night clubs come and go with breathless speed and not often does one hear of the same place doing business two successive seasons. And for all the large number of midnight dance bars running at any one time it's doubtful if there are 10 in town that are making money. The business of keeping up with the procession which passes continually from one night club to another requires the agility of a sprinter.

At the moment of writing El Morocco and the French Casino are getting the white tie and orchid celebrities, as is the Raibow room at Radio City, where the tables are on a revolving dance floor and Bea Lillie sings nightly to the greatest mink and monocle audience in town. Experts, too, detect a drift in the direction of the Waldorf's Empire room, which to the mind of this department is an extraordinarily handsome restaurant.

Lesser night clubs bloom by the score. Chez Marianne opened in a blaze of flashlights and the Weylin's Caprice room gets a good crowd derived principally from younger and less determinedly social lads and their lamb pot pies of the moment. Marion Cooley's Sunday nights at the Boeuf Sur le Toit fill that establishment to capacity one night a week anyway. Probably this meager report of the late hours joints of the moment will be out of date by next week. It's a career in itself to keep up with the times.

The most engaging catastrophe that can overtake the town's cocktail parties at the moment of writing is Peter Hurd, the cowboy artist. Not only does he bring a breath of Remington to the Fifty-seventh street art galleries with his canvases, but nobody can miss him in a drawing room. Handsomely six feet, and always adequately attired in urban clothes for afternoon or evening, he still affects high-heeled Mexican riding boots on all occasions. Commanded one evening to the opera by a hostess, he appeared in white tie and tails and his most elaborately tooled Spanish leather boots complete with silver spurs. The Metropolitan hadn't been so enchantingly shocked since Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish brought her guests on time for a performance in the 90's. Peter has, too, a plainsman's voice. He became audible the other afternoon across a vista of frock coats at a high-toned lit'ry tea at the Plaza, demanding stronger waters than were being served. "Hey," he screamed at a petrified waiter captain, "Plenty tequila, pronto!" He got it, too, as there was a general impression he would shoot down the crystal chandeliers if further displeased.

Nothing fascinates this department so much as a leisurely meal on a crack train rolling smoothly over the Connecticut lowlands or through the green ice-age hills of upper New York State on that most soigne of limiteds, the Twentieth Century. Somehow fine food and a constantly variant panorama through the windows seem the ultimate in luxury.

As a matter of fact and quite contrary to a general conceit, food on restaurant cars, while it may not be as fine as at the Ritz, is darned good. You hardly can expect a railroad to provide a $20,000 French chef for every one of their dining cars. Such handsomely upholstered trains as the New Haven's Yankee Clipper have about their restaurants all the elegance of cut flowers, resplendent linen and frock-coated maitres d'hotel, of smart urban lunch resorts. There is nothing you can't command, short of plover's eggs and Clos de Vougeot '98, aboard the Century's diners, and the club cars of the Pennsy's trains will serve you a mutton chop or whitebaits and good ale that might come from the grillroom of a luxury hotel.

The business of getting drinks, particularly through New England, where the laws are curiously involved and State lines frequent, has much of the charm of pub crawling through the various boroughs of London. One minute you can't so much as order beer and the next the waiter is soliciting your interest in a sidecar. Connecticut has laws designed to promote the sale of sherry and beer. In Massachusetts you can have anything you want. It's all reminiscent of Central Europe, where you can discover what country you are in only by drinking a beer.

Louis Gimbel, of department store fame, and now a liquor executive, is a collector of English period furniture, but can't for the life of him remember he dates of British monarchs when in the auction room. So a friend recently gave him a handsome, extra length gold cigarette case with the names and reigns of all English rulers, from Elizabeth on, engrossed on the inside. Louis has been using it when bidding on Jacobean or Regency pieces until recently, when he discovered several of the dates were wrong. Now he's wondering if the donor was really a friend or just engaged in playing a $500 joke on him.

BOULEVARD NOTES — The waiters at Gage & Tollner's Brooklyn sea food house wear their names in gold on their sleeves, the captain being Ike. . . . Two pearl gray bowler hats were visible at once the other day on Fifth avenue. What goes on? . . . There has been more sleighing in Central Park this season than in 10 years. . . . At Anna Helds' in Town, the First avenue French restaurant, they serve onion soup at 1 a. m. gratis. . . . SORORITIES and FRATERNITIES

WHEN Kappa Alpha fraternity was founded in 1865 at Washington and Lee University in Lexington, Va., Gen. Robert E. Lee was president of the college. In his honor, and to commemorate the interest which he took in the founding of the order and the influence which he had in establishing its aims and ideals, the fraternity's chapters throughout the country give annually a Robert E. Lee dinner. The banquet will be held tomorrow evening at the Congress Hotel and will be attended by members of the alumni and student chapters and their pledges. The speakers will be Raymond R. Tucker, secretary to Mayor Dickmann; Robert D. Abbott, attorney, and Coach James D. Conzelman. Entertainment features will be presented by members of the organization. The toastmaster will be Charles Rieth Jr., president of the alumni chapter. Other alumni officers are Sidney D. Frampton, vice-president, and Lynn Meyer, secretary-treasurer. The president of the Washington University chapter is Harry Marshall House.

The thirty-first annual honor guest dinner of the St. Louis Beta Theta Pi Club of St. Louis, composed of members of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity, will be held at the Congress Hotel at 6:30 p. m. next Wednesday.

The honor guest will be Lewis Warrington Baldwin, president of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, who became a member of the fraternity at Lehigh University where he was graduated in 1896. It is the custom of the club at each annual dinner to honor some member of the fraternity who has achieved distinction in St. Louis or Missouri.

On the Arrangements Committee are Lawrence Shallcross, chairman; Frank Simmons, David Powell, D. J. Cayce and F. M. Veatch.

Presiding at the dinner will be Walter Krause, president of the club. Other officers are: Vice-presidents, George G. Vest and Frank C. Hamilton; secretary, Wallace Wilson; assistant secretary, Ted Armstrong; treasurer, William H. Armstrong; historian, Charles T. Hubbard.

Gov. Guy B. Park, who was honor guest at last year's dinner, has been invited and has said he will attend if possible.

The annual February heart dance of Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity was given last evening at the Municipal Airport by the alumni and student chapters. Among the guests was Ted Shawn, a member of the fraternity, who, with his group of male dancers, will begin an engagement tomorrow evening at the Municipal Auditorium Opera House. The committee on arrangements for the dance included Herbert M. Ross, alumni secretary; G. Woodruff Marsalek, president of the Washington University Chapter, and Carl Beckers, chairman of the Alumni Social Committee.

Following an initiation service in the afternoon, the annual Founders' day banquet of Kappa Alpha Theta will be held at 6:30 p. m. Saturday, in the Tower Room of the Congress Hotel. The tables will be arranged in the kite shape of the sorority pin, and will be decorated with candles in the sorority colors, black and gold. Miss Adele Dwyer, vice-president of the alumnae chapter, and general chairman of arrangements for the banquet, will be the toastmistress. Mrs. Lester Abbot is in charge of reservations. Miss Miriam Duke is chairman of entertainment. Brief talks will be made by chapter officers, and Miss Anne Quermann, president of the student chapter, will present the Washington University girls who are pledges.

The Literary Group of the alumnae chapter of Delta Gamma will meet Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Frank Seward Scott, 3512 Avondale avenue. Mrs. Richard B. Elster, alumnae president, will review the novel, "Lightship," by Archie Binns and the discussion will be led by Mrs. Ronald J. Foulis. Mrs. Scott will review "Indian Patch Work" by Edward and Mary Charles, the discussion being led by Mrs. H. N. Hardin.

The February dinner meeting of Alpha Phi alumnae chapter will be held tomorrow evening at the home of Miss Lucille Engelsmann, 21 Mason avenue, Webster Groves. Plans will be made for the district convention of the sorority which will convene March 1 and 2 at the University of Missouri.

Members of Sigma Kappa sorority will meet at the home of Mrs. R. W. Ayers, 307 Fairlawn avenue, Webster Groves, tomorrow afternoon to sew on children's garments for the St. Louis branch of the Red Cross.

Mrs. Elmer E. Baer, 5236 Miami avenue, will be hostess for the alumnae meeting of Alpha Omicron Pi at her home tomorrow evening.

Five of the fraternities at Washington University and two sororities have announced the election of chapter officers. Glenn L. Moller was chosen president of Pi Kappa Alpha; Harvey H. Young, vice-president, and James J. Ritterskamp, treasurer. Phi Delta Theta elected Larry W. McDougall, president; Charles D. DePew, reporter, and John W. Losse, secretary. Orel J. Schopp is the new president of Sigma Alpha Epsilon; Paul Heineman, vice-president and William Becker, secretary. Tau Kappa Epsilon elected George McDonald, president; William Evans, vice-president, and James Logan, secretary. Orlie H. Wilkening will head the Theta Xi chapter and Sheldon Stock is secretary.

Pi Beta Phi is the only sorority on the campus which elects officers twice a year. The officers are: Miss Annie Meroe Burnet, reelected president; Miss Jocelyn Taylor, vice-president, and Miss Mary Elizabeth Wilson, secretary. To fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Jeanne Milam, Kappa Kappa Gamma elected Miss Lucile Field Keeler, president. Miss Mildred Bush was chosen to take the office of chapter secretary which had been held by Miss Keeler.

The Alpha Xi Delta Mothers' Club will meet for luncheon at the home of Mrs. F. H. Wolf, 6922 Kingsbury boulevard, Wednesday. The assisting hostesses will be Mrs. Benjamin Wolf and Mrs. W. J. Goggin.

Mrs. Erwin G. Ossing, 4566 Holly avenue, will entertain the Mothers' Club of Delta Gamma sorority at her home Friday afternon.

Mrs. William P. Hicks gave a luncheon Thursday at her home, 376 Gray avenue, Webster Groves, for the Mothers' Club of Sigma Nu fraternity. The assistant hostesses were Mrs. F. F. Lewis and Mrs. John R. Hundley.

Official Dinner By the Cabinet For Roosevelts

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.

IN honor of the President and Mrs. Roosevelt the members of the Cabinet and their wives will give a dinner on Monday evening, March 4, at the Mayflower Hotel. It will be given on the second anniversary of the inauguration of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

At the dinner last year Mrs. Roosevelt wore the ice blue brocade gown she had chosen for the inaugural ball.

Over a long period of years it was the custom of the Cabinet group to entertain for the President. For a while only other members of the Cabinet group were guests. Eventually other guests were included.

With the beginning of the present administration one dinner given only by the members of the Cabinet members and their wives was revived.

Veterans' Auxiliary Officer Honored

MRS. WINIFRED D. TOUSSAINT of Jersey City, N. J., national president of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, is paying an officiail visit in St. Louis. She is a guest at the Mayfair Hotel.

She was the guest of honor last night at a dinner given at the American Hotel Annex by the Ladies' Auxiliary, Greater St. Louis County Council. Mrs. Audie Whaley, president of the council, was toastmistress. Other guests included Mrs. Edna Herbst, Jefferson Barracks, State president; Mrs. Zola Windsor, St. Joseph, Mo., senior vice-president; Mrs. Mabel C. Tanner, Jefferson City, past State president; Mrs. Mary E. Bishop, St. Louis, State secretary; Miss Frances Gallagher, St. Louis, past State president; Mrs. Marion Meier, St. Louis, past State president, and Mrs. Ethel M. McCarty, St. Louis, State treasurer.

Handicraft Sale To Aid Refugees

JOHN D. IN SECLUSION; NO VISITORS IN 6 MONTHS

Only Members of Family and Servants Allowed to See Him, Says Guard.

ORMOND BEACH, Fla., Feb. 16.—No one but members of his family and his servants has seen John D. Rockefeller Sr. for six months, a guard said today. At 95, his physique no longer permits him even his three holes of golf daily or even weekly. His automobile rides are curtailed.

John D. Jr. and his wife, when they arrived not long ago, occasioned rumors that they had been summoned from New York, but the Rockefeller physician said his patient was not exactly ill, although his age was beginning to tell.

The guard said Rockefeller was taking sun baths.

$200,000 SOUGHT FROM RFC FOR SCRUGGS BANK CREDITORS

State Finance Commissioner Seeks to Make a 20 Pct. Distribution.

A petition to borrow $200,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by the State Finance Commissioner in charge of liquidation of Scruggs, Vandervoort & Barney Bank. It was stated the loan was desired to enable a 20 per cent distribution to creditors of the bank, which closed Jan. 14, 1932.

JAPANESE CELEBRATE 50TH YEAR IN HAWAII

950 Arrived in 1885; Now There Are 140,000, or 38 Pct. of Population.

By the Associated Press.

HONOLULU, Feb. 16.—Hawaii's 140,000 Japanese residents will commemorate tomorrow the fiftieth anniversary of the first organized Japanese immigration to these islands.

As 38 per cent of Hawaii's population is of Japanese ancestry, the celebration will extend from one end of the archipelago to the other. The flag of the Rising Sun will flutter beside the Stars and Stripes and fishing boats will be decked in bright colors.

Few remain of the original group of about 950—682 men, 164 women and 102 children—who arived Feb. 17, 1885, at Honolulu. They had been selected individually by the Hawaiian consul at Tokio. A newspaper account notes that spectators "were struck by their robust, healthy appearances."

Japanese immigrants were chosen by the Hawaiian Government, then a monarchy, because it was believed they would make good laborers on the sugar plantations, and because the Japanese do not readily intermarry with other races. Chinese immigrants mixed readily with native Hawaiians, and the Government feared depletion of pure Hawaiian stock.

The sugar industry was then in a formative state, huge irrigation projects were needed, including tunnels through mountains to carry water from one side of the islands to the other. The Japanese, accustomed to hard work, helped develop an industry now worth $1,000,000 a year, in which 13,000 Japanese are still employed.

Japanese laborers in the sugar industry have decreased as they found more remunerative, less toilsome occupations in the professions and in business. Today the cane fields are worked largely by Filipinos, while the younger Japanese attend the University of Hawaii and find "white collar" jobs when possible.

More than two-thirds of the flower shops in Honolulu are operated by Japanese. Some 200 Japanese are engaged in flower growing. The production of island vegetables also is largely in Japanese hands.

Hawaii's fishing industry is worth about $1,000,000 annually, and most of the 1000 licensed fishermen are Japanese. They go to sea in small oil burning boats, sometimes as far as 1000 miles, for voyages of two to three weeks and come home with heavy loads of tuna and other fish.

Of the 90,000 native born American citizens of Japanese ancestry here, only 15,000 are old enough to vote. About 13,000 of these voted in the Nov. 6, 1934, election. Within a few years they will outnumber any similar classification of voters, being surpassed at present only by pure Hawaiians, of whom 16,000 were registered last Nov. 6 and 14,000 voted.

Rinso

"It's wonderful in the washing machine," says Mrs. W. F. Tiefenbrunn, 3948 Cleveland Ave.

"RINSO is so wonderful in the washing machine. It gets the clothes 4 or 5 shades whiter and colored clothes stay brighter, too. A little Rinso gives a lot of lasting suds — suds that rinse out thoroughly and leave no sticky smears. Rinso is marvelous for dishes and all cleaning—doesn't coarsen the hands."

MRS. WM. F. TIEFENBRUNN,

STAMP COLLECTORS PERMITTED TO BUY FIRST DAY COVERS

Originally Meant to Be Sold at Philatelic Agency, Can Be Bought in Washington.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—Stamp collectors, seeking some of the imperforate stamps Postmaster-General Farley issued to friends, may buy first-day covers from the department March 15.

The stamps, originally meant to be sold only at the Philatelic Agency, also will be sold at the Washington postoffice but only in blocks of four. Collectors, the department said today, may send not to exceed five self-addressed envelopes with remittance to cover the value of the stamps to be used for each of 15 varieties of stamps.

The stamps to be affixed to covers are the proclamation of peace, or Newburgh stamp, the Little America, all 10 of the National Parks varieties, the Wisconsin Tercentenary, the Mother's Day stamp and the 16-cent airmail stamp. The first two are perforated and the others imperforate.

Full sheets of the exhibition panes which are to be issued will not be cut but must be purchased just as they come from the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

WALTER H. TOBERMAN FILES FOR ALDERMANIC NOMINATION

Grain Man Has Backing of Mayor; Both From the Fourteenth Ward.

Walter H. Toberman, president of the Toberman Grain Co., running for the Democratic nomination for Alderman of the Fourteenth Ward, filed his candidacy with the Election Board yesterday.

Earlier in the day he had announced in Mayor Dickmann's office that he would run. The Mayor said he would support Toberman. Backing of the Democratic organization of the Fourteenth, which is Dickmann's home ward, was assured Toberman when the organization indorsed him unanimously Friday night. Toberman, who is a member of the Zoning Board of Adjustment, resides at 3439 Pestalozzi street.

Alderman August M. Brinkman (Rep.) of the Fourteenth Ward said yesterday he probably would not seek re-election.

Illinois U. Man to Talk.

Dr. Frederich G. Straub, research assistant professor of chemical engineering, University of Illinois, will speak on "Caustic Embrittlement in Steam Boilers," at 8 p. m. Wednesday at the Ranken Mechanical School, 4431 Finney avenue.

Cookbook Shows Methods Of an Emily Post of 1876

Mrs. Henderson, Once Social Arbiter of Washington, Liked Fancy Food and Had a Passion for China.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—Mrs. Mary Henderson's cook-book illuminates the ideas and methods which the one-time social ruler of Washington used to entertain capital society. Several copies of the volume which she wrote in 1876 were among the odds and ends disposed of at the Henderson Castle auction recently.

Mrs. Henderson was the Emily Post of the day when breakfasts were served in seven courses, dinner in 16, and all the foods were fancy. Here are some samples of her rules:

"Never ring a bell for a meal. In private houses the menage should be conducted with as little noise as possible."

"In well-appointed houses, a word is not spoken at the dinner between hostess and attendants."

"If one has nothing for dinner but soup, hash and lettuce, put them on the table in style; serve them in three courses."

Washington dinners then were lasting from three to five hours, which so annoyed Mrs. Henderson she offered "a practical drill exercise for serving at table" in the hope it would speed the service.

Decorative Dishes.

In all her recipes she repeated the mandate to make the dishes decorative, and gave a chapter to her methods for fancifying foods, with drawings of the butter-roller; the crouton-cutter; the "simple little instrument that cuts vegetables into curls;" the larding-needle and the paste-jagger.

"Shells or couquilles" drew a dissertation, too: "A set of majolica plates, imitating pink shells, with a large pink shell platter, is very pretty and appropriate for almost any course," Mrs. Henderson said, adding "You can always serve oysters in their shells by once purchasing five large ones, cleaning carefully every time used. They will be ready to be filled for the next occasion by suitable oysters from the can."

But Mrs. Henderson's real passion was what she called "The Ceramic Art;" last week's auction crowds called it "Mid-Victorian," and wondered what it was ever used for.

"The selection of china or the table offers an elegant field in which to display one's taste," Mrs. Henderson wrote. "By far the most elegant arrangement consist in having different sets of plates, each set of a different pattern, for every course. The Harlequin dessert sets are interesting, where every plate is not only different in design and color, but is a specimen of different kind of ware as well."

Preferred China to Silver.

Mrs. Henderson thought silver much less attractive than china for table ornaments; advised fewer silver salt cellars, more china ornaments for wedding presents; counseled women retrench on elegances of dress to get rid of "insipid white china."

She described "lovely maidens in bisque, reclining, while they hold painted oval dishes for jelly; cherub boys in Majolica, tugging away at wheel barrows which should be loaded with flowers; clusters of lilies from mirror bases to hold bonbons, and tripods of dolphins, with great pink mouths, to hold salt and pepper."

The table of Senator Sumner, she said, "presented a delightful study to the connoisseur, with its different courses of plates, all different and recherche in design." And when he got a special announcement of the arival from Europe "of a new set of quaint and elegant specimens of china ware," he would repair to New York on the next train."

A Winter Breakfast.

One of Mrs. Henderson's menus details a "winter breakfast."

First course: Broiled sardines on toast, garnished with slices of lemon.

Second course: Larded sweet breads, garnished with French peas. Cold French rolls or pettis pains. Sauterne.

Third course: Small fillets or tender cuts from porterhouse steaks, served on little square slices of toast, with mushrooms.

Fourth course: Fried oysters; breakfast puffs.

Fifth course: Fillets of grouse, on little thin slices of fried mush, garnished with potatoes a la Parisiene.

Sixth course: Sliced oranges, with sugar.

Seventh course: Waffles with maple syrup.

COUSIN OF EX-KING ALFONSO IS ORDERED TO LEAVE FRANCE

Prince Louis Bourbon Is Arrested and Is Charged With Immorality.

NICE, Feb. 16.—Prince Louis Ferdinand D'Orleans Bourbon, cousin of former King Alfonso of Spain and ex-fiance of Mrs. Mabelle Gilman Corey, former wife of a Pittsburgh steel king, was arrested here today and ordered expelled from France. He was given three days to leave.

This is the second time he has been ordered deported. The Paris prefecture expelled him in 1924 for reasons given as "too delicate to explain."

Prince Louis was arrested in a cheap hotel. A charge of "immorality" was made against him.

His name was linked for years with that of Mrs. Corey. In 1930, he announced his engagement to Princess Marie Charlotte Constance de Broglie, 73-year-old widow of Prince Amadee de Broglie, but her family objected and took matters to court, contending the Princess was not in her right mind. The Princess answered that she knew what she was doing, and the courts decided in her favor. Accordingly, the Princess, then worth $2,000,000, was married to the Prince Bourbon scion in a secret ceremony in London.

Prince Louis is 45. He was stripped of his titles by royal decree of ex-King Alfonso immediately after his first expulsion from France.

WARM, DRY SPRING EXPECTED IN MIDWEST

Weather Bureau Statement Based on 11-Month Cycle After Hot June.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16. — The Weather Bureau said today it had discovered an 11-month weather cycle which, if it runs true to form, means a warm and dry late spring for the Midwest this year. The Bureau made no mention of last year's drouth, but it pointed out that much of the Great Plains is still dry enough to make spring rains very important in insuring good crops.

"Late spring will be warm and dry in the Midwest this year if May conforms to its usual practice of bringing high temperatures 11 months after an abnormally hot June," the Weather Bureau said.

"Climatologists of the Weather Bureau have discovered a definite 11-month weather sequence from May's habit of being warm when June of the year before has been abnormally warm.

"Past records show that every June for which temperatures five degrees above normal were recorded was followed the next year by a warm May over most of the Missouri and Upper Mississippi Valleys. When June temperatures were five degrees or more below normal, the sequence still held, with cool Mays."

Last June was far above normal in temperature in the Missouri and Upper Mississippi Valleys, averaging as much as eight to 10 degrees above normal for the entire month in some sections.

From the Central Plains eastward there is now sufficient moisture to give crops a good start, the Weather Bureau reported, but the Plains area from North Dakota and Montana southward is still lacking in moisture reserves to a considerable degree.

Good spring rains will be needed as far west as the Continental Divide to insure a good start for crops, the Weather Bureau said. Normally the heaviest precipitation in this area does not come until March or April. The east, south, southwest and west coastal area are well supplied with moisture in most regions.

65th Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Kiesler, 3411 Hartford street, will observe their sixty-fifth wedding anniversary today. Two sons and their wives, six grandchildren and five great-grandchildren will attend a dinner at the Hartford street address, with a reception for friends following.

NAMED TO HELP COLLECT FIRE INSURANCE REFUND

Gilbert Lamb Resigns as Assistant Attorney-General to Be Attorney for Referees.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 16.—The appointment of Gilbert Lamb, Assistant Attorney-General, as attorney for the referees in the case involving restitution of excess premiums by stock fire insurance companies in Missouri was announced today by Circuit Judge Sevier of Cole County.

Lamb has resigned as Assistant Attorney-General, and will assume his new duties the latter part of this month. His compensation was fixed by the court at $420 a month.

Lamb will serve as counsel for H. P. Lauf and L. H. Cook, Jefferson City attorneys, appointed by the court last year to assist in compelling the insurance companies to make full restitution of the premiums collected during seven years of litigation over a 10 per cent rate reduction, ordered by the State in 1922. The State Supreme Court has held that the 143 companies involved in the proceedings had no legal authority to collect the higher rates during the litigation. In May, 1933, Judge Sevier entered a judgment against the companies for $18,673,796, representing $13,087,619 in excess premiums collected from Nov. 15, 1922, to Aug. 9, 1929, and $5,586,177 in interest.

The referees filed a preliminary report yesterday stating that they had impounded $1,530,354 in unrefunded premiums from 129 companies to date. They will file a complete report showing the restitution to each policyholder on May 15.

PETITION IN BANKRUPTCY FILED

Action Against Universal Boiler Filter Corporation.

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in Federal Court yesterday against the Universal Boiler Filter Corporation.

Creditors and their claims were: Valley Electric Co., $380; Arneson Pattern Co., $195; Northwestern Brass Foundry Co., $34. The petitioner stated that the Universal Boiler Filter Corporation had admitted insolvency and had consented to adjudication as a bankrupt.

Correction on Herrick Divorce.

In a list of divorces granted in Friday's Post-Dispatch, it was erroneously stated that a divorce had been granted to Thornton Herrick from Mrs. Mildred Herrick. The original suit was filed by Herrick, service superintendent at Chase Hotel, but the decree was awarded on a cross-bill to Mrs. Herrick, who resides at 5390 Pershing avenue. The court also ordered payment of $720 gross alimony, at $30 a month for two years.

SCOUT SUNDAY BEING OBSERVED IN CHURCHES

Special Services and Sermons; Some of Groups Attend in Body.

Scout Sunday, which is being noted especially this year because of the twenty-fifth anniversary of scouting in America, is being observed by most of the St. Louis troops sponsored by churches with special services today.

In many churches scouts were to attend in bodies to hear sermons dealing with scouting or youth in general.

Troop 2, which celebrates its own silver jubilee this year, is holding a reunion of scouts and former scouts at Pilgrim Congregational Church, Union boulevard and Kensington avenue, at 10:40 o'clock this morning. Efforts have been made to get in touch with all former members of the troop, and invitations have been sent to all whose addresses could be obtained. Ernest Birge was scoutmaster of the troop from 1910 to 1920, and Everett B. Langenberg has held that office since then.

Observance of Scout Sunday, held generally throughout the country a week ago, was postponed to today by most St. Louis troops because of the circus Feb. 8 and 9.

Applications from about 80 Boy Scout troops and Sea Scout ships for representation at the National Jamboree have been received at Scout Headquarters. Each troop is entitled to select and send one scout to the Jamboree, which will be held in Washington, Aug. 24 to 30. The cost of the trip, $69.75, may be paid wholly or in part by the troop.

In his radio address marking the scouting anniversary Feb. 8, President Roosevelt announced his intention of participating in the Jamboree and invited scouts to attend.

A training course for Sea Scout leaders is being conducted at Union Avenue Christian Church on Tuesday evenings, with 42 men enrolled. Talks will be made by J. McM. Cook, H. A. Brereton, Walter B. Griswold, and J. Ross Blackford, and the course will end with a day of practical Sea Scout work at the Creve Coeur Lake base March 17.

Meetings for the purpose of discussing the relationship of Cubs, Boy Scouts, Sea Scouts, and other phases of scouting, intended especially for field commissioners and men heading institutional boy work, will be held at Alhambra Grotto March 9 at 2 p. m. and at 9 a. m. the following day.

A board of review for West District will be held at Soldan High School Tuesday at 7:30 p. m.

Scoutmasters of Central District will be guests of field commissioners at a party to be given at the Pythian Building the evening of Feb. 27.

A party for all scouters of West District and ladies will be held at Union Avenue Christian Church Feb. 26 at 6:30 p. m.

Troop Notes.

A stamp collectors' club has been formed by scouts of Troop 98, St. Roch's Church, with the aid of Ross McElree, stamp merit badge adviser.

A silver jubilee banquet was held by Troop 227, Lafayette Park Baptist Church, Tuesday evening with P. W. Shull, district commissioner, and Foster H. Brown, court of honor chairman, as guests.

Troop 97, St. Agnes Church, will meet hereafter in a gymnasium of McKinley High School under leadership of Clifford Greene, scoutmaster.

A Sea Scout patrol has been organized by Troop 158, Holy Innocents Church.

Sea Scout Ship Sea Lion, sponsored by the Lions' Club of Webster Groves, is having an 18-foot knockabout boat built for intership contests. The ship's snipe boat, "Robert E. Lee," is being rebuilt and two moth type boats are under construction.

Girl Scouts.

An elementary training course for all interested in the Brownie program is being held with meetings on Monday mornings at First Congregational Church, Webster Groves.

The Tri-Cities Girl Scout Council is conducting a campaign for funds so that the movement may be continued and a part-time director employed.

Pontiac Retail Sales In January Largest For Month Since 1928

In January more new Pontiac sixes and eights were delivered at retail in the United States than in any previous January since 1928, according to H. J. Klingler, president and general manager of Pontiac Motor Co.

Gain in Used Car Sales in January

According to Frank Garard, used car manager for the Hudson-Frampton Motor Car Co., shows a large used car sales increase over the previous year. In January, the firm's sales were three times larger, or 300 per cent, over January of last year.

Oldsmobile Breaks All January Records

Breaking all records for the month, Oldsmobile in January sold 10 times as many cars at retail as in January a year ago, according to D. E. Ralston, vice-president and general sales manager.

CLEAN YOUR TEETH
your Dentist's way—

DR. LYON'S TOOTH POWDER

- 100% Cleansing Properties Twice that of tooth paste
- Contains No Grit or Pumice Cannot possibly scratch the softest enamel
- Outlasts Tooth Paste 2 to 1

THERE is nothing known that will clean and polish teeth so quickly and leave them so gleaming white—as POWDER.

That is why your dentist, when cleaning your teeth, as you know—always uses powder.

As it is only the powder part of any dentifrice that cleans, a dentifrice that is ALL POWDER just naturally cleans best.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is ALL POWDER—100% cleansing properties. This is more than twice the cleansing properties of tooth pastes.

Dentists everywhere recommend Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder, because—teeth simply cannot remain dull and film coated when it is used.

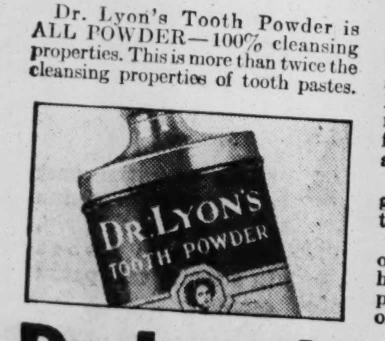
Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder cleans off all stains and polishes the teeth in a harmless and practical way that leaves them sparkling—many shades whiter.

Free from all grit or pumice, Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder cannot possibly scratch, or injure the softest enamel.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder keeps your teeth REALLY CLEAN and clean teeth mean—firm, healthy gums and the least possible tooth decay. Powder leaves your teeth feeling so much cleaner, your mouth so refreshed, and your breath so sweet and pure.

Once you use powder you will never go back to tooth paste. People by the thousands are changing daily.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is not only doubly efficient, but it costs only half as much to use. Even a small package lasts twice as long as a tube of tooth paste.



Dr. LYON'S TOOTH POWDER
WHITENS TEETH AS NOTHING ELSE CAN

Bodies for Chevrolet Cars Built in Custom Style in Fisher Plant

Methods in Use Here Said to Be Employed for First Time in Mass Production.

For the first time in mass production of cars, custom built methods are being used in building bodies for the new Chevrolet master de luxe models, according to V. M. Dirkes, manager of the Fisher body building plant at Union and Natural Bridge road. Production in the local plant of Fisher-built bodies for Chevrolet cars is now running around 500 a day, and capacity is 100 bodies an hour.

To make this possible, several hundred thousand dollars worth of new tools and body-building equipment has been installed in the plant, and the assembly lines and feeder lines have been rearranged.

The six steel sections of the Fisher-built bodies, including the solid "turret top" steel tops, come to St. Louis from the fabricating plants. But the bodies are completely assembled, welded and built here, wood parts are fabricated in the mill connected with the local plant, and the upholstering is cut and fitted here.

Newspaper men who toured the plant Tuesday on invitation of T. H. Keating, the Chevrolet zone manager, and Dirkes, found that the body-building process has been materially changed with a view to custom type body construction.

Of especial interest were the "flash" and "spot" electrical welding machines by which the sections of the body are welded together so that the welds are even stronger than if the bodies had been built originally as one piece. Welds five to six feet long are made easily and in a matter of fact way with speed and accuracy. Rivets are electrically put in place and welded down without the crystalization often caused by hammering. In a hundred and one places, parts are "spot" welded. Much of the machinery and the methods of using it are new to mass construction in the industry, Dirkes said.

Welds Made With Precision.

The newspaper men followed the body building processes from the beginning where the steel sections were put together and eventually welded in "flash welding" machines into a solid whole. The machines not only welded the seams, but held the steel sections rigidly and exactly in place for the welding process.

They saw a layer of sound insulated material being fastened to the inside of the steel tops, so that when it was on a car there would be no "drumming" noise effect. They saw the bodies traveling along the conveyors while workmen at a dozen or so points ground, smoothed and polished the welds until they were hardly discernable.

They saw other workmen fit in the wood parts through use of which custom effects are produced. They saw the upholstery cut, fitted, attached in place as the bodies traveled on through the plant. They saw the seats coming in long lines on overhead conveyors to drop into place at exactly the proper instant.

They saw the sanding of the steel bodies, the priming, the painting, they drying of the paint coats in long ovens.

They saw the rigidity of the inspection, the rejection of bodies for slight defects and the sending of bodies back to various departments for correction of slight mistakes.

Workmanship Improved.

In dozens of ways they saw where processes had been simplified for time saving and better results. For example, a man with a mechanical striper puts on the moulding stripes more accurately than it can be done by hand and in a small fraction of the time.

They saw operation after operation performed by tools worked by air and swung from point to point from overhead conveyors, with a manifest saving of time and a making of accuracy of workmanship. Finally they saw completed body after body going off the final line and starting on its way to the Chevrolet plant, which occupies another part of the huge plant at Union and Natural Bridge road, for placing on the Chevrolet chassis on the final assembly line.

More than 100 board feet of the finest lumber is used in custom building the Chevrolet car. This includes not only wood parts for accurate fitting of upholstery, but also wood inside some of the steel parts of the all-steel bodies. Such use of wood inside of steel parts, Dirkes said, makes a car stronger than if the wood were not used. Such use of wood, he said, is an essential in custom type body building for beauty as well as for extra strength.

"The Chevrolet Motor Co. reports that official 1934 new-car registration figures for the United States complete show 534,906 Chevrolet passenger cars sold and registered, giving the company first place for the fourth year in succession, and for the sixth time out of the last eight years," T. H. Keating, zone manager, states.

"Chevrolet also led in total truck registrations for 1934, with a total of 157,507.

"Compared with the previous year, these totals show Chevrolet gains of 60,463 in passenger cars and 57,627 in trucks.

"Chevrolet cars and trucks registered numbered 692,413 compared with 574,323 in 1933, a gain of 118,090.

"December registration of Chevrolet passenger cars were 25,741, exceeding December, 1933, by 15,738."

Terraplane Praised After Safety Tests Of Braking Ability

Insurance and police officers of the City of Detroit recently conducted a brake test of a 1935 Terraplane sedan. The test was to compare the ability of this 1935 model to stop within the standard figures approved by the Police Department at various speeds.

Two sets of tests were made, the first series being at speeds of 20, 40 and 50 miles per hour, the driver applying his brakes, as he crossed a given line, when given a signal. The second series made by having the Terraplane run parallel to the police test car, which is equipped with a gun giving a stop signal. Tests with the latter equipment included both the braking effort and the reaction time of the driver.

Reporting on the brake test, the insurance and police officers said that at speeds of 40 and 50 miles per hour the Terraplane stopped in nearly half the distance called for by the Police Department. The department uses figures compiled as the result of a large number of tests made by the Bendix Brake Co. For example, at 50 miles per hour the Detroit Police Department states that with brakes in excellent condition, a car should be able to stop in 111 feet. The Terraplane at 50 miles an hour stopped in 65 feet.

Chevrolet Co. Zone Personnel Guests of Of G. M. A. C. Manager

In recognition of the sales record established by the Chevrolet Motor Co. in 1934, the local office of the General Motors Acceptance Corporation, through Claude Courteol, local G. M. A. C. manager, gave a dinner at the Park Plaza for the personnel of the St. Louis Chevrolet Zone Office.

Among others in attendance at the dinner were department heads of the Chevrolet office, including: C. E. O'Meara, zone manager; F. S. Black, assistant zone manager; C. C. Schelp, retail city manager; E. R. Watson, parts and accessory manager; D. F. Riley, sales promotion manager; W. G. Cannon, truck and body manager; T. E. Lauck, office manager, and H. W. Clark, assistant GMAC branch manager; John Barry, GMAC financial sales manager, and G. M. Teeguarden, zone agent of the General Exchange Insurance Corporation.

"Chevrolet's outstanding record," said Courteol, "is one of the sensations of the automotive industry. The spurt the sales organization put on in the last six months of the year enabled Chevrolet to forge ahead to leadership for the sixth year in the last eight. This record was made during the last six months of the year, although 65 per cent cent of the volume business on automobiles is normally obtained the first six months."

Steiner-Fahrenkrog Celebrates 27th Year In Auto Business

The Steiner-Fahrenkrog Automobile Co., 3101 Locust street, is celebrating the twenty-seventh year in the business of selling automobiles. The firm is now the only authorized downtown Pontiac dealer.

Its modernly equipped three-story building has a frontage of 75 feet by 150 feet, with a side drive into Cardinal avenue. In the basement of the building is a salon display at all times of a complete line of Pontiac models, including both the six and eight-cylinder cars. This salon accommodates about 25 cars.

On the street floor, is a modern showroom displaying Pontiac cars. On the second floor is an up-to-the minute service department, equipped for service on Pontiac cars.

Used cars are handled in a separate showroom on Locust street. Heretofore the Steiner-Fahrenkrog Co. had several locations around town, but the new setup brings all operations together.

Harry Steiner is president and Col. Fahrenkrog, secretary and treasurer of the concern.

Thousands already are driving the new cars with this exclusive feature, and are liking it better every day. Easier, safer driving—faster, smoother shifting, without taking a hand from the wheel! Nothing new to learn!

FIRST ROOFS OF STEEL— Second of 1935's three "hit features" is the steel roof. And again Hudson and Terraplane score—with the first steel roof, on the only bodies all of steel.

Third in point of interest is easier riding—the product of many engineering features. Hudson has combined them to give you the balanced ride—with the added smoothness of an exclusive method of springing that "cradles" the entire car.

AND THAT ISN'T ALL!— Of course, there are many other reasons why so many 1935 car buyers are becoming Hudson and Terraplane owners.

Already famous as the finest performing stock cars in the world, Hudsons and Terraplanes now have greater performance than ever. More power from less gas. Plus complete absence of motor vibration—resulting in the velvet smoothness that distinguishes Hudson-built cars.

Ruggedness, proved as no cars ever proved it before, in the recent 175,000-mile Ruggedness Runs. Bendix Rotary-Equalized Brakes—quicker, safer, straight-line stopping.

QUICKER, SAFER STOPS

With Dodge Perfected, Dual-Cylinder Hydraulic Brakes

JUST when others are offering their first hydraulic-type brakes, Dodge gives you the extra safety of Perfected, Dual-Cylinder Hydraulic Brakes, pioneered years ago by Dodge and proved in the service of hundreds of thousands of owners.

With 20% more braking surface—fully equalized against skidding or swerving—they get thousands of extra miles from tires and brake linings—give greater operating ease, quicker, surer stops—more safety than ever. Remember, there can be no successful imitation of Dodge brakes—or their safety!—without Dodge experience and manufacturing precision.

Here is a big, smart, 85-mile-per-hour car that actually gives you three to five more miles per gallon of gas than lower-priced cars. And even more astonishing economy of oil! With all its savings, the Dodge "Red Ram" engine gives brilliant new ranges of speed—flashing pick-up—silky silence and ease. Its famous patented Floating Power engine mountings smother vibration, which racks ordinary cars to pieces.

The final word in protection—the famous Dodge safety all-steel body is known to nearly 3,000,000 Dodge owners.

Only the genius of a manufacturing organization such as Dodge—with such complete facilities, with 20 years of experience in building nearly three million fine vehicles—could create such astounding dollar-for-dollar value!

British Farmers Try Disposing Of Surpluses at Cut Rates to Persons Unable to Pay More

Experiments in Sale of Potatoes to Jobless and Milk in Schools Undertaken in Hope of Stimulating Consumer Demand.

Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.
LONDON, Feb. 16.

AN interesting economic experiment is being tried out in Great Britain in connection with the paradoxical problem of semi-starvation in the midst of plenty. It is intended in a small way to break down the barrier between unpurchased surpluses and undernourished but impoverished consumers. It has begun with milk and potatoes.

At the end of its first year of operation, the Potato Marketing Board, the organization of all potato growers authorized by law to market domestic potatoes, found itself with a surplus, despite the restrictive production policy adopted. It was a surplus only in the sense that the potatoes could not be sold at the regular retail price; consumer demand had not been satisfied.

The Potato Marketing Board decided to try selling potatoes to unemployed persons at a cut rate. The experiment is being confined to about 2500 persons in Bishop Auckland, County Durham, one of the so-called "black areas" of Great Britain, where the percentage of unemployment is much higher than the average for the country.

How Potato Plan Works.

The plan is simple. The unemployed at Bishop Auckland go to the Labor Exchange and obtain vouchers entitling them to purchase at about half the retail price quantities of potatoes based on the size of their families. The potatoes are purchased at a central dump, which is supplied by local wholesalers, who buy potatoes from farmers and deposit them at the dump for a fee of $2.50 a ton. This fee covers cartage and the use of sacks. The retailers stamp the vouchers of the unemployed and send them to the dump in return for a fee of 2 cents for each 14 pounds of potatoes, which is less than half their usual profit.

The experiment, which has the backing of farmers and retailers and the support of the British Government, started at the beginning of February and is scheduled tentatively to continue for two months. Meanwhile, Labor Exchange officials will try to ascertain whether at least some of the money thus saved by the unemployed in buying potatoes, will be spent in purchasing more potatoes. That is the hope of the Potato Marketing Board. In that connection, the board has arranged to give a booklet on various ways of preparing potatoes to each recipient of a potato voucher.

Experiment With Milk.

The experiment with milk, which is on a more ambitious scale, involves the supplying of that product at a special low price to school children in England and Wales for consumption in the schools. For some time the National Milk Publicity Council had been sponsoring a campaign to encourage the drinking of milk by school children during school hours. By the end of last September 1,000,000 children were consuming about 1,000,000 gallons of milk per month, but the retail price (7 cents a pint) seemed to have set that limit to increased consumption.

The Milk Marketing Board, an organization of all the milk producers of the country, legally authorized to market their product at a standard wholesale price, was worried about disposal of a surplus it was unable to sell for human consumption. An alternative was to dispose of it, as far as possible, to milk product factories at the extremely low "manufacturing milk rates" of about a penny a gallon.

The board conferred with Government officials, and last October a new milk-in-schools plan was adopted. The Government agreed to contribute $2,150,000 a year for two years, and the board agreed to supply milk to the schools for purchase by children at 3 cents a pint. The scheme proved an immediate success. At the end of the first month 2,000,000 children were consuming 2,000,000 gallons of milk a month. Today an additional million are drinking an additional million gallons a month.

Aside from the benefit of additional nourishment to the children, thousands of whom are from the homes of the unemployed, or the employed living in poverty, the Milk Marketing Board reports an increase of consumption in homes of milk purchased at the regular retail rate. The board says thousands of persons have become "fresh-milk conscious," and households which formerly purchased tinned or dried milk are now using the fluid product.

Possible Future Extension.

Taken by themselves, these two experiments may seem relatively unimportant. But considered in relation to the politico-economic trend, they may be considered highly significant when it is remembered that there is already a Pig Board and a Bacon Board, that a Herring Board is about to be established and that a Meat Board and a Poultry and Egg Board may be set up soon.

The public has paid little attention to the experiments, and there has been little opposition from commercial retailers of food. Lord Beaverbrook's papers, however, have attacked the potato experiment, opposing its extension to the other products.

The plan has been defended by the London Times. "The scheme," said that paper, "is an experiment designed to discover whether it is not possible to bring fresh foodstuffs produced in this country within reach of a larger body of consumers, without contradicting the general policy of assuring efficient producers a remunerative price. The principle of this policy cannot be seriously challenged. The alternative is violent and rapid fluctuations in prices, which at one time fall to a level ruinous to producers and at another time rise to scarcity levels, following upon the producer's ruin.

Prices Within Consumers' Reach.

"But the point at which the general policy of the Government must needs seem vulnerable lies in the contrast between the existence of abundant supplies side by side with a large population too poor to buy all they want. There is something shocking, even to the most academic economist, in the destruction of what is known as 'surplus food'; and clearly the next step, after giving some security to efficient producers, must be to see whether remunerative wholesale prices cannot be combined with retail prices within the means of more consumers.

"Efforts in this direction can be made without championing either of the foolish assertions that distributers are a pack of thieves or that the existing system of distribution is impeccable. Experiments in distribution may well result in some further closing of the gap between wholesale and retail prices and, at the same time, be of use to retailers by directing the attention of consumers to the better classes of foodstuffs."

The Government's viewpoint has been expressed by Earl De La Warr, parliamentary secretary to the Minister of Agriculture, who was formerly a Labor peer and followed Ramsay MacDonald into the first national government in 1931 to become a "National Laborite."

"The attitude of the Government," he said, "must be one of friendliness to such an experiment. It may or it may not work, but so long as we see on the one

How Cities and Shoe Workers Have Been Affected by "Decentralization" Of Industry in Massachusetts

Thousands Thrown Upon Relief Rolls When Factory Migration to Villages Began—Officials Describe Desperate Plight of Lowell, Salem, Beverly and Haverhill at NRA Hearing.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.

LABOR leaders, aided by Federal experts and city officials, sought to show at a series of hearings here recently, how some NRA codes have intensified rather than lessened the dire effects on labor of industrial competition. They presented a concentrated survey of a single section of one industry in which all the phases of industrial warfare have seemingly been accentuated by the workings of the code.

The shoe industry in Massachusetts was the subject of these NRA hearings. As the result of pressure brought by the Massachusetts delegation in Congress, a committee of NRA officials made a preliminary study of the field. This committee's report, made public last November, was so damning that the series of hearings was arranged.

Both Sides of the Story.

Employers, replying to the testimony of labor and the Government, were satisfied, for the most part, to point out that the practices complained of had their origination before the NRA; that if they had become more common it was because of the depression rather than the codes. Only one or two argued that conditions for employer and employe were improved.

For two days city officials, Government experts and union leaders told of thousands of workers thrown upon relief in the cities, factory migration to rural areas to escape labor costs, wage scales based upon code minimums; mostly, they charged, the fault of the boot and shoe code. The code was dictated, they asserted, by the large manufacturers, to serve their own interests.

What is happening in this old and well established industry, several witnesses pointed out, is in many respects typical of trends in all industries in the present stage of capitalist development—the monopoly stage in the view of many economists. Particularly is this true, it was pointed out, of the movement of industry from the city to the small town. Under the spur of the depression, smaller communities are bidding for branch plants which will employ workers now on relief rolls. This is being tied in with the Government's subsistence homestead program. As an example, a homestead project is offered to a community on condition that an industry be obtained which will supply the necessary cash wage, to be supplemented by farming small tracts of ground provided by the Government.

Many Cities in Distress.

The desperate plight of several Massachusetts cities was described by Representative A. Piatt Andrew. Salem, Beverly and Lowell were in dire circumstances, while Haverhill faced actual ruin, Andrew said. In the latter city the major part of the population is threatened with want. Not only are the shoe workers without work, Andrew explained, but the shoe industry is so important to the city that the real estate owners, the lawyers, doctors and shop keepers and all their employes find themselves without a means of livelihood.

Mayor James J. Bruin of Lowell and Mayor J. Fred Manning gave similar testimony. In Lowell, according to Bruin, there were 1500 former shoe factory employes on the relief rolls, although Lowell was not primarily a shoe center. Average yearly earnings of shoe factory workers in Massachusetts, Manning said, dropped from $1300 before the depression to $747 in 1933 and even lower in 1934.

"Manufacturers plead with me for lower labor costs," he said. "At the same time, welfare costs rise. Shoe workers represent 42 per cent of the city. There are now 3400 families on relief rolls, compared with 2050 last November."

Migration of Factories.

The migration of shoe factories from these and other Massachusetts cities to small towns in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont was responsible for the plight of the cities, the witnesses agreed.

They blamed provisions in the boot and shoe code—allowing a lower minimum wage scale in towns of a certain size, the much-discussed population differential—for the migration.

Manning called attention to the methods employed by small towns to attract industry. Obviously, their motive, he said, was to get their own citizens off the relief rolls and on to a payroll, however low the wage scale. One town in New Hampshire had used the town trucks to move a shoe company to its new location. Others offered money, free factory or free factory site, free water power and, above all, freedom from labor trouble. Massachusetts, according to Manning, is the most highly unionized section of the country, so far as the shoe manufacturing industry is concerned, and once had the highest standard of wages with the exception of New York State.

Wages Cut to Save Firm.

From a single town, Salem, according to George J. Bates, Mayor, first one company migrated, throwing 750 workers out of employment; then another firm, leaving 200 jobless behind; and finally two small firms failed, adding 60 other shoe workers and their families to relief rolls. One of the few remaining firms of any size, was saved only "through the co-operation of workers in accepting a 15 per cent reduction in wages, affecting about 250 workers."

"It appears," said Bates, "the only way shoe workers can be gainfully employed is by taking a drastic reduction in the wage scale, notwithstanding the constantly increasing cost of living. If something is not done, then it will be only a matter of a short period of time until the shoe industry of Massachusetts will be extinct."

City Attorney George Karelitz of Haverhill said that the addition of 651 families to the relief rolls during the past six months could be directly attributed to the operation of the code. Before the code went into effect, Karelitz said, eight factories formerly situated in Haverhill returned to that city, while since the code had been in operation 56 firms employing 5890 workers and having a total payroll of $4,490,455 had gone into bankruptcy, moved from the city or been liquidated.

Suggestions for Betterments.

The Rev. Francis J. Haas, member of the NRA Labor Advisory Board, who participated in the original hearings on the shoe code, called for drastic changes; a vertical scale of three minimum weekly wages to protect skilled workers; removal of the population, sex and Southern wage differentials; a 30-hour maximum work week for the entire industry and reorganization of the Code Authority to give labor representation. Father Haas referred to the hope at the time of the adoption of the code that the 40-hour week would restore employment to 1929 levels and added:

"The indices of employment of the Bureau of Labor Statistics show that employment during the last six months of 1934 was slightly below the indices for the same months of 1933. Furthermore, adequate equitable adjustments in wages have not been made, since there were no previous wage scales in many of the areas into which plants have migrated. This migration was encouraged by the various differentials written into the minimum wage provisions of the code, resulting in a situation of unfair rather than of fair competition."

"Example of Fascism."

"A purer example of Fascism could not have been concocted," John M. Mara, president of the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union, said of the code. "It put into effect the original idea of the United States Chamber of Commerce in its advocacy of a recovery body which would regiment labor for the benefit of and exploitation by industry. The formation of the shoe code and the drift of it during the past 15 months give clear evidence of a trend that is of the highest concern not only to workers in the shoe industry, but to labor in every industry and to the country as a whole."

Mara charged the code was written "by industry for industry, through the help of the Government."

"The public hearing and the post-hearing conferences," he said, "were held by a retired General of the Ordnance as deputy administrator, who used methods which belong to a court-martial, and not to an organization which was set up supposedly to promote, among other things, industrial democracy, or partnership of government, industry and labor.

"If the NRA is going to draw an iron ring around labor, as it has done in this code, the day has come when the fact must be known whether that is the policy of the Roosevelt administration. If it is not the intention of the administration to oppress and permit the exploitation of labor in this manner, it is time that fact should also be known, and this code reopened for amendments, whether the Code authority approves of such a move or not."

Mara cited figures which he said showed profits in the boot and shoe industry had greatly increased from 1932 to 1933, and that manufacturing cost had dropped 5 per cent from 1933 to 1934. Instead of raising wages and making a real contribution to the recovery program, manufacturers had increased their dividends, he said.

Says Two Firms Control.

Another union witness, Joseph Bearak, counsel for the United Shoe and Leather Workers' Union, warned of the swift technological changes that have taken place in the industry during the depression, creating further unemployment. Within two years, he said, all cutting in the industry would be done by machines, and he offered this as only an example of the kind of changes that are taking place. Bearak charged that opposition to wage adjustments came from the International Shoe Co. and the Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co., "who control the trade association which acts as a Code Authority."

According to Bearak, who argued in favor of the 30-hour week, from 10,000 to 15,000 shoe workers have been displaced since the code went into effect, due to factory migrations and the consequent training of workers in new towns. He put the total unemployed in the industry at about 60,000.

Moving of Plants.

Two Government witnesses, Paul Hutchings of the NRA Labor Advisory Board, and Caroline Manning of the Women's Bureau of the Department of Labor, contributed what was perhaps the most thoroughgoing indictment of the code in relation to the migration of industry. They declared that migration had occurred not only in the East but throughout the Middlewest, especially in the important shoe centers, St. Louis, Milwaukee and Cincinnati.

About 20 factories have changed locations since the shoe code went into effect in October of 1933, according to Miss Manning. Thus, the Brown Shoe Co. of St. Louis, she said moved three of its plants, from Charleston, Ill., to Dixon, Ill., from Moberly, Mo., with a population of 13,772, to Pittsfield, Ill., with a population under 2500, and from Mattoon, Ill., with a population of 14,631, to Caruthersville, Mo., with a population of 4781. The Johnson, Stephens & Shinkle Shoe Co. moved a plant from St. Louis to Rolla, leaving 600 unemployed shoe workers in St. Louis, but employing approximately only 400 in Rolla, according to Miss Manning's statistics.

Bids by Small Towns.

"Rarely did an employer admit that the move was to escape trade union domination," she said, "yet many of the recent shifts have been from localities where the labor unions are active to unorganized centers, anti-union in sentiment."

Inducements offered by civic organizations to influence shoe factories that are shopping around for a favorable location are much the same in the Middle West as in the East, Miss Manning said.

"Title to the factory buildings, occupied rent free in the meantime," she added, "is usually contingent upon the payment of a stipulated amount in wages by the firm in a given number of years. Towns have put up new structures at a cost of thousands of dollars for use as a shoe factory. Other towns have spent equally large sums in repairing and altering old buildings to suit the purposes of the shoe manufacturers. In addition, cash payments of a few thousand dollars are often made to cover moving costs. Reductions are made in electric power and water rates.

"Residents of the new locations are often so desperate for a job that they were reported as having offered to work for nothing while they learned their jobs, although the company refused the offer. There is a record of employes having pledged $50 to be paid in weekly installments to the Chamber of Com-

Leading German Theologian, Dr. Karl Barth, Continues Opposition to Hitler's Rule

Expelled From Bonn University But Unsubdued, He Has Become Greater Problem to Nazis Than Einstein.

By CARLOS F. HURD,
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

GERMANY'S most distinguished theologian, Prof. Karl Barth, is now a greater problem for the Hitler Government than is Germany's most distinguished scientist, Prof. Albert Einstein.

Einstein, in exile, is not now an active center of opposition. Barth, still in Germany, disciplined but unsubdued, is a formidable leader of the Confessional Church, which has been resolute in its resistance to the authority of Chancellor Hitler's Reichsbishop Mueller. Were he compelled, or permitted, to leave Germany, his clamant witnessing against its rulers would not soon be silenced.

Because he failed to lead his classes in a "Heil, Hitler!" before and after lectures and recitations, a Nazi disciplinary court expelled Dr. Barth from his professorship at Bonn University. The decree, pronounced shortly before Christmas, has just taken effect.

UNSUBDUED

KARL BARTH

American admirers of the theologian are following his movements, through occasional bulletins which make guarded mention of his situation. The latest of these bulletins, received by President S. D. Press of Eden Theological Seminary, Webster Groves, shows Dr. Barth still remaining in the university city of Bonn. It tells of the efforts of the Confessional Church to agree with the Government on an oath of loyalty which its ministers can take without violence to their consciences.

Pulpits Elsewhere for Him.

Earlier, it was expected that Dr. Barth would go to Switzerland, his native country, where many pulpits would be open to him. Lately, a news dispatch has indicated that the Hitler Government is keeping him in Germany, for possible further court action if an agreement is not reached with his fellow churchmen.

Advance religious periodicals issued in Boston, lately published a review of the case, entitled "Hitler vs. God—Karl Barth Makes His Choice." The writer, Dr. Henry Smith Leiper, who is European representative of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, terms Prof. Barth "the most noted living Protestant theologian."

In his trial, held at Cologne, Dr. Barth was accused first of insubordination, in refusing to take the oath of allegiance to Chancellor Hitler at the time of his appointment.

First Charge Dropped.

Regarding the charge, Dr. Bernhard Rust, Reich Minister of Culture, as prosecutor, said that Dr. Barth had offered to take the oath, but at the same time admitted that he had based his offer on an interpretation of the oath, issued by the Confessional Church's brotherhood council. The council's interpretation declares that a Christian, in swearing by the name of God, thereby limits his obedience under the oath to acts which he can justify as a Christian.

It appeared unwise to press this charge as some members of the court seemed unwilling to acknowledge that they had sworn to obey Herr Hitler irrespective of all religious teachings and religious scruples. For this reason, the trial was on the second and third charges.

The second charge was disobeying the Ministry's directions as to use of the Hitler salute in the class room. Dr. Barth, in his defense, said he had told his students it would be advisable to give the salute, so as to avoid expulsion from the university. It appeared that the salute had been given at some times, but that there had not been the punctilious care about this matter, at all times, which the dictatorship requires.

"Disloyal" Opinion.

On the third charge, Prof. Barth made no defense. This charge was that he had "attacked the Government" in a conversation in Berlin.

The theologian said he was in a group of about 20 churchmen, a number of them ultra-Nazis. The latter declared that it had become the duty of German teachers of theology, and trainers of the clergy, to inculcate the Nazi viewpoint in all matters.

To this, Dr. Barth admitted, he replied that "there could be a difference of opinion between equally good Christians on such matters as the concentration camps and the cause of the Reichstag fire."

The prosecutor argued, and the court held, that the expression of such an opinion was evidence of disloyalty and incapacity to teach in a state institution.

Dr. Barth's Defense.

Dr. Barth's defense, made unavailingly, was that theological faculties had a special relationship to the church, and that the totalitarian demand of Hitler for complete allegiance did not extend to the function of a teacher of the Christian religion.

The remark of Dr. Barth to his colleagues at Berlin was not the only utterance of his which has brought frowns of disapproval from the Nazi leadership. He had repeated to his students and to wider groups of readers this declaration:

"Nazi theory has no abiding place in Evangelical teaching. If it prevails, it will be the end of the Christian Church. Better that the church be reduced to a small company, and go back to the catacombs."

He gave, perhaps, even deeper offense by saying, "The fellowship of the church is not through blood, and not through race. If the German Evangelical Church excludes the Jewish Scriptures, or treats them as of secondary importance, it ceases to be a Christian church."

Dr. Leiper, writing of the trial at Cologne, says:

"This latest dramatic court scene, with Barth as its central figure, is by no means the first to fire the imagination of the church. Barth's first work as a preacher was done in a Reformed Church in Geneva, as assistant to Dr. Adolf Keller. There, in the Auditoire, in 1909, the future reformer preached from the same pulpit where John Calvin had spoken to a listening world, and John Knox had stirred the deepest emotion of the multitude. Those who listened to Barth in 1909 little thought that he would come to occupy a place in the thought of the Christian world which is singularly reminiscent of the great reformers.

"As Knox challenged Mary,

Huey Long and Division of Wealth.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

SENATOR HUEY P. LONG has become a national figure with his recent radio broadcasts. While I do not belittle his mental ability, he seems, at present, to be illogical and irrational. And therein lies a danger. Those who like him will tend to worship him because he slings symbols that arouse positive connotations in their minds. His enemies will dislike him for the opposite reason, namely: that his symbols and ideology arouse in them negative connotations. Basic assumptions not being understood by either group, they will have little common ground upon which to discuss him and his ideas.

He asks us to join his "Share-Our-Wealth" clubs. How is he going to get the wealth from the big piles and spread it over all the people? In his pamphlet, "Share Our Wealth," he gives a method, viz: "Taxation to run the Government to be supported, first, by reducing big fortunes from the top, thereby to improve the country, and provide employment in public works whenever agricultural surplus is such as to render unnecessary, in whole or in part, any particular crop."

This is obviously aimed to alleviate the condition of the unemployed farmer who is a victim of acts performed in line with the present scarcity theory of economics. Raymond Gram Swing in the Nation, Jan. 23, writes: "I doubt whether Huey and the Rev. Gerald L. M. Smith realize that property as such cannot be redistributed. How, for instance, divide a factory or a railroad among families? Value lies in use, and if the scheme were to be realized, all property would have to be nationalized (in other words, ownership of property would have to be socialized) and the income from use distributed."

If Senator Long or President Roosevelt were to divide up the wealth of this country tomorrow, every sensible person knows it would not stay divided, given the present economic system. Why fight every year about taxing the rich? Take over the ownership of the utilities, the basic industries, the natural resources and the means of transportation by capital levy and use the goods and services for social benefits. This is a program based on a positive philosophy: production for use. It does not need to be done over-night. It is a definite goal.

Perhaps Stuart Chase is correct when he says: "Probably, within the next decade, at least a third to a half of all the economic activities must become a collective enterprise, not because Tugwell wants it or the President wants it or the Communist party wants it, but because the Power Age demands it." Factors That Make for Profit.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE other day I read: "Quantity production coupled with low operation costs and compensatory sales price are the factors which make a profitable business."

The "factors" mentioned are inconsistent and contradictory. "Low operation costs" that mean low wages or decreased employment logically call for curtailed production, not "quantity production." The same mill that produces things to sell must provide its share of customers to buy. Furthermore, low wages and unemployment do not make for a "compensatory sales price." Full employment at fair wages constitutes the workers' share; full production at fair prices makes up the people's share, and a fair profit is the employers' share. When one or two of these groups are defrauded of their shares, you have no system but a blunder.

DEMOCRACY.

Pierron, Ill.

Mr. Lippmann's "Pink Dynamite."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

GOODNESS, gracious! Will someone please pass Walter Lippmann the aspirin? Wonders will never cease! Mr. Lippmann has got all hot and bothered about something.

Calm and stately his pellucid prose flows from his unhurried pen as he discusses corruption in high places or the depths of the damnable depression. But the article, "Pink Dynamite"! What must the sphygmomanometer have registered had it been applied to Mr. Lippmann's upper arm the harried morning he composed that delightful essay?

It just shows to go you, as Joe Penner would say, that the most austerely Areopagitic, the divinest Olympian oracle, will drop his guise of sublimity when he steps into the breach to defend his especial charge.

Never, no, not even Elbert Hubbard, Dr. Frank Crane, Bruce Barton, or Mark Sullivan broke a lance more valiantly for the fat boys. Ever will they be in Mr. Lippmann's debt. Why, as I read breathlessly from period to period, I expected at any moment to encounter, O horrible! an infinitive irretrievably split. It would not surprise me in the least to know that while in the throes of composition this once Mr. Lippmann unbosomed himself of a "fudge," a "fiddle-sticks," or even maybe a good "damn"! Can we have been mistaken—is it possible the man is not godlike, after all, but only human like the rest of us?

PLEBE.

MAN'S BATTLE AGAINST MAN.

The fight of the human race to survive, its efforts on a hundred fronts against disease and the elements, its now comparatively easy battle against other predatory animals, is simplified by single-mindedness, by unanimity of determination among the race to down the microbe, the flood or the man-eating tiger of India. Not so in the race's bitterest battle of all, the effort of man in the mass to win his right to live decently and freely despite the selfishness and raw ambition of the individual with the Napoleonic complex. Here, where the political evolution of centuries is at stake, with all the glories of semi-independence that man has achieved in the balance, man in the mass ceases to act rationally—and for reasons that are as discouraging as they are obvious.

As a case in point, take the story of Louisiana and Huey Long. The Louisiana Senator has become dictator in a formerly free American commonwealth, and that by virtue of a majority vote of that State's citizenry. What was the basis of the man's rise to power? Simply his possession of an amazingly persuasive tongue, an ability to go before the less fortunate of Louisiana's voters—and most voters in Louisiana, as everywhere else, fall into that category—and convince these economically harassed people that they have a right to more of the good things of life and that he is the man who will provide that greater abundance.

A recent Post-Dispatch article on Long and Louisiana quoted the remarks of Ellen Wilkinson, of the British Labor party, concerning Hitler and Mussolini. She said: "The modern dictator, starting as a crusader on the left wing for popular causes, rises to power through constitutional means and then uses the power of the state to smash his opponents." That is true but it is not enough. For other crusading liberals, in Germany, Austria and the United States, have preached the word of common decency and economic necessity and have got nowhere so far as rolling up great popular votes behind them has been concerned.

The success of the crusader, unaided by money or political machine, must in the beginning rest on his persuasiveness, and that is precisely where the mountebank, the man with the will to power regardless of how he gains that power, invariably has the advantage over any sincere rival. While the latter engages in honest discussion, making no false promises, keeping his intellectual and moral integrity, the rabble-rouser jumps to the stump unhampered by facts or practical possibilities, caring not what he promises, waving his arms as he waves his tongue, yelling and shouting false cries. His listeners see in him a Moses who will free them from the torments of the present. And the downtrodden gullible walk into the sideshow of the ballyhoo artist, there to buy his cure-all, and leave the good physician and his remedies—which he admits have only limited values—deserted and alone.

A pessimistic picture? Yes, but with certain shy glints of sunshine showing over the hill. Even the Hitlers and the Mussolinis and the Huey Longs, by virtue of necessity if nothing else, bring a few improvements with them, even if only the mundane concrete roads of Louisiana. But these trifles do not constitute the real streaks of light seen in the distance. For man in the mass does not succumb to false promises forever. Sooner or later, the patent medicines, the cure-alls, failing to do their work, are compared with the truth that has always stood next to them. And the former, no longer possessed of their sideshow trappings, meet the fate that was always their store. History is the proof of that.

GERMANY ACCEPTS, "IN PRINCIPLE."

The most that can be said for Germany's reply to the Anglo-French proposal is that it is a hopeful beginning. Hitler accepts the projected air pact "in principle," but this is so vague a phrase in diplomacy, and so many points remain for discussion before a conclusion is reached, that the outcome is not yet visible. The important issues of Austrian independence pledges, the Eastern security pact and Germany's return to the League are not mentioned in Berlin's reply, but at least no recalcitrant attitude is disclosed.

Berlin cannot resist the opportunity for a gentle dig at the other Powers by remarking, in connection with the dangers of an armament race, that this danger "has arisen from the abandonment of the heavily armed states of disarmament as prescribed by treaties." This polite rebuke is, of course, thoroughly justified by the victorious Powers' arms policy in the years since Versailles. They thus provoked the secret German rearmament, now at last to be legalized, and created the present dangerous situation.

The form of the Anglo-French proposals shrewdly gives Germany the choice of becoming a partner in an air alliance of mutual guarantees, or of having such a treaty among the other Powers directed against her. It seems likely that Germany will find it wisest to join in the agreement, but will endeavor to extract as many concessions from the other nations as possible. A prolonged duel of skillful diplomats is apparently in the making.

FRATERNALS AND THE NEW INSURANCE CODE.

Thus far, the chief opposition to the proposed new insurance code for Missouri has come from fraternal societies, which are placed by the bill under the same restrictions as purely commercial life insurance companies. Under the code, these societies would be subject to the 2 per cent premium tax, they would be limited in the investments they make, and they would be forced to deposit securities in places designated by the State Superintendent of Insurance. Theoretically, since such societies depend on their members to bring in new members, each member would be required to have a solicitor's license and pay a $3 fee.

The past history of fraternal insurance is not a very happy one. Many fraternal insurance funds were not set up originally on an actuarial basis and, therefore, as the members died off, the funds were inadequate to meet the demands upon them. In recent years, according to one of the spokesmen of the fraternal societies, F. M. McDavid, this condition has largely been remedied. "We have cleaned house, so to speak," he said, "and fraternal insurance is on a sound basis. It has gone through these depression years without difficulty."

Whether fraternal insurance should continue in the future, as it has in the past, entirely free from supervision, we doubt. But we do think that the authors of a generally excellent code might have made a line of demarcation between fraternal insurance and the purely commercial companies. After all, there is a clear distinction between the two. A man usually joins a fraternal order, not just to buy insurance from it, but to participate in its social activities and for other reasons unrelated to insurance.

It would be well to amend the pending bill so as to meet any reasonable objections of the fraternal societies. To refuse to do so might jeopardize the success of the entire bill, and that would be highly unfortunate.

A MISTAKEN CONSERVATION IDEA.

House Bill No. 216, now before the General Assembly of Missouri, provides for a bounty of 50 cents each on hawks, eagles and horned owls.

Presumably, this suggestion has as its objective the conservation of upland game, but it is a mistaken idea. Predatory birds, except in areas of great concentration, are not hurtful to upland game. The science of ornithology shows that birds of prey are responsible for the qualities which make upland game a favorite with sportsmen. The fact that upland game hides, lies to dogs, rushes to covert and rises with a great burst of speed, is attributable to its natural enemies. It is the quick or the dead.

But it is far from being true that birds of prey decimate the numbers of upland game birds. There were a great many more birds of prey and a great many more upland game birds when nature balanced pursued and pursuer. Dr. W. L. McAtee, principal biologist of the United States Bureau of Biological Survey, says the erroneous persecution of eagles, hawks and owls is far more likely to extinguish those species than it is to increase the supply of upland game birds.

The plight of the bald eagle—a national emblem—is alarming. The bald eagle has been wantonly killed all over the nation until it is almost extinct. The bird lays but two eggs in a season, and it has been so much molested that it has been unable to hold its own either on the breeding ground or the hunting range. The bald eagle is not a menace to any other species. It is the victim of more misinformation than any other bird we have. The efforts of science to stop destruction of the bald eagle are both pragmatic and patriotic. We need the bird. We should revere it.

Do the gentlemen of the Missouri Assembly know that neither reasonable hunting nor birds of prey destroy such upland game birds as quail? Writing in American Forests, Paul L. Errington recently told of field studies made in this field from 1929 to 1934. He found that quail hold their own against both hunting and predatory enemies when they have good cover and good food. Some of the localities which he observed under favorable conditions showed 21 birds one winter, and 22 the next; 30 birds one winter, and 32 birds the next; 17 birds for three successive winters; 23, 32, 29 and 33 birds for four consecutive winters.

The elements are sometimes much more destructive of upland game than either normal hunting or the normal presence of hawks, owls and eagles. The deadly house cat destroys far more quail than many birds of prey. The drouth took more quail out of the Central States in the last five years than all the sportsmen took. It made it impossible for the birds to hatch their eggs and rear their young. They lacked the moisture to do so.

Offering a bounty upon birds of prey has been a failure in all the states which have tried it. It has not brought back the game. It has only sent more hunters into the field to kill both game birds and birds of prey. Missouri, we trust, is not going into a field from which it would soon have to retreat.

SO FAR SO GOOD.

Gov. Horner of Illinois has signed a bill doing away with a registration of voters which was scheduled for next month in Chicago and four of that city's suburbs. As a result, taxpayers will be saved approximately $450,000. So far so good. The next step and the obvious one is to adopt permanent registration. It is to be hoped that the Illinois Governor, who sponsored the elimination of the March registration in and about Chicago, and the Illinois Legislature, which supported him, will join in bringing permanent registration to their State.

Missouri is sorely in need of permanent registration, and such encouragement from Illinois might prove a helpful influence. In any event, Illinois would be added to the ranks of those states which have learned how to save money and time in connection with registration for voting.

THE DRIVERS' LICENSE WRANGLE.

It is extremely regrettable that controversy and bickering are besetting the efforts to give Missouri its long-delayed drivers' license law. The House has passed a license measure, sponsored by the Automobile Club, with no provision for examination of applicants, save those with some physical or mental defect. Sponsors of the Safety Council bill, which requires examinations for all applicants, now have appeared before the Senate Roads and Highways Committee to urge their measure and attack the one already passed by the House.

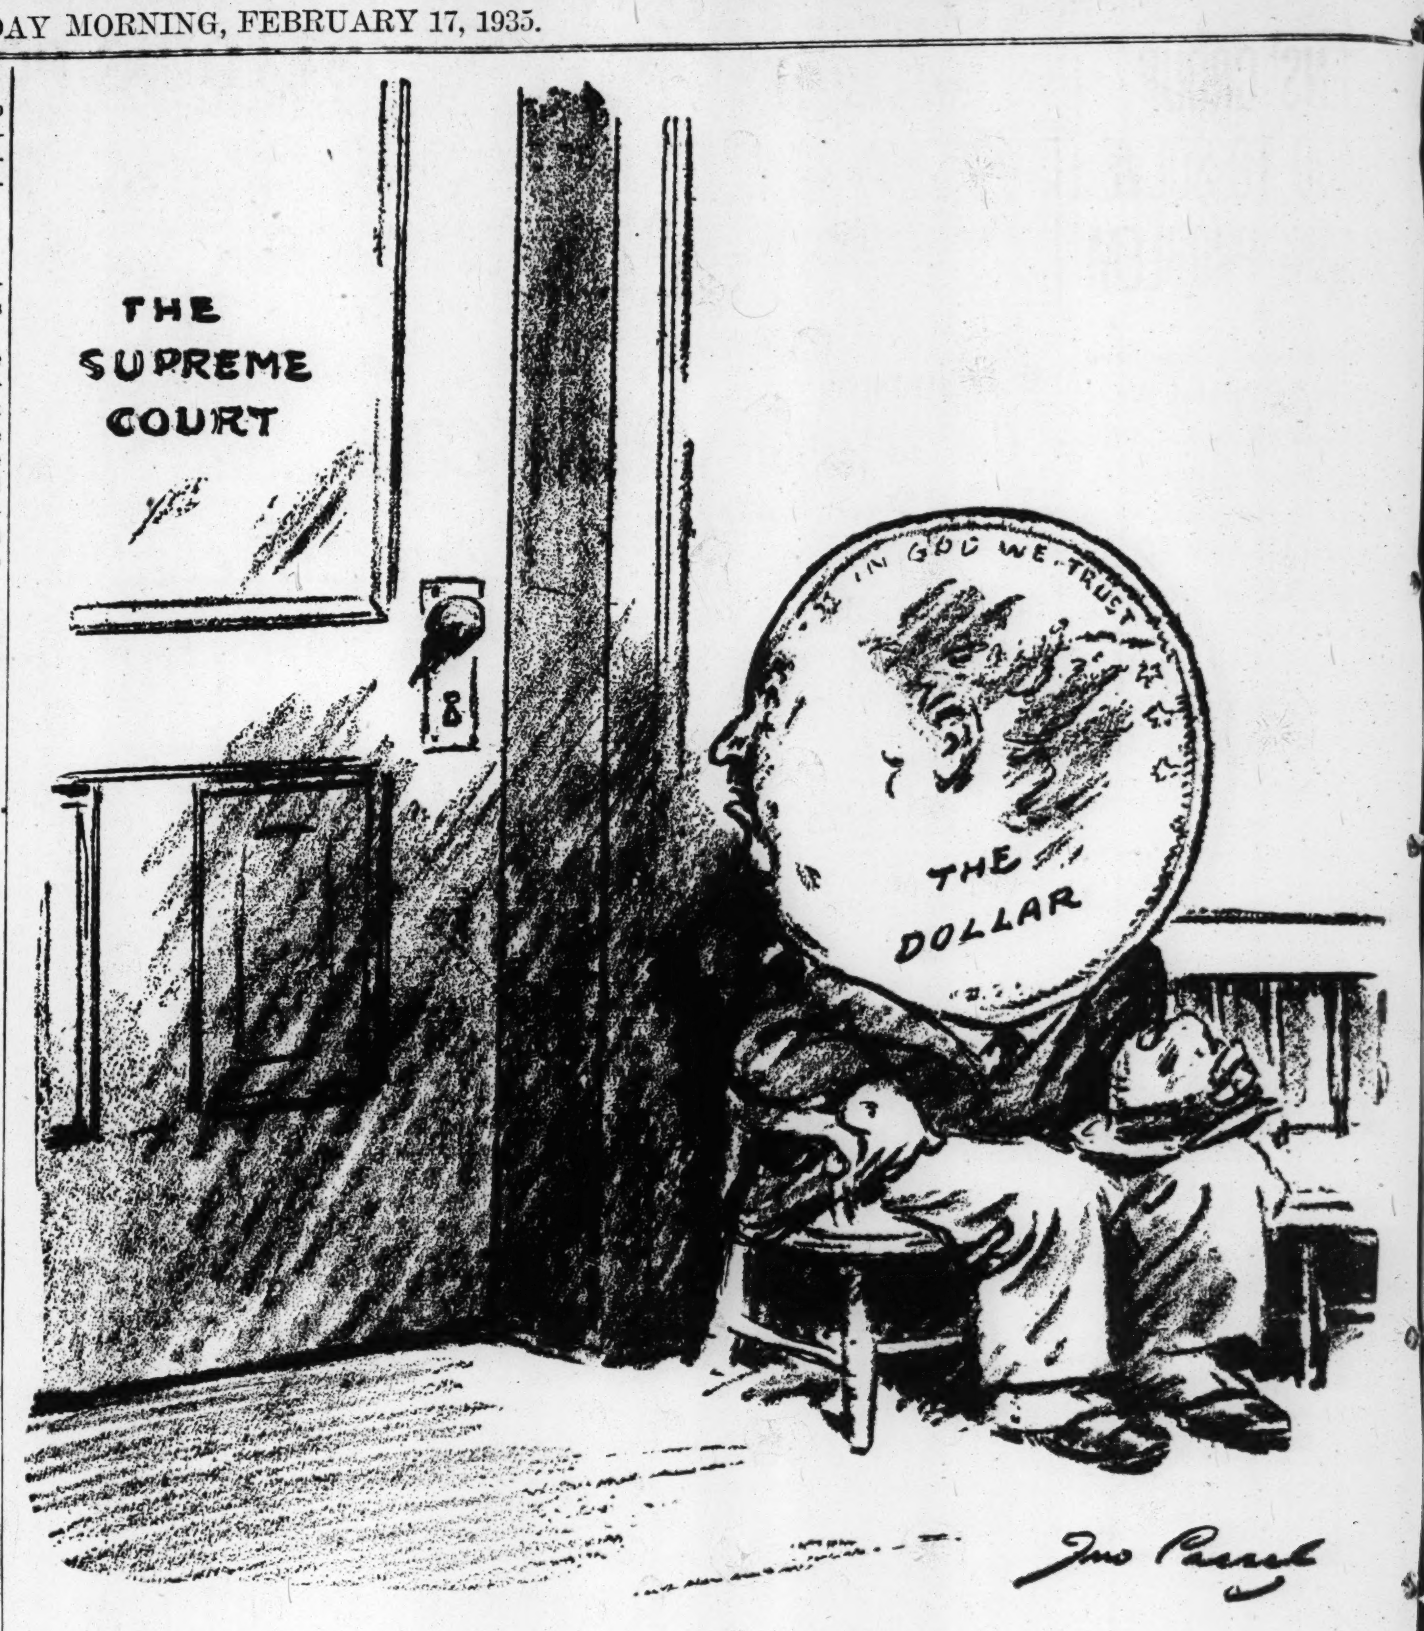
The urgent need is for protection of the public by enactment of a drivers' license bill. Desirable as it might be to have examination of all applicants, that is a secondary consideration beside the major necessity. Once a drivers' license law is placed in effect, it may be amended later to include compulsory examination, if that addition is found desirable and practicable. The bill as it now stands will mean, after all, a great improvement over the present absence of control over drivers.

There are two categories of undesirable drivers: those physically or mentally disqualified, and those habitually reckless or drunken. Those in the latter category are by far the more numerous, but few of them could be weeded out by examination. Suspension of license, as proposed in the bill approved by the House, is the most effective way of reaching them. And those in the first group whose driving ability is in doubt may be subjected to examination under the terms of this bill.

In our comment last Dec. 30 on this difference of opinion, we urged "all advocates of a drivers' license law to confer and agree upon the form of legislation to be pushed, lest the measure fall by the wayside in a conflict over details." It is timely now to reiterate this warning, and with emphasis.

The major consideration is to enact a drivers' license law, even if it does not contain every provision some sponsors think it should have. In the controversy over details, there is grave danger that the whole measure will be lost. It is still not too late for the two schools of opinion to confer and unite their opposing forces.

The citizens of Missouri are well-nigh universally behind a drivers' license law. To disappoint them now, when years of efforts seem about to bring forth results, would be an unforgivable betrayal of the people's interests.



WAITING FOR THE VERDICT.

Gypsy Love

ROMANY. By Eleanor Smith. (Bobbs-Merrill Co., Indianapolis, Ind.)

WHEN an English gentleman of 43, inclined to stoutness, who lives in a manor on the borders of Berkshire and Oxfordshire and always has been conventional, marries a gypsy dancing girl of 18, explanations are in order. Lady Eleanor Smith, in "Romany," explains it.

This Alan Brook, to start with, was a gypsy of a sort at heart. Then, when he was in the diplomatic service, he saw gypsies in Belgrade and Madrid and Barcelona, and they attracted him enormously. There was a tribe that lived in tents of skins and played strange musical instruments like the pipes of Pan. While he listened, they stole his gold watch. He did not blame them for that. It was part of their charm. It was the same when he heard flamenco singing at the Villa Rosa in Barcelona. Then he saw Hassina dance at the Turin Hotel in London and, after a while, married her.

After a while, because it was not easy. Hassina had her pride and she was true to the traditions of her tribe and a gajo of the gentiles was nothing to her. Besides, there was Brazil, the gypsy lion-tamer. After a rather precipitate courtship, she had given him, at the age of 16, the choomape, the sacred kiss of gypsy betrothal. He was only a bear-trainer then. When he became a lion-tamer, he would come for her. He had not come. Something had detained him. But he was her rom, her husband, and he would come and she would wait for him.

While she waited, she danced at the Baile Flamenco at Seville and an English producer saw her there and took her to London to dance in a revue and later she danced at the Turin. When Alan Brook saw her there, he went Romanchal, but wooed her as an English gentleman should.

For a while, nothing came of it. Hassina quite definitely gave him to understand that there was no chance. For she was a gypsy and he was a gajo. A gypsy girl just couldn't love an English gentleman, even though he was a nice English gentleman. Besides, there was Brazil. But if Brazil were dead or had married another? In that case, she would marry him.

Word came that Brazil had been chewed by his lions and was dead. So they were married and on their wedding day Hassina danced for the last time—"danced farewell to her life on the road, that long dusty road along which gypsy feet must trudge eternally, farewell to the sun and the wind, farewell to the blue smoke of gypsy fires, farewell to the fragrance of heather blowing on the moors, farewell to the stars and sky that were once her roof, farewell to the white hawthorn hedges that were once her walls, farewell to her own barbaric music, farewell to Brazil."

It turned out better than might have been expected, everything considered. They lived quite alone at Brook's country place, except for the servants, with whom Hassina got along very well, because they were not condescending. There was no clash with Brook's world.

There came a time when Hassina could say that she loved her gajo husband, though she was not in love with him. That was a gypsy subtlety that was perplexing to the forthright Mr. Alan Brook. But then Hassina puzzled him always. She was so full of contradictions. She knew so much and so little. She was so good and so bad, so wild and so domesticated, so wise and so feckless. She read the dictionary and ate bones with her fingers. She sewed as well as she poached.

It may be taken as the measure of Brook's devotion that he put up with all these complications. Finally he had his reward. Hassina told him one day that she not only loved him but was in love with him.

Then (yes, you have guessed it) Brazil came to life. He could not very well do less than that. It was expected of him. Lady Eleanor Smith was counting on him. The Alan Brooks could not go on forever living their idyllic life out there on the borders of Berkshire and Oxfordshire. Something had to happen. So Brazil came to life. He had recovered from the chewing his lions gave him. He was even then appearing with his lions and tigers at the London Circus, as Hassina learned from a newspaper that fell into her hands. . . .

As Lady Smith sweeps to a climax, with only 30 pages to go, it is an open question whether Alan, the country gentleman, or Brazil, the lion-tamer, will win—whether the call of the Romany blood will be stronger than the peace and security and devotion that would be sacrificed—whether a gypsy must always be a gypsy. AT SEA. By Arthur Calder-Marshall. (Charles Scribner's Sons, New York City.)

HERE is a novel that is really novel. John and Elsa, just married, go to a little seashore town to spend their honeymoon. Hiring a boat, they row far out, and, having enjoyed a swim, they find that one of their oars has disappeared. A strong current is sweeping them out to sea, and their efforts at paddling serve only to exhaust them. Night comes on with a thunderstorm and a high wind.

Under the stress of such circumstances, the two reveal to each other every trait of their natures, running the gamut of the passions from self-sacrificing love to violent hatred. While the honeymooners are living a whole life-time in a single night, the inhabitants of the village, variously influenced by the plight of the bride and groom, reveal their own characters, the narrative shifting from the drifting boat to the folk ashore, and back again.

It is a clever scheme and most amusingly worked out, although not without exaggerations that occasionally border on the preposterous.

GEORGE CALEB BINGHAM: THE MISSOURI ARTIST (1811-1879). By Alfred H. Barr Jr. and Others. (The Museum of Modern Art, New York City.)

THIS attractive catalogue of the current exhibition of the work of Missouri's Civil War era painter at the Museum of Modern Art is also pretty much a record of the exhibition held at the City Art Museum of St. Louis last spring, since many of the same pictures have been reassembled. Besides good-sized prints of three of Bingham's portraits and nine of the village, river and historic scenes for which he is remembered, the catalogue contains articles on the artist's life by Meyric R. Rogers, and his historical background by James B. Musick, director and secretary, respectively, of the museum on Art Hill. On the cover is a sketch of one of Bingham's robust flatboatmen, leaning on his pikepole. I. D.

WE JEWS. By George E. Sokolsky. (Doubleday, Doran & Co., Inc., Garden City, N. Y.)

MR. SOKOLSKY suggests more questions than he answers in this discussion of the present status of the Jew, chiefly in the United States. Upon finishing the 300 pages of the book, the reader may still ask himself what the writer really thinks about the situation: Does he regard the Jews as a race, a nationality or a religion? Does he support the Jew who repudiates his birth and attempts to "pass," because repudiation is the only road to eventual assimilation? Or does he believe that the Jew whose pride in heritage fortifies him against social and economic discrimination can contribute more to his community?

Perhaps the author is wise not to commit himself on such controversial questions. Certainly he must be commended for his dispassionate approach to a subject which cannot be a matter of indifference to one born of Orthodox Jewish parents and married to a Chinese wife. Nor should it be a matter of indifference to a sympathetic society alert to one of its pressing problems.

Mr. Sokolsky, who writes out of wide experience as an editor in Russia, an unofficial adviser to the Chinese Government, Far Eastern correspondent of leading American papers and as lecturer in the United States, presents his argument in a style more journalistic than rhetorical, and substantiates it with an abundance of specific detail. A HOUSE DIVIDED. By Pearl S. Buck. (Reynal & Hitchcock, New York City.)

MISS BUCK'S new novel continues the chronicles of the Chinese family which her readers have already met in the preceding volumes of the trilogy, "The Good Earth" and "Sons." Its chief character, Yuan, an educated modern Chinese youth, is the son of Wang the Tiger, war lord of "Sons," and grandson of Wang Lung the farmer, who tilled the good earth in Miss Buck's most memorable novel.

Through Yuan's eyes, the reader gets a picture of the young Chinese, and their torn, chaotic country. The characterization of the youth is well done, and one follows his career with interest as the story unfolds. Here is a situation made to order for one who knows both the East and the West as Miss Buck does, for Yuan's adventures take him to an American college for a time. However, there is a definite lack of vitality in the book. This must be attributed largely to the measured Biblical style which Miss Buck used to such good advantage in "The Good Earth," but which is a distinct handicap in a novel of modern setting. Such a style was ideally fitted to the brooding, primitive peasant life portrayed in the first volume, but the reader wishes for a more sharp, direct mode of expression in this account of a restless, changing, oppressed China. CITIZENS' GROUP NAMED TO SOLVE SMOKE PROBLEM

Mayor Selects Committee Headed by Erastus Wells to Handle It in a "Business Way."

HAS "NO DESIRE TO HURT ANY INDUSTRY"

He Says Coal Interests Must Realize Something Has to Be Done to Make Fuel Smokeless.

Appointment of a citizens' committee to make a new endeavor to solve the smoke problem was announced yesterday by Mayor Dickmann.

It was headed by Erastus Wells, vice-president of the St. Louis Union Trust Co., with the following other members: Dr. George T. Moore, director of Shaw's Garden; A. L. Shapleigh, president of Shapleigh Hardware Co.; Harry B. Wallace, president of Cupples Co.; Dr. Malvern B. Clopton, president of the Washington University Corporation; the Rev. Alphonse M. Schwitalla, dean of St. Louis University Medical School, and Albert T. Perkins.

The Mayor told reporters he had asked the committee "to handle this smoke problem in a business way, obtaining advice from any source that it may desire." He said suggestions from citizens would be welcomed.

In a statement, the Mayor referred to an advertisement by the Coal Exchange of St. Louis in Wednesday's newspapers, which advocated smokeless burning of fuel instead of the use of natural gas that has been agitated.

Attitude on Coal.

"An attempt was made," said Dickmann, discussing the advertisement, "to point out the drastic results that would follow the adoption of any smoke elimination program in our city or any program that would mean a discontinuance of the use of soft coal for domestic fuel. This statement is absolutely unfounded. It is not the administration's desire to injure any business.

"However, one of the greatest drawbacks to our community today is the smoke pall that constantly hangs over our city due to the burning of cheap fuel from the Illinois fields. This presents to us not only a health problem but also a civic one. The coal interests must realize that something has to be done to convert this type of coal into a smokeless fuel.

"The purpose of the administration is to rid St. Louis of the smoke nuisance. Whether this is to be done by building central heating plants, putting in our own municipal gas plant, a reduction in the present gas rates for fuel consumption or bringing natural gas lines into St. Louis, or any other method, has not been definitely determined. We have no set plan, and welcome any recommendation from the coal interests or from the Coal Exchange that will assist us in working out this problem so that we may have a smokeless fuel."

Refers to PWA Proposal.

Saying it was the administration's intention "to use every effort to solve this great menace to our community," Mayor Dickmann called attention to the city's suggestion last Monday that the PWA provide $35,000,000 for smoke abatement here out of its prospective new funds. He would like to get $20,000,000 for a municipal system for distribution of gas and $15,000,000 for central heating plants.

The smoke problem must be solved "at once," the Mayor added, "if St. Louis hoped to obtain the $30,000,000 requested from the Government for a river-front memorial to Thomas Jefferson and the development of the West."

OUNTY WELFARE BOARD IS PROPOSED IN BILL

Would Co-ordinate the Efforts of Public and Private Relief Agencies.

A bill which would create a Welfare Board in St. Louis County to co-ordinate the efforts of public and private relief agencies has been introduced in the State Legislature by Representatives D. B. Russell and Hartwell Crain, with the indorsement of local welfare organizations.

The measure, drawn by a committee of the County League of Municipalities, would establish a board of seven members, one of whom would be the County Superintendent of Schools. Members would serve without compensation.

The board would be designated as the local agent of the Children's Bureau of the State Board of Charities and would administer State pensions for the blind. It would be authorized to receive State and Federal funds for relief, and to accept private contributions.

British Scheme To Sell Surplus At Cut Prices

hand a surplus of food, and on the other great potentialities for increased consumption, we must welcome all attempts of these farmers' organizations to solve their problems by selling more of their produce rather than be decreasing production.

New Ideas for New Conditions.

"These are new ideas. Traders will have to decide where they stand—whether they are going to fight to keep the old world as it was or collaborate in an attempt to adjust ideas and action to the new conditions of our time. The change is coming—indeed, it has largely come. There are two ways in which it can be met. The first is the method of this Government; that is, to state the problem to those engaged in the trade or industry concerned and to seek their help in its solution. The second is the way of complete state control—for the Government to take over the job itself and to install a central bureaucracy. That would mean trampling on all private interests and initiative and would take no account of anything but bureaucratic efficiency. That may suit Russia and Germany very well, but it will not suit England.

"The real truth of the matter is that we are all facing entirely new problems. Thus, who, 20 years or so ago, would have believed that we would ever be brought face to face with ruin through being able to produce more of this world's goods than we knew how to distribute? What would we have said had we been told that agricultural policy must concern itself with nutrition and that agricultural ministers would soon be discussing how far surplus food could be diverted, in some organized fashion, to meet unsatisfied demands?"

CABINET AGAIN TO GIVE DINNER FOR ROOSEVELT

As Last Year, General Function Will Take Place of Separate Affair by Each Member.

By the Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—The anniversary of President Roosevelt's second year in office will be marked by a cabinet dinner for him at which the past will be reviewed. Last year the cabinet made the first anniversary of the Roosevelt inauguration an occasion for rejoicing and reminiscence.

As a social occasion, this dinner to the President given by the cabinet is important as the only one of its kind. For years and years, past Presidents went dining out with each of the cabinet in turn. For years and years, only the other members of the cabinet were invited as guests. This got to be more monotonous than gay, so cabinet members started varying the company by inviting leaders from their home states, and industrial heads.

No lover of formal clothes, President Roosevelt looked over the stiff social programs he had to do at home—five state dinners, five formal receptions each season—and ruled out dining out with one exception. That was the Vice-President's dinner.

RADIO STATIONS IN MISSOURI ON ST. LOUIS-TULSA AIRWAY

Apparatus to Be Set Up at Neosho, Springfield and Spring Bluff.

Three Federal Government radio stations are to be installed in Missouri on the new St. Louis-Tulsa airway, which will be ready for night flying soon.

At Neosho there will be a low-powered station transmitting directive signals and provided with radio telephone apparatus for voice communication with aircraft. Springfield will have a combined radio-telephone broadcast and radio range station. At Spring Bluff, in Franklin County, the Bureau of Air Commerce plans to install a medium-powered radio station for directive signals and for radio-telephone communication with planes in flight.

Rotating beacons are now in operation between St. Louis and Springfield at Marshfield, Brush Creek, Abo, Arlington, Rolla, Royal, Oak Hill, Spring Bluff, Union, Labadie and Chesterfield. Beacons at Waynesville, Lebanon and Conway have not been turned on. Lighted intermediate landing fields will be established at Lebanon, Rolla and Spring Bluff.

Bird Life in Slide Pictures.

Slide pictures of bird life will be shown by Harry C. Oberholser of the United States Biological Survey Department, at 7:30 p. m., Thursday, Feb. 28, at Soldan High School, Union boulevard and Enright avenue. The meeting, sponsored by the Izaak Walton League, the Bird Club and the Webster Groves Nature Study Society, will be open to the public.

PIONEER'S JOURNAL TELLS OF REAL SNOW

Drifts 30 Feet Deep in Chariton County in 1830, Major Ashby Wrote.

Encounters with Indians, winters when "we really had winters," and incidents of his five marital ventures are vividly described in the journal of Maj. Daniel Ashby of Missouri, recently lent to the Missouri Historical Society, Jefferson Memorial.

Written in long hand, in clear-easy-flowing sentences, the 195-page journal covers the period of 1794-1869. The first entry was made in 1816.

Describing the winter of 1830 in Chariton County, Missouri, Ashby told of snowdrifts that were 30 and 40 feet deep. Dales, 30 feet deep, had the appearance of level plains. In steep hollows some of this snow lasted until June. When the snow melted, the bottoms of the valleys were strewn with the skeletons of dead animals and fowls, including 28 hogs and 500 turkeys.

Three "Living Skeletons."

Of the animals, only three "living skeletons" survived, and they were so lean they "had no width at all and were as crooked as a bow."

A month after the snowfall, he fell into a snowdrift while chasing a wolf and both he and his horse were submerged for several minutes. When he again reached the surface, he saw the wolf "swimming through a drift, 200 yards wide, with only its head visible."

"En route to Jefferson City, the snow would part on each side of my mule's jaws," he wrote. "The mule could just keep his nose out of the snow when his head was raised as high as possible. Often the rider had to stand up in the stirrups to keep the snow out of his face."

To verify his account, Ashby listed several witnesses who would testify to the harsh winter. Included in the list was L. W. Boggs, Governor of Missouri at the time.

Fight With Indians.

Numerous encounters with Indians in Kentucky and Missouri are depicted in a vigorous, exciting style, resembling that of James Fenimore Cooper.

During a migration from Virginia to Kentucky in 1794, he wrote, Indians killed his cousin, cut his heart out, and attempted to force the father to eat it. Unsucessful, they stole his wife and other son.

He told how his uncle and Daniel Boone trailed the tribe but were unable to release the captives. Finally his uncle prevailed on the Governor of Kentucky to draw up a subscription to purchase their release, through a French trader. will be Mrs. Walter S. Barrett, Mrs.

Indian raids, ax murders and brutal scalpings are minutely portrayed. Ashby explained the methods of attack, picturing painted redskins, "eyes green like a wounded panther, riding with large, bright, glittering knives in their upraised hands, screaming the hideous warwhoop which is enough to chill the blood of almost any man."

In giving the characteristics of the Indians, he wrote that they consider stealing an act of bravery. All Indians, he added, were gamblers. On foot races, shooting, or any other contest, they invariably bet something, usually a pipe or a blanket. Squaws were permitted to smile while attending celebrations, but never were allowed to laugh.

White men frequently acted as "stool pigeons" for Indians. Standing on the banks of a river, they induced emigrants to land to take them on board, representing themselves as in great distress. As soon as the boats landed, they were surrounded by Indians.

His Love Affairs.

As to the "science of courtship," Ashby wrote there was a certain set of large, well-chosen words that must be learned to qualify a man for courting. Unless a man was qualified, he would be entirely out of order and spurned. Later he discovered that sober conversation had become less popular than silly, foolhardy conduct. He was married five times, the last time when he was 77 and his bride 53.

Interspersed throughout the journal are numerous slang expressions common today, such as "set his cap for her" and "the old man went on a spree."

Born in Virginia in 1791, Ashby came to Missouri in 1810. He got his military title in the War of 1812. He was a member of the House of Representatives in Missouri for several terms and was a member of the State Senate for six years, sevring as President pro tem in 1839. He left the Senate to become receiver of public moneys in the United States Land Office at Lexington, Mo. He died in 1879.

LUTHERAN WOMEN AGAINST CHILD LABOR AMENDMENT

Resolution Says It "Ignores God-Given Rights and Responsibilities of Parents."

A resolution calling on the Legislature not to ratify the child labor amendment to the Federal Constitution was adopted by the Lutheran Women's League, meeting Friday at St. Stephen's Church, Pendleton avenue and Olive street.

"As strongly," said the resolution, "as we are favoring every legitimate protection given to children against exploitation in mills, sweatshops and the like, just as strongly we are opposed to this sweeping amendment, having a distinct flavor of Soviet communism, sponsoring state paternalism, ignoring the God-given rights and responsibilities of parents and militating against the sanctity of the home and the welfare of our youth."

Dr. Karl Barth Continues Fight Against Hitler

Queen of Scots, so has Barth challenged Hitler, and at an almost equal risk. His personal influence through the great throngs who came to his class room from all parts of Germany and from lands afar has been in part due to his dynamic style, and the magnetic quality of his intellect. From first to last, his major emphasis has been upon the absoluteness of the Divine in history and in man's individual life.

"It is no accident that the opposition to Hitler totalarianism has formed around the vibrant, dramatic personality of this Swiss pastor and teacher. To say this is not to imply that there is complete agreement on the part of all the protesting pastors with Barthianism as a theology. Like average Christians in America, many of them will find certain of his teachings almost unintelligible; and like others who do understand in part at least what he is saying, they will raise many questions.

"But at some points they are in complete agreement with Barth, namely, that God is greater than any man, even a Nazi dictator; that the philosophy of racialism, state absolutism and militarism has no place in the church; that the taking over of Nazi political ideas into the administration of the Christian Church is indefensible from the Christian point of view.

"No one will suppose that Barth's spiritual leadership of the German Confessional Church—the opposition—will end now that Barth has been forced out of his professorship at Bonn, to which he was invited after his brilliant work at Goettingen and Muenster. Though he may be an exile from Germany, he will not be a refugee. In his native land of Switzerland, to which he would be most apt to go, he will have a freedom that has been denied him in Germany, and his influence will be greatly enhanced through the professional martyrdom that he has undergone."

Postwar Socialist.

Prof. Barth is 48 years old. In the postwar period, before the ascendency of Hitler, he became known as a Socialist and an advocate of the working classes. He declared that the saying of Karl Marx, "Religion is the opiate of the people," was a false construction of the real significance of religion, but that the churches had been to blame for giving it the appearance of truth in the eyes of many workers. The churches, he held, had shown vacillation and weakness in the face of the workers' just demands for their proper share in the fruits of their toil.

"The atheism of Social Democracy," he said, "is, for the church, the handwriting on the wall. On nationalism, militarism, and other burning problems, the church has been two steps behind the world, and has not had the voice of a prophet or watchman ringing in its ears amid the chaos of other voices."

In the German Youth Movement, which raised for the churches the problem of retaining or regaining the youth, Dr. Barth's insistence was on "obedience to God." This was his stern-sounding reply to the excesses of the Youth Movement, which at times and in places ran into romanticism and free-love.

"However we may be justified in wagging our heads over youth's fantastic drive for freedom," Dr. Barth said, "our final attitude cannot be surprise and opposition. Whoever desires to be an educator must stand in principle upon the side of our young people."

Differing interpretations of Barth's theology have been given by different translators of his works, and authors of American and English books about him. The point on which they agree is that he teaches the doctrine of the divine transcendence, or existence above and apart from the universe, as distinguished from the view, more popular with modernist theology, of the divine immanence or essential presence in all the universe.

His Concept of God.

"God," he has written, "is ever transcendent to man, new, remote, foreign, surpassing, never in man's sphere, never man's possession; whoso says God, says miracle.

"We all know the curiosity that comes over us when from a window we see the people suddenly stop and look up, toward something which is hidden from us by the roof. Our curiosity is superfluous, for what they see is doubtless an airplane. But as to the sudden stopping, looking up, and tense attention characteristic of the people of the Bible, our wonder will not be so lightly dismissed. To me personally it came first with Paul; this man evidently sees and hears something which is above everything, which is absolutely beyond the range of my observation and the measure of my thought."

Two American books on the Barthian teachings are "Karl Barth," by Wilhelm Pauck of the faculty of Chicago Theological Seminary, and "The Teaching of Karl Barth," by R. Birch Hoyle. The latest of Prof. Barth's own books, "The Resurrection of the Dead," in an English translation, was published recently by Fleming H. Revell & Co. of New York.

First Services in New Church.

First services in the newly completed Gothic stone church of Mary Queen of Peace Parish, Berry road and Beverly avenue, Glendale, will be held today. The new building is on the site of the old church destroyed by fire in October, 1933. According to the Rev. M. D. Collins, pastor, the church will be formally dedicated shortly after Easter by Archbishop Glennon.

TREASURE HUNTERS SAIL FOR COCOS ISLAND

With Modern Equipment, They Expect to Find Fabulous Pirate Riches.

By the Associated Press.

LOWESTOFT, England, Feb. 16.—Bound for the palm-fringed Cocos Island on a new quest for the fabulous treasure reputedly buried there by pirates of old, an expedition headed by Commander F. W. Worsley has left here.

The expedition has "sole rights" reinforced by an armed guard. The trans-Atlantic voyage to the tiny island in the Pacific is being made in a 100-ton motor yacht, the Veracity, which is expected to reach Costa Rica the last of this month or the first week in March.

The operations were originally started by an expedition last autumn, but the plans were abandoned when the Costa Rica Government intervened, claiming ownership of Cocos.

"But now we have secured sole rights to the island," said Capt. S. MacFarlane Arthur, skipper of the craft, just before sailing, "and Costa Rica is providing us with an armed guard. A village already has been built to accommodate the expedition. As for treasure, we have not the slightest doubt that it is there. The documentary evidence is amazing. There are five different deposits of treasure on the island.

"A portion was recovered some years ago, but this is the first serious attempt to unearth the whole buried hoard. We are equipped with the most modern electrical instruments which indicate that gold lies underfoot. Only when they find something to dig up will the pick and shovel work begin.

"The island itself is 14 square miles of thick jungle. The treasures, we believe, are hidden in two square miles of the northeast and northwest end, the only accessible spots on the island. The rest of the coastline is like the chalk cliffs of Dover, 200 to 300 feet high.

"Most of the treasure buried here was seized by pirates from Spanish galleons."

In granting the expedition full rights, Capt. Arthur said, the Costa Rica Government has demanded a one-third share in any treasure discovered. Some estimates placed the pirate hoard at $125,000,000.

A geologist, two mining engineers and two electrical experts are accompanying the expedition.

SERIES OF DISCUSSIONS ON SOCIAL PROBLEMS

Prof. Bruno Will Be First Speaker At Union Avenue Christian Church.

Six weekly discussions on social problems by various leaders in relief and welfare work will be given before the young people's department, Union Avenue Christian Church. The first of the discussions will be given at 6:30 o'clock tonight by Prof. Frank J. Bruno, head of the department of sociology, Washington University, whose talk will be in the nature of an introduction of the series. Prof. Bruno will be followed at the same time on successive Sundays by the following speakers:

Feb. 24—G. Myron Gwinner, director of the Bureau for Homeless Men, whose talk on "The Homeless Man in St. Louis" will be illustrated by moving pictures.

March 3—Miss Meta Gruner of the St. Louis Children's Aid Society, whose topic will be "In Place of Parents."

March 10—John H. E. Danner, volunteer worker of the South Side Y. M. C. A., on "The Street Corner Gang."

March 17—Claflin Allen Jr., member of the board of the Occupational Therapy Workshop, "Nature's Best Physician."

March 24—E. G. Steger, director of United Relief, who will discuss the problems associated with the administration of relief in St. Louis.

March 31—Milton Weiffenbach, Federal probation officer, on "Behind the Bars or Probation?"

The series of talks has been arranged in co-operation with the Speakers' Bureau of the Community Council.

CHRISTIAN YOUTH CONFERENCE TO OPEN MARCH 1 IN ST. LOUIS

Three Days of Meetings at Union Avenue Christian and Pilgrim Congregational.

The second annual St. Louis Christian Youth Conference will be held March 1 to 3, inclusive, at the Union Avenue Christian and Pilgrim Congregational Churches. The program for the conference, which will be one of 16 being held at various cities at the same time, will be "Christian Youth Building a New World."

Co-opearting with the St. Louis organization will be the St. Louis Ministerial Alliance, the Metropolitan Church Federation and the Missouri Sunday School Council of Religious Education. There will be nine discussion groups, each to have three sessions. Topics will include personal religious living, world citizenship, economic justice and the liquor problem.

Kenneth Oetzel is chairman of the St. Louis Christian Youth Conference. The organization has its headquarters at 508 North Kingshighway.

Golden Wedding Celebration.

The golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob J. Oetter, 3238 Knapp street, will be celebrated with a dinner and dance at Norwood Hills Country Club, Normandy, tonight. Mr. Oetter, who is 77 years old, and his wife, 70, were married in St. Louis Feb. 17, 1885. They have six children and five grandchildren.

Decentralizing Of Shoe Industry In Massachusetts

Figures on Wages.

Miss Manning summarized a statistical study of seven typical payrolls of shoe manufacturers in the Middle West. It showed, she said, that minimum wage scales became actual earnings of the majority of the workers. Of 1988 employes, 634 earned less than the minimum, and 499 earned the minimum. Together they constitute over half the number on the seven payrolls—that is to say that more than half were earning no more than $12, $13, $14 or $15 a week, the exact amount depending on whether the employe was a man or a woman, or whether the factory was situated in a city or a small town.

Hutchings gave the results of a survey of the effects of plant migration in Wisconsin. Workers who follow the factory to its new location suffered as well as those who were left behind, he said. He mentioned figures showing wage reductions rangiing in some cases as high as 40 and 50 per cent after location of a plant in a small town. The shoe code, Hutchings added, legalized and approved such migrations by setting a single minimum wage level for skilled and unskilled workers. He concluded his testimony with the following significant statement:

"Finally through the various methods which have been used by migratory plants to improve their competitive position, there is a grave danger that these migrations will lead to further migrations and that the shoe industry in this manner is rapidly being transferred into a sweatshop industry and the purposes of the NIRA are are thus being nullified and defeated."

Manufacturers' View.

Of the two thick volumes comprising the transcript of the hearing only a relatively small portion is taken up with the testimony of manufacturers. Frederick A. Miller, president of the National Boot and Shoe Manufacturers' Association and chairman of the Planning and Fair Practice Committee of the industry, pointed to the fact that President Roosevelt had advocated "decentralization" of industry in defense of the migration of the shoe factories.

"The soundness and practicability of his belief from a business point of view," Miller said, "at least as far as the shoe manufacturing industry is concerned, has been proved by the fact that this industry has been undergoing a perfectly natural process of decentralization of production for the past 30 years. That this has been sound is evidenced by the fact that it has continued for these many years, and the industry is now operating under a high degree of decentralization."

Miller also defended the difference in code wage levels based on population differences, and the sex differential which permits employers to pay women a lower rate than men. He defended, too, the "tolerance period" in the code which permits employes to work more than code hours, on the grounds that it protected manufacturers in meeting production peaks caused by sudden and unexpected style changes. He contended that shoe workers had benefited under the code, presenting tables which he said showed that "the upward trend of the percentage of employes whose earnings per hour fall in the higher brackets and the downward trend of percentage of employes whose earnings fall in the lower brackets is conclusive evidence that wages are not gravitating toward the minimum since the code has become effective."

LEGION CONVENTION SPONSORS NAME HEAD

C. W. Gaylord Picked as President of Corporation; Mayor Appoints Committee.

Clifford W. Gaylord has been named president of the American Legion Corporation, which will sponsor the American Legion National convention in St. Louis Sept. 23 to 26. Gaylord, who is president of the Gaylord Carton Co., served as a Lieutenant-Colonel in the Seventy-seventh Division in France from 1917 to 1919.

Mayor Dickmann announced yesterday his appointments to the Mayor's Citizens' Committee, which will co-operate with the legion. Each member will serve on one of the committees of the convention.

Richard S. Hawes, first vice-president of the First National Bank, is chairman; Maj. Albert Bond Lambert, vice-chairman; Walter Hein, treasurer, and John Ring Jr., secretary.

Other members of the committee named by the Mayor are A. E. Gilster, Sam W. Greenland, Carl E. Roessler, Walter M. Smith, Hermann Spoehrer, J. S. Ryan, Victor P. Roach, Edward G. White and R. R. Tucker.

The chairmen of the various committees of the convention are Charles G. Gonter, traffic and sanitation; James E. Darst, halls and seating; E. H. McReynolds, publicity; J. Lionberger Davis and Maj. Lambert, distinguished guests; E. J. McMahon, parade; Dr. H. Unterberg, hospital; L. H. Renfrow, registration; H. D. McBride, Boy Scout; Fred A. Bottger, contests and awards; Herbert F. Lewis, entertainment; Louis G. Waldron, housing; John J. Phelan, service; Art Acker, department liaison; B. F. Mulholland, decoration; Martin L. Rust, information; Bryan Purteet, speakers.

Vic MacKenzie, national liaison officer of the American Legion, and Jules Field, executive secretary and business manager of the American Legion Convention Corporation, have opened offices in Hotel Statler and are making arrangements for housing of Legionnaires.

AMHERST PRESIDENT COMING

Stanley King to Make Third Annual Visit to City Wednesday.

Stanley King, president of Amherst College, will be in St. Louis Wednesday for his third annual visit since becoming head of the college at Amherst, Mass. He will address pupils of Country Day School, John Burroughs School and Taylor School and later will be the guest of various committees of the Amherst Alumni Association of St. Louis.

In the afternoon he will be entertained at tea at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wills T. Engle, 699 Lee avenue, Webster Groves. Engle is president of the alumni association. King's principal address will be at the annual dinner of the association at the University Club. While in St. Louis he will be the guest of Louis J. Nicolaus.

Anniversary of Mission.

The thirtieth anniversary of the founding of the Riverside Mission, 306 Elm street, will be observed with special services at 8 p. m. Tuesday. The Rev. William H. Grotpeter, who has been with the Mission for 26 years, will officiate.

Studio Managers Kept Busy By Rainy Days

How One Executive Sets the Wheels in Motion When Sunny California Has "Unusual" Weather.

By H. H. NIEMEYER.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 16.

PITY the poor studio manager on a rainy day. Now in theory, you know, it doesn't rain in Sunny Southern California—much. When it pours down, as it has pretty generally this winter, you, from the East, are told that it is most "unusual." But the movie studios and the studio managers know better and generally are prepared. But, if Saturday, any Saturday, is a bright, sunshiny day, they, the managers, seem to take it for granted that Monday will be OK for shooting and make their production plans accordingly. Then, Sunday, it starts to pour and everything and everybody is in a terrible fix.

Let's take one studio, Warners', for instance. Nine motion pictures are in production there, and were a week ago Monday when it was raining. All of them are important—to Warners'—and due to be completed within a specified time and budget under the watchful eye of William Koenig, the studio manager and his assistants.

Before Mr. Koenig and his staff, made up of unit managers, assistant directors and others charged with the business of keeping the wheels of production moving steadily, left their offices the preceding Saturday night, Monday's work was planned in minute detail —weather permitting.

But the weather doesn't permit. On Monday morning it is raining. Late Sunday night a storm comes in off the Pacific Ocean, confounding the weatherman and upsetting all the well-laid studio plans. Three companies which were to work in outside locations must be notified that they will work inside instead. That leads, first of all, to the telephone.

A WHOLE battery of secretaries, assistant directors and unit manager start calling. Every member of the cast and crew of the picture "The Goose and the Gander," for example, has to be told that the company will start work on a Warner Brothers stage at 9:00 o'clock the next morning and not at the Glendale railroad station as announced on Saturday. Kay Francis must be told, for one, and she is visiting at the home of friends. The friends live far away on the beach, beyond Malibu and the only telephone to the district is located in a small grocery store which closed before the storm started. The maid at the actress' home says she will tell Miss Francis when she returns. Perhaps she will but the studio manager takes no such chances. His representatives keep calling, at regular intervals, all night if necessary, until Miss Francis receives the message first hand.

George Brent, playing the leading role opposite Miss Francis in "The Goose and the Gander," has gone to Palm Springs over Sunday. He must be told. Probably he intends to drive directly to Glendale early Monday morning from Palm Springs. Minutes mean money even on Monday morning and telephone operators are kept busy until Mr. Brent is officially notified by Koenig's office of the change in plans.

On this same Monday morning the "Wanderlust" company is to make exterior scenes near a home in Los Angeles. Guy Kibbee, who may or may not be fishing over the week-end in the high Sierras, must be told, as must every other member of the cast and crew, Aline MacMahon, Tom Brown, Nan Gray, John Arledge and Betty Jean Haney's mother, included.

The "Dinky" company, which includes Jackie Cooper and a van load of small boys and girls, all of whom are or should be asleep, was to work on a school grounds in Hollywood. Their parents have a way of being "out" on Sunday nights, but the patient production office calls and calls until morning, if need be, until every parent knows exactly where to bring the budding thespian the following morning.

"Cover" sets for companies going on outside locations are always provided for just such emergencies. In fact the art directors, construction crews, set dressers and electricians are kept at least one jump ahead of production at all times. This means that for nine pictures in work there are always at least 18 available sets, with nine more nearing completion and from 18 to 27 others in various stages of work.

These and other troubles may occupy Koenig and his staff the whole of Sunday night, but when 9 o'clock Monday morning comes nine companies are at work in spite of the weather, in spite of illness or accidents, in spite of everything.

Herbert Marshall in "The Good Fairy," Ambassador.

"Mary of Scotland" Set for April 18-20

"MARY OF SCOTLAND," the New York Theater Guild play with Helen Hayes, Philip Merivale and Pauline Frederick in the principal roles, has been definitely booked for four performances at the American Theater on April 18, 19 and 20. Miss Hayes takes the role of the French-Scottish Queen, Merivale that of the Earl of Bothwell and Miss Frederick that of Queen Elizabeth. The supporting cast of 30 includes Hugh Buckler, Charles Dalton, George Coulouris and Philip Leigh. Theresa Helburn directed the production and Robert Edmond Jones designed the sets. The American also expects Ina Claire in "Ode to Liberty" and Bert Lytell in "The First Legion" in the next two months, with the Abbey Theater repertory company, now booked for a week beginning April 29.

Shawn Dance Recital Tomorrow Evening

Ted Shawn and his men dancers will be seen at the Opera House tomorrow evening in a recital under the direction of Guy Golterman. Members of the ensemble are Barton Mumaw, Frank Overlees, Wilbur McCormack, Dennis Landers, Fred Hearn, Foster Fitz-Simons, William Howell and Ned Coupland. Jess Meeker, who composed the music for many of the numbers, will be at the piano.

The program is in five groups: I, Primitive Rhythms. Ponca Indian Dance, Hopi Indian Eagle Dance, Singhalese Devil Dance, Dayak Spear Dance, Maori War Haka. II. Labor Symphony. Labor of the Fields, Forests and Sea, and Mechanized Labor. III. The Hound of Heaven, inspired by the mystic poem of Francis Thompson. IV. Play Motifs, Folk Themes. Pleasantly Satiric Comment, Gnossienne, Choric Dance from Antique Greek Comedy, Spanish Flamenco Dance, Three American Folk Themes. V. Music Dances.

Jean Parker and "Malibu" in "Sequoia," Loew's State.

Maurice Schwartz In Recital Thursday

Maurice Schwartz, who created a national institution in his Yiddish Art Theater in New York, and who is familiar to many in St. Louis by virtue of previous visits here, will appear in dramatic recital at the Municipal Auditorium Thursday evening, under the local management of Sol Goldman and for the benefit of the Zionist Organization of St. Louis.

Schwartz was last seen in St. Louis as the star of "Yoshe Kalb," which he wrote and produced and which attracted the admiration of many theater-goers not familiar with the Yiddish language. In his visit here next Thursday evening he will appear in many excerpts from his own and other famous plays, and will be assisted by Herta Richter, dramatic soprano from the Viennese Opera, who is making her first tour of America.

Burton Holmes in New Series.

Burton Holmes will return to St. Louis with a new series of pictured and informative travel talks beginning on Feb. 25. The series is scheduled for the Municipal Auditorium.

Capra to Direct "Valley Forge" Next

Frank Capra, probably Hollywood's best known director, has been assigned to the production of "Valley Forge," Theater Guild play of the current New York season.

The play, dealing with Washington's difficulties with Congress, profiteers, pacifists and loyalists during his winter at Valley Forge, will be the first historical play Capra has ever directed. "Valley Forge" was written by Maxwell Anderson, author of "Both Your Houses," "Mary of Scotland" and several other successful stage offerings.

Cast of "Three-Cornered Moon."

The cast of the St. Louis University Playhouse Club's production of "Three-Cornered Moon," at the University auditorium, 3642 Lindell boulevard, on Thursday and Friday evenings, will include Kathleen Land, Elsie Hobelman, Suzanne Lemen, Katherine Jett McCawley, Garvey Bridgeman, John Printy, James Nusser, John Evans and Leo Reid.

The Week's New Films

By Colvin McPherson

FROM Ferenc Molnar, the Hungarian playwright, who has delighted the dramatic world with "Liliom," "The Guardsman," "The Devil," "The Play's the Thing" and a half dozen other plays just as famous, comes "The Good Fairy," which was once a vehicle for Helen Hayes and which now, at the Ambassador, is turned over to Margaret Sullavan. Screen adaptation has been necessary but in the hands of Preston Sturges has been done skillfully. The result is that a rather far-fetched proposition (Molnar always starts out that way) is so cleverly geared to reality that an audience gets a wallop out of it. And that, briefly, is the only reason for letting a playwright live, except in solitary confinement. In "The Good Fairy," Miss Sullavan is a little orphan just graduated from an asylum to the position of usher at a big movie theater. She meets Frank Morgan, millionaire ripe for romance, and to put brakes on the affair, says she has a husband. Frank would befriend the husband so Margaret does an eeny-meeny-miney-mo with the telephone book and lights on Herbert Marshall. Molnar as usual keeps two or three jumps ahead of the plot and comes home with the quarry. Assuming then, a bright play, an active one, we have only to look for capable performances. Margaret Sullavan's is blue ribbon all the way through; Herbert Marshall as the thunderstruck young attorney on whom wealth descends is a brilliantly-illumined personality, and Frank Morgan tops the whole thing. He is at least twice as good as he was in "The Affairs of Cellini," for which Hollywood right now is considering his talents in a prize contest. The only thing wrong with "The Good Fairy" is a faint whiff of impossibility and that is ventilated out by the shrieking fun. The Ambassador backs it up with a stage show, the better features of which are Bob Ripa, a juggler extraordinary, and D'Arteaga's mimicry of the better-known jazz orchestras.

Sequoia.

"SEQUOIA," at Loew's, is astonishing. For Hollywood has made a fascinating picture without the use of a single divorcee, diamond thief, college boy, crooner or newspaper reporter. "Sequoia" is the story of a mountain-lion and a deer, a story of the big woods, and not since my first movie ("Mad Maid of the Forest," some 20 years ago) have I seen such woods. The American traveler will, of course, recognize the country as that of the high Sierras and the American movie-goer will assume, naturally, that the filming went on somewhere in California. The deer's name is Malibu and the puma's, Gato. The shutter opens on spring, when there is young life about. Malibu then is a tiny fawn, Gato a kitten. Tragedy leaves each an orphan and Jean Parker, daughter of a nice man writing the great American novel, finds and brings them together. It is Jean's theory that if the fawn and kitten can have enough to eat they may grow up as good buddies as two Elks. She is just about to prove her case when Gato gets to eating pig a la pen in the neighborhood. Both pets have to be put out on the range. The camera then follows Malibu's love life at a safe distance and the what-a-small-world so that Malibu and Gato meet here and there. In order not to go too daffy over the thing, I smirked and said, "This isn't true. This is just a movie. They faked a lot of this." But Hollywood swears that the thing is honest and that it took them two years. So, after a second view of the show to check up, I am willing to extend congratulations. "The Night Is Young," the second feature, is another shabby trick played on Evelyn Laye, who in England or America, seems to have the simon-pure worst luck in pictures.

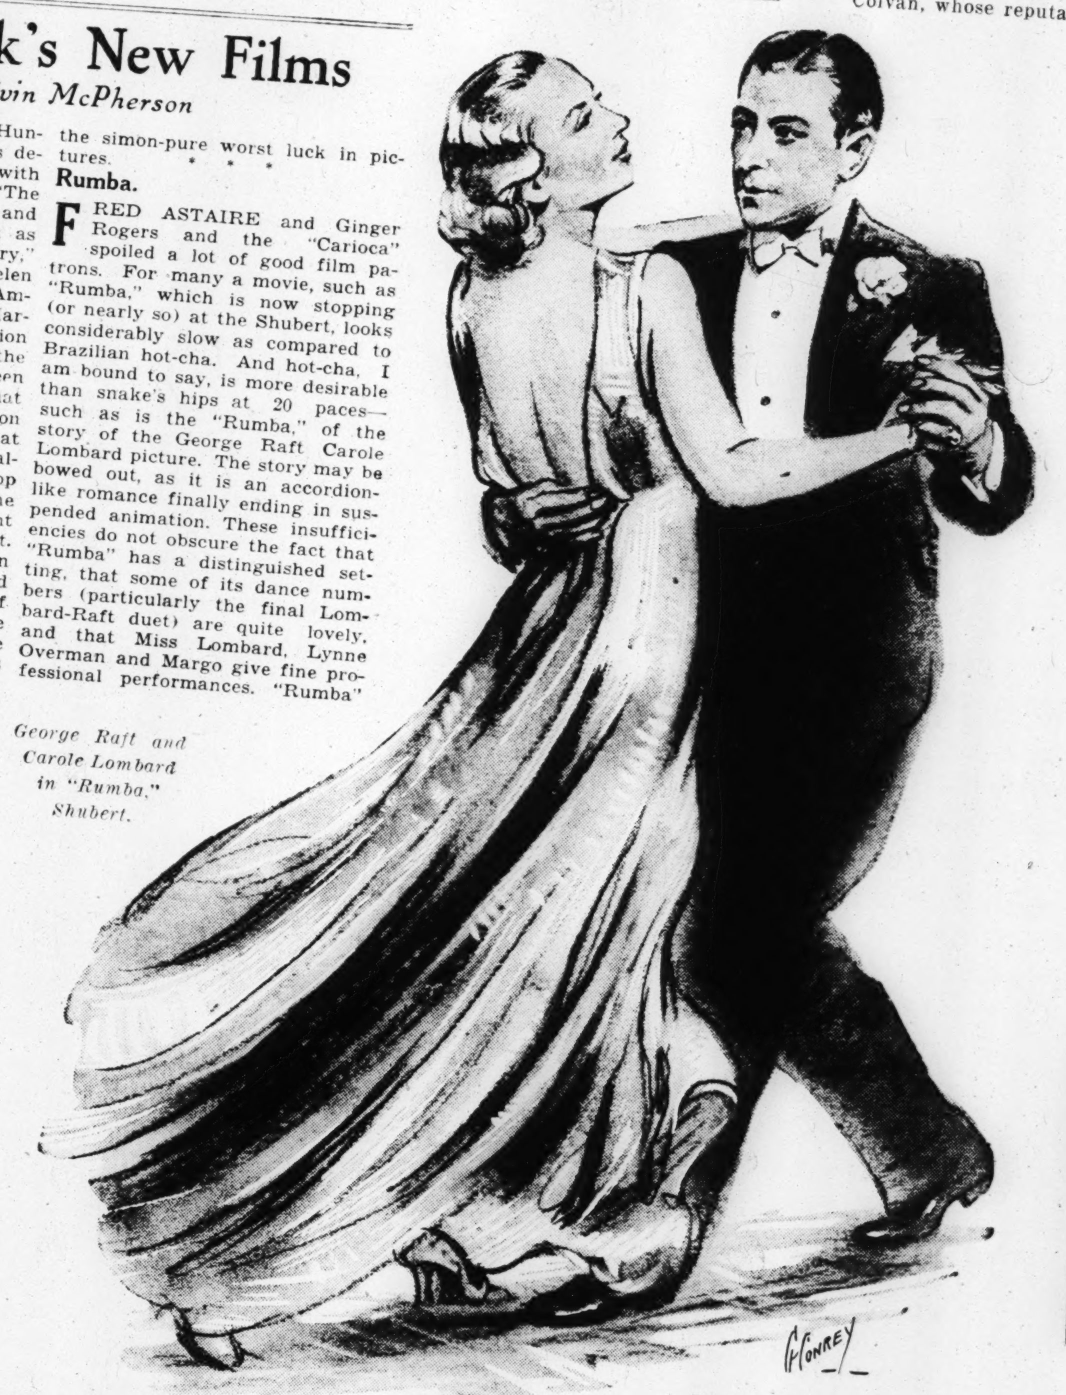
Rumba.

FRED ASTAIRE and Ginger Rogers and the "Carioca" spoiled a lot of good film patrons. For many a movie, such as "Rumba," which is now stopping (or nearly so) at the Shubert, looks considerably slow as compared to Brazilian hot-cha. And hot-cha, I am bound to say, is more desirable than snake's hips at 20 paces—such as is the "Rumba," of the story of the George Raft Carole Lombard picture. The story may be bowed out, as it is an accordion-like romance finally ending in suspended animation. These insufficiencies do not obscure the fact that "Rumba" has a distinguished setting, that some of its dance numbers (particularly the final Lombard-Raft duet) are quite lovely, and that Miss Lombard, Lynne Overman and Margo give fine professional performances. "Rumba" is safely above average. "Red Hot Tires," the second picture, is overlong in warming up and contains nothing of note, unless it be some exciting auto races.



George Raft and Carole Lombard in "Rumba," Shubert.

One More Spring.

A DEPRESSION fable about two men and a girl, who take up residence in a tool-shed in Central Park and by various dodges manage to get through the winter, is offered in "One More Spring" at the Fox. Janet Gaynor, Warner Baxter and Walter King are the principals, and it is King (formerly under some other name), who affords most of the whimsical charm which the picture seeks to convey. Stepin Fechit appears for a moment to liven up things. "The Ghost Walks," rounding out the program, has all the built-in horrors, including an escaped madman. An ample portion of comedy makes it pretty good bargain-picture fare.

Wings in the Dark.

BLIND-FLYING comes to the attention of the film producers in "Wings in the Dark," at the Orpheum. Starting with a young inventor (Cary Grant) who is about to perfect his devices for taking up a "jalloppy" even if it's not always fair weather, the writers give him one look at Myrna Loy, blind him and then sit down to figure out the next six reels. Money is needed so Myrna, a sky-writer, goes risking her neck at country fairs. A great deal more money is needed so Myrna takes a job flying from Moscow to New York. She arrives in the fog and the only way for her to get downstairs is to be led by Cary, who has his flying dark-room ready for any developments. A tiny crack-up in landing and Cary can see again. Conceding a melodramatic plot, it is meet and proper to call attention to nice photography, especially of planes up above the lemon-pie top of the fog. "The Woman In Red," with Barbara Stanwyck and Gene Raymond, is about society people who ride horses. Miss Stanwyck is adequate. Genevieve Tobin, who is the dose of poison in particular, has an interesting role.

A Notorious Gentleman.

HELEN VINSON is a grand performer, a lovely woman and, in my unblushing attempts at prophecy, will some day be a leading light on the screen if merit has anything to do with it. In "A Notorious Gentleman," at the Missouri, it will probably be advisable to pass up the narrative, which is about a lawyer in a Southern city killing his neighbor and so perfectly that he almost gets away with it, to watch those moments when Miss Vinson is in front of the camera. Charles Bickford is the killer. The action suggests that such antics as his are quite a private affair in the South without attracting more than passing attention. In fact, a sequel may well have all the principals at tea. "Women Must Dress" is a synthetic something about a separation and a reunion.

Helen Broderick in "Top Hat."

Municipal Opera Picks Staff For New Season

Raymond Sovey, New Scenic Designer, To Visit Theater This Week — Zeke Colvan To Return As Stage Director.

MORE than three months ahead of the opening of Municipal Opera on Monday, June 3, the Municipal Theater Association is working out its plans for the new 12-week season.

Announcement of the appointment of Raymond Sovey, scenic designer for the New York Theater Guild, as the opera's new art director was followed yesterday by word from New York that Lawrence Schwab, new producing director, had already reached an agreement with Zeke Colvan to return to Forest Park for this third season as stage director.

Sovey will come to St. Louis this week to go over the equipment of the outdoor stage and to recommend changes necessary for carrying out his ideas, which will seek to make all operettas unique in their St. Louis presentation. Sovey has to his credit the decor of such outstanding successes as "Little Accident," "Strictly Dishonorable," "Strike Up the Band," "Green Grow the Lilacs," "Wonder Bar," "Wings Over Europe," "Saint Joan," "Petrified Forest," "Counsellor-at-Law," "Hey Nonny, Nonny," "Ragged Army," "Bright Star" and "Fly Away Home" among many others. His most important productions have been the Theater Guild, but in the field of musical production he has sounded a highly individual note.

Colvan, whose reputation was made with the late Florence Ziegfeld, is well-known for his contributions to the opera here.

OSCAR BRADLEY, the opera's musical director for several seasons past, will, of course, not be available this year, since he has joined the staff of the Fox studio in Hollywood and will write the score for several big productions of the coming season.

Selections of the season's operettas has progressed to the point that some announcement is expected immediately. Schwab also has been interviewing several hundred players in New York, without having made any definite commitments as yet.

An increased interest in this year's opera is reported already, with advance season reservation at a figure well beyond the average for this time of year.

Meanwhile, J. J. Shubert, who learned to like the idea of outdoor productions during his direction of the opera here, has been planning to carry out the idea in other cities. His most notable venture so far has been in Detroit, where preliminary discussions have considered a 12-week season on a movable 100-foot stage in the city's big ball park. The project has already met with opposition by the established theater interests in the city.

Symphony to Start Tomorrow on Annual Spring Concert Tour

THE St. Louis Symphony Orchestra leaves tomorrow on its annual spring concert tour, playing eight concerts in as many days in Illinois, Iowa and Missouri.

Tomorrow evening, under the auspices of the Musicians' Club at Evansville, Ind., the orchestra will present a program consisting of Mozart's "Haffner" Symphony and works from Beethoven, Richard Strauss, Moussorgsky, Ravel and Wagner. Two programs will be given at the University of Illinois at Urbana, Tuesday afternoon and evening. The afternoon program will feature Dvorak's "New World Symphony," and the evening program, the "Haffner" Symphony.

At the State Normal College, Normal, Ill., Wednesday evening, the program will center around Tschaikowsky's "Fifth" Symphony. The same program will be presented again Thursday evening under auspices of the Amateur Musical Club at Peoria, on Friday evening under auspices of the State University of Iowa at Iowa City and next Sunday afternoon at Des Moines, as the feature of a Civic Music Association presentation. On Monday evening, Feb. 25, the orchestra will make its second appearance as a feature of the student concert course at the University of Missouri at Columbia. The "New World Symphony" will be the principal work presented.

Jan Kubelik and Son In Recital Today

Jan Kubelik, violinist, and his son, Rafael, 20-year-old conductor, composer and pianist, who acts as his father's accompanist, will make their only St. Louis appearance this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Municipal Auditorium Opera House. Kubelik will play the following program:

Concerto No. 4 in B flat major	Kubelik
Allegro appassionata.
Andante quasi una balatta.
Rondo.
Havanaise	Saint-Saens
Valse scherzo	Tschaikowsky
Concerto in A minor	Goldmark

Campanella	Paganini

Laughton to Deliver Gettysburg Address

Charles Laughton, who as "Ruggles of Red Gap" in the new movie by the same name, delivers Lincoln's Gettysburg address, studied the speech for more than five months before he recited it in front of the sound camera. His study began when he was convalescing from a serious operation some time ago.

In the picture Laughton has a role which he chose for himself, that of a mild-mannered and servile English valet who comes to Western America and discovers an entirely different social scheme

By JACK ALEXANDER

A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

NEW YORK.

IT has been a tough winter on the local intellectuals and they are about ready to send the boiled shirt to the laundry and take in a burlesque show. First, it was Gertrude Stein, a large, patient, roughly-clad lady who was plainly amazed that her primer-like lectures, designed to explain her garbled writings, drew only blank, if cultured looks. Now it is Salvador Dali, a veritable Stein with a paint brush, whose surrealist canvases leave even the art critics gasping for adequate expression. Two such shocks shake even an intellectual's poise.

Dali differs from Stein in one major respect. The small, wiry young man who heads the surrealist school in Paris, admits that he is sometimes scared at what he produces. But after careful analysis, he says, he can determine the true meaning of the painting. Miss Stein is not quite so broad. She insists that her stuff is immediately comprehensible.

The subconscious mind is Dali's field. He tries to paint what he sees in the depths of this little known domain and lets the finished work turn out as it may. It usually turns out pretty oddly. The young artist thinks he is doing in pigment what Freud did in print and no one has quarreled with him about it.

Lewis Mumford has apply classified Dali's works as "frozen nightmares." Perhaps the most famous to Americans is the one entitled "The Persistence of Memory," which attracted crowds when exhibited at the Century of Progress Exposition. This is a desert scene in which four large watches first grasp the observer's attention. Three of the timepieces are extraordinarily limp, complaisant things. One droops over the edge of a ledge like a cold flapjack. Another hangs over the limb of a dead tree in the manner of a soaked towel. A third drapes sloppily over the torso of an unidentifiable beast recumbent in the foreground—a being part walrus, part dolphin. The fourth watch is of natural appearance, but seems to be suffering a determined attack by an army of ants. There is a hilly plateau in the background and the suggestion of a springboard near the tree, neither feature jibing very squarely with the desert motif. The painter does not explain the Freudian significance of this or other works, the meanings being fit apparently only for medical books. At the Chicago fair the yaps called the picture "Wet Watches." It is now the property of the Museum of Modern Art, 11 West Fifty-third street.

"Les Plaisirs Illumines," another on exhibit at the Museum, defies description. The best one can say is that it embraces a regiment of bearded cyclists balancing rocks on their heads, a hand holding a dagger, a nude young man with excrescences coming from his right shoulder blade, a mermaid of Mae West appearance being grabbed by a man who looks like a family doctor and, oh, many other interesting oddities.

At the Julien Levy Gallery, 602 Madison avenue, the visitor may feast his eyes upon "Surrealist Architecture," a grisly affair depicting what appears to be the interior of a cold storage age in the advanced stage. Observing this phenomenon, in the lower left corner, is a tiny young man with the head and trunk of Ernie Nevers and the hips and legs of, say, Katharine Hepburn. Even more macabre is "The Spectre of Sex Appeal." This shows a child in a sailor suit standing on the seashore in apparent (and certainly justifiable) amaze at a colossal human figure without a head, supported in a semi-kneeling posture by crutches. The huge being has no feet and only one hand.

Since he speaks no English, Dali prefers to let his sponsor, Mrs. Caresse Crosby, Paris surrealist poet, speak for him in interviews. Mrs. Crosby, who operates the Black Sun Press of Paris, has done much to foster the surrealist movement. Mme. Dali was also present at the interview in the apartment the Dalis occupied for a time in West Fifty-seventh street.

The setting for the visit was striking, to say the least, decorated as it was to put over the surrealist spirit. A rocking chair perched on top a small table in the center of the room. Two long, skinny loaves of French bread adorned the mantel. Over the fireplace was draped a blue banner bearing a white skull, a woman's slipper, a key and the word "Dali" in large letters.

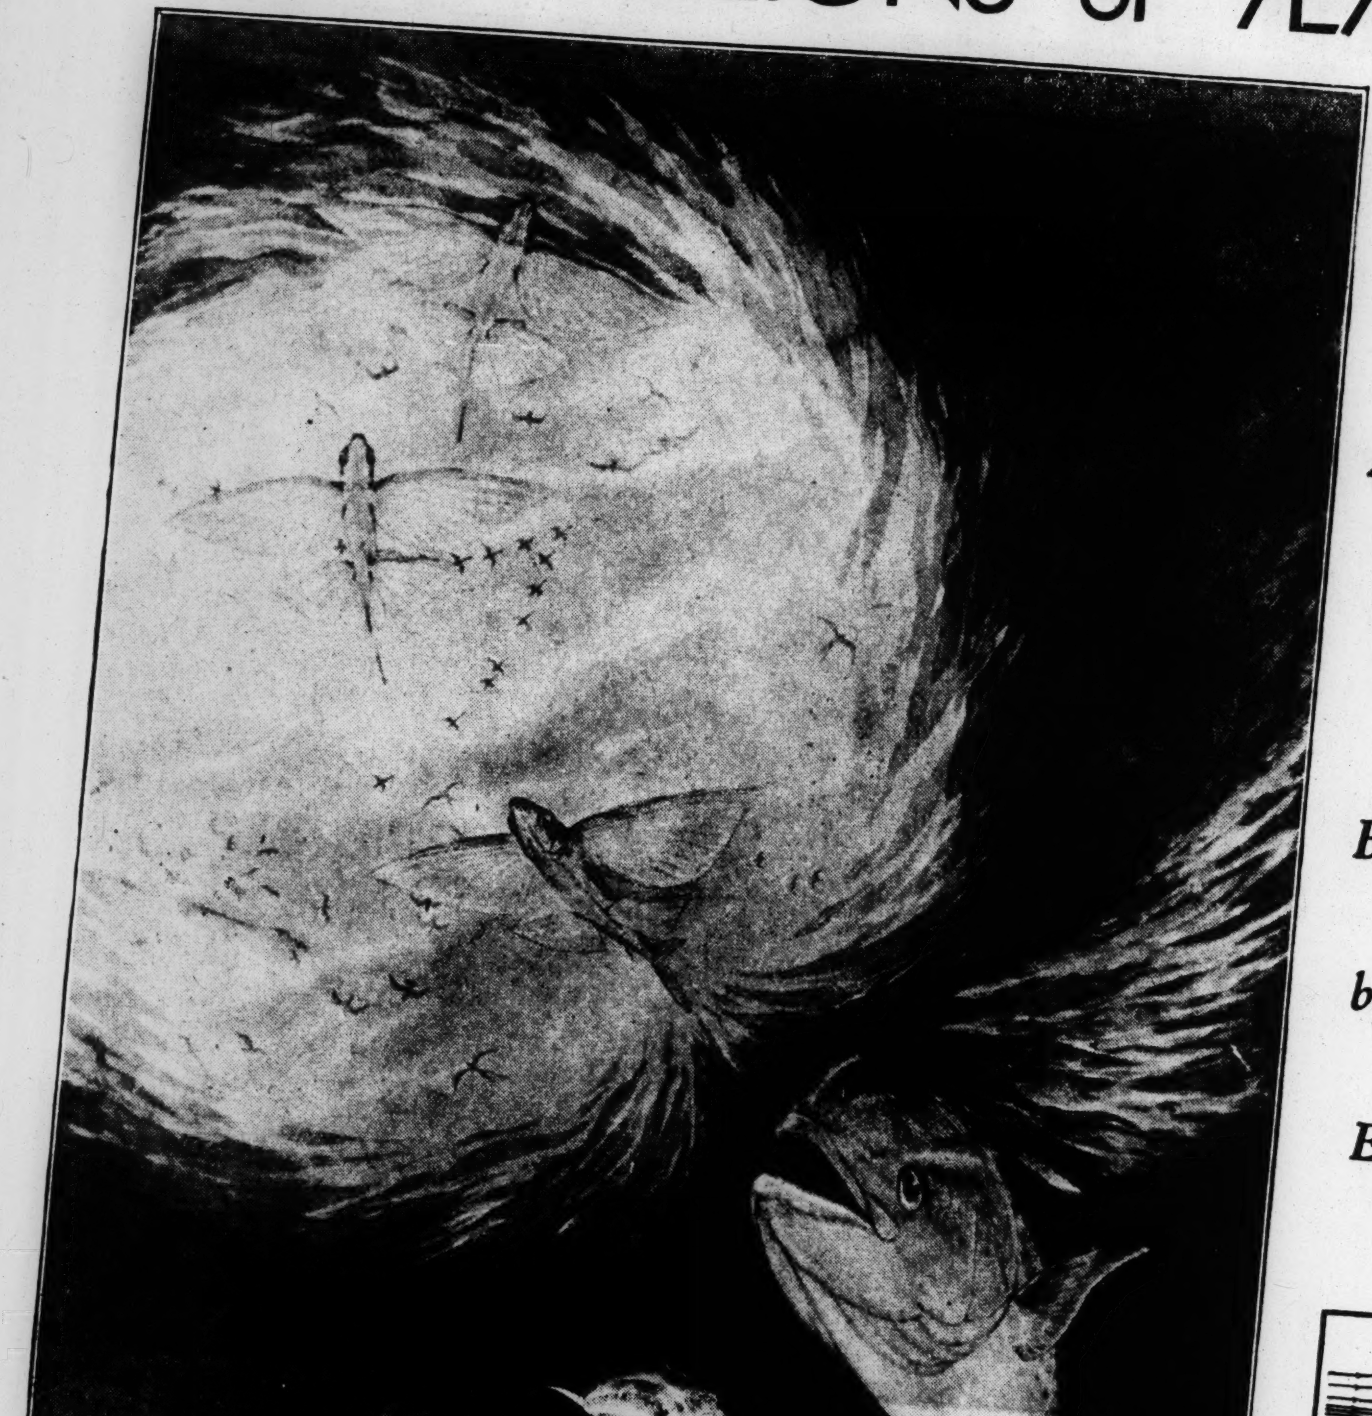
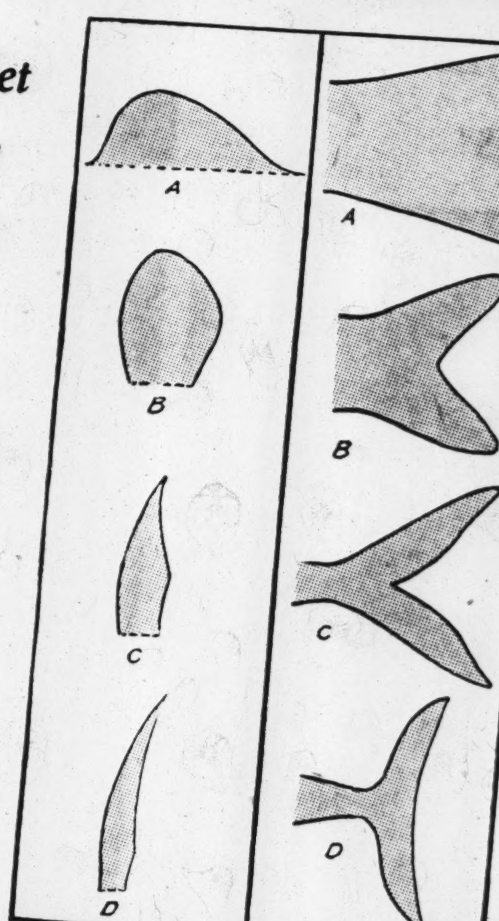
FISH, MILLIONS of YEARS AGO, SOLVED the AVIATION PROBLEMS NOW FACING MAN

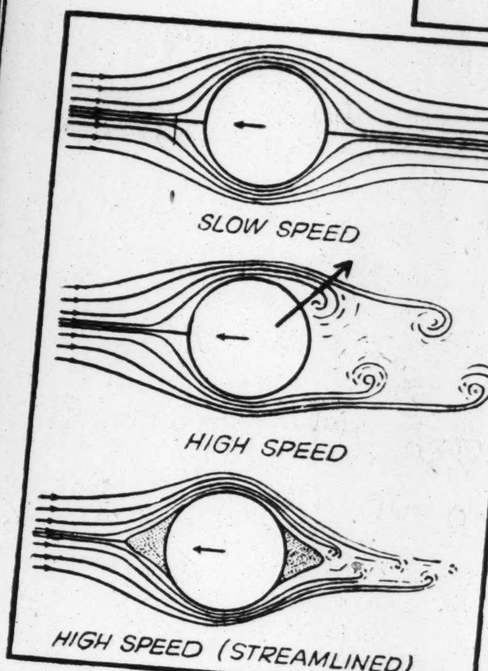
And They Met the Necessity of Acquiring Propulsive Power, Bouyancy and Dexterity by Using the Best Engineering Tactics.



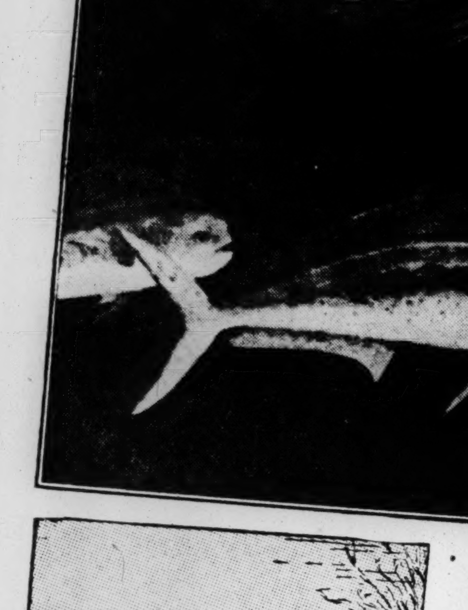
Dolphins, probably the fastest of all water creatures, chasing certain fishes which have developed their fins to the point where they can, at need, become "tandem gliders." From a picture by Wilfred S. Bronson in the Buffalo Museum of Science.



How fishes' fins and tails have evolved along correct engineering lines, with certain parallels to airplane wing construction. Fin shapes are shown at the left; the longer and narrower they become, the more efficient they are. At the right are tail shapes; the narrower the "stem" and the wider the flare, the more efficient.



The streamlining lesson, learned lately by man for his ships, airplanes and motor vehicles, was learned hundreds of millions of years ago by fish.



Very early fish forms: bottom dwellers that swam little, and hence could get along without much in the way of properly "designed" fins.

AFTER centuries of dreams and fugitive efforts man has at last learned to free himself from gravity, and nearly every imaginative modern has congratulated himself, at some time or other, for belonging to a race so resourceful as to learn to fly. But an English scientist, John E. Harris, has come forward to puncture this general feeling of self-esteem with the statement that fish, gifted with intellectual powers even less imposing than those of any modern, self-respecting brook trout, made as notable an accomplishment as man's a great many million years ago.

The fish's problem in those dim, antediluvian ages, was extremely similar to man's problem in learning to fly. Like aviation, it was a question of engineering—and considered in that light, the fish have done an even better job of it than the aeronautical engineers. For, according to Harris, the fish had to learn to swim and they soon achieved even greater success at it than men have achieved in the air.

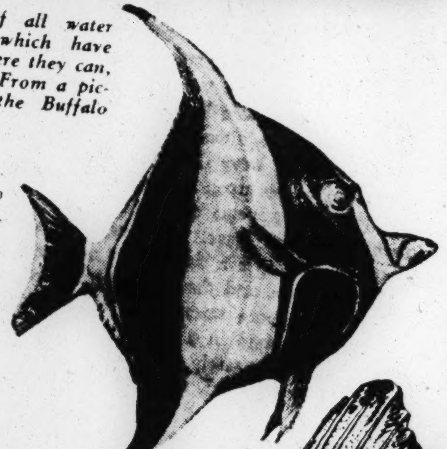
Harris is a member of the department of experimental zoology at Cambridge University. He gave rise to this rather unexpected comparison in a paper delivered before the recent meeting of the American Society for the Advancement of Science, at Pittsburgh.

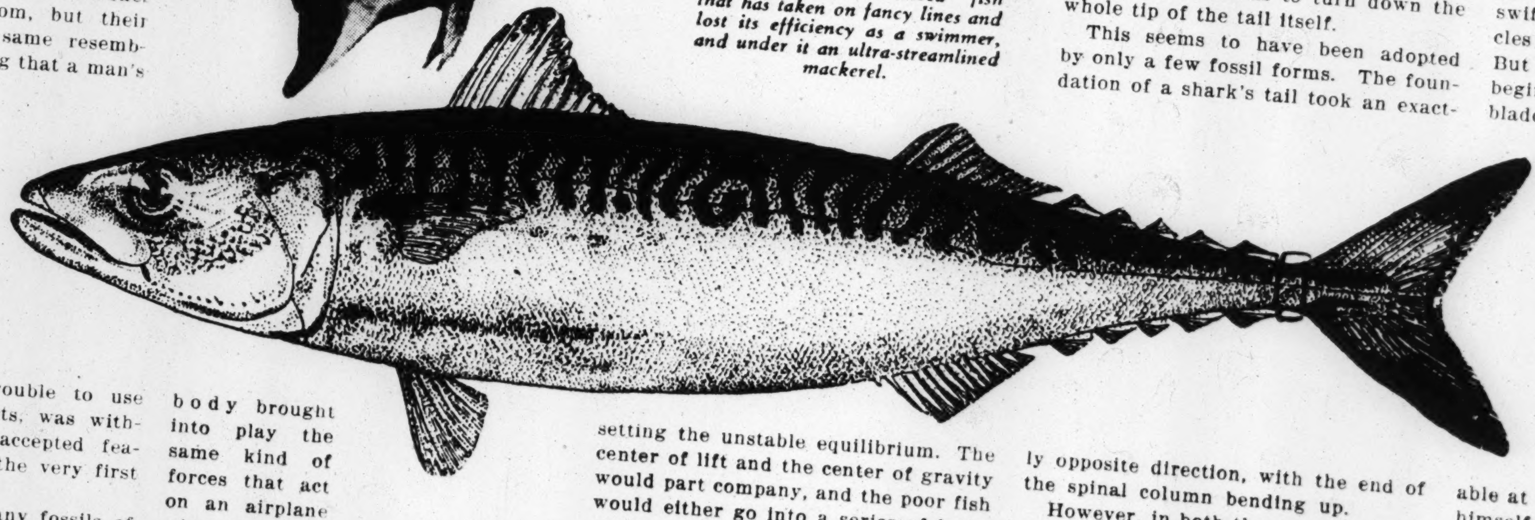
The earliest fish, according to Harris, who has studied every species which has left fossil remains, were forced to live on the sea floor and squat in the sand. They had developed imperfect fins and tails, which probably enabled them to propel themselves a few strokes just above the bottom, but their swimming bore the same resemblance to real swimming that a man's jumping bears to long-distance flights. Their gradual emancipation from this crude method of propulsion resembled to a remarkable degree the various stages of the evolution of modern air craft.

Streamlining, which man did not trouble to use in his first flight efforts, was without doubt an already accepted feature of construction in the very first fish.

Nobody has yet seen any fossils of these very first fish, but we do have some fossils of pretty early ones—300 million years, or some such matter, is their age—and they had quite satisfactorily streamlined bodies. No matter if they didn't swim against the water: in tidal flow or river current the water swam against them, so streamlining was an advantage even at the beginning of things.

Streamlining in these early fish, however, was not perfect. They were bottom dwellers, and naturally would be pretty flat underneath. A lengthwise section, from head to tail, would have looked very much like a section through an airplane wing: blunt, rounded forward end, gently arched back and flat underside, tapering gradually to a long tail-point.





At left and below are two examples of under-water design: In the smaller an "advanced" fish that has taken on fancy lines and lost its efficiency as a swimmer, and under it an ultra-streamlined mackerel.

When such a primitive fish made one of its half-swimming leaps into the water, either to capture some edible morsel drifting overhead or perhaps just because it was tired of staying where it was, its semi-streamlined body brought into play the same kind of forces that act on an airplane wing. The flat underside, shoving at an angle against the mass of water, pushed up. The arched back, moving away from the water mass, was pulled up by "negative pressure," just as the curved back of an airplane wing gets additional "lift" from the area of low pressure, or "partial vacuum," above.

So long as the "pre-fish" could keep pushing itself through the water by vigorous lashings of the after part of its body, it could keep itself lifted above the bottom, and experience the thrill of free, untrammeled motion—supposing an arch-ancestral "pre-fish" to be capable of experiencing thrills. At any rate, it could hop about in the water as nimbly as a paper dart gets through the air.

But toy airplanes, even the simple primitive ones made of folded paper, have the same disadvantages as the early fish must have had—with its airplane body but no rudder or stabilizer or ailerons. As soon as its nose got up a little, the continued "lift" of the water would raise it still more, upsetting the unstable equilibrium. The center of lift and the center of gravity would part company, and the poor fish would either go into a series of loops or back-somersaults in the water, or it would swim along inclined at a steep angle to the horizontal, with its tail dragging on the bottom.

The first invention of fish, as well as the first invention of airplanes, to remedy this fore-and-aft instability, was the development of a tail-fin. In the earliest fish-like fossils, this tail-fin was unsymmetrical, mainly on the underside of the long tail. With the long leverage it thus received, this relatively small surface could counteract effectively the tendency of the body to go into back-loops or to stall. When body said "nose up," tail answered "nose down," and the fish could get along fairly well on an even keel.

Another device that could be used for maintaining a proper "nose-down" attitude was to turn down the whole tip of the tail itself.

This seems to have been adopted by only a few fossil forms. The foundation of a shark's tail took an exactly opposite direction, with the end of the spinal column bending up.

However, in both these cases, a tail-fin was developed downward as well as upward, the extent of both lobes varying in different species, but always working out so as to prevent excessive nose-tilting. These more generously lobed tail-fins gave their owners an added advantage, in that they helped greatly in the body's writhing thrusts forward through the water.

But the fish's problem of getting along through the water was not solved solely by the evolution of a tail, useful though that member became. The problems of lateral stability, or prevention of "roll," as well as of forward "pitch," had to be taken up also. These became the first jobs of the paired fins, on opposite body sides.

Typically, fishes nowadays have two pairs of these side fins, one pair forward, one pair aft. The forward pair, which sometimes stick out like great round "ears," are known to zoologists as the pectoral fins; they might therefore be nick-named the "breast fins." Similarly, the after pair, known technically as the pelvic fins, might be common-Englished as the "hip fins." They are believed to have been at one time only parts of a long, curtain-like continuous fin-fold projecting from each side of the body. But the middle part of this has long since disappeared, leaving only the paired ends.

Efficient from the outset as balancers, these side fins soon added another job, in the case of early fishes, especially sharks, that have no swim-bladder, and therefore have to keep moving in order to avoid sinking to the bottom, just as an airplane must keep moving if it is to remain aloft. In more technical language, sharks and other primitive fish forms must depend on "dynamic lift" to stay up.

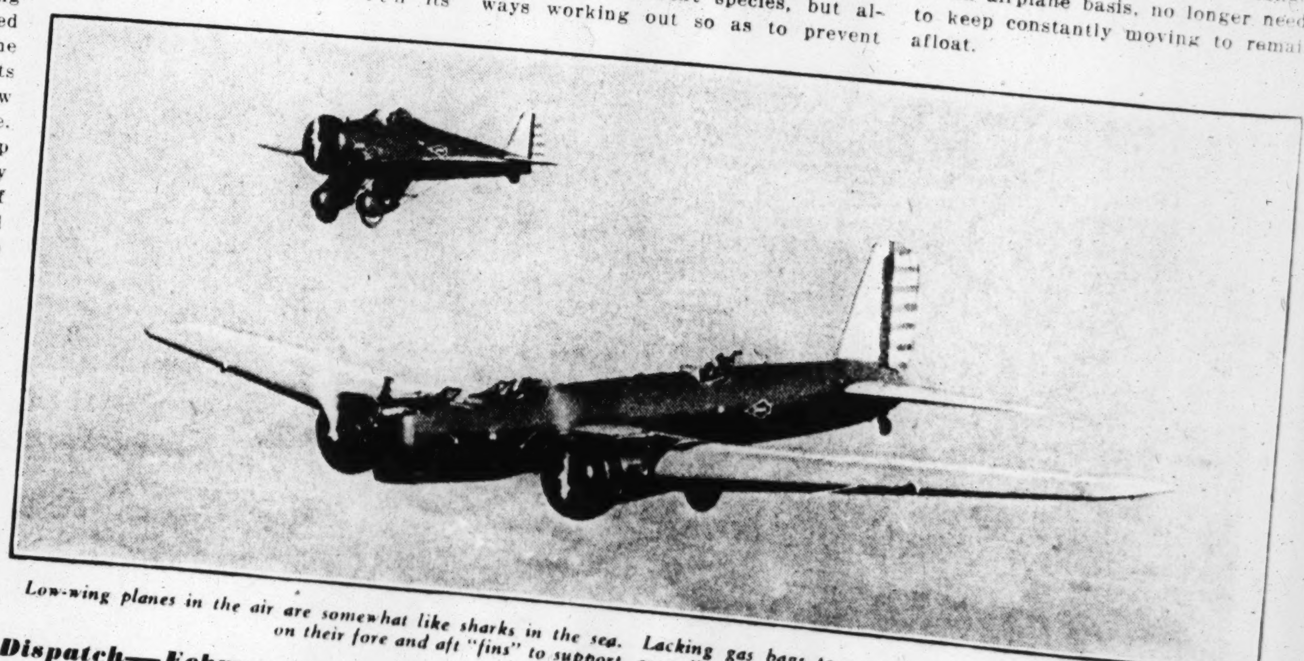
HERE is where the paired fins came in handy, especially after the fishes, having achieved full freedom of movement in the water no longer spent most of the time roosting on the bottom.

For they then lost their flat undersurface, and so could not present so efficient a lifting device in the shape of the body itself. The shark's paired fins are always held horizontally or nearly so. Nearly at opposite ends of the long shark body, they function in the water rather like the wings and the stabilizers of a low-wing monoplane, giving lift and steadiness at the same time. Naturally, since they function in relatively dense water instead of in thin air, they do not need to have nearly so much surface to be adequate as lifters.

With this equipment, then, the shark is a most efficient "waterplane," able to climb fast and maneuver swiftly, so long as his striving muscles continue to supply engine-power. But if he lets up for a moment, he begins to sink, for he has no swim-bladder as the higher fishes have, and so cannot hover.

The great invention of the fishes higher in the evolutional scale than sharks is the swim-bladder. By filling a relatively small part of the body with a fluid much lighter than the one they live in, these higher fishes can hover in the water, like a well-ballasted lighter-than-air craft in the air. The size of the swim-bladder, moreover, is adjustable at will, so that the fish can make himself lighter or heavier, as suits his convenience at the moment.

The higher fish, then, is no longer on an airplane basis, no longer needs to keep constantly moving to remain afloat.



Low-wing planes in the air are somewhat like sharks in the sea. Lacking gas bags to serve as swim-bladders, they must depend on their fore and aft "fins" to support as well as balance and steer them.

The 'Lifer,' Convicted in Louisville's Most Sensational Murder Mystery, Finally Goes Free

Mrs. Joseph Wendling.

Sentenced for the Death of an Eight-Year-Old Girl After a Search That Ended on the Pacific Coast, Joseph Wendling Wins His Parole After 25 Years in Prison and Is Deported to His Native France.

LOUISVILLE.

THERE isn't a prisoner in Kentucky who has been confined as long as Joseph Wendling. Fourteen years at the State prison in Eddyville; never a look beyond the walls. Before that, nine years in Frankfort Reformatory. Before that, almost a year in Jefferson County Jail. Altogether, Wendling, convicted in Louisville's most sensational murder mystery, has served 24 years of a life term, enough to break a man's spirit and mortify all instincts of kindliness—but it hasn't had that effect. Almost throughout his term Joseph Wendling has served with exemplary resignation, bolstering an indomitable optimism with the often-expressed conviction that some day "they" would know him for innocent and let him go.

For 16 years of that term one man in Louisville who had testified against Wendling at his trial has managed to prevent his being paroled. Others have exhausted every means to secure an executive pardon, some of them being friends who never knew him until long after the sentence was imposed. But Frank Fehr, the Louisville brewer who has played the part of an implacable Nemesis to Wendling ever since the murder of Alma Kellner, Fehr's 8-year-old cousin, was discovered, is now the man responsible for the prisoner's parole and deportation to France. He says that he has never had the remotest doubt of Wendling's guilt, though (like the jury that nearly had him hanged) he founded this opinion entirely on circumstantial evidence.

At any rate, and whatever its essential merits, the idea has been so strong in Fehr that he has brought heavy pressure to bear on boards of parole and governors; he says that this has forced Wendling to remain a prisoner 10 or 12 years longer than would otherwise have been necessary, and that he is responsible for a special investigation by one of the members of the present Board of Parole. Now that the man has been released, it is only because he agreed to certain secret conditions laid down by Fehr, who assumed full responsibility for the parole, with the proviso that the prisoner must be immediately deported.

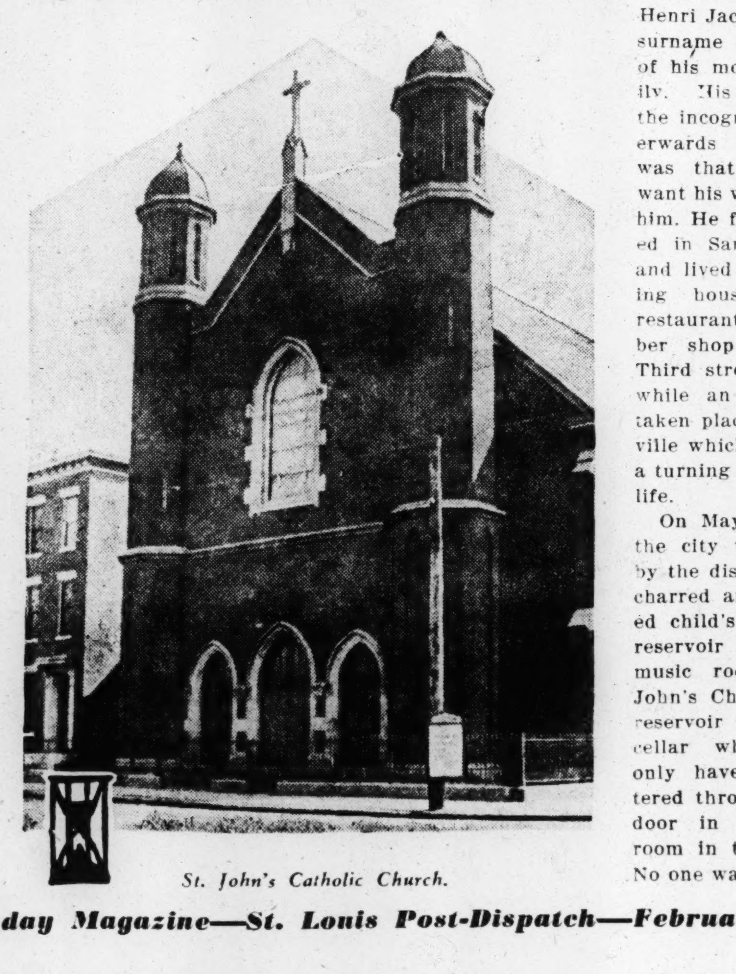
What the secret conditions are no one else knows, and Fehr has just repeated his determination that no one ever shall. Wendling has gone forth to face the new post-war world, about which he has read so much, with undisguised joy illuminating his habitually sober face. Tom Logan, the warden at Eddyville, has taken him to New York for his deportation to France, the country of his origin. Although Joseph Wendling is 60 or 62 years old now, he admits to only 51 and looks less. His hair has become slightly sparse and there is a wrinkle, as of unhurried puzzlement, over his brow. His face is the face of a quiet, French artisan, passive, or suffused with naive inner good humor. After 27 years in America, he speaks with unmistakable French intonations and simple phrases. He is a big, healthy, peaceful man.

THE crime for which Wendling has suffered so long an imprisonment took place on December 8, 1909. At that time Wendling was a vivacious, carefree young man, with luxuriant black hair and a mouth that puckered everlastingly in a cheerful half-smile. After about eight years of schooling in his native village, Dijon, he had served for a short time as a marine and as a soldier in the French African service. He had come to America and Louisville, and had found a wife here, a girl named Madeline Arnold, whose parents came from Alsace. She was 13 years his senior and soon became impatient of his carefree ways and his injudicious consumption of cigars and white wine.

At the time of little Alma Kellner's disappearance, Wendling lived on the grounds of St. John's Catholic Church, on the corner of Clay and Walnut streets; he was caretaker and janitor of the church, and Father Shuhman, the parish priest, lived in an adjacent house, frequently disturbed by the high-voiced wrangling of the Wendlings.

The little girl came to St. John's Church for vesper services one winter afternoon. The last persons to see her were two women, who watched her playing about the altar after the services were over. She never got home. But later the same day Father Shuhman returned to the church and found it singularly cold and permeated with a curious odor. On investigation it was found that the fire in the furnace had gone out and that the odor was especially strong in the cellar, but nothing about the furnace explained anything further.

It was about this time that Wendling was dismissed from the church for the brawling that went on between him and his wife. And more than a month after the child's disappearance, on January 14, the French janitor left Louisville. He had no money, he said later, or he would have left long before to escape from his wife's nagging. But he has insisted that the disappearance of Alma Kellner had nothing whatever to do with his departure. Wendling wandered all over the Southwest. He worked in New Orleans, in Houston, Texas; in Los Angeles, always going by the name of Henri Jacquemin, the surname being that of his mother's family. His reason for the incognito, he afterwards explained, was that he didn't want his wife to trace him. He finally landed in San Francisco and lived in a rooming house over a restaurant and a barber shop on South Third street. Meanwhile an event had taken place in Louisville which was to be a turning point in his life.



St. John's Catholic Church.

On May 30, 1910, the city was stirred by the discovery of a charred and mutilated child's body in a reservoir under the music room in St. John's Church. The reservoir was in a cellar which could only have been entered through a trap door in the music room in the church. No one was known to have entered it, since the time of Wendling's departure, until Father Shuhman sent workmen down to do some cleaning and repairing. Since the reservoir fed into a pump it could be regularly used without recourse to the trap door, and ordinarily no one went near it. Only someone especially familiar with the place would have been likely to know of its existence at all. Obviously, then, everything about the circumstances of the discovery indicated that someone who had access to the furnace room and the music room had committed the crime. Presumably the murderer had captured and killed the child, then attempted to destroy the body by burning it, bit by bit in the furnace, rejected this as impracticable, extinguished the fire, taken the remains out of the furnace and deposited them in the reservoir. The fact that all this seemed to have taken place before Father Shuhman noticed the odor and the cold, fixed the time pretty definitely and seemed to establish that an outsider would have had great difficulty in perpetrating the crime without attracting attention as he went from the music room to the cellar.

Wendling was suspected immediately. And the police were made extraordinarily active in the case by the fact that two newspapers were then attacking the Democratic administration in the city and were concentrating their fire on the Commonwealth Attorney's office. The mysterious details of Alma Kellner's disappearance resulted in charges that the police were dilatory and inefficient.

IT took a Coroner's jury only two days to investigate the circumstances of the discovery and charge the fugitive Joseph Wendling with first-degree murder. The autopsy had indicated that death probably had resulted from a skull fracture, though the condition of the remains gave no clews as to what had actually happened to the child before her death.

The late Captain John P. Carney, then head of the detective force, did an excellent piece of sleuthing; within two months he was able to locate Wendling in San Francisco. The hapless Frenchman was evidently too prone to make friends with chance acquaintances. One of these, a Mrs. Cora Muena of Hume, Missouri, gave the essential clew. She had become well acquainted with "Henri Jacquemin" while visiting an uncle in Houston, Texas. Wendling had told her he was a cotton buyer from New Orleans.

To Joseph Wendling's somewhat childlike mind the murder charge seemed hilariously funny. He laughed so profusely over it that he was quickly nicknamed "Smiling Joe" and "Laughing Joseph" in newspapers all over the country. When Carney found him he said he would be delighted to go back to Louisville and get the whole thing straightened out. Carney quoted him as saying: "Why should I not want to go back? What I scare of? I no kill the little girl, so I get free soon as I get back there. But I like better to stay in California. I make more money here." Although the Governor of California granted extradition papers immediately they were applied for, Wendling didn't even wait to have them served and validated. He seemed anxious to get back and have it over with and continued to laugh at the absurdity of anyone's taking him for a murderer.

Newspaper men who had met Wendling en route to Louisville arranged to have him taken from the train at Evansville, Indiana, and driven the remaining 65 miles in a car. His arrival thus became a "scoop"—and a redoubled sensation. Crowds assembled to get a glimpse of him. His story was followed minutely.

BUT there was a great deal of legal dickering, including an attempt to get the case tried in a Federal court, before Wendling could actually be brought to trial, and the case didn't come up until the beginning of October. Mrs. Wendling was living with her family in Louisville; despite her earlier difference with her husband, she engaged two attorneys, John W. Ray and J. Reginal Clements, to defend him.

On November 28, almost a year after the murder had been committed, Joseph Wendling was finally brought to trial. It was a thoroughly stirring case, in which Wendling, an interpreter constantly beside him, testified brokenly in his own behalf. His only defense was a statement that he knew nothing about the crime or the child victim, and left Louisville not to escape from justice, but to get away from his wife's tongue.

The State's star witness was Father Shuhman, whose testimony concerning his experiences on the day of the murder gave Wendling his only bad moment. For a few minutes it looked as if the accused would break down completely, but he pulled himself together and continued to insist on his innocence. Frank Fehr was one of the witnesses.

During the course of the trial Commonwealth Attorney Joseph Huffaker had the entire court visit the scene of the crime. Thousands packed the streets as the dismal procession went by, and the prisoner was protected from mob violence by a heavy police guard. When that was all over, the prosecution had succeeded in convincing at least seven of the jurors that it would have been impossible for anyone but Wendling to have committed the crime. Six days after the trial's opening, the jury retired. Their first ballot (seven for death, five for acquittal) resulted in a five hours' deadlock. During that time a compromise was arrived at and the second ballot was a unanimous verdict for life imprisonment. Joseph Wendling spent

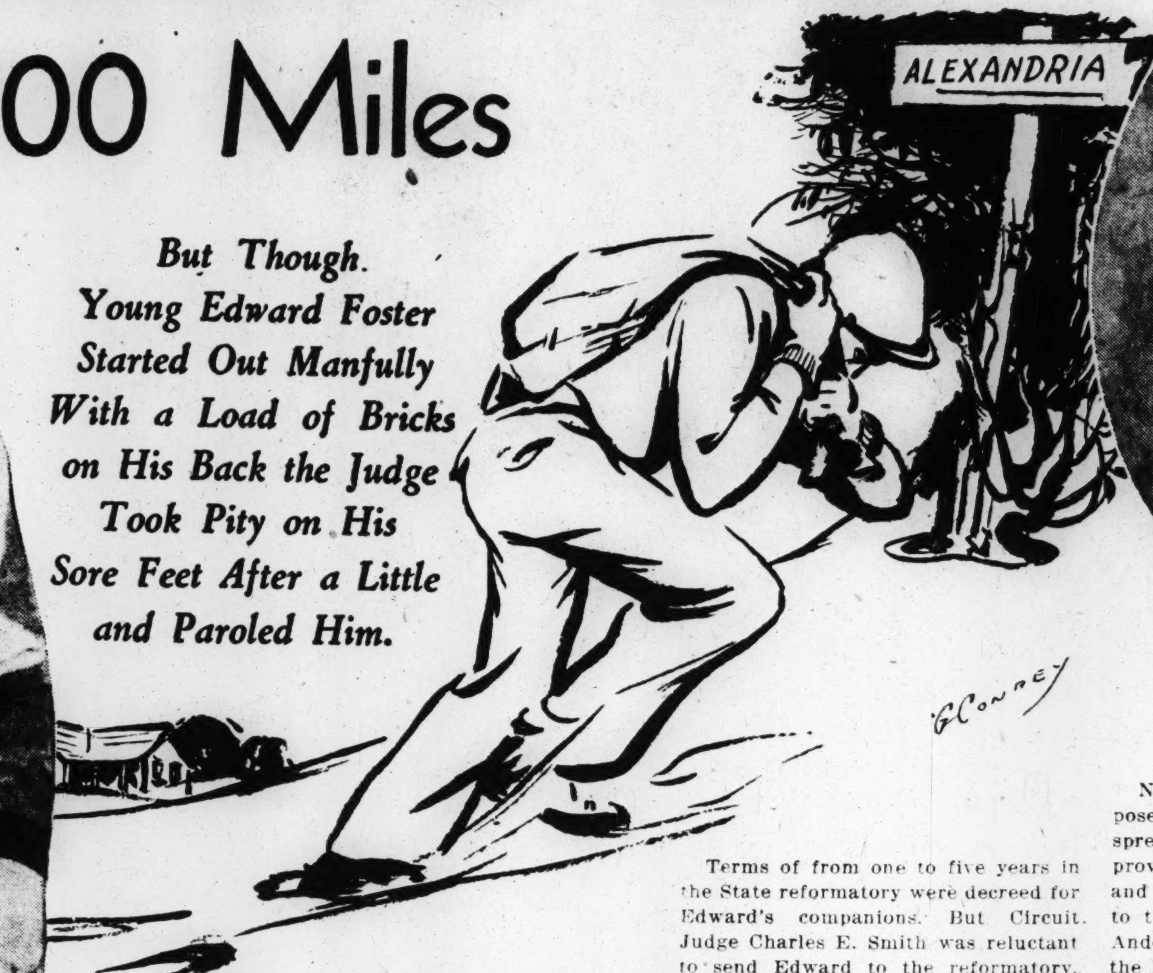
Sentenced to Walk 1200 Miles

But Though Young Edward Foster Started Out Manfully With a Load of Bricks on His Back the Judge Took Pity on His Sore Feet After a Little and Paroled Him.

Edward Foster.



Judge Charles E. Smith.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

ANDERSON, Indiana.

EDWARD FOSTER left a courtroom here, one day recently, under a peculiar penalty; he had been sentenced to walk some 1200 miles in 60 days, carrying a load weighing 20 pounds. He started serving the sentence, and tackled the job with such a will that a few days later he received a parole and a chance to let a sore pair of feet recover.

The offense for which Edward was sentenced and of which he pleaded guilty was participation in the burglary of a grocery in Alexandria, Indiana, last fall. About 20 pounds of groceries was stolen in the robbery. Involved with Edward were two other youths. All three were residents of Alexandria.

Terms of from one to five years in the State reformatory were decreed for Edward's companions. But Circuit Judge Charles E. Smith was reluctant to send Edward to the reformatory. The boy was only 16 years old, a high school student, and his father, a steel worker, was out of employment. The Judge decided to give the lad a chance to show that he had learned his lesson and that he could take punishment in the proper spirit, without being kept imprisoned. This was the penalty he ordered for Edward:

For 60 days, the boy must walk back and forth between Anderson and Alexandria, a distance of 12 miles. On five days of each week he must make a round trip, trudging from Anderson to Alexandria in the forenoon and back to Anderson in the afternoon to spend the night in jail. On Saturdays, he could merely walk to Alexandria and stay at his home there until Sunday afternoon, when he was to walk back to jail. He had to go to church on Sunday. On his hikes from one town to the other he was required to travel on foot all the way—there was to be no riding. And he was to carry a sack of bricks weighing 20 pounds—the weight of the stolen groceries.

News of the unusual sentence imposed by Judge Smith aroused widespread interest and elicited both approval and disapproval. Newspaper and newsreel photographers hastened to the scene. Some members of the Anderson Council of Women and of the local Humane Society thought the penalty was too severe and considered doing something about it. The matter was called to the attention of Governor Paul V. McNutt, but he didn't feel disposed to interfere.

In the meantime, Edward began his punitive pedestrianism. On a Friday morning he set out from the jail here, a 20-pound sack of bricks over his shoulder, and hiked to Alexandria. He made the 12 miles in three hours and 45 minutes. He told Chief of Police David Benedict of Alexandria that he stopped only once to rest. Edward has been active in athletics in high school, and is a tall, strong boy.

That afternoon the youth plodded back to Anderson. His feet were pretty sore after the 24 miles and he was tired. But he didn't appear to be downhearted. "I'd a lot rather do this walking than go to the reformatory," he said. He ate a tremendous supper and spent the night in jail.

Saturday Edward walked back to Alexandria—and admitted he was glad to sleep that night in his own bed. The next morning he went to church, to St. Mary's Catholic Church, whose pastor is the Rev. Leo Scheetz.

Contrary to the provisions of the sentence, Edward did not walk back to Anderson that afternoon. Chief of Police Benedict decided the boy's feet were too sore for the hike and had him stay at home that night. The next morning he was brought to Anderson in an automobile by Alexandria police and taken before Judge Smith. The Judge accepted the explanation of the deviation from the prescribed routine. Not only that, but he freed Edward from the necessity of continuing the "road work." He paroled him to Father Scheetz, who is to report to the Judge twice a week on the boy's conduct.

In issuing the parole, Judge Smith said he had imposed the penalty of his arduous task on Edward to test his sincerity and his worthiness of a suspended sentence.

Later, the Judge added this comment: "The best way to correct kids is to make them do the things they have been doing. That's why I made Edward carry the load of 20 pounds. When I was a school teacher I had a pupil who was always throwing paper wads. I cured him of that by making him fire away until he could hit a circle the size of a quarter that I drew on the blackboard. Edward didn't realize the significance of what he did. I suggested that he take the daily hikes to test his willingness to co-operate with the court. The bargain was entirely agreeable to him when I suggested the penalty."

Edward was glad to get the parole. But he had this to say about the peculiar punishment that had been ordered for him: "I made a bargain with the Judge, and I aimed to carry it out, because I believe he knows best. Judge Smith and Father Scheetz are among my best friends, and if the Judge wanted me to carry the bricks the entire 60 days I would gladly do it rather than go to the reformatory."

ANALYZING the RUMBA

HOLLYWOOD.

UNTIL quite recently Carole Lombard was content to be known as a popular movie actress and a seductive blonde. That was before she was cast with George Raft, who has by now lived down his early gangster pictures and has become a Romeo. Their first picture together called for dancing and Carole had to learn a "Bolero" in order to prepare for the scene. Since then she has become enamoured of the "Rumba," that heady, syncopated Cuban exercise that has become epidemic in European and American dance halls during the past year or so.

Now she and Raft are working on another movie; it is entirely built up on the rumba theme, and named for it. Frank Veloz designed the featured dance which the Lombard-Raft team will do together in the new show.

In the first position dancers face each other (as in Fig. 1); SHE copies his motions. HE draws right foot leftward, extends left foot forward, clicks right foot to left heel, while SHE does the same with opposite feet. After four repetitions HE crosses right foot with left while SHE is extending right foot backward (as in Fig. 2). HE extends right foot to side while SHE imitates with left; HE draws left foot to right and extends right foot back, clicking left foot to right heel. That is the second position; in the third HE extends right foot backwards, follows back with left foot, right and then left in double time; this position can be repeated (as in Fig. 3). Then HE crosses right foot over left, extends left foot to side, clicks right foot to left (as in Fig. 4). The fifth step is a repetition of the first, except that HE begins with right foot extended, continuing in a circle (Fig. 5). Then SHE is drawn toward him, bends slightly to side, while HE extends right foot back completing a circle with both feet together (Fig. 6). The next position (Fig. 7) is a walking step: HE takes a long and three short, stacatto steps forward, while SHE follows; they reverse. The eighth position repeats the first and fifth, but ends as HE kicks to right and forward, SHE to left and backward (Fig. 8) on the fourth beat. Again HE draws her to him, both sidestep as HE swings right foot in half circle and moves in a circle (Fig. 9) until the last position, a semi-cortez in which SHE bends back with right foot held forward.

Telepathy and Clairvoyance Really Exist, Say the Scientists

Lengthy Experiments Conducted at Duke University Would Indicate, the Investigators Say, That 'Extra-Sensory Perception' May Be Possessed by the Whole Human Species.

By ELLWOOD DOUGLASS
Of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

FOLLOWING the longest and most matter-of-fact excursion ever made into a field historically distinguished by gullibility, spooks, trickery, guess-work and a jargon of fantastic catch-words, Dr. J. B. Rhine of Duke University has announced the conclusion that both telepathy and clairvoyance (ordinarily known as mind-reading) are functions of the normal mind possessed certainly by more than one out of four persons, and possibly by the human species as a whole.

He and his associates have been working for four years. They have tested students, wives, sweethearts, acquaintances, a "medium" and a horse. They have made more than 100,000 tests under conditions which seem to bar any aid from the known senses. Success could have been achieved in one-fifth the tests by guesswork or pure chance, but actual successes were nearly twice that many. The odds against "accident" as an explanation of the results are shown, by standard mathematics, to be millions of millions to one—a figure so enormous that it would take a one and several hundred zeros to represent it.

Only by these odds does the Rhine project become spectacular. Each test was only the calling of a card, or a card image in an experimenter's mind, and, right or wrong, meant little to anyone except in the plodding accumulation of hits far above an average which chance might explain.

This everyday simplicity was a bid for consideration by scientists who, with notable exceptions — regarded with pity and sorrow by many colleagues—have shied away from the field precisely because it was spectacular and incredible. In Dr. Rhine's only published experiment with a "medium," he did not, like investigators who have turned their backs on science in entering the field, play her game; he made her play his. His work seems not only objective, or independent of personal testimony and subject to outside check-up, but quantitative, since it measures variations in different persons and under different conditions.

He believes it offers a natural explanation for many spiritistic phenomena. He looks to physical science for its explanation, but he doubts that it can be found in currently established theories. Citing a hypothesis of Prof. William McDougall, he suggests that, in the intrinsically trivial operation of naming an unseen 'card, the mind shows an independence of known material laws which may favor the possibility of grounds besides the religious for survival after death.

There is an apparent independence of space which implies to Dr. Rhine a corollary independence of time — a function of "seeing" in the past or the future. In publications of the last few weeks he has left the inference clear that now he is methodically investigating this astonishing phase with results, he says in one article, "too exciting, perhaps, for due deliberation"; to be "proved a hundred times over, in many ways and conditions, with many observers, since if it is true and bears repetition it will upset some philosophies."

Dr. and Mrs. Rhine took their doctors' degrees in biology at the University of Chicago, taught biology, jumped to psychology at Harvard, and followed Prof. McDougall to Duke University at Durham, North Carolina, where with Prof. McDougall as "presiding genius," they began the investigation of telepathy and clairvoyance which is still going on. For three years they published nothing. Last March Dr. Rhine brought out his book, "Extra-Sensory Perception," published by the Boston Society for Psychic Research, and in the last few months, urging check-up from every pertinent angle, he has published numerous reports in a diversified selection of periodicals, scientific and otherwise.

In the book, he reported 85,724 tests for extra-sensory perception, including both clairvoyance and telepathy. Hits could have been made by chance in one-fifth of them, five in 25, or a total of 17,145.

Actually, there were 7.1 hits in 25, a total of 24,364, or 7219 more than chance would allow. That excess was 91 times the mathematically computed possible error, which gave odds of 10 raised to the 820th power for a definite faculty of perception against one for "accident." We lack space for the 820 zeros to set down that figure.

For the tests, Dr. Rhine used cards bearing a circle, a rectangle, a plus mark, a star or wavy lines. They were devised by Dr. K. E. Zener of the Duke psychology department. Five decks of five cards each were used at a time.

In testing for clairvoyance, or the ability to perceive an object without recourse to the known senses, the set of 25 cards was laid on the table before the "guesser." As he attempted to name his card, an agent laid it aside without looking at it, and checked the cards by the record of calls after five or 25 had been run. In testing for telepathy, or "mind-reading," the agent simply concentrated on one of the five images, and noted it down after the subject had made his guess.

Selected by testing students in the classroom, associates in the department—everyone who would try it—some subjects, after a few trials, began to run consistently over the chance average.

It worked whether the subject had his eyes closed or open, whether he was in the same room with the cards or the telepathic "agent," in an adjoining room, a third room 30 feet away, across the campus, or in another town 250 miles distant. In clairvoyance, it was all the same whether the subject glared at the back of each card, held the deck behind his back, laid the card on his forehead or his vest button, or let the deck lie untouched on a table while he mentally ran through the pack from the top card to the bottom.

Attempts to follow the run of the cards, in bridge-player style, were discouraged, because they tended to lower the score of hits. When new and harder conditions were imposed, scores invariably fell, but rose as the conditions became familiar and ceased to distract. On the whole, the strictest conditions showed the highest averages, and exclusion of the simpler and apparently easier test would have tended, if anything, to raise the ultimate total.

Scores were lowered by a drug, a hangover, a cold in the head; raised by a stimulant. The stars in telepathy were a couple about to be married; George Zirkle and Sara Ownbey. The girl's score fell sharply in one series just before the wedding. A young ministerial student did fairly well in telepathy with a graduate assistant as agent; a little better with his instructor, and very well indeed with two attractive young women.

The student for the ministry hit 25 out of 25 when Dr. Rhine challenged him to do his best; missed every one of 25 on a challenge to do his worst. This effect of conscious volition suggested to Dr. Rhine that the faculty might also, like other delicate mental processes, be affected by an unconscious desire to thwart it.

To try that out, he imposed a heartlessly prolonged series of tests on a student eager to pack his bags and get away for the 1931 summer vacation. The student, courteous but plainly struggling against an inner rebellion, not only dropped to less than chance average, but never again got up to his normal score of about 9.9 in 25—almost exactly twice the "accident" level. These were the first experiments, Dr. Rhine points out, which placed a clear distinction between telepathy and clairvoyance. In tests for clairvoyance, no one saw the cards until the calls had been made. In tests for telepathy, the agent concentrated on the image and not the word. But every test indicated they were phases of the same function. Scores for both ran about the same in the same person, rose and fell together with varying conditions.

They seemed an associative function of the mind, rather than a sense, like the eyesight. Drugs or illness knocked out extra-sensory perception long before they interfered with any of the senses, or even the simpler thinking processes. Striking a parallel with the known action of drugs, progressing from higher functions to the lower, Dr. Rhine compared the faculty with creative thought or artistic synthesis—writing a verse or designing a picture.

It did not seem capable of development beyond the first familiarizing stage. There was some indication of heredity, in that "psychic" incidents had occurred in the families of the most able subjects. But six of 17 graduate students in the department definitely had the faculty, one was reported to have it, the remaining seven had never been adequately tested.

Hence he suspected it might be a biological attribute of the race—probably, recalling his results with the horse, of other species also—perhaps present in everyone and inhibited in many, capable of being released from inhibition but incapable of "education" beyond the inherent level.

Since it seemed definitely to improve with distance, he believed "thought-waves" would not explain it for every known form of radiation declines in intensity with the square of the distance. Probably that seems less final to physicists than he supposed, but there were much taller hurdles for "thought-waves" in the ordinary conditions of the experiment.

In these perplexities Dr. Rhine was driven to consider—tentatively, of course—the hypothesis that the mind might here have a capacity to escape material limitations. That might have a bearing on survival after the decease of one's individual set of "material limitations."

Dr. Rhine tried his routine tests on "one of the most successful living 'mediums,'" Mrs. Eileen J. Garrett, and her "trance personality, who calls himself Uvani, claiming to be the incorporeal survival of a deceased Arab." Mrs. Garrett took 14,425 tests and Uvani, who seemed to resent it, took 1575.

MRS. GARRETT scored little above chance on clairvoyance. So did Uvani. The Englishwoman ran high on telepathy for 12 days, and then slumped for the last five. So did the dead Arab.

Uvani ran consistently just a shade lower than Mrs. Garrett. When Mrs. Garrett was ill, Uvani's score dropped. Uvani got around that by saying that he had no such capacities, and simply borrowed Mrs. Garrett's. But, Dr. Rhine asked, how then could he have any independent existence at all?

In one of his recent speculative articles—without reference to that experiment—he underlines the working principle that "it is necessary that every other possibility be exhausted before the hypothesis of spirit agency be considered." But he urges an open mind despite the inanities and indignities—and cold-blooded frauds—of the record, for, he says, "We have only to recall the history of Jenner, Mesmer and Freud to remind ourselves that out of the messy and mysterious and pathological spring many of our greatest insights."

But mostly he plugs along in his laboratory, endlessly repeating trivial feats with astonishing implications. The explanation, he says, will have to come later; but here, at least, is something to explain. And for what some of his colleagues think of it, we have a review in the Journal of General Psychology by Dr. Gardner Murphy of Columbia University, who commented:

"Our modern civilization is depending more and more upon a power which a few centuries ago amused those who studied the action of amber upon silk. The phenomena were bizarre, but obviously of no theoretical or practical importance. The analogy is close. The Twenty-fifth Century will give Rhine's experiments the importance they deserve in the history of science."

SKETCHES FROM LIFE

High Lights on Unusual Personalities

THOMAS MASARYK
CAPT. FRITZ KRUSE

Salty Sailing Days Are Behind the 'Cruising Commodore'

IT'S getting so that Captain Fritz Kruse and his medals have something in common with a ship's hull and barnacles. With the medals he won in the World war and the gold scrimshaw that Emperor Haile Selassie of Abyssinia presented to him in 1932, the commodore of the Hamburg-American Line had more than one ordinary sea captain's share. Then, in the December storms that swept the Atlantic, it fell to his lot to guide the liner New York to the storm-crushed Sisto and snatch 16 Norwegian sailors from Davy Jones' fingers. When he got the SOS he replied, "Will be there in two hours," and was, despite the hurricane. Laconically he radioed: "Aided the distressed freighter Sisto yesterday afternoon and night southwest of Irish coast in stormy seas. Succeeded in rescuing the entire crew at 2 a. m. Proceeding to Cherbourg."

When Kruse got to Hamburg, he and his lifeboat crew were given medals. It was the same story a few days ago when they returned to New York. The Life Saving Benevolent Association passed out gold and silver medals at a ceremony attended by ambassadors and consuls. Kruse's war medals, the Iron Crosses of first and second class, the Hamburg Cross and the German Navy Cross, had given his coat a list to the port side. This was nearly doubled by the huge ornate gob of gold that the self-styled "direct descendant of King Solomon" gave him for hospitality shown when the King visited the Commodore's ship at Djibuti. And now the Sisto medals are enough to put the Commodore's coat on its beam ends.

Fortunately for the Commodore's coat, its owner is not the sort of man to indulge in ostentatious whims. He doesn't make a show of his medals nor of the silver cups that world cruise passengers have given him. If you knew him very, very well, he might tell you that in 1926, while he was master of the Thuringia, the German scientist who discovered planet 934 named it after his ship and sent Kruse a handsome scroll, decked with ribbons and seals, attesting this fact.

The Commodore, one of the few captains left who looks just as salty in civies as in uniform, isn't very communicative unless he gets on the theme of the old days when a sailor had to be able to splice a 10-inch Manila hawser and make a Matthew Walker knot in pitch dark and freezing weather. Forty-five years ago at the age of 16 he left his home at Stettin, Germany, and started to sea, spending his first six years in sail. Today, a chunky, barrel-chested man with close-cropped mustache and short-clipped hair, he does not look his 61 years as he stands on the bridge of the Resolute, his present command.

KRUSE went through a hard school. On his first voyage, Stettin to New York, three sets of sails were blown out of the bolt ropes in storms and it was 84 days before New York was sighted. Five years later he was on the full-rigged ship Helen Scott off Cape Horn when she was rammed by the bark Olivia and sank in 10 minutes with 17 of her crew of 26. The mainmast snapped off and yardarms crashed down and through the decks. The foretopgallant lay across both ships. Kruse and three other men crawled over it to safety. A few minutes later he was in a boat from the Olivia helping to pick up the other five survivors.

This was his greatest thrill, he says, although he was in command of two auxiliary cruisers that were sunk under him in the North Sea during the war. One was torpedoed by a submarine and the other was sunk by a mine with more than half the crew being lost.

In 1886 he was on board another sailing ship in about the same place where the Helen Scott was rammed when he fell from the fore-upper topsail yard as a result of someone slacking away the leech lines. Kruse says that he fell 55 feet to the iron rail at the topgallant forecastle deck, bending it, and then lighting on a coil of rope. He says he was unconscious two hours but broke no bones. At the end of that voyage he forsook sail for steam after passing his examination for a mate's license.

Experience in sail, he holds, is invaluable, and is something that never is forgotten. Right today, he says, he can make a double Turkish bend, sew canvas, reeve a gantline and find any halliard, brace or sheet on a pitch-dark night aboard a sailing vessel. He is now on his fourteenth cruise around the world, increasing his right to the title of "the cruising commodore," bestowed on him by other captains.

The MODEST PROFESSOR Who FATHERED a COUNTRY

PRAGUE.

WHEN the Republic of Czecho-Slovakia was created in 1918, it elected as its first President a professor. The professor turned out to be a first-rate man of affairs as well as a scholar, and the republic has kept him in the presidency ever since. Almost 85 years old now, he is serving his fourth term—despite a constitutional provision against more than two successive terms in that office. That provision is not as important to Czecho-Slovakia as Thomas Garrigue Masaryk, and it has been held in abeyance until his retirement.

Masaryk, son of a coachman, is revered throughout the republic as the father of his country. He had striven since boyhood to achieve independence for the Czechs and Slovaks. Because of this aim, he was condemned to death when the World War was in progress as a traitor to Austria. And to his persuasion is attributed the policy of the victorious Allies which permitted the Republic of Czecho-Slovakia to be established in territory taken from Germany, Austria and Hungary.

Born in Moravia, Austria, where his father was a coachman on one of the imperial estates, Thomas Masaryk was dedicated by his parents to the work of improving the condition of his people; he was educated for teaching. Schooling was temporarily abandoned at times, and he worked as apprentice to a locksmith and a blacksmith. After graduation from the University of Vienna and further study in Leipsic, he became a professor in the new Bohemian university at Prague, founded a critical journal and a monthly review, became interested in politics, bent his energies to what he called the "moral education of the nation."

In 1907 Masaryk entered the Austrian Parliament as a representative of the Progressive Party. Shortly after the World War broke out, when he was still a deputy in Parliament, he fled from Austria and took leadership in the movement for Czecho-Slovakian independence. It was in this period that he was condemned to death for treason; fortunately he was out of reach of Austrian authority. While living in London he lectured at King's College. He went to the United States in 1918, pleaded the cause of small nations with President Wilson, and obtained the latter's support of a Czecho-Slovakian republic.

THE republic was established and Masaryk was elected its President. He was re-elected in 1920 for a seven-year term, re-elected again in 1927 and 1934. Under his steady, sane rule, his little republic of some 15,000,000 people has weathered the difficulties of the troubled post-war years, escaping most of the ferment and turmoil of its neighbors.

Masaryk married an American. In Leipsic, as a young man, he met a music student, Charlotte Garrique of Brooklyn, daughter of the president of an insurance company. When she returned to America he followed her and they were married in 1878. He took her family name as his middle name. Mrs. Masaryk died in 1923. Their son, Jan, Minister to Great Britain, also married an American girl, Miss Frances Crane of Chicago, daughter of Charles R. Crane, who was once United States Minister to China.

The President of Czecho-Slovakia is a tall, lean, hardy man, who has carried into old age vigor of mind and body. Above his short white beard and eye glasses, he wears a black slouch hat, refusing to adorn himself with a silk "topper." His suit is usually gray.

He lives simply. He gets up early in the morning and starts his day's work about 8:30. Horseback riding and walking give him exercise. His principal meal is in the middle of the day and it usually consists of plain, "homey" food—such things as pig's knuckles and sauerkraut and boiled beef and cabbage. He doesn't play cards, doesn't smoke and uses alcoholic drinks very sparingly. Social functions don't interest him, but he often entertains notables of science, art and politics. He likes the movies, particularly comedies, and the phonograph. When he goes to the theater it is usually to hear a concert. He likes to join in the singing of the folk songs of the country and to watch the Czech clog dance; a few years ago he was considered an able performer of this dance himself.

PRESIDENT MASARYK is a prodigious reader. In his residence, Hradzin Castle, there is said to be a library of more than 30,000 books, some of them very valuable. He reads English and six other languages.

His own literary output is considerable. He was noted as a philosopher before he became famous as a statesman.

Thomas Masaryk is a humanitarian, kindly and idealistic. But he subscribes to no formal religious creed. He speaks slowly and his voice is soft. In a recent appraisal, modesty was given as an essential characteristic of his nature. But despite modesty and idealism, this scholar has the qualities of a man of action. He has shrewdness and his idealism has not separated him from reality. He is a pacifist, but not a peace-at-any-price pacifist. He thinks freedom is worth fighting for.

When Masaryk was elected last May for his present term a national holiday was observed and celebrations were held throughout Czecho-Slovakia to honor the professor who fathered a country.

'Interpreter of the Subconscious' Gets Frightened at His Own Paintings paintings) seems a bit crazy. And a painting of a watch lying on the edge of a ledge with part of it dripping like butter toward the ground will seem equally insane. Sometimes, as the artist has admitted to me, he does not know why he paints such things. He first may only feel the urge, but after it is completed he will psychoanalyze it and learn the meaning.

"The paintings of Dali are merely different from what you are used to seeing, and they appear illogical. Viewed as symbols, however, they become very logical, each with its own meaning. Surrealism merely liberates its exponents from all conventions, as in dreams. One thing follows another quickly. What the psychoanalyst expresses in words, the surrealist tries to do in oils."

THEN she paused and the energetic young painter fished several reproductions of his works from a portfolio, handing them to his sponsor. Mrs. Crosby held aloft a scene showing a peasant woman with an oblong hole in her back, sitting beside the sea.

"This," said Mrs. Crosby, "is called 'When a Child Is Born,' or perhaps 'Childbirth' might fit it better. The hole in the old fisherwoman's body was left there when she gave birth to the wooden cabinet over there, while the hole in the cabinet is what it lost when it gave birth to the smaller stand resting beside it."

Here she stopped to listen to an impassioned flow of French from the painter. She smiled in approbation and, turning, translated literally as follows: "The painting itself is very academic, following the traditions of the old masters, but it is the subject that seems irrational. It is unknown, it is almost hysterical, as in a dream. My idea is to give to the world of imagination the same existence in one's mind as the realistic world, to put it on the same plane and give it the same importance."

Another translation was: "I do all my work subconsciously. I never use models or paint from life or landscapes. It is all imagination with me. I must admit that I am the first to be surprised and often terrified by the extravagant images that I see appear with fatality on my canvas, so that I find it perfectly natural that my friends and the general public pretend not to understand my meanings.

"I am just an automaton which registers, without judgment and with all possible exactitude, the dictates of my subconscious, my dreams, the hypnagogical (sic) images and visions, my hallucinations and, in short, all those manifestations, concrete and irrational, of that sensational and often obscure world discovered by Freud, which, I have no doubt, is one of the most important discoveries of our epoch.

"The fact that I myself at the moment of painting my pictures know nothing of their meaning is not to say that the images in question are without sense. On the contrary, their meaning is so profound, systematic and complex that they require an absolutely scientific interpretation."

In a Hartford, Connecticut, appearance, under the auspices of the Wadsworth Athenaeum, Dali knocked a high-hat audience speechless by unreeling a surrealist film he helped produce. It is called "The Andalusian Dog." When it was shown in Paris, the Royalists rioted all over the theater for some unexplained reason, and the Vicomte de Noailles, who helped make the film, was expelled from the Paris Jockey Club. Hartford was calmer about it.

The picture began with a sequence of a heavy set man diligently shaving himself. Presently the shaver walked to the balcony, from which he espied a girl in the street. Suddenly a queer face rose before him to obscure the girl and an old-fashioned razer slithered in from the side and slit one eyeball. This all dissolved into an everyday street scene featuring a cyclist. The cyclist's adventures (he is killed several times, but invariably revived) formed much of what followed.

One scene showed the cyclist being driven out of a woman's boudoir with a tennis racket. In rebuttal, he came back at her with a juggernaut composed of two grand pianos, two football helmets, two flayed beeves and two clergymen. A swarm of ants running in and out of a hole in the cylist's hand seemed to distract him no little. There was a jump, or perhaps it was a flashback, to a strange man being murdered in a pastoral scene, and the film closed with a shot of the lady of the boudoir conversing on the beach with a man who looked like Dali himself.

After the showing of the film, Dali attempted to explain, through Mrs. Crosby, some of his paintings. He said that the one of Mme. Dali, with her chin resting on a cutlet, illustrated his desire to eat his wife. "Surrealist Architecture" he described as a protest against angular modern buildings months in jail while his attorneys tried unsuccessfully to get him a new trial. When they failed and he was taken to Frankfort Reformatory, he was still possessed of irrepressible vitality. They put him to work learning the electrical trade, and his candor and openness of manner soon won him numerous friends among his warders and fellow prisoners. Before long he was made a trusty and was permitted to help wire the executive mansion and several other State Buildings. But his buoyant nature made confinement a great hardship.

That is what prompted him to get himself up in the costume of a woman and escape. According to all indications he had no intention of avoiding his sentence permanently; what he wanted was a breath of free air before going on with his captivity. Two years after he was brought back he escaped again, and this second time he wasn't captured until they saw him trying to sneak back into the prison undetected.

Shortly after this, in 1921, Wendling was transferred to Eddyville Penitentiary. From that time he was something more than a model prisoner. Not only was there never a single mark against him for disobedience or any other irregularity, but he was notably useful from the time he arrived and was made assistant to J. C. Collier, the prison electrician. Collier found him a willing worker and agreeable, and a warm friendship quickly grew up between them; it is believed by some who have interested themselves actively in the case that Collier knew hidden facts behind the murder story better than anyone else. But Collier is dead now, and Wendling's confidences (if they existed) have died with him. At any rate, Collier's friends in the town of Eddyville think the electrician based his friendly interest on a profound faith in Wendling's innocence. At his own expense he made three trips to Louisville and Frankfort to see whether he could win the convict his freedom.

After several years Wendling became in turn manager of the electric switch room in the prison and of the pump house which supplied water to the town as well as the prison. These duties occupied little time and gave him leisure to tinker with radios, read a great deal and study electrical engineering. He corresponded with his wife in Louisville, but she didn't come to visit him and has stayed away up to a very recent Sunday.

BUT Wendling's contacts with the outside world weren't shut off altogether. He read the current news and followed the baseball series by radio. One of his favorite expressions, "On St. Louis I bet my britch," circulated contagiously around the prison. He was on friendly terms with everyone he met, from the Warden down, and friends in Kentucky persistently attempted to get him out. His job at the prison was one of real responsibility and required 24-hour duty, for if a fire broke out in the prison or town it was up to him to step up the water pressure so that the fire apparatus could work effectively.

The 75-year-old wife who awaited him so long after having such trouble through him and about him, is too feeble to accompany him to France now. His parents are probably dead by this time, though he persists in thinking they are still alive and waiting to meet him.

"I will go back to France, where my people live," he says in his simple French-flavored language. "They live at Dijon, where I was born. The town where they get their mail is Genlis Cote d'Or. I was born February 4, 1884. I am only child. My father's name is Eduard. He is a gardener. . . ." And so on. Wendling hopes to be able to get a job as an electrician when he reaches France. If that proves impossible, he will return to farming. But he faces the world joyously, with love in his heart for his fellow men, including Frank Fehr, who kept him in prison a decade more than he would have stayed otherwise. "I hold no malice against Mr. Fehr," he said before he was released. "And I want to thank him for what he has done for me."

MOVIE DRESSOGRAPHS

MARGARET LINDSAY

A different movie star will make his or her appearance in this space every week. Accompanying will be three costumes this particular player wore in various roles played on the screen. Cut out the player and paste on cardboard. Then cut out the costumes. Now dress the star in the proper outfits, being careful to assemble each costume correctly. This week's star is Margaret Lindsay. The three sets of costumes shown here were worn by her in these roles in the following movies:

Betty Roberts in "Devil Dogs of the Air"; Dale Elwell in "Bordertown," and Joan Harper in "Gentlemen Are Born."

AUNT ARCTIC—Harry's kind old aunt.

FROST BITE—A badly puzzled arctic fox.

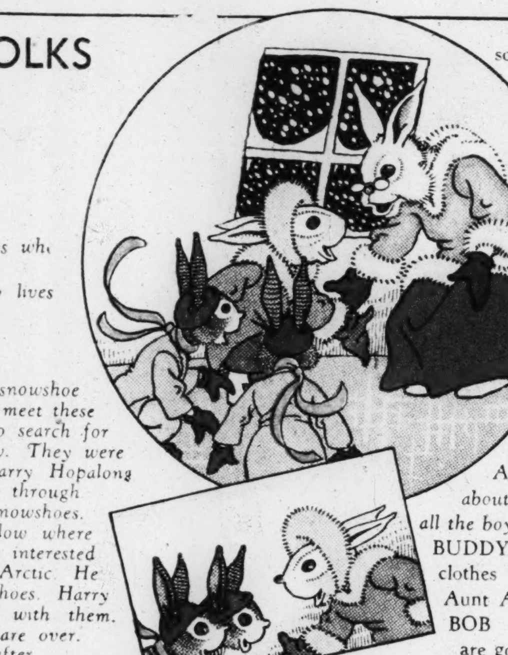
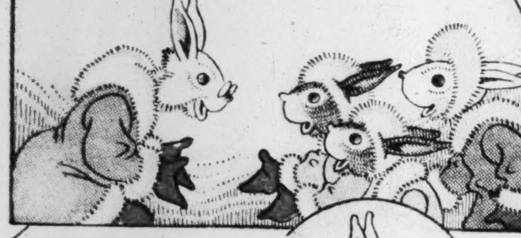
Zero, a snowman, told Buddy and Bob all about the snowshoe rabbits and filled the boys with a great desire to meet these strange folks. So Buddy and Bob started out to search for them, plowing their way through the deep snow. They were making very slow progress when they met Harry Hopalong Harry was surprised to see two rabbits trudging through the snow, for all the rabbits he knew wore snowshoes. They told Harry they were from Hickory Hollow where no one wore snowshoes. Harry was very much interested and invited them to his home to meet his Aunt Arctic. He told them to wait and he would get them snowshoes. Harry hopped away and in a little while returned with them. Now, thought Buddy and Bob, all our troubles are over. So they put on the snowshoes and started out. But after going a little way they found they were only a little better off than before. They took one or two hops, then they tripped over the big, clumsy shoes and fell on their faces. Buddy is taking just such a fall as





THE PLAY BEGINS

BUDDY BUNNY—Blub, blub. Help! Pull me out. Blub, blub. (Harry helps poor Buddy to his feet, while Bob hops unsteadily on. Then Bob falls and Buddy hops for a while. But at last they arrive at Harry's home and they go in and meet Harry's aunt.)

HARRY HOPALONG—Aunt Arctic, I want you to meet these folks. They say they are from Hickory Hollow.

AUNT ARCTIC—I'm very glad to meet you. You say you live in Hickory Hollow?

BUDDY BUNNY—Yes, mam. We live in a hollow tree.

AUNT ARCTIC—Well, bless you both. Hickory Hollow must be south of here if they have trees.

BOB BUNNY—Oh, we're awfully cold. We haven't been warm since we came here.

AUNT ARCTIC—Well, well. We'll attend to that right now. Harry, let them wear some of your clothes. (Harry takes the Bunnys to his room. Aunt Arctic smiles and goes about her work. In a little while all the boys return dressed in furs.)

BUDDY BUNNY—Gee, these clothes feel great, thank you, Aunt Arctic.

BOB BUNNY—You surely are good to us.

AUNT ARCTIC—I'm glad you boys are comfortable. Now you can enjoy yourselves.

BUDDY BUNNY—Let's practice some more on our snowshoes.

AUNT ARCTIC—(Raising a warning finger.) I want you boys to be very careful. Folks around here don't know you. Don't go very far away from the house until you know the ways of the North. (And even while Aunt Arctic is talking an arctic fox comes across the tracks made by Buddy and Bob.)

FROST BITE—Well, what is this? Harry Hopalong and Aunt Arctic's tracks. Nobody else wears snowshoes up here. First they take a few steps and then they fall down. I never knew them to do this before. I wonder what they are up to? Hm-m-m-m.

NOTHER "BEST"—Since the gue for choosing "World's Best-ressed Women" started, Adolphe enjou, screen actor, has picked me. Wellington Koo, wife of hina's French Ambassador, as the artest dresser in her two countries. Here she is wearing a Chinese silk-crepe gown.

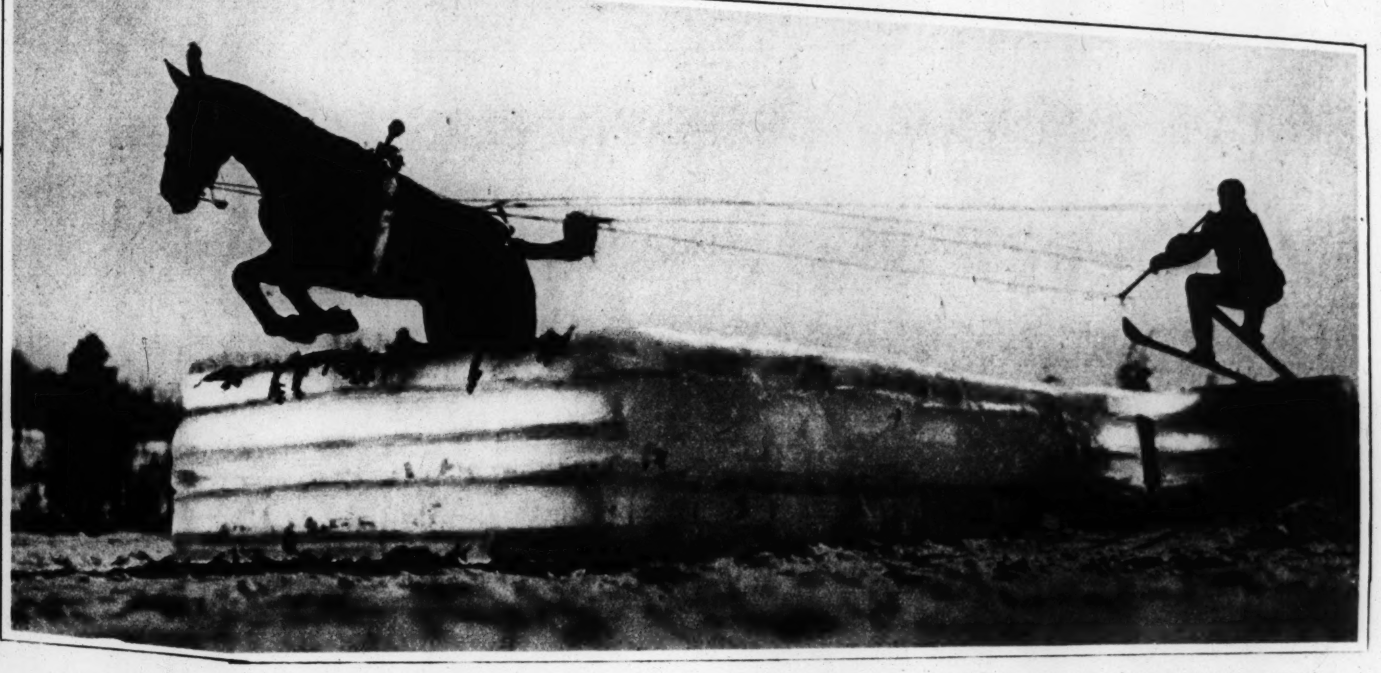
SHOOTING STARS—The Misses Schlichtling (left), Gluckman (down) and Locus (up) are the backbone of New York University's powerful women's basketball team. Sports writers dub the men's team "The Violets" (referring to the school color), and call the girls "Shrinking Violets."

FAUX PAS—The bride didn't stumble on the altar step, but the train-bearer tripped on the way into the chapel. It all happened at the Hon. Isabella Arundell's wedding to Flight-Lieutenant T. F. Fagan at Tisbury, England. The bride is with Lord Arundell, her father.



THRILL HUNTING—Fred Fortune demonstrates skijor hurdling at Lake Placid, New York winter sports resort, where the sport was introduced lately. Note that the skiier must take a different jump from the horse; the animal's barrier being a branch-covered ice fence.

GULF COAST SEASCAPE

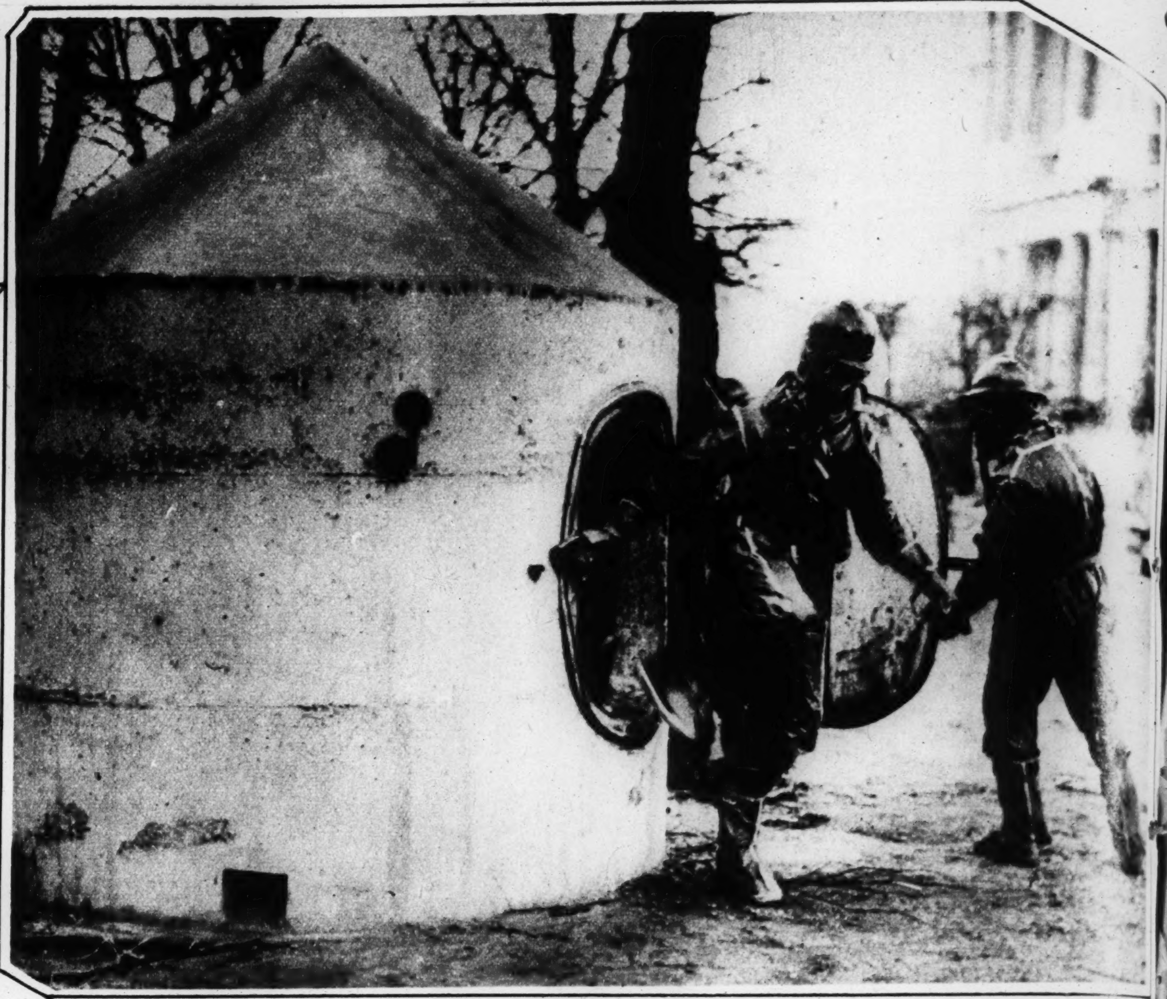
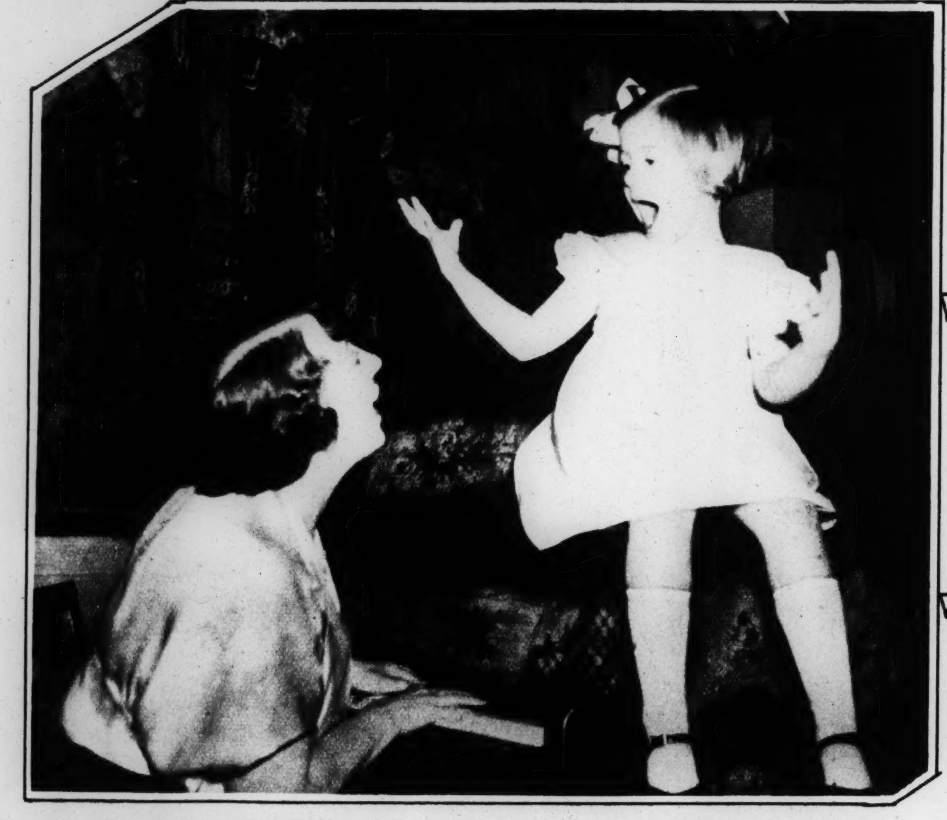
—Anthony V. Ragusin photo.

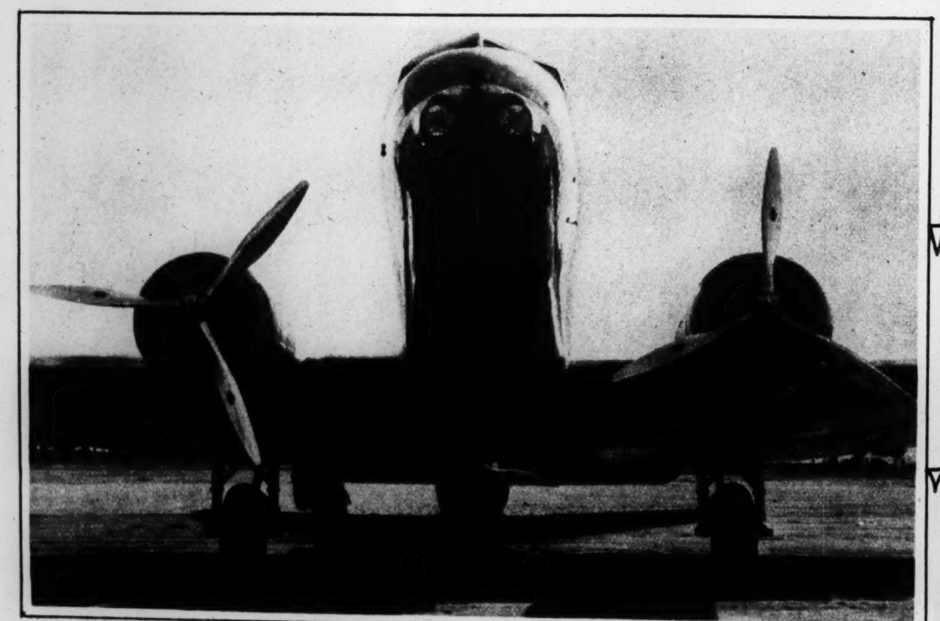


HOME BASE—This is one of the movable shelters which the Defense Ministry has demonstrated in Paris. Gas-proof, large enough to contain five persons, and equipped with resuscitation apparatus, these are designed for use by rescue squads in the event of a gas attack.

SALUTE — Italian colonial troop, stationed on the restless Somaliland - Abyssinia border, raise rifles as they pass in dress parade before the commanding officer of their African garrison.



"I JES' CAN'T MAKE MY EYES BEHAVE"—Anna Held III, granddaughter of the singer of milk bath fame, has already made her stage debut at a New York School. Here she is with her mother, Mrs. J. Dodd Martinson. The child's real name is Antoinette.

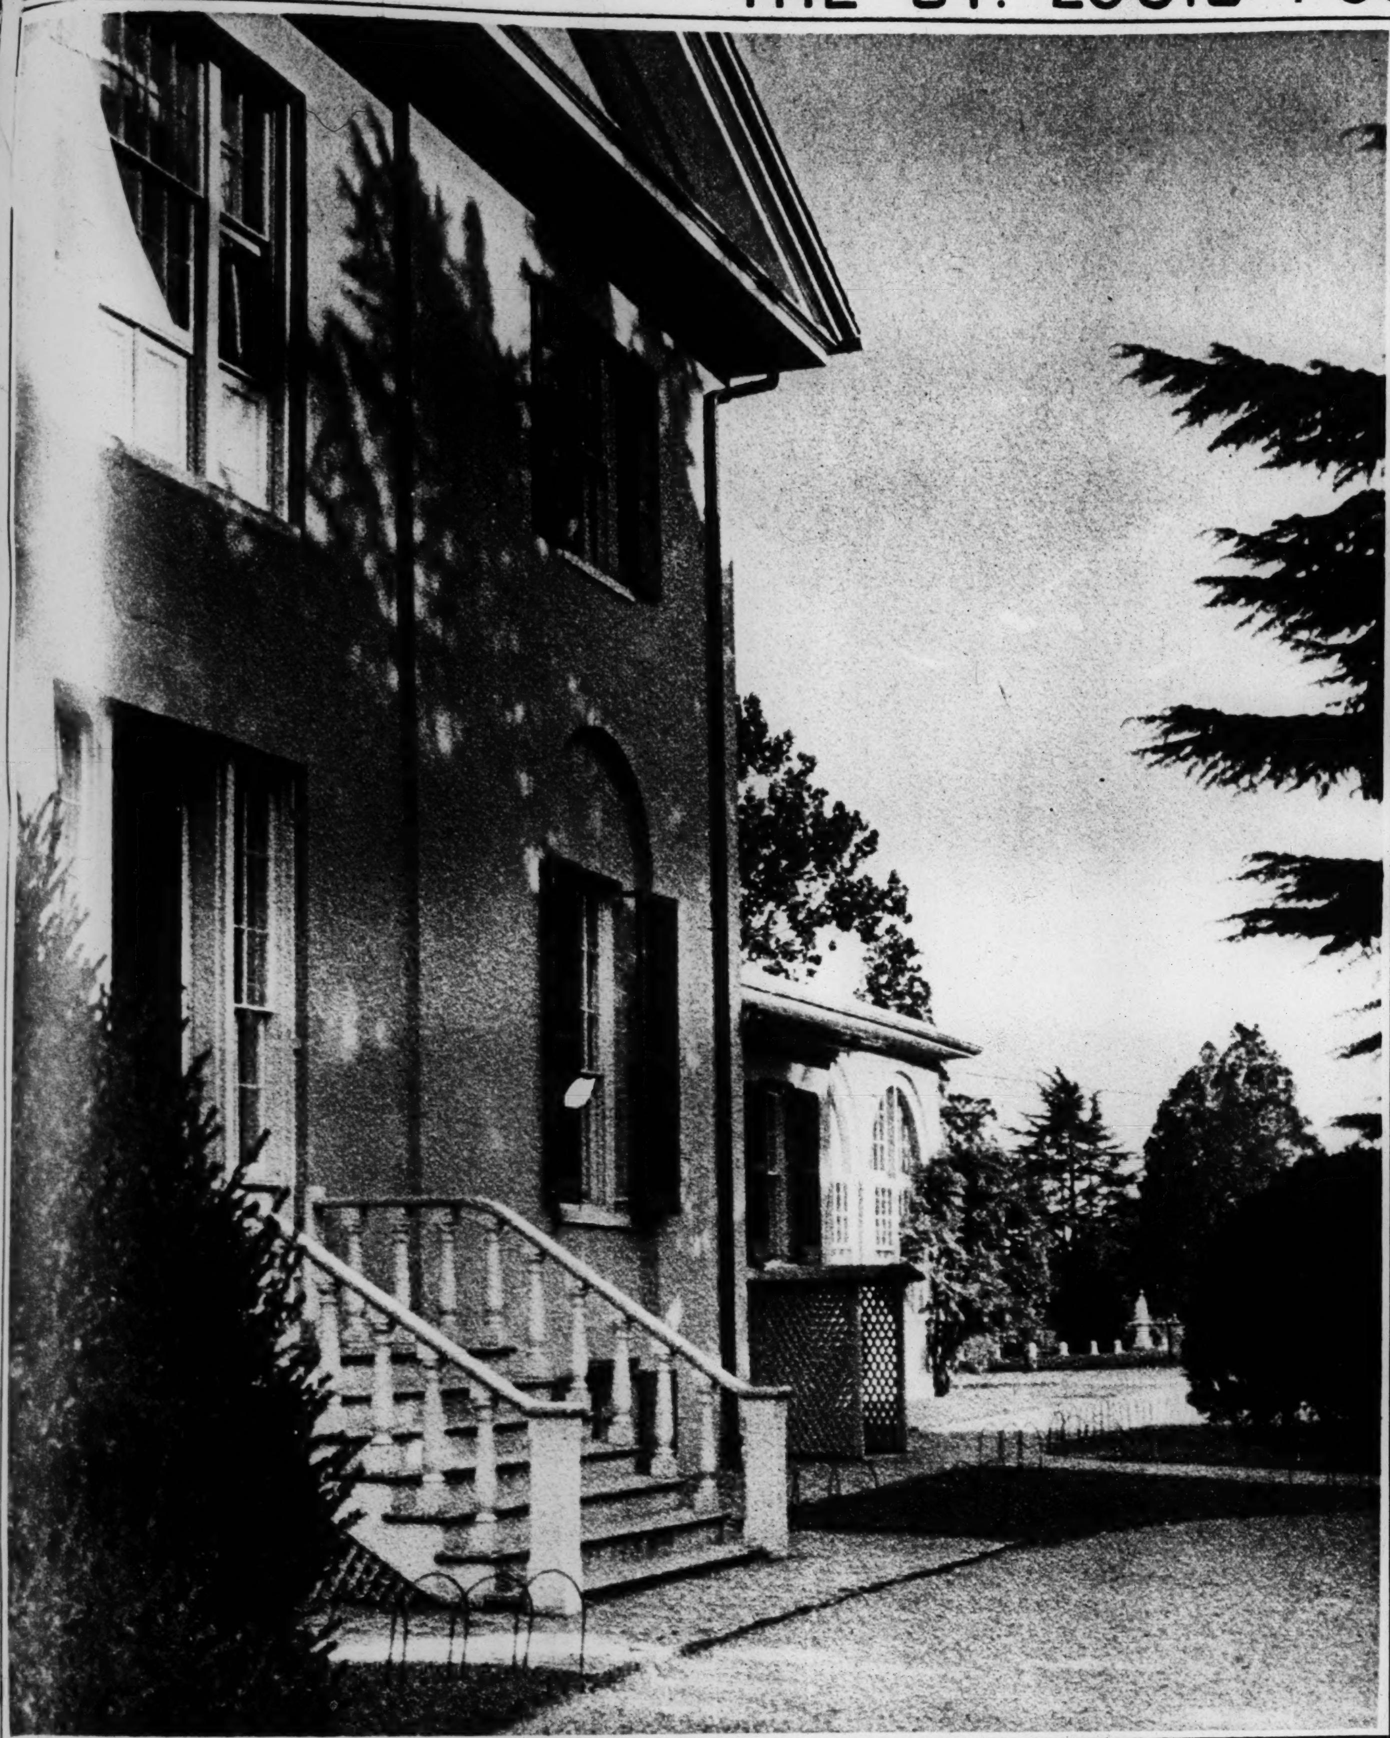


HOME-MADE—This tiny monoplane in the shade of the airliner was made in his Santa Monica (Cal.) parlor during spare time by Eddie Ellenbaugh, whose real job is to tend a golf course.

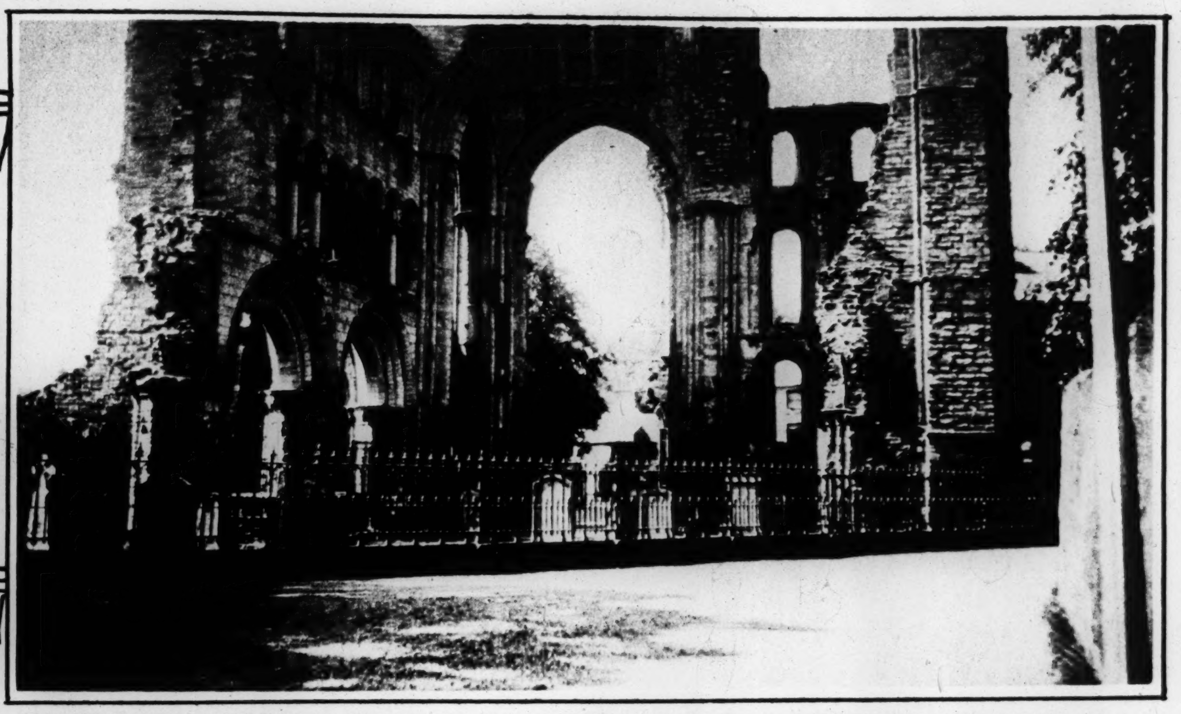
LIFE IS LIKE THAT—Champion Leo of Reynalton, a London bloodhound who has won six championships in his class at dog shows, w a young companion who seems to have become infected with the dog's chronic blues.

THE ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

ARCHITECTURAL STUDIES BY AMATEURS

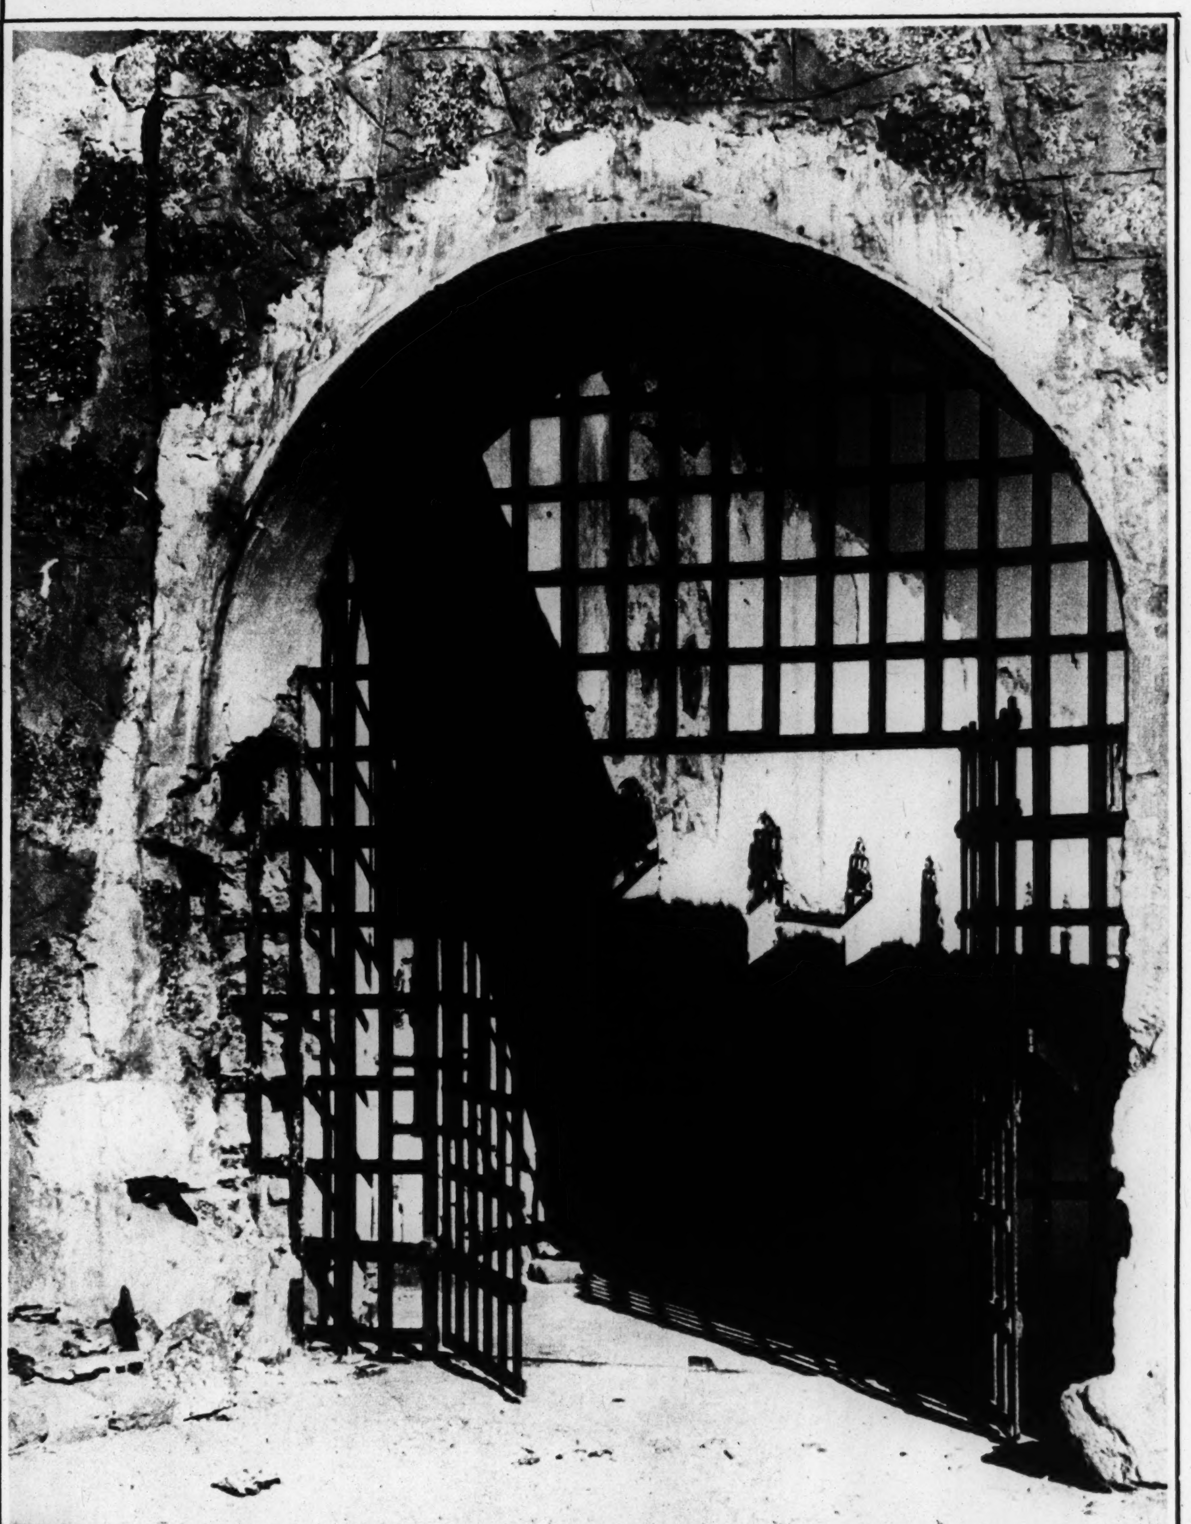


STUDY IN NEAT SIMPLICITY—A View of General Robert E. Lee's house at Arlington, Virginia; the photographer, Graham L. Tevis of University City, has gotten an economical composition while giving a clear impression of the building's style.

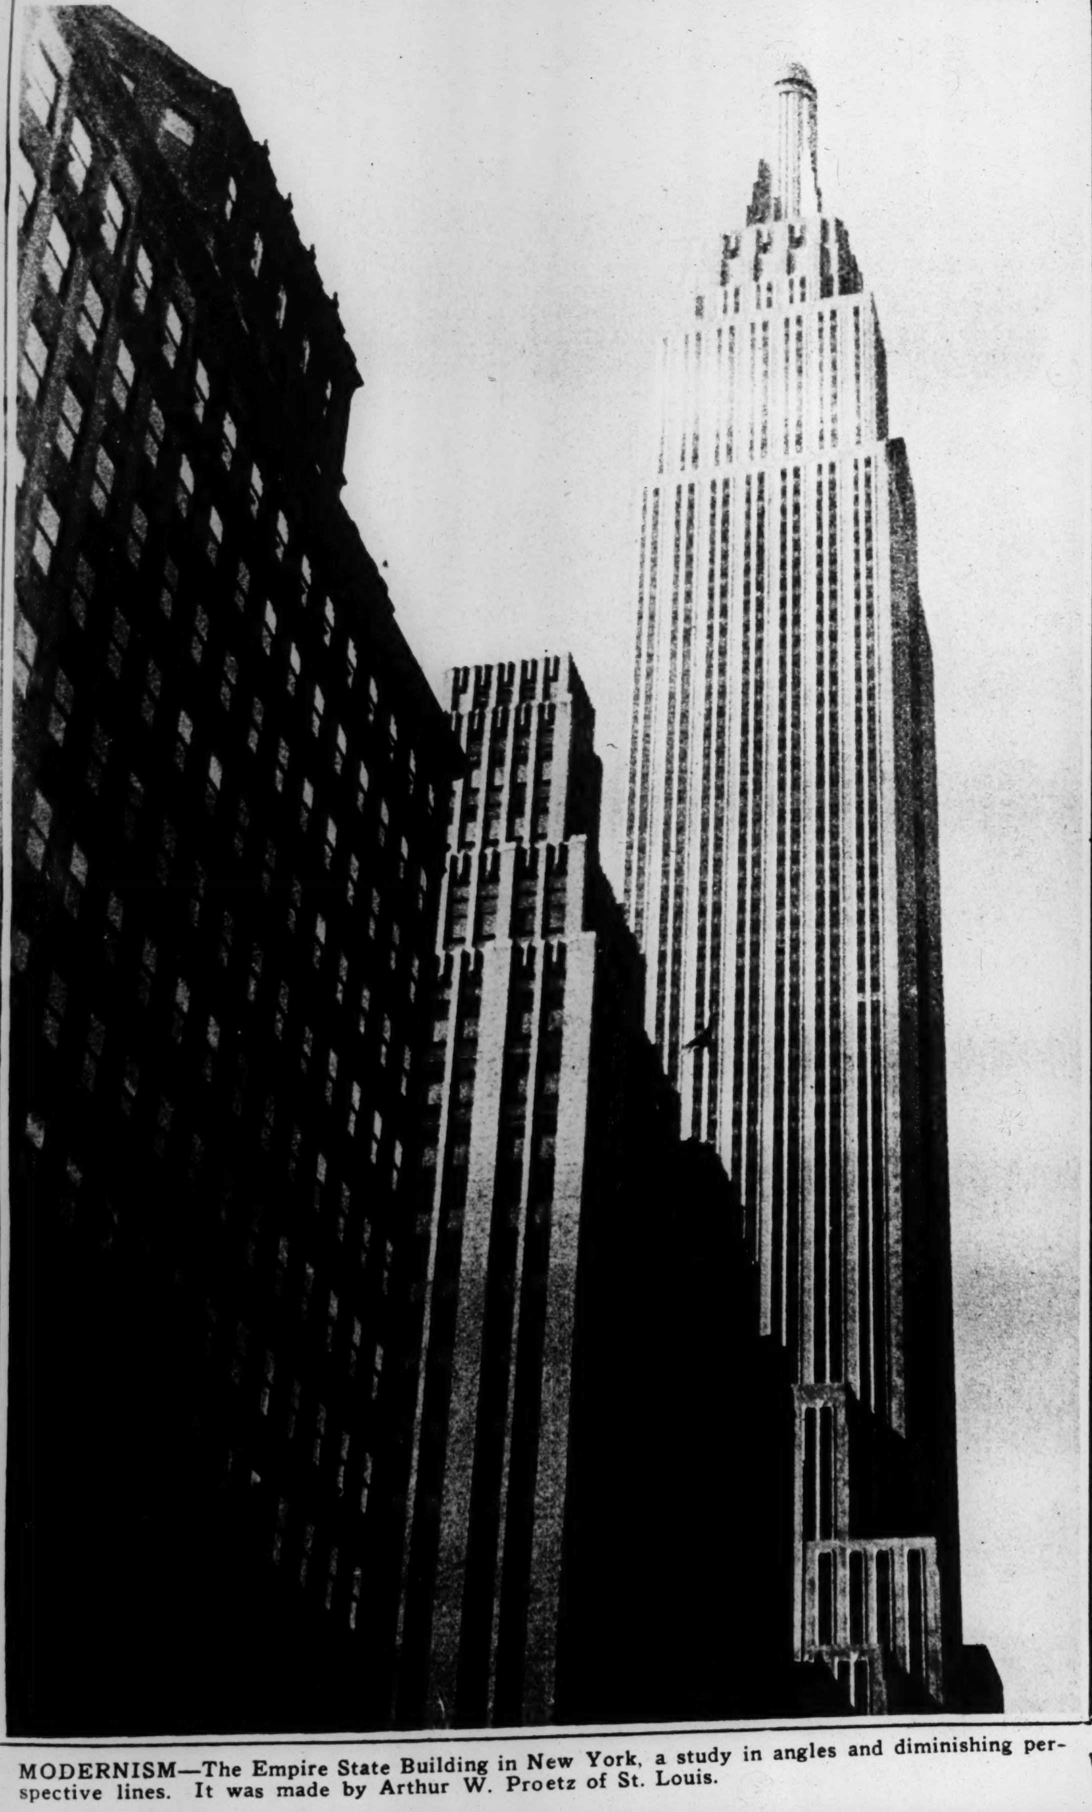


MARTYRIZED MASONRY—The famous ruins of Melrose Abbey, near Edinburgh. The building has been destroyed six times, in religious wars. Photograph is by Wayne Barker of Marion, Illinois.

Contributions are invited by the Sunday Editor and those used are paid for at regular rates. Only four-by-five prints (or larger) with name, address, description and return postage attached, can be considered. Further information will be sent if requested by mail.



STONE WALLS AND IRON BARS—View of the gateway of the old State Penitentiary at Yuma, Arizona. The contrasts of sun and shadow may be noted. The photographer is Lambert Florin of San Diego, Cal.



MODERNISM—The Empire State Building in New York, a study in angles and diminishing perspective lines. It was made by Arthur W. Proetz of St. Louis.

COLD CUT—A statue of a penguin was one of the exhibits of ice sculpture which embellished the fraternity houses at the Dartmouth College winter carnival at Hanover, New Hampshire. The penguin was a brain child of a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

A UNIVERSE IN LITTLE—This is the pyramidic planetarium which H. C. Wilhelm constructed at Alhambra, Cal. Instead of an ordinary projecting instrument, the planets are here represented by moving models. Together with the little square library building, it cost $100,000 to build.

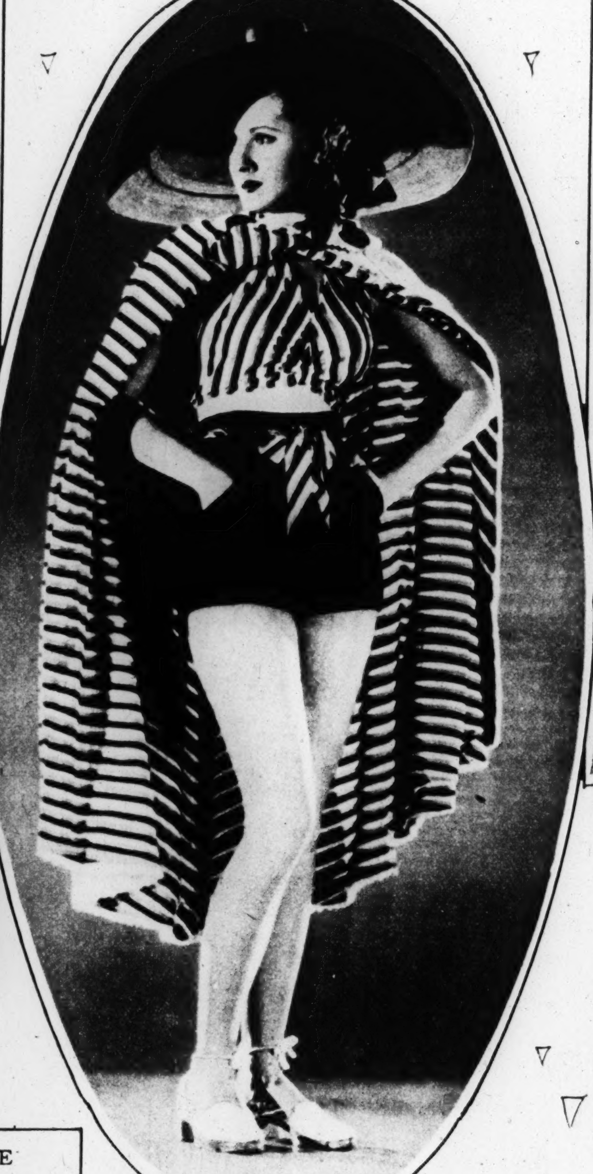
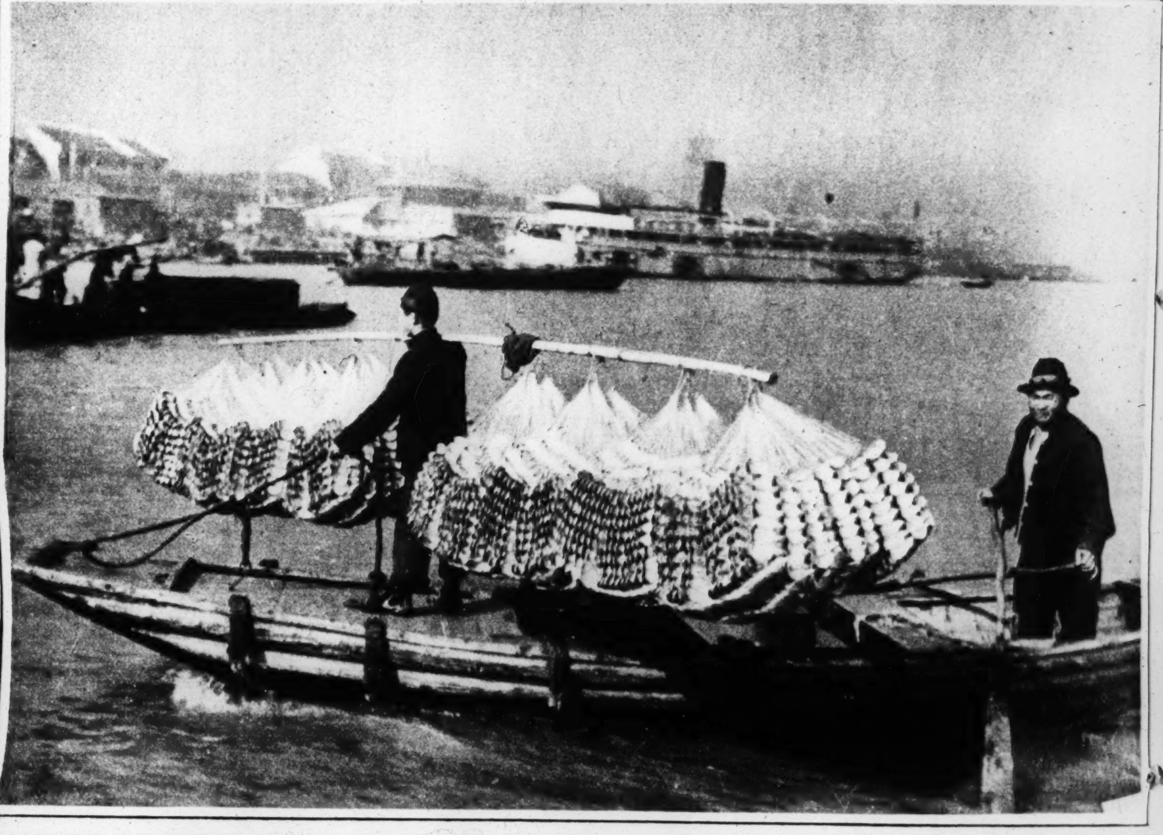
PRUNING THE PALMS

The royal palm trees at Hialeah Park, the Florida racing center, have to be trimmed by tree surgeons equipped with a special hook-and-ladder truck; the trees average 100 feet in height.



"PEON MOTIF"—A beach outfit which derives its colors from Mexican pottery is being shown in California this season. The cape has a white, Turkish towel nap on the outside, only the lining being shown in the photo.



MONEY TO BURN—A joss money dealer from Pootung crossing over to Shanghai in a sampan. His stock was to be sold to celebrants of the Chinese New Year's festival. Joss money is made of gold or silver paper and is burned like incense before temple deities.

TELEVISION TO BE INAUGURATED IN ENGLAND—A national network has been started and will begin giving programs of sound and visual transmission throughout England next fall. Here J. L. Baird, television expert, is pointing to one of the sets being STUMPED—A pair of needlessly alarmed bear cubs, trapped by a woodsman as they attempted to escape up a tree trunk in a State of Washington forest.

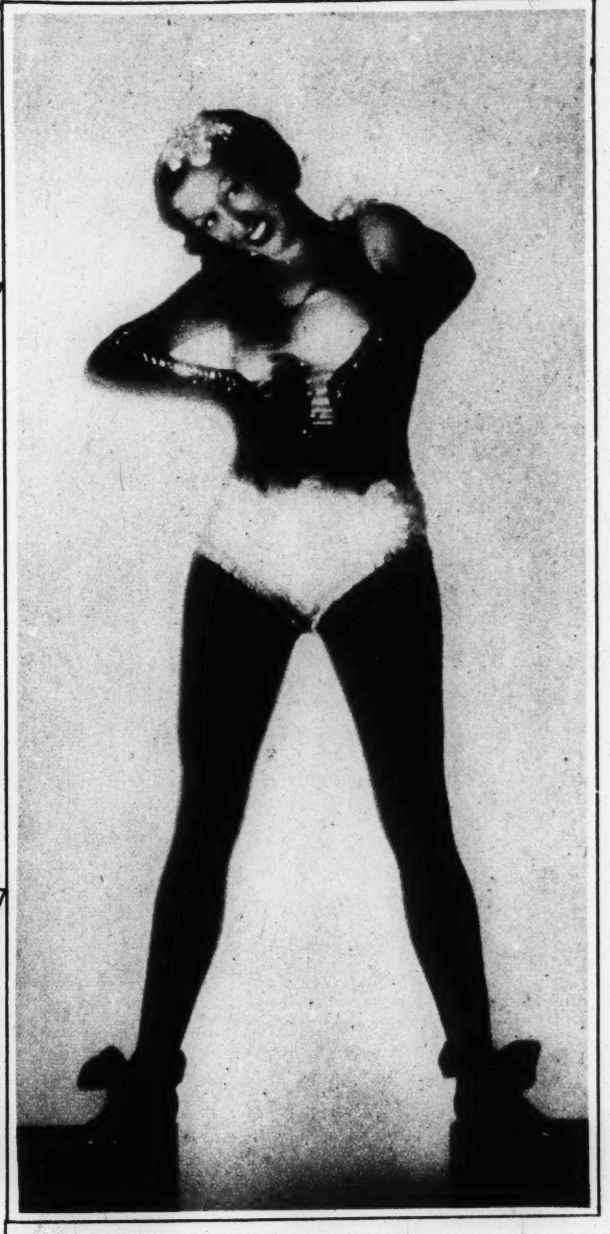
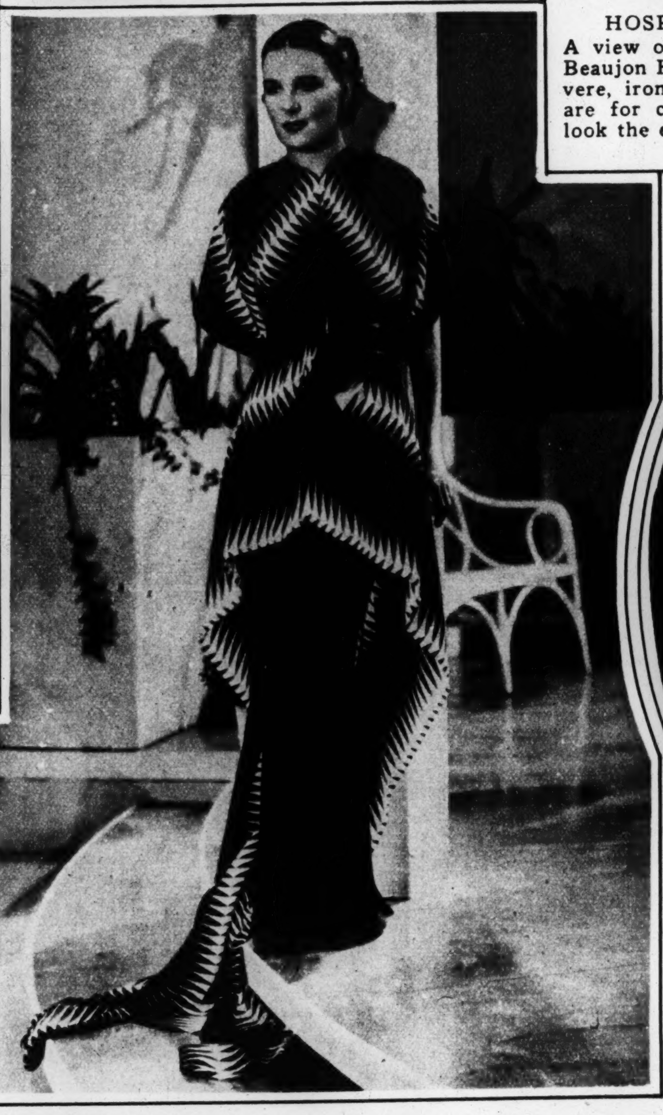
HOSPITAL BALCONIES
A view of the radical exterior of Beaujon Hospital at Paris. The severe, iron-bound tiers of verandas are for convalescents; they overlook the entire city.

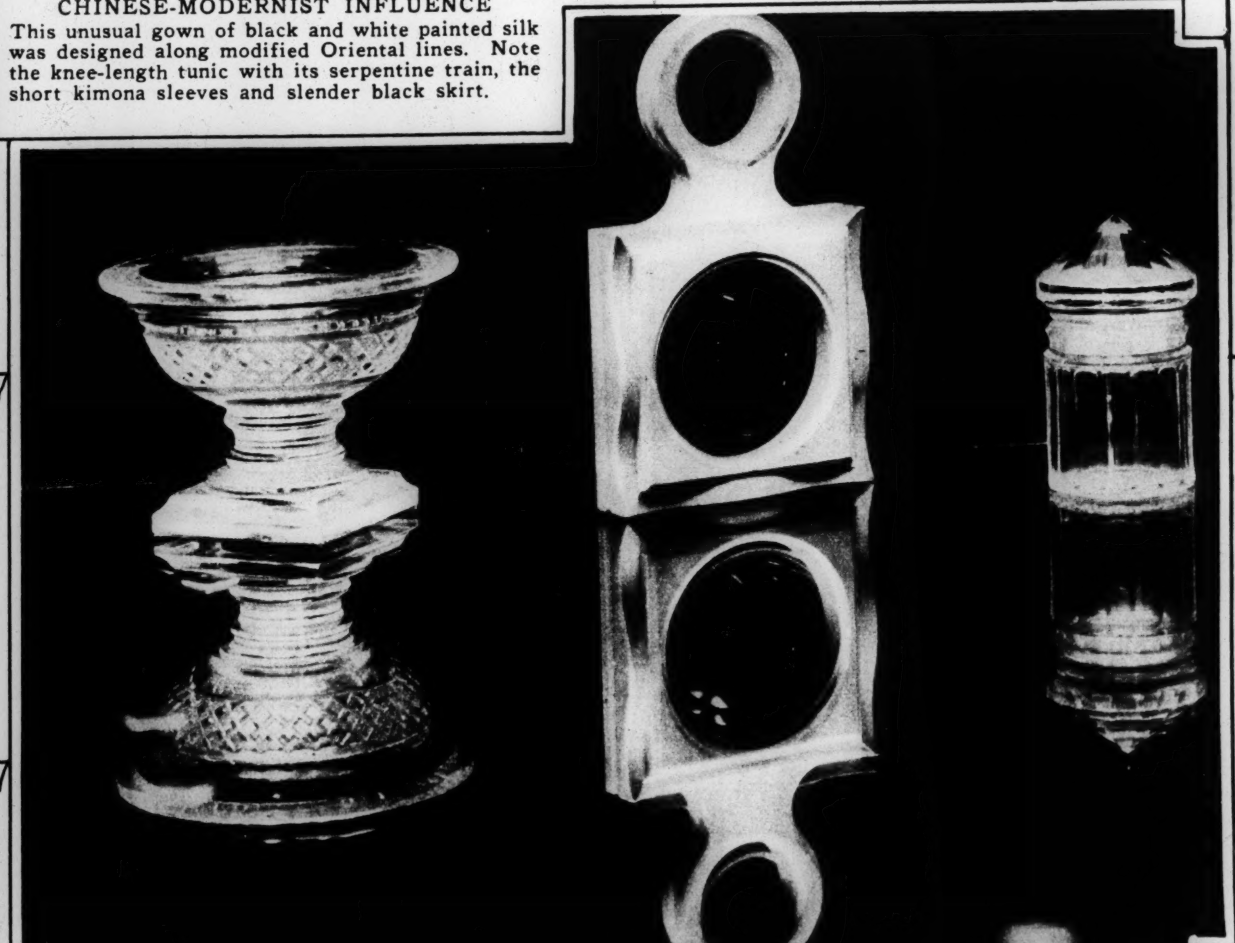


HIGHLIGHTS AND SHADOWS—An unusual photograph showing Hillembrand Ruben, European dancer, in a striking pose.



CHINESE-MODERNIST INFLUENCE
This unusual gown of black and white painted silk was designed along modified Oriental lines. Note the knee-length tunic with its serpentine train, the short kimona sleeves and slender black skirt.

MAKING ST. LOUIS DEBUT—Poldi Mildner, 18-year-old pianist from Vienna, who will be heard in a Civic Music League concert at the Municipal Auditorium on February 26.



GLASS SUBSTITUTE—A plastic material derived from coal tar by inventors of the Imperial Chemical Industries, London, is said to have all useful properties of glass, plus these: It cuts like ivory, weighs half as much as ordinary glass, isn't brittle, is penetrated by more light rays than fine optical glass, is suited for new scientific and artistic uses. The sculptor, Maurice Lambert, is shown cutting some of the substance with a hack saw; at right are a turned candy bowl, an ivory-mounted reading glass, a smelling salts bottle, made of the new product.

7 Reasons why I like the NEW PEBECO

AND 7 CANTORS CAN'T BE WRONG

"AS A GOOD FAMILY MAN, I still bear scars from the 'Battle of the Tooth Pastes'... You know how it goes... Marjorie had to have one kind... Natalie and Edna another ... Marilyn and Janet still others... Ida, too, had her favorite... and, of course, I had to have my own... There were so many tubes lying around the house there was hardly room for my old joke books.

"But the fighting is over in the Cantor family ... All seven of us have surrendered to one and the same tooth paste... the NEW Pebeco.

"I'm not saying that the NEW Pebeco is good for shampooing... or as a salad dressing... or for cleaning hats... But, if you want your teeth to be clean—to look brighter... to have a nice fresh taste in your mouth... then use the NEW Pebeco... You'll like it, I promise.

"My five girls tell me they like it because it tastes so good... and Ida and I use it because it is so good."

(Signed) Eddie Cantor

"P.S. Will you be listening in tonight?"

NEW Pebeco is a triple-action tooth paste. Its three brand new ingredients make brushing the teeth three times as pleasant and efficient. 1. It polishes and whitens teeth swiftly, safely. 2. It cuts down the number of germs in the mouth for a long time after using. 3. It combats the acids which are an important factor in tooth decay.

NEW Pebeco has a "biteless" flavor that children and grown-ups love. In big, economical 25c tubes and 10c junior tubes. On sale NOW at drug stores, toilet goods counters—everywhere.

Contains 3 Important New Ingredients

1. A NEW WHITENING AGENT ...which whitens teeth faster
2. A NEW ANTISEPTIC ...to purify and deodorize the breath
3. MILK OF MAGNESIA ...to increase Pebeco's famous action in counteracting "Acid Mouth"

TO THE LOVERS OF THE ORIGINAL PEBECO:
When news of the NEW Pebeco first went out, there were prompt protests from many who prefer the concentrated strength and delightful extra tang of the original Pebeco. So, we hasten to announce that we are NOT discontinuing the familiar Pebeco. You will find it on sale at toilet goods counters as always, in 50c, 25c and 10c sizes. To get it, be sure to ask for Regular Pebeco, instead of NEW Pebeco.

TONITE!
Listen in on Eddie Cantor.
A great new show—including
"EDDIE CANTOR'S MAGIC CLUB"
—loads of fun for boys and girls!

GEORGE, WILL YOU PLEASE HANG THAT PICTURE NOW THAT I'VE BEEN TALKING ABOUT FOR THE LAST MONTH? I'M......
SH-H! LATER.... THIS IS THE... SH-H-H!
ONCE AGAIN, FRIENDS OF RADIO, WE COME TO YOU WITH THE QUIVERING NERVES HOUR.
GEORGE, WILL YOU OR WILL YOU NOT..?
SH-H! LATER! THIS IS IMPORTANT.
AND WE HAVE WITH US RIGHT HERE IN THE STUDIO, DR. ZINGOOLA, WHO HAS DEVISED ANOTHER SCIENTIFIC TEST FOR QUIVERING NERVES. AND NOW DR. ZINGOOLA WILL SPEAK.
HELLO MY FRIENDS! MANY OF YOU WHO FAILED IN OUR OTHER TESTS WILL BE DELIGHTED TO KNOW WE HAVE FINALLY PERFECTED A MASTER TEST ESPECIALLY DESIGNED FOR LISTENERS INTERESTED IN TAKING A MID-SEASON FINAL EXAM. ARE YOU READY?
SHOOT!
FIRST GET AN ORDINARY TUMBLER AND FILL TO WITHIN A HALF INCH OF THE BRIM WITH WATER.
HALF INCH! OKAY!
THEN....
HEY!
WAIT! WAIT!
....PLACE THE GLASS IN THE PALM OF THE LEFT HAND. AND TAKE A DEEP, DEEP BREATH.
OKAY!
THEN THRUST THE HAND WITH THE GLASS OUT RIGIDLY WHEN THE CHIME SIGNAL RINGS, AND HOLD THE HAND THUS UNTIL THE SECOND CHIME, WHICH DENOTES THE END OF THE TEST. ARE YOU READY?
LET'S GO!
BONG
I FORGOT TO HOLD MY BREATH! AND I STARTED TO HOLD MY HAND OUT BEFORE THE SIGNAL. WELL ANYHOW....
I PASSED MOST OF THE OTHER TESTS. I'LL MAKE THIS ONE, TOO.
UGH! THIS IS A TOUGH ONE!
WELL I'M IN IT RIGHT TO THE FINISH.
DON'T QUIT, KID!
KEEP IT UP THERE! ATTA BOY, ATTA.....
OH! OH!
POW!
I FAILED! THE MASTER TEST OF THE QUIVERING NERVES HOUR! I FAILED!
OH HOW PERFECTLY HORRID.
WELL I'LL ADMIT I FAILED, BUT I WAS HANDICAPPED. I STARTED BEFORE THE SIGNAL AND......
OH OH! I NEVER DID HEAR THAT SECOND SIGNAL!
NO WONDER! THE RADIO STOPPED. WELL WHAT..?
I KNOW! I LOOKED AT THE FUSE IN THE KITCHEN. SOMEONE LOOSENED IT WHILE I WAS TAKING THE TEST AND I WANT TO KNOW.....
SH-H! THIS IS THE PICTURE HANGING HOUR! ASK ME LATER, PLEASE!
THOSE DIM-WIT BUNGLES! I HEAR THEM! OH NO WONDER MY NERVES ARE SO GUMMED-UP THAT I CAN'T MAKE OVER AN M-PLUS ON THOSE RADIO TESTS.
OH BARKER! I JUST REMEMBER. ON TOP OF EVERYTHING, YOU MISSED THE QUIVERING NERVES HOUR WHILE PHONING MR. BUNGLE.

JANET CURES A GROUCH!
I'M RICH...BUT EVERYONE HATES ME! THEY CALL ME THE TOWN'S WORST GROUCH!
SHUCKS! IT'S A DISTINCTION TO BE A GROUCH! ANY FOOL CAN BE PLEASANT!
MR. COFFEE NERVES
I CAME OVER TO SEE YOU. I'M THE LITTLE GIRL THAT JUST MOVED NEXT DOOR
TELL THE LITTLE PEST TO GO HOME YOU KNOW YOU DON'T LIKE CHILDREN!
DON'T YOU KNOW ALL THE CHILDREN AVOID ME BECAUSE I'M SO GROUCHY?
HER OLD MAN WAS AN AMATEUR COMPARED WITH YOU! COME ON SHOW HER A LITTLE HIGH-CLASS GROUCHING!
YES, I'VE HEARD ABOUT THAT. BUT I KNOW ALL ABOUT GROUCHES. MY DADDY USED TO BE ONE
MY DADDY WAS A TERRIBLE GROUCH. BUT THEN HE HAD HEADACHES AND INDIGESTION AND COULDN'T SLEEP VERY WELL
HUMPH! YOUR DADDY HAD NOTHING ON ME, YOUNG WOMAN! I HAVE THE SAME TROUBLES MYSELF!
TELL THE LITTLE IMP IF SHE EVER SETS FOOT ON YOUR GROUNDS AGAIN, YOU'LL HAVE HER ARRESTED!
THEN MAYBE YOU'VE GOT COFFEE-NERVES ..LIKE DADDY HAD. HE SWITCHED TO POSTUM—AND HE'S NEVER GROUCHY ANY MORE!
RATS! LIKE ALL CHILDREN YOU TALK A LOT OF NONSENSE. RUN ALONG HOME AND DON'T BOTHER ME!
GET ROUGH—SHAKE YOUR FIST AND GROWL AT HER!
I WONDER?.. MY WIFE ALWAYS SAID I DRANK TOO MUCH COFFEE. I BELIEVE I WILL TRY POSTUM FOR 30 DAYS!
CURSES! I'M THE ONLY PAL HE'S GOT AND HE'S GOING TO LET POSTUM THROW ME OUT. THAT'S GRATITUDE!
LATER
GEE, HE GIVES US KIDS SWELL PARTIES... AND HE USED TO BE THE MEANEST MAN IN TOWN!
POSTUM DID THE SAME THING FOR HIM IT DID FOR MY DADDY. I KNEW IT WOULD

"JANET—how did you know that coffee was having such an effect on me?"

"I heard my Daddy say that children aren't the only ones who should never drink coffee. He said our doctor told him the caffein in coffee can keep lots of grown ups awake at night . . . make 'em nervous or give 'em indigestion. Daddy said there isn't any caffein in Postum."

"I see . . . that's why it gave my system a chance to throw off the ill effects of the drug. Then my indigestion, headaches and nervousness disappeared . . . and I could sleep soundly again!"

If you suspect that coffee disagrees with you . . . try Postum for 30 days. Postum contains no caffein. It is simply whole wheat and bran, roasted and slightly sweetened. It's easy to make, and costs less than half a cent a cup. Postum is a delicious drink, too . . . and may prove a real help. A product of General Foods.

NED BRANT By BOB ZUPPKE
DRAWN BY B. W. DEPEW
A FIRST PLACE IN THIS HURDLE RACE WILL CINCH THE MEET FOR US, SHOTGUN!
RUSSELL'S GOOD BUT YOU CAN BEAT HIM, SHOTGUN!
CAREFUL, BLUDGEON—YOU ALMOST THREW THAT LAST ONE INTO THE CROWD!
I'M GOING TO HEAVE IT A BLOCK AND A HALF THIS TIME, SEE IF I DON'T!
STEP ON THE GAS—BLUDGEON'S NOT DOING SO WELL IN THE SHOTPUT!
PASS HIM, RUSSELL!
HOLD THAT LEAD, SHOTGUN!
B. W. DEPEW
LOOK OUT, EVERYBODY!
Bludgeon let the shot go with all his great force. Look! His foot slipped. The shot sails toward the bleachers.
Seeing the impending danger, Shotgun dashed off the track and into the bleachers to intercept the ball of iron.
HE'LL BE KILLED!
HE CAUGHT IT!
HE'S HURT!
GEE, SHO-SHOTGUN, I FEEL AWFUL ABOUT THIS!
SECTION C
HEY, YOU GUYS, PUT ME DOWN! I'M NOT HURT—JUST A CRACK ON THE RIBS!
I SUPPOSE WE LOST THE MEET—TOUGH LUCK!
COACH, IF YOU CAN MAKE THIS YOUNG MAN LIE DOWN, I'LL APPRECIATE IT!
HERE COMES JAN, SHOTGUN!
TELL HER THERE ISN'T MUCH HOPE, DOC
OH, SHOTGUN, SHOTGUN—IT'S JAN, SHOTGUN! OH, WHY ARE YOU STANDING THERE, DOCTOR? CAN'T YOU DO SOMETHING?
2-17
SURE HE CAN DO SOMETHING—HE CAN BEAT IT! I'M JUST BEGINNING TO ENJOY THIS!

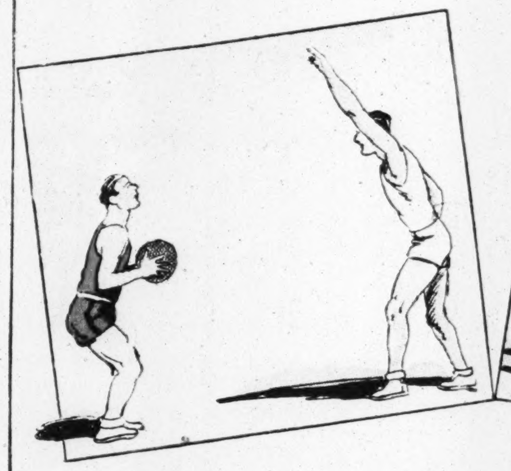
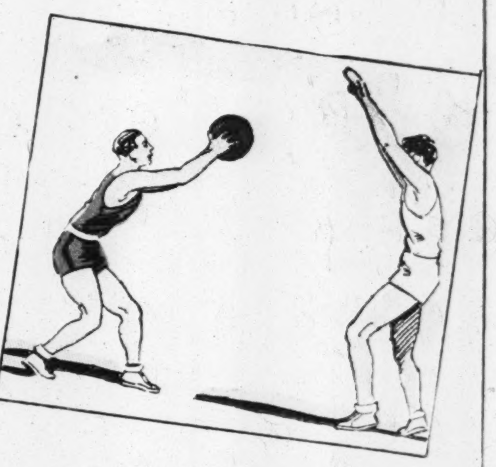
THE ZONE DEFENSE

Correct Zone Defense Stance



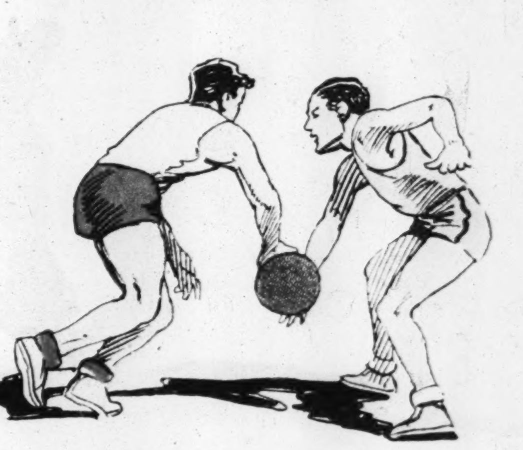
With the man ready to shoot, the defensive player changes from crouched position to one which will better enable him to block the shot.

Proper Zone Defense Advance



Guard advances when player starts shot. That action causes shooter to hold ball. Guard can move forward quickly or, if shooter passes ball across court, can move back quickly.

Blocking The Dribble →



Should the shooter attempt to dribble, the guard can take a quick step into path of the ball. Defensive player can then stay with shooter if he has to, or let a teammate take up the guard duty
